Project Playground raises $10,000

Project Playground had a dream — a dream auction — and it came true last Saturday at the Community Center by raising over $10,000! The auction marked the end of community fundraising efforts for Osgood Playpark.

This successful event was made possible by the efforts of many, including teachers, parents, local businesspeople and friends who contributed items, services or their valuable time!

Our special thanks to auction Chairperson Rhonda Myers, Fundraising Chairman Kevin Lewis, and the auction committee Peggy Lewis, Kate Lavigne, Ann auction committee Peggy Lewis, Kate Lavigne, Ronnie McMorris, Moira Stansell, Karen Devine, Ann Whiteley and Irene Volpe. The entire Project Playground Committee worked as a much needed support group.

Mr. Creamer, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Moody, Mrs.Free, Mrs. D'Angelo, Mrs. DiBenedetto, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Tewksbury, Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Montouri, Mrs. Colwill, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Balch and Mr. Leonard and Mr. MacInnis are all commended for their efforts.

A special thanks to those who set up and cleaned up on a Sunday afternoon! Kevin Lewis, Mike Myers, Jim Kinch, Gordon Whiteley, Karen Devine, Wayne Sawchuck, Bob Moody, Linda Keller, Susan and Frank Murphy and Jim Lavigne.

The committee thanks everyone who helped and those who lent their necessary support by attending! We all had an evening full of fun, surprises, games and door prizes — we hope a night to remember and it all helped our town gain a community playpark in June!

Happy Easter

CHS student-of-the-month

Jen Reidy, a ninth grader at Cohasset Jr./Sr. High School, was selected as student of the month for February.

Reidy was recommended by fellow ninth grader Michelle Woodland because she "cares about everyone, no matter who they are. She is a great friend, a good listener, and a good student.

"She has great athletic ability and I think she deserves this award because Jen is also an all-around outstanding person.

"She shows strong leadership abilities as president of the ninth grade.

"Jen still finds time to serve on the school improvement council."

Students may be nominated for academic excellence, extra-curricular activities, community service, school service, unusual accomplishments or a combination of these things.

The selected student's picture and reason for selection are displayed in the new display case across the attendance office for the rest of the year.

Any of the school's 540 students in grades 7-12 can be nominated.

A student of the year will be selected from among the students of the month.

Each Hertz car comes with a Limited Powertrain Warranty for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. Very few used cars offer so much peace of mind.

School committee chairman honored at last meeting

Chairman Diana Kornet was honored by the school committee members during Monday night's meeting, her last as a member of that committee.

Kornet has served as chairman for the past year and is currently seeking a seat on the board of selectmen. She has been a member of the school committee for the past ten years.

Midway during the meeting, her husband, John, surprised her with a basket of flowers. "I just wanted to make sure this is where you really were all these nights," he quipped.

Members of the committee showered praise on the chairman, saying Kornet was a "wonderful presence" on the school committee, and that she will be "sorely missed."

"It's been such a great pleasure to serve on this committee," she replied. "I have the greatest respect for the staff - but I am leaving it in very good hands. The school committee is in way better hands then when I first came. I will miss it."

She noted that as a candidate for selectman, she is attempting to "elect to public office people who support public education."

Call 383-9112 for further information.

INCOME TAX ASSISTANCE

Beginning the first week of February and continuing through April 14, AARP income tax volunteers, Betty Vanslyke and Mildred Harrington will be available to assist senior citizens with their 1988 income tax returns. Appointments can be made by calling the Senior Center, 383-9112 or Betty at 383-1561 or Mildred 383-0216. Please bring your 1987 income tax return and all 1988 tax materials with you at the time of your appointment.

QUESTIONS MOST OFTEN ASKED ABOUT EYESIGHT BY PEOPLE OVER 60

To help answer your questions, the Cohasset Council on Aging offers a support group called "Images." The group meets on the second (2) Tuesday of every month at the First Parish House, 23 No. Main St., at 10 a.m. Transportation provided by calling 383-9112.

Part I — WILL MY EYESIGHT FAIL AS I GET OLDER? Not necessarily. Most people retain good vision in their later years. Unless you presently have vision problems, or there is a family history of eye ailments, you can be optimistic about the future.

ARE READING AND WATCHING T.V. BAD FOR THE EYES?

Not at all. Our eyes are meant to be used. Like other organs of the body, they benefit from exercise. Should our eyes become tired or "strained" they can be refreshed with a rest.

WHAT ARE SOME COMMON SIGNS OF FAILING VISION?

People seldom feel pain with eye disorders. Problems develop gradually, going unnoticed. Here are some signals to watch for: sitting closer and closer to the T.V., needing to get stronger glasses more often, difficulty reading the newspaper, being bothered by bright lights, accidentally bumping into chairs and doors, tripping over curbstones and steps, knocking things over at the table, lessening ability to see well at night.

WHAT ARE THE MOST COMMON EYE DISEASES FOR OLDER PEOPLE?

Glaucoma, macular degeneration, diabetic retinopathy, cataracts.

WHAT IS MEANT BY "LEGALLY BLIND?"

A person is said to be legally blind when the best possible eyeglasses no longer can restore vision in the better eye to a defined functioning level.

DOES BEING DECLARED LEGALLY BLIND MEAN THAT EVENTUALLY ONE WILL BECOME TOTALLY BLIND?

Not necessarily. Very few people who are legally blind ever lose all vision. As a matter of fact, most people retain a surprising degree of partial sight, which is one of the reasons that many who are legally blind do not realize that they need the help that is available to them.

The week in high school sports . . .

By Bill Modestino
Mariner correspondent

A talented Scituate gymnastics' squad retained its untainted, unbeaten record and sole possession of the SSL with a 127.6 - 113.9 victory over Cohasset January 30.

The Skippers could relish only one event — the all-around competition. Winning two events, including a personal best in the floor exercise (8.8 score), Michelle Hartley took her eighth all-around of the season with a personal best of 33.8 points. The Cohasset team score was also a seasonal high.

Michelle Hartley led the SSL with top scores in the uneven parallel bars (8.55), balance beam (8.7), vault (8.6) and the floor exercise (8.7). In addition, she averaged 33 points in the all-around competition. She qualified for her second state tourney appearance in three years. She surpassed her league-best, all-around competition mark, scoring 34 points versus Randolph one week later.

Senior center Sara Bishop scored 13 points and had seven steals to lead host Cohasset to a 34-27 SSL victory over Norwell Feb. 7. Cohasset avenged an earlier loss to Norwell, defeating the Skippers on their own court by one point, 35-34, in overtime. More importantly though, Cohasset moved within one victory of qualifying for the Eastern Mass. tournament.

Brian Pompeo figured in all four Cohasset goals (two goals, two assists) and goalie Joel Reidy stopped 18 shots for the shutout as the Skippers rolled to a 4-0 SSL hockey victory over Abington Feb. 11.

Senior hockey forward Jim Gallagher had a dream game versus Dennis-Yarmouth, January 21. He netted seven goals and collected four assists in a 13-5 Cohasset victory.

Mike Suhrbier and Katie Lord continue to dominate on the ski slopes for CHS. The two skiers were individual winners in downhill action at Prospect Hill (Waltham) Feb. 6. Suhrbier won the boys' race in 20:39, while Lord took the girls' event with ease (18:72).

Paul Froio remained undefeated with a forfeit in the 160-pound division, leading host Cohasset to a 51-21 rout over Carver Feb. 8.

Michelle Hartley remained undefeated with a SSL best in the all-around (34.0 points), helping Cohasset register its highest score of the season, a 115-114.2 victory over Randolph Feb. 6. Eighth-grader Tara Gallagher also posted a personal best with 30 all-around points. Marcie De Michele (6.4 beam) and Laura Andrews (6.1 bars) added personal bests for the Skippers.

As a result of a season-ending loss to Hingham, 69-50, in the consolation game of the Hall-of-Fame classic (played at Massasoit Community College — Brockton), the CHS girls basketball team was eliminated from any post-season action and, therefore, will not defend its 1988 Division Three State crown.

At the Division Two State Wrestling Championships held at Wayland High School Feb. 25, Paul Froio became the first Cohasset wrestler ever to reach the state finals. Unfortunately, Froio was defeated by Norwell's Ro[illegible] Depasa in the 160-pound title match.

Sara Bishop scored four points, while teamm[illegible] Kristin Ellinger hauled down five rebounds to repres[illegible] Cohasset in the SSL girls basketball game at Nor[illegible] High Feb. 17. The Large Schools All-Stars defeated [illegible] Small School's team, 59-50. Cohasset is a member of t[illegible] SSL Small Schools Division. Jeff Bryant represent[illegible] Cohasset in the SSL boys' basketball contest.

Hartley finished as the state's seventh-best gymnast among 78 girls competing in the state individual meet at Algonquin Regional High School March 4. Moreover, it was the highest ranking ever for a CHS gymnast.

Even though he did not make it to the final round of the New England Wrestling Championship's at Glastonbury, CT, March 4, Cohasset's Paul Froio was elated just to participate in this prestigious event.

Brian Pompeo scored the tying goal for the SSL Small Schools' All-Stars, preserving a 3-3 deadlock with the Large Schools' All-Stars in the annual SSL hockey contest Feb. 16. (Gallo Arena in Bourne).

Looking forward to spring

While the Cohasset High School varsity teams currently prepare for the upcoming spring season (first day of practice began on March 20), we should take time to honor the athletes and coaches from the just-concluded winter sports campaign before the sounds of bats and baseballs filled the air. Without much further ado, let's begin our retrospective look at the lowlights and highlights of the winter scene.

CHS boys' basketball team won the consolation game over Medeiros Hall, 71-35, of the resurrected Scituate Christmas Tournament December 29. Cohasset lost the opening-round match to Snowden, 59-43, the night before. Lincoln Marsac tallied 17 points and Noah Hill added 14 to lead the Skippers over Medeiros Hall.

On December 28, the CHS girls' basketball club was unable to stop the state's best female player, Averill Roberts. As a result, Boston Latin crushed host Cohasset, 52-25, in the championship game of the George H. Mealy American Legion Post #118 Christmas Tournament.

Roberts led all scorers with 34 points. Cohasset had a 12-point effort from Heather MacDonald. The Lady Skippers reached the finals due to their 66-42 opening-round victory over Newton South the previous night. Senior forward Kristin Ellinger scored 20 points and grabbed 15 rebounds for the winners.

With nearly 250 wrestlers from 19 high schools participating in the fifth annual Marshfield Holiday Wrestling Tournament December 29, the CHS wrestling team recorded an impressive fifth-place finish in the team competition.

In the individual section, the Skippers picked up two first-place victories from Gregg Nourie, who wrestles in the 103-pound category, and Paul Froio (160).

Michelle Hartley took all-around honors for Cohasset, but league rival Norwell held on to a 105.75 - 100.55 meet victory over the Skippers Dec. 22.

Meghan Goughan's three-pointer at the buzzer in overtime provided the only points of the extra period and lifted Norwell (the Division Three State runner-ups) to a 35-32 over Cohasset (the defending 1988 Div. 3 state champion) January 13.

Cohassett's Kristin Ellinger was the game-high leading scorer with 12 points, while teammate Nancy Riley hauled down a team-high 12 rebounds in the losing cause.

Victories by Chris and Paul Froio and Pat Conroy clinched the 33-32 win for the CHS wrestling team over Quincy in a non-league match January 14.

Chris won his 171-pound category by forfeit, while twin brother, Paul, pinned his opponent in the 160-pound class. More importantly, both wrestlers still remain undefeated (6-0) on the season.

Conroy also pinned his opponent at the 189-pound division.

Michelle Hartley won each event (bars, floor exercise, vault and beam) and then took the all-round (33.3 points), but Randolph, led by steady performances from juniors Krystin Gamel and Julie LaMarca and their bench depth in the floor exercise, squeezed out a 113.5 -112.5 South Shore League decision January 9.

CHS boys' basketball coach Eddie Minelli resigns on January 9, three weeks into the season. During his tenure, Minelli's teams have won two state titles, five SSL Small Schools crowns and three EMass titles. Interim coach Arnie Reppucci promises that the second-half of the 1988-89 campaign won't be a total loss for the players.

Katie Lord and Mike Suhrbier dominated the EMass Individual Downhill ski events this winter.

Despite junior Michelle Hartley taking all-around honors, Cohasset lost a tough SSL meet to Hanover, 117.6 - 109.6, January 23.

On Thursday February 2, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts held the 1st Annual National Girls and Women in Sports Day at the State House in Boston.

A Proclamation was given by George Keverian, Speaker of the House, proclaiming Feb. 2 as National Girl's and Women in Sports Day throughout the Commonwealth.

Cohasset High seniors Katie Lord and Kristin Ellinger received Certificates of Outstanding Athletic Achievement. Kristin has excelled in the sports of soccer, basketball and softball. Katie has been outstanding in the sports of soccer, skiing and tennis. Both athletes are honor roll students.

Soccer season begins

Cohasset youth soccer's second annual Uniform Day attracted more than 300 players and parents to the Cohasset High School gym on Saturday.

The players and coaches, posed for team pictures, and participated in a mini-clinic run by Cohasset High's Jim and Joel Reidy. The Reidys, both league all-stars and All-Scholastic caliber players, ran the youth soccer boys and girls through a series of drills and controlled scrimmages on the gym floor.

"We expected the Boston Bolts," explained town coordinator Larry Shultz, "but the two players scheduled to appear got lost." The Bolts have promised, as an apology, to host a special Cohasset night at their opening game on April 29.

The 20 Cohasset teams open their Coastal League season on Saturday and Sunday, April 1 and 2.

Among the teams in action that weekend will be Boys' Under 19, featuring the two Reidy brothers.

School committee briefs . . .

Senior project update

Twenty-seven seniors will participate in a voluntary senior project before they graduate in June.

A committee of high school staff members initiated the idea of a senior project. It was recently presented to the senior students, who then voluntarily selected a project they would like to complete before graduation.

Although many students thought a project would take too much time away from their busy schedules, the teachers received an enthusiastic response from 27 seniors.

According to senior project coordinator Carolyn Contis, one METCO student who has never attended a Boston public school will do that during her last month of classes. Another student whose father graduated from Fairhaven High School will experience her Portuguese heritage when she attends that school for a day. Another student is going to clean the graffiti from the beach house at Sandy Beach and replace it with a mural.

Student school committee member Kim Dwyer said although she was enthusiastic about the proposal, she did not have enough time to complete a project this year. Dwyer said about half the seniors felt that although it was an admirable idea, they did not have the sufficient time.

The staff members said in future years students will have the opportunity to think about their senior project in advance, using this year's class as an example. School committee members suggested that community service projects be emphasized in the future.

Teacher layoffs

The school committee authorized Supt. Stephen Hart to notify all non-tenured teachers of possible lay-offs for next year.

This is a legal requirement, according to Supt. Hart, which allows him to notify teachers before the end of the school year that their contract may not be renewed next year. With the uncertain financial status of the schools next year, along with decreasing enrollment, all teachers cannot be guaranteed of employment next September.

This is a blanket notification, the superintendent said, and is a formality he has been assigned since the start of Proposition 2 1/2. The superintendent will meet with the affected teachers once the actual budget impact is known.

Weymouth schools art exhibit

The South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road, announces a new exhibit in their Margaret Dillon Gallery. A selection of art from students of the Weymouth School System will be on display from March 30 to May 5. There will be an opening reception on Sunday, April 2 from 4-6.

The South Shore Art Center is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing the South Shore Communities with arts education, artists' showcasing in gallery exhibits and cultural programs for all ages.

The South Shore Art Center is open to the public Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Sunday 1 to 4 p.m.

Advisors debate proposal to restore lost moorings

"If you don't pay your water bill, they don't turn your water off, they send you a letter.

"We need to build into the rules some flexibility ."

Another proponent, Jim Hamilton, agreed.

"Nothing in town is as punitive as what happened in the harbor.

"The facts are, this has never been done to anyone in any place in a coastal town in New England."

Harbor committee chairman John Pfaffmann noted that mooring fee bills were sent out in March with a due date of June 1.

Advisory committee member Elizabeth Millard said she was surprised that the bills for the coveted moorings weren't paid by some people during the three months.

Moore said that in some cases, residents were out of the country or out of town.

"There was a sense of blind-siding," said Moore.

"All of a sudden they got tough. It had never been done before.

"It's like if you get a ticket for going one mile over the speed limit."

"Do you think you'd get leniency from a police officer if you said they never did that before?" asked advisory committee chairman Jane Goedecke.

Goedecke also said there is a difference between a tax and a user fee.

"It's a burden vs. a privilege; property vs. right to use," she said.

"You are saying that a mooring is private property, and I take exception to that."

Goedecke also said the town could possibly be liable if it restores the moorings lost last year, but not those lost in previous years.

It was noted that one year, a citizen lost a mooring because his check bounced.

Advisory committee member Christine Bassett noted that 75 percent of the mooring holders complied with the deadline.

"We're talking about three months," she said. "This is a prized entity."

Pfaffmann said the harbor committee recommends "strong opposition" to the articles.

"They could cause litigation," he said.

He also said the residents who failed to pay for their mooring fees or reaffirm their place on the waiting list failed to use "due diligence."

"The rest of the town shouldn't pay a penalty because a few didn't use due diligence."

The advisory committee supported a harbor committee article amending the harbor bylaws.

Pfaffmann said the article takes some existing harbor regulations which are not in the bylaws, and incorporates them into the bylaws.

Definitions of terms such as "prudent seamanship" and "boat owner" were added, he said.

Also added , according to Pfaffmann, was the transfer of the mooring to the surviving spouse.

"The purpose is to accommodate fishing families," he said,"so families can continue to derive income."

He noted that the transfers would be treated on a case- by- case basis.

Vol. XI, No. 27 | Thursday, March 30, 1989 | 800-874-6969 | 50 cents

Warrant articles will require override approval

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

The work for the most part is finished. Voters will now have their opportunity to decide how town government will function for the next year.

Town meeting, according to advisory committee chairman Jane Goedecke, will have the final say as to what items will be funded, and what appropriations will go down to defeat.

It is important to note that unlike previous years, every appropriation made by town meeting this year will require an override of the Proposition 2 1/2 limitation.

"Every item in this warrant requiring a financial appropriation will also require an override," Goedecke explained. "That's different from last year."

Town meeting, April 2, 10 a.m.

Last year, most Cohasset taxpayers will recall with a wince, the town suddenly found itself $600,000 shy of its budget obligations. In an all-out effort to educate themselves about the legislation, town officials presented a budget to town meeting which would include an override for the first time.

The general override totalled $600,000, with other various debt exclusion and capital outlay overrides on last year's ballot.

This year, according to early calculations, the town's operating budget is short by about $660,000. That number is expanded to about

Good news/bad news for local landfills

● Expansion approved at CHL

Cohasset Heights Ltd. is beginning site preparation work on a new two and three-quarter acre expansion area approved two weeks ago by the state.

Despite opposition by the town and the Whitney Woods trustees, the state Department of Envirnmental Quality Engineering granted the commercial landfill permission to move into Area 4A. That area, owner Paul Barry said, will increase the life of the landfill by two to three years.

The state granted CHL conditional expansion approval in December, 1987, but that was opposed by the Cohasset Board of Health and the trustees of reservations. They opposed the approval, saying that CHL's operation of the exisiting 18 acres is still not in compliance with the state.

During subsequent hearings on the matter, DEQE reviewed the Cohasset Heights operation regarding leachate and contaminated groundwater, control of erosion onto conservation land, and the design of Area 4A.

Although the health board objected to the landfill expansion because it does not include any plan for on-site leachate treatment, the state determined it was unncessary. DEQE noted in its findings that the current method of off-site leachate disposal

● Violations cited at Cedar Street

The town is appealing a $9,300 fine levied against the Cedar Street landfill by the state for alleged health code violations.

This is the fifth time in three years the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering has cited the town's landfill for numerous violations of the state code.

Health board chairman Sharon Becker said the town is in the process of appealing the state's penalty. Since the state outlined its findings to the town last week, Becker has talked with a DEQE official.

"We've settled a lot of matters," Becker said. "Our first reaction has been anger. The state is obvioisly stepping up its inspections of local landfills, but they are unaware of the work that we've done in the meantime."

The state issued a previous fine against the landfill in December, 1987 "for continued violations of the department regulations." That fine, amounting to more than $6,000, was appealed by the town and has never been paid, Becker noted.

According to DEQE, the Cedar Street landfill was in violation of state code during a 1986 inspection. During a subsequent inspection in 1987, the state cited Cohasset for a

Mariners sold to Capital Cities/ABC

Local flavor to remain

Marshfield-based Mariner Newspapers have been sold to Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. of New York, for $7.4 million, publisher David S. Cutler announced this week.

The Mariners serve 18 South Shore towns from Canton to Plymouth, and circulate the South Shore Business Journal in 34 cities and towns.

No major changes are planned as a result of the sale, although Cutler said some expansion may be forthcoming in the future.

Cutler, who founded the company's flagship paper, the Marshfield Mariner, in 1972, will remain as publisher, along with the newspapers' management team, which includes Margaret Smoragiewicz of Marshfield as general manager; Robert Flavell of Duxbury as executive editor; Susan Reed of Norwell as marketing director; Kathy Hardy of Pembroke as production manager; and Susan Donovan of Marshfield as circulation manager.

In addition to the weekly Mariner Newspapers and the monthly business journal, the sale includes the Mariner Print Shop and Clipper Enterprises, a newspaper printing company.

Not included in the sale is the Duxbury Clipper, which has been owned and operated since 1950 by Cutler's parents, John and Bobbie Cutler of Duxbury.

Capital Cities/ABC, besides owning the ABC Television Network, owns eight independent television stations across the country, six radio networks and 21 radio stations.

The company's Publishing Group produces a wide variety of magazines, including Women's Wear Daily; nine daily newspapers, including the Kansas City Star-Times and the Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram; as well as numerous shoppers and weekly newspapers. The company also has interests in a number of cable television networks, including ESPN, Arts and Entertainment and Lifetime.

The Mariners will be part of the company's New England group, which includes the award-winning Shore Line Newspapers in Connecticut and the Shuttle service back on track

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

Since it first began in 1974, the popularity of the senior shuttle has grown as the number of elderly residents increased.

It has been a reliable, convenient form of transportation for people who would otherwise rely solely upon family and friends for their traveling needs.

Last year, 114 different senior residents used the shuttle van for a total of 1,115 rides.

It was those people senior center director Kathy Bryanton worried about when the van was destroyed by a fire last summer. Those people, she thought, depended on the van for doctor's appointments, and shopping trips.

Her concerns were unnecessary, however, because the service was never interrupted. Through the "heroic" efforts of the volunteer shuttle drivers, the seniors of Cohasset were provided shuttle service even without the van. The drivers used their own vehicles to transport the elderly residents to their appointments, "without being asked, and without any reimbursement," Bryanton recalled.

Their incredible response to the crisis ended last

Registration for roadrace

Applicants are rapidly registering for the 13th Annul Cohasset Roadrace by the Sea.

The race will take place on Sunday, April 2 at 1 p.m. and attracts runners from all over New England and surrounding states as well as Canada.

Close to 800 runners are expected for the Annual ritual of Spring sponsored by the Cohasset Rotary Club. Proceeds from the event support the many in town charities of the Club. The race is under the direction of Roy Fitzsimmons and Peter Logan.

The entree fee of $8 includes a T-shirt with the race logo and local sponsors as well as refreshments and prizes donated by local merchants. The timing will be sponsored by Cohasset Heights and provided by Spitler Race Results. Residents are urged to restrain dogs during the race in order to avoid injury to the runners or pets.

Applications are still available at Good Sports, Colonial Pharmacy, and Cohasset Liquors as well as writing P.O. Box 36, Cohasset, Ma. 02025. The deadline for pre registration is March 28.

Runners may pick up numbers at the Community Center on the morning of April 1 and 2.

Hassan, 61A Hull Street, install windows, door and reshingle, $3,000.

New town hall hours

Beginning May 1, Town Hall will be open straight through until 7 p.m. on Thursdays, rather than closing 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. and then reopening until 8 p.m.

Selectmen approved the change Monday night, March 27, after receiving a petition signed by 20 town hall employees.

Nancy Snowdale of the treasurer/collector's office said that the public would be better served with the new hours.

"There are very few visitors from 7 to 8 p.m.," she noted.

She said the continuous hours would be more conducive for town hall employees to get work done.

"I think it is an excellent idea," agreed administrative coordinator Janet Chalke of the selectmen's office.

"We'll have more people coming in from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m., than 7 to 8 p.m.," she said.

Selectmen said they will have a sign for the town hall door made up with the new hours.

Common pond repairs

The tree and park superintendent and an engineer will work together to come up with a plan to repair the common pond.

The two discussed the situation with selectmen Monday night, March 27.

Engineer John Modzelewski was asked by selectmen chairman Burt Pratt to look at the pond.

Modzelewski said the town has to decide what to do with the bottom of the pond, ascertain whether the roots of a nearby tree are causing problems with the wall, and select a finish.

"The seal is broken because machinery was in there," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

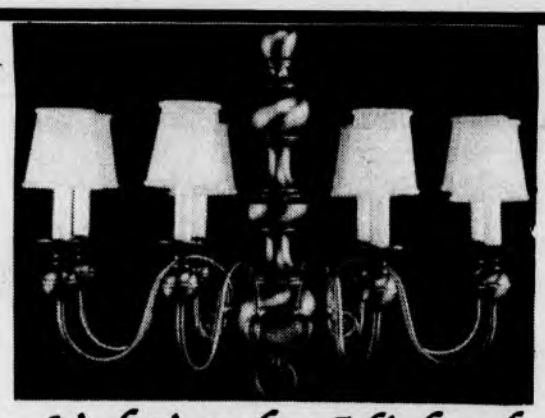
He also said the clay was broken up.

Laugelle added that some additional funds may be available for the work from fundraising sources.

Tree and park superintendent Peter Laugelle talked about installing two inches of gunnite around the pond.

He also said he cut the tree roots last year.

"I can assure you, you won't have any problems with the tree roots," he said.



Peter Laugelle said it would cost about $13,000 to buy and install a membrane for the pond, and about $1500 for sand and stone.

Clarification

In an article written in last week's Cohasset Mariner, it was stated that if the override fails, the school department budget would be limited to a one percent increase over this year's appropriation.

The amount as stated in the article was incorrect. If the override fails, the school budget will be held to a one percent increase, or $51,000 more than this year's appropriation.

ISOMETRICS
Part of the "insurance policy" against back pain is a regimen of exercise that will keep muscles strong and toned. Slack muscles invite musculature to slip from its proper position. Along with strains and sprains, this could very well lead to pain. To counter these problems, isometric exercise offers a convenient fitness routine for the muscles and requires no equipment. In fact, isometric exercises may be performed at a desk at work without anyone knowing it. Isometric exercises involve muscular contractions performed against fixed immovable resistance. The stressed muscle does not move. There are a variety of exercises that can tone and strengthen nearly any muscle in the body. Ask the doctor of chiropractic to recommend a series of isometrics that can be done at home in minutes.
The science of chiropractic offers many helpful procedures for addressing existing, as well as, potential discomforting problems. A routine of periodic chiropractic exams will provide the opportunity for your needs in these areas to be attended to. Cohasset's week

New cable programming

Continental Cablevision will soon be adding two new programming services to its channel line up beginning April 1.

Cable Video Store, a 24-hour pay-per-view movie and events channel, will be available to Impulse subscribers on Ch. 30.

CVS carries all the major studios, and will feature hits like "Bull Durham" "Big" and "A Fish Called Wanda."

Movietime is an information service on 24 hours a day, promoting current films and cable programs.

The format is a fast-paced mix of profiles, previews and news about the entertainment world.

It will appear on cable Ch. 65, and will replace the Inspirational Network.

To accommodate the services, the following changes will be made to the channel line-up:

*Cable Ch. 27 will become the video event guide beginning May 1, and will provide pay-per-view and other programming information.

*Cable Ch. 30 will be Cable Video Store.

*Cable Ch. 40 will be the new position for WHLL-TV, broadcast Ch. 27 from Worcester.

*Cable Ch. 65 will be Movietime.

"We are always investigating new services as they come along in hopes of bringing our customers the best possible mix of available programming," said general manager John Walber.

"Last fall, we launched 'Turner Network Television' on Cable Ch. 26, and the response has been excellent."

Crystal Woods hearing

The Zoning Appeals Board will hold a public hearing Thursday, April 6, on a request from Crystal Realty Trust for a comprehensive permit.

The trust hopes to construct a residential condominium, called Crystal Woods, on 20 acres abutting Ledgewood Drive and Route 3A, on the Cohasset/Scituate line.

Twenty-eight of the 60 units will be in Cohasset on 8.2 acres.

Crystal Woods was recently awarded Housing Opportunity Program funds from the state.

With the funding, 17 of the 60 units will be available for sale to moderate income families.

A comprehensive permit would allow Crystal Woods to bypass some local zoning in exchange for providing affordable housing.

The zoning board granted the town's first comprehensive permit earlier this year to Deck Point, for 108 condominium units on Cohasset Hill.

However, Deck Point failed to receive the HOP funding for which it had applied.

The Crystal Woods hearing is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at the Parish House of First Parish in Cohasset,23 North Main St.

Also on the agenda:

*Application from William B. Henry for a special permit to construct an addition to the structure at 94 North Main St., 7 p.m.

*Appeal of a decision by the planning board and the building inspector in conjunction with the building being constructed at 130 King St., 7:30 p.m.

The applicant, Thomas J. Cummings, wishes to determine parking requirements.

*Application from Robert Ferreira for a special permit to demolish a structure and rebuild at 814 Chief Justice Cushing Highway.

Committee appointed

Selectmen took the following action during their meeting Monday night, March 13, at Town Hall:

*Agreed to recommend a 6 percent increase for non-union employees.

The advisory board had recommended a 5 percent increase, according to selectmen.

*Agreed to recommend a $1,500 increase over the next three years for the town clerk.

Members noted that the town clerk's salary is behind that of other officials.

Selectman chairman Burt Pratt said the discrepancy occurred because the town clerk position had been part time.

*Took no action on contractual salaries.

*Appointed five members to the Cox Estate Planning Committee.

They are Edward Atkinson, 100 Elm St., library representative; Robert Ralston, 62 Whitehead Rd., citizen at large; Don Stazsko, recreation; Fritz Pfaffman, 45 Sohier St., harbor committee; and Veneto Roebuck, 312 Beechwood St., conservation.

Selectmen support increased sewer fees

Selectmen voted to support a number of town meeting articles Monday night, March 20, including one which would increase the sewer user fee July 1.

The increase for home owners would be from 15 to 50 percent.

There would be a 79 percent increase for the average business owner.

According to sewer commission chairman Charles DeSantis, that would mean an increase from $50 to $225 a year for the average home owner.

He said that with the increase, residents and businesses would be paying for 50 percent of the operating expense of the sewage plant, as was originally intended.

The town would pay the remaining 50 percent, DeSantis said.

He told selectmen there are some 200 homes and apartments in town hooked up to the system.

The user charge is based on flow, DeSantis explained.

He noted that the sewer commission can adjust the rates "at will."

"But we wanted to run this through town meeting," he said.

Selectmen voted 3 to 2 to support a sewer commission article requesting $20,000 for the design and construction of a lavatory and work area for the wastewater treatment plant.

DeSantis explained that employees have been using the Bates Building which is being vacated by town departments.

He said the price is about $20,000 because of the necessity to comply with regulations for a public building.

"It will be Class A work and top dollar," he said.

"We have to do something," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

Also in favor were selectmen Martha Gjesteby and James Gallagher.

Selectman chairman Burt Pratt and Cliff Mitman were opposed.

Selectmen also voted in favor of an article to appropriate about $280,000 for the expansion and renovation of Milliken Field

Study committee chairman Wayne Sawchuck said the plans have been cut substantially from an earlier $700,000 price tag.

The field will be expanded from six to 10 acres, by filling and regrading, he said.

Sawchuck said the present football field will stay where it is, but part of the track may be relocated.

The two-year project would also include fencing to close off fields which are not being used that year.

"Milliken will remain a varsity field," he added.

"And we intend to get the best quality for the least amount of money."

Bleachers, which would cost about $100,000, are not in the plans, he said in response to a question from Gallagher.

"It's the bare bones of the project," he said.

An article which would appropriate some $27,000 for a truck and body for the wire department was also supported by selectmen.

Wire inspector Stephen Wigmore said the truck which would be replaced has been a "lemon" since the town bought it.

Also supported by selectmen was insertion into the town bylaws of an article on municipal wetlands protection.

"Without the bylaw, we can't collect fees," said conservation commission chairman Merle Brown.

He noted that $3,500 had been spent for engineering and consulting fees for the proposed Oaks project.

"With the bylaw, we will be able to charge fees for engineering and other consulting fees," he said.

Town counsel Richard Henderson added that the bylaw would allow penalties and prosecution as well.

Selectmen also discussed with Fritz Pfaffmann a harbor committee article.

Pfaffmann said the change would "eliminate some of the confusion incurred in the past."

"It's general housekeeping - streamlining," he said.

Among the additions are a section regarding moorings, he said.

It states that mooring locations may not be sold, bequeathed, transferred, traded, bartered, rented or leased.

However, in the event of the death of the mooring holder, the mooring may be transferred to the surviving spouse of the deceased holder.

Pfaffmann said that under the current bylaw, the surviving spouse would lose the mooring.

"The intent is to allow the surviving spouse to continue to earn a living (if the mooring is used for commercial reasons)," explained Pfaffmann.

"We discussed this many times," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"Your committee brought it up three or four times, and we voted no."

"We're looking to the interests of commercial fishermen," said Pfaffmann, who said the change was suggested by the fishing fleet.

Pratt said selectmen had voted last week to support the article.

Selectmen decided to wait until the advisory committee gives an opinion on articles submitted by the fire chief.

Fire Chief Daniel Brock told the board this week that they involve appropriating $60,000 to test, refurbish and equip ladder 1, $75,000 for a new ambulance, $10,000 to refurbish and equip Forestry 1.

Brock said he would also like to add to the ambulance a new automatic defibrillator which restarts the heart.

Kealey sworn in Police Chief Joseph Kealey was sworn in Friday, March 17, by the town clerk, with the permission of the selectmen chairman.

But some selectmen feel they should have been consulted on the matter.

Selectmen chairman Burt Pratt explained that Kealey's contract expired March 17.

"He felt very nervous about going into the weekend without being officially sworn in as chief," said Pratt.

"He asked if the town clerk could swear him in."

Pratt wrote a letter to town clerk Frances Marks asking her to swear in Kealey "as it is the intention of the board of selectmen to appoint Chief Kealey Monday, March 20."

When Kealey was sworn in, no mention was made of the length of his term, according to Pratt.

"I wasn't even asked (about Kealey being sworn in)," said selectman Martha Gjesteby.

"This letter assumes all of us voted."

"In regards to the appointment, what kind of appointment can we give?" asked selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"We can only give a temporary appointment because we are still negotiating on a contract."

"You should have at least asked us to do this," continued Gjesteby.

"The bylaw takes care of this."

According to Gjesteby, section 4 of the town bylaws states that the chief will serve until the selectmen appoint a successor.

"To jump ahead and do something like this makes it difficult for us," she said.

"He was not comfortable about acting as chief," explained Pratt.

"It's something that wasn't necessary," said Gjesteby.

Town Counsel Richard Henderson commented that there was "nothing illegal" about the action.

Later in the meeting, selectmen went into executive session to discuss contracts for the police and fire chiefs.

Local tax payment notices

Boat excise tax due

The Fiscal 1989 Boat Excise Tax bills were mailed February 28, 1989.

These bills are due and payable by 4:30 p.m. May 1 at the office of the Collector of Taxes, Town Hall, 41 Highland Avenue, P.O. Box 296, Cohasset.

If the boat you are being billed for has been sold, traded, stolen, declared a total loss or registered out of state you must contact the Assessor's Office at (617) 383-9900, extension 124 and inquire about an abatement.

If the boat excise tax remains unpaid after May 1 there will be a penalty of $20 or 20 percent of the tax, whichever is greater, plus interest added to the tax.

For those boat owners who moor their boats in Cohasset Harbor both the mooring fee, which is due April 1, and the boat excise tax must be paid before you will be issued a boat decal for the 1989 season.

On or after May 15, the decals will be available for pick up at the Harbor Master's Office, located at Government Island on Cohasset Harbor.

Cohasset tax payment deadlines

The second-half fiscal 1989 real estate and personal property tax bills were mailed March 17, 1989.

These payments must be received on or before Monday, May 1 at 4:30 p.m. For any payments received after May 1, interest will be computed at 14 percent from April 1.

A number of tax bills have been returned to the tax collector's office because of improper mailing addresses. Any property owner who has not received a tax bill should contact the collector's office at the town hall, 383-9900, ext. 113. Failure to receive a tax bill does not waive payment of the tax and does not excuse the homeowner from interest charges on payments received after the due date.

The first commitment of 1989 motor vehicle excise was mailed on March 8, 1989. These bills are due and payable on or before April 9, 1989.

If the vehicle listed on the enclosed bill has been sold, traded, stolen, declared a total loss or registered out of state you must contact the board of assessors at 383-9900, ext. 124 and inquire about an abatement.

All payments must be payable to the town of Cohasset and mailed to P.O. Box 296, Cohasset, MA 02025 or paid in person at the town hall, second floor of the addition, 41 Highland Avenue.

Children's art display

There will be a mall-wide display of children's art work at Merchants Row, Washington St. (Rte. 53), in Hanover from April 9 through April 22. There will be an open house on Sunday, April 9 from 3 to 5 p.m. at Merchants Row.

The art work will be a collection of work done by children who have participated in the South Shore Art Center's winter classes and vacation workshops.

Town meeting to act on 69 warrant articles

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

Sixty-nine warrant articles will await action at town meeting which starts Saturday at 10 a.m. at Cohasset High School.

One of the largest items residents will be asked to vote on is the proposed $714,000 renovation of the police and fire station.

The present building does not comply with current Massachusetts state laws and codes which require handicap accessibility, separate but equal facilities for employees, secure storage of records and evidence, and new requirements for detention cells.

The $714,000 includes money for construction, fees, expenses, furnishings, clerk of the works, and a 10 percent contingency, according to committee chairman Barbara Moore.

It also includes new communications equipment for the police station, new furniture for both the stations, and air conditioning for the men's detention cells.

The communications equipment will cost about $40,500, according to Moore.

"The police department doesn't have an updated communications system," she said.

"The updated equipment will provide the ability for the fire, police and public works departments to communicate with each other when they are on the road."

Moore said the equipment could also accommodate the 911 system.

Another article, a citizen's petition, would restore harbor moorings lost to residents last summer.

Two related articles would restore lost places on the mooring waiting list and provide a 30-day grace period for paying harbor fees and reaffirming places on the waiting list.

"There was a great deal of confusion about how the harbor lists were handled," said proponent Al Moore.

Moore said there were conflicting harbor regulations and town bylaws on such things as deadlines.

One specified April 1, the other, June 1.

He also noted that a new harbor master came on board with a stricter style of enforcement.

"Out of the blue, there were efforts to step up enforcement, when half of the players didn't know what the rules were,"he said.

"Even the harbor master and selectmen didn't know.

"There was total confusion.

"When the selectmen denied a grace period, I took great offense," continued Moore.

He was among some 58 people who lost their places on the mooring waiting list. Eight lost their moorings.

Some appealed the action to the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

The mooring holders have been allowed to use their moorings while the matter is being appealed.

Opponents have said that the mooring holders and those on the waiting list had three months to pay their fees or reaffirm their interest for the waiting list.

A harbor committee article would take some existing harbor regulations which are not in the bylaws and incorporate them into the bylaws.

Definitions of terms such as "prudent seamanship" and "boat owner" were added, according to harbor committee chairman John Pfaffmann.

Also added, according to Pfaffmann, was the transfer of the mooring to the surviving spouse.

"The purpose is to accommodate fishing families," he said," so families can continue to derive income."

He noted that the transfers would be treated on a case-by-case basis.

Voters will also be asked to consider reducing the board of selectmen from three to five members.

Sohier St. resident Robert Davenport said he was submitting the citizens petition because three selectmen would be more efficient and cheaper.

"I don't feel the large number accomplishes anything, except to make it more cumbersome," said Davenport.

But others such as Richard Barrow, a Cohasset police sergeant who worked to increase the number of members from three to five in 1982, disagree.

"I think it has worked better with five," said Barrow.

"There is a lot more input."

An article proposed by the Cemetery Committee will ask the town to abandon 14 acres of land off Smith Place for school purposes and transfer it to the board of selectmen to provide a site for a 5,000 plot cemetery.

The school department voted last year to release the land.

Committee chairman Glenn Pratt has said that eight sites throughout town were reviewed for creation of a cemetery, before the final one was selected.

Neighbors have expressed concerns about increased traffic and drainage problems.

The committee also plans to present an article requesting $55,000 for engineering, design and development services.

A sewer commissioners article would increase the sewer user fees that would pay half the $140,000 cost of running the sewer treatment plant.

Charges for the average homeowner would increase from $50 to $220 a year, according to commission chairman Charles DeSantis.

He said the average commercial or industrial user would see a 79 percent increase.

Among other appropriations residents will be asked to consider are $280,000 for the expansion and renovation of Milliken Field, $87,000 for three new school buses, and $75,000 for a new ambulance.

In addition, money will be sought to reroof and paint the exterior of the old town hall, purchase a used dog van, and relay the brick walkway in front of new town hall.

Mariner Newspapers sold . . .

Wilson Publishing Company in southern Rhode Island.

Shore Line, based in Guilford, Conn., publishes 14 weekly and twice-weekly newspapers and shoppers covering 60 Connecticut communities. Wilson publishes the twice-weekly Narragansett Times and The Standard Times, as well as the weekly East Greenwich Pendulum.

The New England group also includes the Gamer Publications in Hartford, Conn., which operates Hartford Woman Magazine, two shoppers and four real estate magazines.

Cutler has high praise for the Capital Cities/ABC newspapers in New England. "The Shore Line and Wilson weeklies are top-notch publications with a strong commitment to excellence in community journalism," he said.

"Capital Cities/ABC sees a bright future for the weekly newspaper industry. That is a sentiment we at the Mariners share. In fact, it is how we built the Mariner Newspapers.

Cutler said the sale "gives the Mariners a financial security that will benefit the company, its employees, our readers, and the towns we serve."

Mariner Newspapers sold to Capital Cities/ABC

He said readers will continue to receive the same high level of local coverage they now enjoy.

"We will remain relentlessly local," Cutler said. "The editorial strings will stay right where they are, in the hands of the 15 Mariner editors, who produce the best newspapers in community journalism, week after week."

John C. Peterson, the president and publisher of Shore Line Newspapers and president of the Capital Cities/ABC New England group, called the Mariner acquisition a great step forward for the company.

"We're pleased that David Cutler has chosen us out of the many who sought to purchase Mariner Newspapers," Peterson said. "David, the newspapers and staff have a great record of service and are well-respected in journalism circles. We look forward to further enhancing that fine record."

The Mariners recently won 13 awards in the New England Press Association's region-wide newspaper contest, including three first-place prizes. The contest attracted nearly 4,000 entries from more than 200 newspapers from throughout New England.

Since the company's founding nearly 17 years ago -- in a tiny, two-room office in Marshfield -- the Mariner Newspapers have become one of the largest weekly newspaper groups in New England.

The first Marshfield Mariner -- a 16-pager -- rolled off the press in April, 1972. The Norwell Mariner was launched in 1974, followed by the Scituate and Cohasset Mariners in 1978. Then came the Hingham Mariner in 1980, the Hanover Mariner in 1981, and the Pembroke Mariner in 1983.

The venerable Weymouth News and Gazette and the Braintree Forum were acquired in 1984, and the first Randolph Mariner was published a year later. In 1986, the company bought the Holbrook Sun, the Kingston Independent Voice and the Canton Journal. The Weymouth News and Gazette, established in 1867, is the company's oldest weekly, followed by the Canton Journal, founded in 1876 and the Braintree Forum in 1878.

In 1987, the Plymouth Current, the Carver Independent -- now the Carver Mariner -- and the Bridgewater Townsman were added to the growing list. The Current was later replaced by a special Plymouth edition of South Look, the regional second section which is published in all Mariner newspapers.

Last spring, the company left its charming but hopelessly-overcrowded headquarters in an antique Colonial house and barn for its new 18,300 square foot building set on nearly three acres in Marshfield's industrial park.

Clipper Enterprises, founded in 1976 in Duxbury, and the Mariner Print Shop, acquired in 1980, are also housed in the new Mariner building.

"THIS RATE MAKES IT SMART TO HAVE YOUR IRA HERE. I'LL MAKE IT EASY."

"A lot of people settle for a lower IRA rate simply because they don't know how easy it is to open or transfer their account here. And I think that's a shame.

"Because at Rockland Trust, one visit is all it takes. We take care of all the paperwork and notifications for you. And we give you a full 9.00% annual rate on a 4-year IRA CD—for an effective yield of 9.55%.

"Even if that's just ½% more than you're earning now, it could add up to thousands of dollars extra when you retire. I think you'll agree, that's well worth a 5-minute stop."

□ Stanley Holmes' family had a wonderful tribute for him last weekend, they called it a celebration of his life. As most of you know, Stanley died recently, and they all planned this party with him before his death. It was held in the Sons of Italy Hall, which was built by him; there were lots of pictures and fond memories all over the place and everyone had a story to tell. Stanley was loved by all of us, and his great humor and abilities will be missed by all of his friends. Mimi, a former teacher at CHS, is proud, we are sure.

□ Be sure that you tune in to Channel 3, there are lots of great pre-election debates going on! Last Thursday was the candidates for selectmen debate, and it was an informative one. There will be more, watch for details. Wig Pierson does a dandy job as moderator, and the Mariner's own Jane Lane asked pertinent questions, along with Molly Hochkepple. Keep informed, watch channel three, you'll be glad that you did.

□ Speaking of watching there is something else for you to watch, this weekend in fact. The Senior Class is holding their Variety Show this weekend, and it promises to be a gala event! The dates are Friday, March 31 and Saturday, April 1. Curtain time is 8:00, and tickets may be purchased at the front office of the high school or from any cast member. Where can you go for an evening of fun for $3?

School committee candidate H. Edward Brennock Jr. addresses the audience at this week's PSO candidates' forum. Also in attendance were school committee candidates Ralph Kidder and Christopher Ford.

Joanne Fictner is leading the dance numbers again this year, she always does a superb job! There are going to be six dance numbers, skits, monologues, ballet, piano playing and more. See you there!

□ Jack DiLorenzo is a super guy, he sure has done a lot with the student council! Last week he took 16 students to the Cape for three days for the annual Leadership Conference. Judging by all of its accomplishments with Mr. DiLorenzo's guidance, the Student Council certainly has benefited from such conferences. Thanks to you all.

□ Leo Fiori had a great time with Bill Enos in Arizona, he came back with lots of scouting tips but no money!! They only pay Bill Enos, Leo said! And, Bill certainly does earn it, he has been with organized baseball for 52 years!! Now there is a man that knows baseball and its players like no one else!

□ Congratulations to our CHS students that were in the S.E.M.S.B.A. concert. Paolo Baca, Nancy Riley, Maggie Moore, and Ali Weiz were in the chorus, Celia Mullen was the piano accompanist, and Jen Martin and Robin Haynes were in the band. They received a standing ovation at Hanover High School at the end of their performance, and they get one from us too!

□ Blanche Buckley gets a round of applause this week, through her fine efforts in the recycling center at the dump, they donated $150 to Project Playground. That is a lot of glass to recycle, and she and her volunteers are to be commended.

□ Speaking of Project Playground, there is a hard-working crew of men and women that have made their goal and will be building the Osgood Playpark as they hoped to do. They are a dedicated bunch of workers, and they should be thanked by the parents and the kiddos, often!!

□ Congratulations go to Jen Reidy, this month's Student of the Month at CHS. It really is an honor to be chosen, and she joins the ranks with her other fellow student of the month selections with pride, we are sure.

Spring has sprung this week, and with spring comes all sorts of good news . . . let us in on what is new in your house, we'd love to hear it.

Students attend convention

March 15, sixteen members of the student council went to Hyannis for the Massachusetts Association of student councils convention (MASC). The following students attended it: Matt Buckley, Cindy Dormer, Kristin Ellinger, Katie Lord, Katie Murphy, Katie Ryan, Megan Terry, Joel Reidy, Sean McCarthy, Laura Smart, Carrie Ripley, Julianna Chittick, Kerri Miele, Michele Woodland, Jen Rady, and Amy Gallant.

While at the convention we elected officers for the coming year and attended different workshops dealing with leadership. In the evening lip sync contests and dances were held.

We're still here

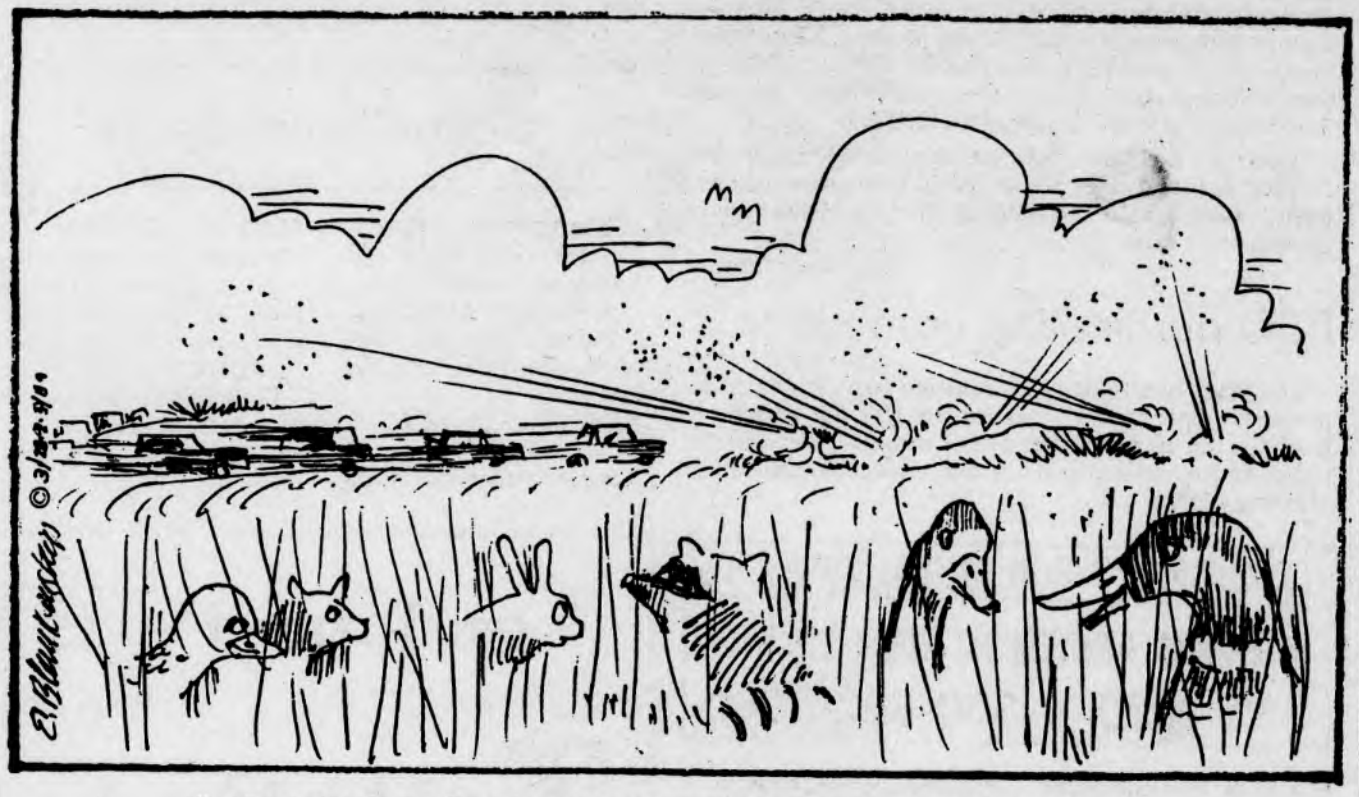
Notice anything different about your paper this week?

No, and you won't.

The Mariner Group has been sold to Capital Cities/ABC, a company with the vision to recognize the bright future of the weekly newspaper business. That future depends upon keeping local papers local -- which is exactly what the Mariners have always been about.

Twenty-five years ago, local community newspapers were largely Mom and Pop operations which survived because the big dailies could not provide the same kind or degree of coverage that the little weekly could.

The weekly ran the school lunch menu, and the senior citizen news. It told all about youth sports, and the senior prom, and what the selectmen had decided. The dailies couldn't do it, but the weeklies did -- and the Mariners still do.



As newspapering became more expensive, though, the little local weeklies began to join together in newspaper groups -- such as the Mariner -- because they needed the resources that a larger parent could provide.

It was simply not feasible economically to operate a single paper in a single town and still meet rising costs. But by joining a group and taking advantage of the resulting economy of scale, community papers grew and prospered. The first Marshfield Mariner in 1972 was 16 pages. Today, the same paper runs two, three and four times that size, includes a regional second section, and provides a quality far better than we could have produced in those early days.

Technology is still advancing, and costs continue to escalate. But with the enormous resources of Capital Cities/ABC behind us, the Mariners can keep abreast of new methods, maintain our high quality and depth of local coverage, and continue to serve our readers.

We'll still be here. We hope you'll still be with us.

The Natural Resources Committee of the Massachusetts legislature will consider several pro-hunting bills starting Mar. 30. House bills 3443 & 3450 preempts cities' and towns' home rule, to pass laws to restrict hunting, trapping, discharge of firearms. Makes hunter dominated Div. of Fisheries & Wildlife, the authority. Several bills introduced rescinding state ban on Sunday hunting. Could increase animal kill 30% says pro-hunter groups

"...First, ducking Sunday drivers, now it's Sunday hunters...just a matter of time before they finish each other off..."

Make the effort

It was interesting to note that at last week's selectmen candidates' debate sponsored by Continental Cablevision, at least one candidate noted the difficulties in attracting a large number of our population to town meeting.

The argument is that a few hundred people take the time out of their busy schedule to listen and participate in the debate before they vote on the issues. Their votes this Saturday, April 1 will affect the override questions which will be placed on the May 6 special election ballot.

But the people who cast their ballots at that election will likely be twice the number who heard the discussion and participated in the debate in April. They will cast their vote and ultimately make the final decision whether those overrides will succeed or fail.

In order to pass, an override question must be approved at the town meeting and then at the ballot box. If the issue fails at town meeting, it's a dead issue. But if it succeeds at town meeting, then it will require a second approval by voters at the May 6 special election.

Voters should feel compelled to proceed through the two-step process. By attending town meeting, they will be made aware of the arguments for and against the proposal. They can discuss the article's merits with the very people it will affect. They will hear new arguments and some old, with an opportunity to address their own concerns.

That give and take, that process of debate, will not be available at the polls. It's an important part of the process, but is certainly not the only portion and we should all remember that.

Whether or not you support an override for the town's general operating budget, or for a number of specific requests, such as the police/fire station renovations, your presence at town meeting this Saturday is as important, if not more so, than your vote on May 6.

The warnings have been sounded, and the financial implications have been well-documented. Now it's time for the residents, the taxpayers and the voters, to share their opinions with their neighbors.

Your presence is important at Saturday's meeting - as vital as that vote you will cast April 8 to elect your town leaders and the fate of the overrides you will decide on May 6.

Position explained by abutters

Letters

To The Editor:

(This letter was written to the Board of Selectmen. Ed.)

It has been stated, quite incorrectly, that our concerns about the housing project known as "Crystal Woods" are based on our opposition to having "affordable housing" in our backyard. This is simply not true, for the issue is neither affordable housing nor its proximity to the Ledgewood area. The issue is the misuse and abuse of the "comprehensive permit" process to attempt to deliver a piece of land which is otherwise not developable and which will have an immediate and irreparable impact upon the surrounding community.

Our neighborhood of 55 homes is quite different from the stereotypical view of Cohasset of stately, white colonials clustered around the Common. We are a neighborhood of acknowledged diversity. In addition to retired residents, our population includes town employees, a fireman, several teachers, and a principal along with people in other professions. Like many others in our town, we too have children who cannot afford to buy a home here.

In short, we have no reason to believe the people buying the seven, out of twenty-eight, "affordable" units in Crystal Woods would be on any different footing from us. Our genuine concerns are rooted in the density of the development, the attempt to put 28 housing units on a piece of land which has never proved to be developable in previous efforts. Such density will cause severe septic disposal, water pressure, drainage and traffic safety problems for the immediate area. We are also very concerned about the prospects of the economic success of the project which will result in the anomaly of permission having been granted because of the comprehensive permit process and then have it flounder.

While the parcel, which is partially in Cohasset and partially in Scituate, is over 20 acres, more than 10 of these are wetlands. The 8.2 acre portion in Cohasset, which would contain almost fifty percent of the total units, is in an area now called "Ledgewood" because of the large amount of bedrock. It formerly was called "Black Swamp" for similar, obvious reasons. Almost every home here has problems with water in the basement and has sump pumps going regularly. To attempt to construct a twelve building, sixty apartment complex on this land, we believe is pure folly.

While Mr. Hurley is described as a "developer," he clearly is not. By his own admission, he has never built anything! He is employed full time in a supply business. The experience of the contractor whom he has hired is limited to a small number of single family homes. To conclude that the proponent, on his first try at real estate development, will be able to construct roads, provide water and sewage systems and a 12-building complex on land poorly suited for the purpose, is ludicrous. Experienced developers have told us that they wouldn't tackle this project.

With the real estate market for condominium apartments rapidly deteriorating, we have serious concerns about whether or not the luxury units will sell. Our neighbors in Hull are saddled with several large white elephants consisting of hundreds of empty apartments in the same price range. Similarly, Cohasset itself is suffering the effects of this soft market.

What we have with Crystal Woods is a poorly conceived development which will adversely affect not only the immediate surrounding neighborhood but the town as a whole, creating long term problems.

What we also have with Crystal Woods is an individual with a piece of family-owned property trying to take advantage of the anti-snob zoning law to force a high density apartment complex into this area in order to reap a one-time windfall profit.

Committee supports repairs

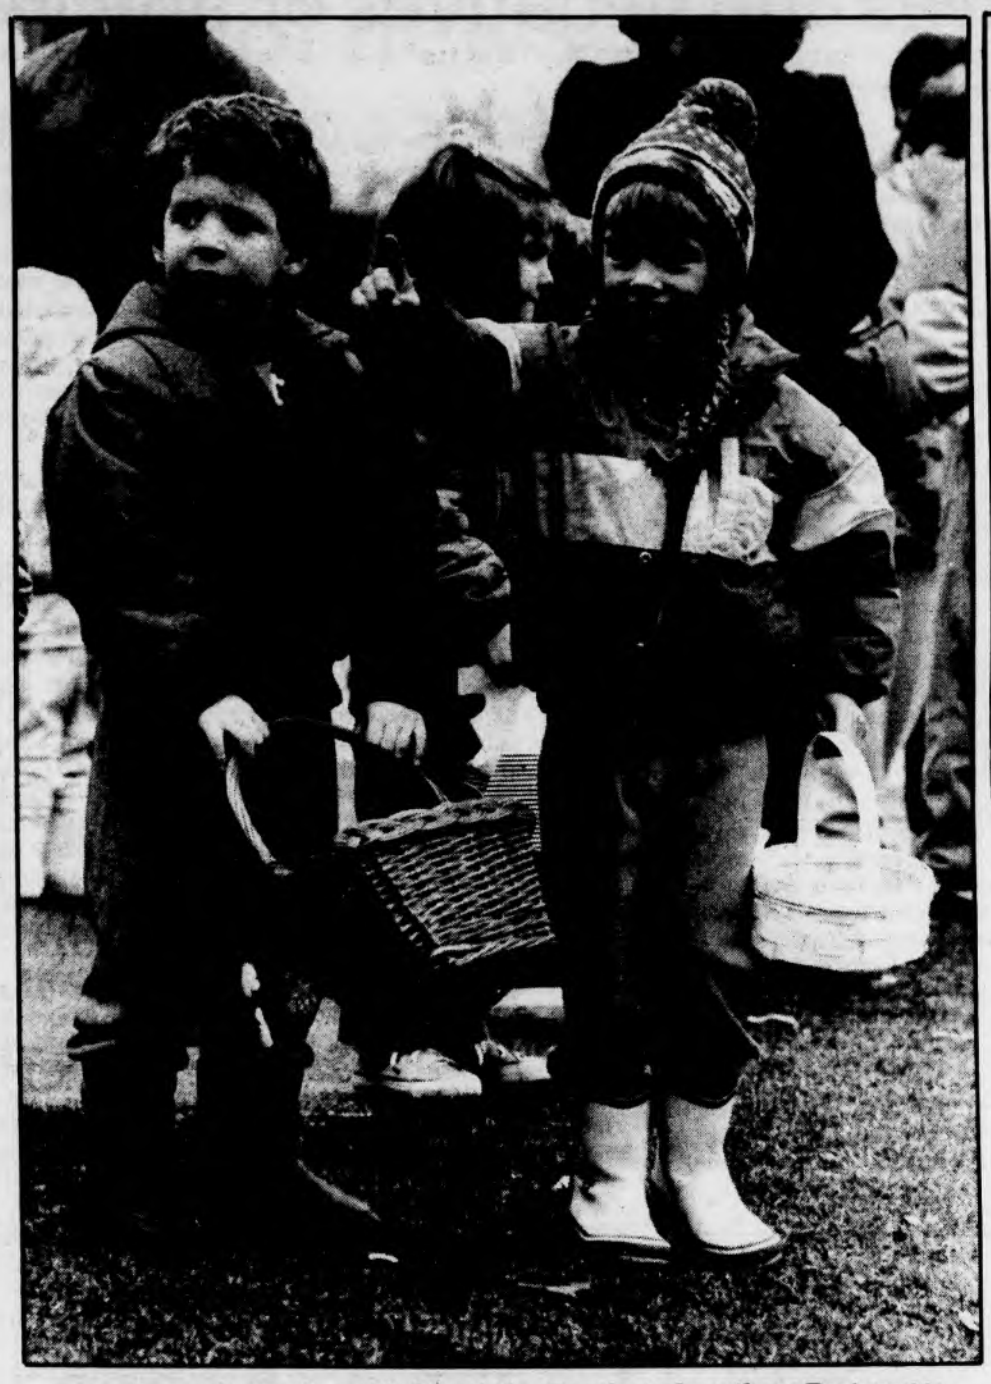
To the Editor:

Since initiating its activities in August of 1988, the police/fire renovation committee has finalized its recommendations to the selectmen.

Chairperson Barbara Moore stated that the committee felt it has met the charge by the Board of Selectmen to bring the fire and police stations up to code for the least possible cost. Working as expeditiously as possible because of the impending lawsuit against the town concerning separate but equal facilities, the committee reviewed previous studies and formulated new plans.

Over thirty potential architects, were interviewed and the firm of Strekolovsky and Hoit, Inc., from Hingham, MA was chosen. Through efficient design, the architects will be able to save the taxpayers substantial money by utilizing the existing structure with a small second floor dormitory addition added to the fire department to house both male and female fire fighters.

The building was found to be in need of considerable basic repairs in addition to the code violations. It is the intent of the proposal to correct the violations, repair and restore the building and improve the efficiency of both departments. While the plans contain extensive detail, some items are particularly noteworthy; a security barrier for the police desk new communications equipment, secure booking area, and a new vehicle access door in the fire house.



The committee has received and endorsed the architect's cost estimate of $714,000. They noted that the proposed cost is considerably less than the previous figure of $1.2M.

The committee concluded its meeting with the hope that Article 19 will be supported by the taxpayers and result in a favorable vote.

Some thoughts on the positives and negatives of articles

Letters

To the Editor:

I would like to offer some comments and questions on several town articles in the Mariner in hopes that they may stimulate your thoughts and prepare both sides for a good debate.

Articles 14 and 15 — The Cemetery Committee requests a transfer of land and money to engineer for a new cemetery. This article represents some good planning as to site selection — perhaps some good comments by Pleasant Street neighbors should be considered and an alternative access be made off Sohier Street or the top of Pleasant Street. The project seems like a good step in planning for the future.

Article 19 — The Police/Fire Renovation Study Committee is requesting $714,000 to fix up the existing Police and Fire Station. The plans seem to address all aspects of the Police and Fire Station and represent a major renovation project. Nearly all areas of the present building are being renovated. My questions range from "how did we let the building fall into such disrepair?" to "can we afford all the renovations at this time?" A $16,000 brass firepole from the second floor seems like an item we could do without. Sharing handicap and female bathroom facilities with the Police Station seem like one alternative. We originally said the building needed a new roof, exterior maintenance, and some handicap and female bathroom facilities. However, it appears we are fulfilling everyones' wish list. I do hope, whatever the outcome, that the work performed will be maintained, so as to last longer than it has the first time.

Article 24 — This article creates a Wetland Protection Bylaw, enforced by the Conservation Commission: It will give the local Conservation Commission a great deal of authority. Voters should be aware that this bylaw is separate from the State Wetland Protection Act, and the Commission will be writing their own rules and regulations and fee schedule after passage of the bylaw. Remember that the bylaw not only affects wetlands, but any land within 100 feet of the wetlands, river, pond, stream or estuary. Perhaps the Commission could use their authority under the current Wetland Protection Act and don't need another bylaw?

Article 41 — This article sets out to change the Forest Fire Truck #1 into an all purpose utility truck for use of the Fire Department for non-fire fighting. It would appear as though it would be in the best interests of the town to keep the truck for fire fighting and buy a new pickup truck if that is the need.

Article 45 — The leachate collection system for the town dump is said to cost about $300,000 to construct and an unknown amount to maintain. Our true costs should be known before we leap into constructing a potential money pit. We should seek other engineering opinions and alternatives if possible.

Article 49 — This article seeks to spend approximately $280,000 for the grading seeding of four acres of land adjacent to the present Miliken Field and Lillard Field behind the High School. Unlike previous proposals, this article seeks to expand playing surfaces to provide for space for rapidly expanding athletic programs.

Article 58 — Much more work needs to be done by this Committee in meeting with the Assessors, Planning Board, and Town Engineer to determine if computer mapping has any value for the Town. I think that expanding money for a study before a need has been established will only result in wasted money.

Article 65 — This proposed land taking behind the Water Department property on King Street seems ill advised. Very recently the Town spent considerable sums of money and had a building moritorium in effect for nearly two years in our Watershed Protection District in order to study the effects of building in our watershed, and established very strict environmental controls, enforced through the Board of Health, to insure a safe water supply. Now we are about to embark on an eminent domain land taking which will cost the town over a million dollars to prevent possibly a dozen homes from being built. We must know by now that our town does not win in court and the developers of this land will take us for all we have.

Let's enforce our environmental protection laws-certainly they are better today and offer much more protection to our water supply than the houses that exist on the other shores of Lily Pond and the Aaron Reservoir.

Attend your town meeting

(We received this editorial from a Cohasset resident who prefers to remain anonymous, but we feel it contains some pertinent information. Ed.)

As in past years the Cohasset voters will be faced with a long agenda of warrant articles, 69 in all this year, which will be presented to them Saturday April 1. Unfortunately, they will be less prepared than usual, because much of the information is lacking. Although the Selectmen, Advisory Board and Capital Budgets Committee have been working very diligently - and spending many hours discussing the articles, the residents have not been able to receive their recommendations with the warrant, and many important articles are missing a very important point - how much will the project cost.

Our town meeting seems to last forever, even though a smaller quorum allows us to begin earlier and selecting articles by raffle seems to move them along faster. However, articles are decided almost solely on their presentation, because little information is presented to the voters beforehand. Unless questions are asked at the town meeting, few voters will hear both sides of the

WELL-ORDERED EFFICIENCY

At first glance, the well-designed kitchen would seem to center on the famous triumverate of the stove, sink and refrigerator. However, when a survey asked self-described enthusiastic cooks to name the requirements for their dream kitchen in order of preference, they listed high-quality cabinets, a separate pantry, a dishwasher, and a self-cleaning double oven. It is curious to note that the list made practically no mention of cooking appliances. Instead, cleaning and storage were topmost on the minds of these homeowners. Certainly, a properly-designed work-triangle is important. However, abundant, well-placed, utensil-specific storage and well-outfitted cleaning areas are absolutely essential to an efficient kitchen. Only a realistic assessment of a cook's kitchen habits can bring about the design that works best.

Often we get so used to the way things are that we take them for granted and don't realize their ineffectiveness. It takes professionals at KITCHEN DESIGN ASSOCIATES to show you how a properly laid out kitchen will help you get the things that are most important to you in a newly remodeled kitchen. From cabinets to counters to tiles we have it all and will design them into a kitchen that will work for you. See what skilled craftsmen can do at 962 Washington St., Rt. 53, Hanover. Phone-A-Thon April 5

The PSO is holding its annual Phone-A-Thon fundraiser on Wednesday, April 5 from 7-9:30 p.m. Your donation is needed to continue the many exciting and enriching activities provided by PSO for our children during the school year. The Phone-A-Thon is the PSO's primary fundraiser. The many ongoing activities and special events it has helped bring to our children this year include:

- Artist of the Month program at Osgood and Deer Hill
- Art History and Music Program at the High School
- Purchase of various books for the school libraries and supplemental school equipment at Osgood, Deer Hill and the High school
- December field trip for Osgood and Deer Hill students to the "Nutcracker Ballet" at the Wang Center, Boston
- Poetry Alive at the High school
- Lea Cabral show at Deer Hill

story. However, when the same few individuals do all the asking, their effectiveness suffers. I seem to be one of those individuals who asks a lot of questions. I am concerned about our community, about our services, and the taxes we pay. I am interested in having the town receive as much value as it can for what it pays.

This April 1, I would like to call upon other residents to prepare themselves to ask serious questions about some of the articles in our warrant. Do we need to spend all this money? Are there alternatives we can do immediately which will bring about similar results? Do our actions today, follow the recommendations of our studies and reports of yesterday?

We will have a unique opportunity of a double review of many warrant articles this year. First, after a presentation with recommendations from the Selectmen, Advisory Committee, and Capital Budgets Committee, we will vote by town meeting. Then, in May, after a month to think it over, we will have an opportunity to vote by secret ballot on various 2 1/2 override articles.

Please make an effort this Saturday to attend town meeting and ask your questions - it is your opportunity to see two sides of the issues and will better prepare you for the upcoming 2 1/2 override!

PSO supports budget

The PSO Executive Board unanimously voted to support the 1989-90 school budget as presented by the school committee.

We encourage all parents to attend Town Meeting on Saturday, April 1, to show their support for the school budget by voting "yes" on Article #4. The Advisory Committee has unanimously recommended the school budget as presented.

Please come to Town Meeting and show your support for the school budget so the quality of education we have in Cohasset will continue.

Babysitting will be available at the Cohasset High School Early Child Care room for $3 per child for the morning session.

Please call Martha Equi 383-0461 for reservations. Please send lunch and a drink with your child.

Remember Town Meeting, April 1, 10 a.m. Cohasset High School Gymnasium.

Come and show support for the school budget!

Wrong warrant number

In a letter written last week by the Cohasset Animal Shelter Study Committee, the members urged support of an article which will permit the town to secede from the county animal control division, and allow Cohasset to set our own license fees from which we will collect the profit.

The committee referred to the article as number 66 in the town meeting warrant. The members were unaware that the number of the warrant article has been changed to 60.

School board candidates oppose closing Osgood

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

The impact of Proposition 2 1/2 was the main topic of conversation during a debate between the three candidates for school committee.

Incumbent C. Christopher Ford, Ralph D. Kidder, and H. Edward Brennock agreed that an override is necessary to continue the tradition of quality education in Cohasset.

The informal debate was telecast live on community cable channel 3. The broadcast will be repeated April 6 before the municipal election on April 8.

The candidates were asked where cuts could be made in the school budget if the override of Proposition 2 1/2 fails.

"It's safe to say that if $400,000 is cut, no area will be left untouched," candidate Ford answered. "There will be layoffs, reduced academic and athletic programs and higher class sizes."

Candidate Kidder explained that of the nine percent school budget increase proposed for next year, 2.4 percent will go to state-mandated special education programs. If $400,000 is cut, classroom teachers will be affected, he said.

And candidate Brennock said that although class sizes with about 20 students is considered ideal, it depends on the type of class - the subject being taught and the teacher.

All three candidates said they would oppose closing the Osgood School as a way of reducing the budget next year.

"It's not feasible to close a school this year," answered Kidder. A member of the school's strategic planning committee this year, Kidder said use of school facilities "is something the school committee should look at, but it is not a short term solution. It will become an increasing issue in the future."

Brennock, a lifelong resident of Cohasset, explained that there is no mortgage on the school buildings and that the cost is only in maintenance and upkeep. He noted that the Osgood provides a natural starting point for Cohasset students. There is currently no room at the high school to accommodate another grade there, Brennock added.

For a lot of reasons, many of them sentimental, Ford said he would oppose closing down the Osgood School. "It's a special, unique school," he said. In addition, Ford said future enrollment is not decreasing as in past years. He called the closing "not economically feasible at this time."

The candidates were then asked how they will convince voters to support an override for the town's operating budget.

"Two and a-half is an artificial figure we are burdened with," Ford replied. "Teachers' salaries are going up six percent, and that's 80 percent of our budget. We can't deny them a cost of living increase. How do we do that without an override? Five and a-half is the norm."

Brennock noted there was never a "trauma" about passing the school budget along with the town's operating budget until the passage of Proposition 2 1/2. Although an original proponent of the legislature, he acknowledged that "it's almost impossible to provide the services that the town demands within the confines of 2 1/2."

Kidder, a controller for Wedgestone Financial, displayed a graph he designed, outlining the effect of reduced state and federal aid to the town. The burden now falls to the local property taxes, he said. The school committee must find new and innovative resources available to fund education.

Ford noted that when the advisory committee initially reviewed next year's proposed budget, they expected to find areas where cuts could be made. At the end of the review, they admitted there was no fat in the school budget, he stated.

"Frankly,I'm embarassed by this budget," he admitted. "We're an affluent town. We should afford things like a curriculum coordinator but each year we reject the 'frills.'"

Regarding the option of regionalizing the Cohasset school system, Brennock said it may be economically feasible to join athletic teams with a neighboring town, or move a specialist staff member from one school to another. "It's something to definitely look into," he said.

Kidder acknowledged that Cohasset must be a leader in providing innovation in education. The school committee must look for ways in which regionalization would help the local system. In answer to another question, Kidder said the town long ago adopted the philosophy to provide a comprehensive high school facility. Educationally, he said, it still makes sense to provide students with the greatest diversity of programs. "If we look at less than comprehensive, then we are damaging the education of our children," he added.

Candidate Brennock agreed that the schools should provide each child with basic educational skills, along with with vocational skills. "To cut industrial arts (from the high school, is saying we don't think it's important. That's sad," he commented.

When asked how the schools can maintain their quality reputation when budgets are level-funded each year, Brennck replied that Cohasset consistently attracts and keeps high quality teachers. "We're bound to be a drawing card when Cohasset can attract the teachers that it does," he stated.

Kidder noted that if the community allows the perception to develop that Cohasset schools are on a downhill slide, "we will not enjoy the reputation we once had." In order for Cohasset to maintain its reputation for fine schools, it will require a measure of public relations and innovative programs. Those programs could include junior achievement and service clubs - events that visibly demonstrate the good programs in the Cohasset schools, he said.

Ford, owner/broker of Hallmark 100 Properties, has noticed families "taking a hard look" at Cohasset schools before purchasing a home in the community. And ocassionally a family will reject that home for another in Weston or some other community that enjoys the reputation of a fine school system, he said. "It (the public school system) does impact on the greatest financial asset people have," he said. "They are endangering that asset if we bankrupt our schools."

If re-elected to the school committee, Ford said he would prefer being less "reactive and more responsive" to problems facing the schools in Cohasset.

Selectmen hire contractor for harbor dredging

Selectmen took the following action at their meeting Monday night, March 20, at Town Hall:

*Agreed to black out the parking lines in front of the garage at the home of Kathy and Linton Young, 31 Highland Ave., next to Town Hall.

Cars parked in front of the garage are impeding the Youngs from gaining access to their property.

The line of parked cars will also be moved back to the curb at the Young's property.

*Authorized chairman Burt Pratt to sign an agreement with a contractor for dredging of the channel in 1991.

Executive secretary Greg Doyon said that the board had agreed on a dredging contractor, but the agreement was no longer valid.

Selectman Rocco Laugelle suggested that state and federal funds be sought for the project.

Candidate Kidder agreed, outlining a four-point plan he has developed for the schools: ensuring the wise use of scarce resources; expanding the non-tax resource base of the schools through such things as private endowments; rewarding excellence and creating incentives for teachers, and creating a bond between the home, school and businesses.

Brennock, a communications technician with New England Telephone, said he would prefer to wait until his three-year term on the committee is completed before discussing specific goals he hoped to accomplish.

Ten store complex planned

The Roland Leary Company consulted planning board members Monday night on a plan for a 10-store complex to be built at 673 Washington St.

Bylaw interpretations require the company to provide 80 parking spaces for the one-story complex planned for dry goods stores and offices. According to the Leary Company, the site cannot hold 80 spaces as well as the necessary buffer zone. They want to use an abutting residential lot as a buffer zone for the site.

Town Counsel David Nagle advised the planning board that residential property cannot be part of site plans because the zoning lines distinguish between the two types of lots. It is a zoning violation to use residential property for commercial development.

The site is designed for 200 feet of frontage, in addition to the state-required 40-foot entry.

Planning board members suggested reducing the size of the building.

"If the parking area can't accommodate the number of customers, it won't serve the business," said Marjorie Abbott, chairman.

If approved, the complex, located in the aquifer protection district, would be the fourth development along that section of Route 53.

In other area planning board business, the Hanover segment of the Steeple Hill project was approved by the board. The major part of the site is located in Norwell at Webster Street and Route 53 in Assinippi.

The Town of Norwell has suggested changes in parking and grading on the site. They will also review traffic plans and the environmental impact of the proposed project.

Selectmen candidates debate override and housing

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

The candidates for selectmen spoke briefly at last week's debate on a variety of local issues including the upcoming budget overrides, communication between town boards, and the need for affordable housing within the town.

The debate was sponsored by Continental Cablevision and was broadcast live March 23 on channel 3. It will be aired again on April 6.

The panel discussion featured the five candidates who are campaigning for two; three-year terms on the board. They are incumbent James Gallagher, and Charles Kane, Diana Kornet, Richard Barrow and Edwin "Ned" Tebbetts.

When asked if he supports a Proposition 2 1/2 override for the town's general operating budget, Gallagher answered affirmatively. When asked how he would explain that position to a person on a fixed income, Gallagher acknowledged the override would amount to a 'big problem" for those taxpayers. "I expect taxes will go up similar to what they went up in last year's override. But sometimes a $400 or $500 increase is a week's pay for someone, and they have to scrimp and save for that amount of money," Gallagher said.

"I remember when we voted for a Prop. 2 1/2 override eight years ago and the town budget was cut by five percent. We still sruvived," he continued. "I say don't be afraid to say no (to an override). Don't say yes to satisfy other people. There are some articles we don't need, and some we do. Get all your info before you vote."

Candidate Kornet, a ten-year member of the school committee, said she favored the general budget override. "The question is , how big will that override be," she stated, noting that more people should attend town meeting to vote on the override issues. Regarding voters on fixed incomes, Kornet said they also have a voice in the kinds of services the town provides. "But if they don't carefully consider what they are voting, there will be a severe cut in services," she said, noting that an override is needed simply to provide the same level of services. "Because education takes about one-half of our budget, it's easy to say 'let's hack it." But I think it's very naive and shortsighted of those people. The education of the our young is what the future of this community is based on."

Candidate Barrow, a 34-year veteran of the police department, said until he has studied the override proposals more closely, he would not advise anyone on the issue. "I believe people should vote on the facts. I don't have those facts yet," Barrow stated, acknowledging that at this time, he would likely vote against an override.

Tebbetts, a self-employed investment counselor, said he supports the override. "The question is either yes or no, and if not, there will be substantial cutbacks in the school department and town hall," he said. Regarding the separate capital outlay override proposals, Tebbetts said the capital outlay committee, of which he is chairman, will oppose them or suggest delays in the expenditures.

The candidate said the lack of affordable housing will likely have a greater impact on the senior citizens of Cohasset. He encouraged selectmen to take the initiative to implement more housing like the complex at 61 Elm Street.

Candidate Kane, owner of two South Shore restaurants, said he supports the override. With the "miracle of Massachusetts" gone and state revenues decreasing to cities and towns, "we're going to be hit with it" in the coming fiscal year, he said. Despite the financial crisis, residents of Cohasset owe it to the children to support the educational system, Kane added.

In the future, Kane said he would like to see closer communication between the selectmen and the school committee during the preparation of their budgets.

The candidates were asked if they would look into implementing a volunteer fire department as a method of reducing the town's operating budget.

Candidate Kornet said the town is currently bound by a three-year contract, but she acknowledged that many towns the size of Cohasset have volunteer departments. In light of a $700,000 proposal to renovate the police and fire station, Kornet said a volunteer system may be something to consider in the future.

Barrow said regionalization of the department is "probably the only solution" the town has to reducing the department's budget. He said it would be difficult to provide modern service with a call department, and noted that regionalization of equipment and the ambulance may be the best way to cut costs.

Tebbetts noted that the fire department budget is 25 percent higher than the previous year. Part of that increase is the rising cost of pension benefits which is sometimes greater than the cost of the firefighter's salary. Tebbetts warned about adding more men to the department because of the increased benefits costs.

Kane wholeheartedly disapporved the notion of a volunteer call fire department. "I feel as we are going into the 90's this would be going backwards," he stated. Kane recommended regional or tri-town planning and purchasing for the fire department and other town budgets.

Gallagher supports the current fire department, and would be opposed to any attempt to create a volunteer system. He noted that response time by the firefighters may mean life or death, and call firefighters could not respond more quickly than the current staff. He noted that overtime in the department, caused by injuries and a death of a firefighter this year, would likely be reduced in the next fiscal year.

Regarding the issue of affordable housing, Tebbetts blamed selectmen for "dragging their feet for some time." In addition to the legal requirement that Cohasset provide affordable housing, Tebbetts pointed to the moral aspect of the argument. "We have a moral obligation to provide housing to the senior citizens and the people in their 20's and 30's," he said. The candidate explained that affordable housing provides units for working people "so we are merely trying to help the people in need of our help," he said.

Kane noted that developers who come into Cohasset to build affordable housing via the comprehensive permit method, should be obliged to "pay the bill for it. The state is not giving us the money, it is giving it to the developers," he stated. Kane said he was in favor of affordable housing, but the town should maintain some control over the development of it.

Gallagher, who said he was instrumental in drafting the town's housing agreement with the state two years ago, took issue with Tebbetts' "foot-dragging" remark. He said selectmen have supported every affordable housing project before them, except for Crystal Woods. Had that developer provided ample time to explain his project to Cohasset residents and officials, Gallagher said selectmen would likely have supported the project.

Candidate Kornet noted, "if the town does not take an interest in providing affordable housing, we'll really be up a creek. I don't like it at all when big developers come in and they don't have to go by our local rules." She said greater cooperation between town boards is necessary so the town will meet its housing obligations.

Barrow said the state has mandated that Cohasset provide a certain percentage of housing for low and moderate income families, and the town has no other choice but to comply.

Rattenbury announces

In his recent announcement for his candidacy for Sewer Commissioner, Henry Rattenbury presented his campaign committee and discussed his reasons for running for office.

Rattenbury made it clear that he was running for the present Sewer Commission and not against it; that he supports the Sewer Commission's efforts to expand the present Waste Water Treatment Plant, and to extend sewer service into the Hillside Veterans and Harbor areas of town (the Ward Sewer Service Plan). He has been interested in Cohasset sewering since the early 1980's and served as an active member of the Citizens Sewer Advisory Committee. He endorses contract operation of the compliance of BOD and SS effluent standards while operating odor free. He favors continuation of this contract. He notes that the plant performance now ranks as one of the best in the state. Rattenbury states that this is a remarkable turn around from the pre-contract days when the plant's effluent BOD and SS readings were invariably in violation of its discharge permit. Additionally, he stands ready to assist the town in its defense against a $2,500,000 law suit filed by a former sewer department employee, a suit whose outcome could have a significant financial impact on our town's finances.

Rattenbury moved to Cohasset at age 13 in 1949. He is a 1954 graduate of Archbishop Williams High School, US Navy Machinist Mate School, and the Jack Conway Real Estate Management Course. After three years in the Navy, he attended Northeastern's civil engineering program at night for two years and took courses at Newbury Junior College while working as a material expediter at the Bethlehem Steel Quincy Shipyard. After the demise of the shipyard, Rattenbury worked as a union carpenter, worked a brief stint with the IRS and then joined the Postal Service where he is presently employed. In 1962, he and his father built his home at 1 Briarwood Lane where he and his wife Yvette raised their four children. Always busy, Rattenbury has found time to manage his local real estate property since 1970. He is a former member of the Lions club and is a member of the Gerge H. Mealy American Legion Post.

Tebbetts urges voter turnout

Ned Tebbetts, as a candidate for selectman, has continued to stress the importance of a large voter turn-out for the Cohasset town meeting on April 1.

Tebbetts has spoken during the campaign about the many issues, which will determine whether the town will need to consider various Proposition 2½ overrides on a special ballot on Saturday, May 6.

Tebbetts believes the town meeting offers citizens an important opportunity to express approval or disapproval of major warrant articles. Any items that will need to be considered for Proposition 2½ override votes on May 6 will be determined by actions taken at the town meeting.

Tebbetts also encourages those citizens who will be away for the town election on April 8 to vote absentee during the week of April 3. Absentee voting takes place at the Town Hall, Town Clerk's Office on Monday through Friday and on Thursday evening until 8 p.m.

Candidate Tebbetts will be available for questions or comments at an Open House this Friday, March 31 at 7 p.m. at the Legion Hall on the harbor. All citizens are invited to participate.

Pat Laugelle may be called at 383-1737 for information.

Coffee hour for Diana Kornet

A coffee will be held at the home of George and Joan Kovach, 59 Ripley Road, Sunday, April 2, from 3 to 5 p.m. for selectman candidate Diana Kornet. Come voice your opinions on issues raised at Town Meeting, or discuss specific warrant articles. The public is invited. Come by after the Road Race, in your running or cheering gear!

Supporters of Kornet for selectman — including three generations of Cohasset residents, several newcomers to town, a teenager home on spring break, and a devoted grandmother — met at the home of Sue McNamara on Fairoaks Lane on Monday, March 27. The objective of the gathering was to prepare a mailing for over 4900 Cohasset voters. The campaign committee estimated that the task would take most of the day; however, with the enthusiastic drop-in assistance of so many, the chore was accomplished by midday.

This diverse gathering of volunteers who took time out from their personal and professional lives expressed their views and support for Kornet as Selectman. School Committee member Nancy Sandell, who has worked closely with the candidate, comments, "I admire her ability to deal with emotional and controversial issues rationally and intelligently. She has brought the qualities of fairness, understanding, refinement, and dignity to her position as Chairman of the School Committee. Our town would be proud to have this proven leader as Selectman."

Sue McNamara concurs. "Having worked with Diana on the Strategic Planning Committee for the Schools, I have seen her ability to identify and articulate problems, her willingness to consider creative options, and her talent in bringing together various people needed to solve problems. I am impressed with her skill as a facilitator, her experience in collective bargaining, and her boundless energy."

Says Anne Sexton, who is relatively new to town, "We moved to Cohasset from Fairfield County, Connecticut, where our public schools have earned national recognition. We looked all over Massachusetts and chose Cohasset because of the quality of life and the public school education it offered. I think Diana Kornet has the qualifications and ability to help protect the quality of our schools, our lifestyle, and our investments in our homes."

Selectmen's administrator to leave for Hingham

Selectmen accepted with "deep regret" Monday night the resignation of administrative coordinator Janet Chalke after five years with the board.

Chalke has accepted a position as administrative assistant to the Hingham Selectmen. She will start at the beginning of May.

"It's been a pleasure for me to work with Janet," said executive secretary Greg Doyon.

He said that her last day at town hall will be April 21.

But with three weeks vacation and 40 hours comp time, her actual last day will be May 24, according to Doyon."

"Congratulations on your new venture," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"I wish you well there."

Doyon said the department will have to move quickly to find a replacement for Chalke.

"I feel this is a pretty small organization," continued Doyon,"and I suggest reclassifying the position to administrative secretary.

"It's one grade below the current schedule.

"It would be comparable to the position at the board of health."

Doyon also said the town is not competitive with other communities in the salaries it is offering.

He said he would like to talk to the personnel board about hiring the new secretary above the minimum rate.

"In the past, they haven't been too happy to do that," noted selectmen chairman Burt Pratt.

According to Doyon, the pay scale for administrative coordinator is $364-$496, for administrative secretary, $338-459.

Selectman Cliff Mitman asked if the move to reclassify the position might be "penny wise and pound foolish."

"If you think you can get by with a downgraded position, fine, but I'm just a little bit concerned."

Selectman Martha Gjesteby said,"We ought to go along with Greg's judgement.

"We hired him for his good judgement."

Chalke suggested that the board might have to go to town meeting to reclassify the position.

Fabric painting workshop

Cohasset Community Center will offer a Fabric Painting Workshop on Wednesday, April 12 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Using simple techniques with no sewing required, students will learn to use fabric painting, applique, and application of stones, sequins, studs and other trims to turn plain T-shirts, sweatshirts, jerseys and even shoes into trendy boutique creations. No artistic ability is necessary.

Students are required to bring a light-colored sweatshirt or T-shirt, sharp scissors, a clothes hanger and a shallow box for transporting the finished product until dry.

For further information, call the Cohasset Community Center at 383-0088.

How To Piece Together An IRA Based On The Tax Laws.

If you're married and your combined adjusted gross income is less than $40,000, your IRA contribution is fully tax-deductible.

Even after you begin withdrawing from your IRA, your account will continue to earn interest, tax deferred, until the account is depleted.

If you receive a qualifying pension distribution, you can defer the taxes by investing the sum in an IRA.

If you're single and your adjusted gross income is less than $25,000, your IRA contribution is fully tax-deductible.

Contrary to popular belief, you don't need $2,000 to open an IRA account. In fact, you can open up an IRA account at Quincy Savings Bank with as little as $10!

An IRA's accumulated interest is sheltered from taxation until you begin making withdrawals after age 59½.

A lot of people think that the tax laws prevent them from deducting IRAs on their taxes. They couldn't be more wrong! In fact, most taxpayers are still eligible to write off all or part of their IRA contributions as a tax deduction. At Quincy Savings Bank, we can show you how to put together an IRA that will allow your retirement fund to grow quickly, and in turn, shelter it from taxation. So if you're interested in making the most of your retirement fund, stop by your nearest Quincy Savings Bank office. And get a piece of the action.

Cohasset library story hours

A spring story hour series for children 3½ to 5 years will begin April 27 in the children's room of the Paul Pratt Memorial Library.

Sessions will be offered at 10 a.m. on Thursday or Friday, with an additional session on Thursday at 1:30 p.m. for children age 5 and over.

The story hours series will last six weeks. Each 45-minute program will consist of several picture book stories and simple fingerplays, songs, and crafts.

Registration for the story hours will take place April 13, 14, and 15. Parents may register their child by stopping at the children's room, or by calling the children's librarians at 383-1348.

Historical society dinner

The Cohasset Historical Society will hold its annual spring dinner meeting Thursday, April 13, at the Unitarian Parish House hall.

A catered dinner will be preceeded by a social hour at 6 p.m., with dinner at 6:30. Caterer for the event is Jessica.

Following dinner there will be a special evening program will be titled "The Road to Jerusalem." This presentation, presented by Society members using materials from the Society's own archives, will trace the history of Cohasset's Jerusalem Road, one of the most popular shoreline drives of the New England coast.

This ancient highway existed even before the first farms and homesteads were built in 17th century "Conyhafset" and is shown on the 1670 Joshua Fisher map of the original land divisions of Hingham's easternmost section. An early settlement at the westernmost end of the way, called "Jerusalem," gave its name to the ancient road which followed the shoreline between Hingham and the marshes and meadows of Conyhafset. In the 19th century Jerusalem Road was the abode of a summer colony made up mainly of wealthy Bostonians. Summer lodging places abounded along Cohasset's shore, and by mid-century the first large summer estates, or "cottages" were appearing along the length of Jerusalem Road. The history of this unique ancient highway will be presented in picture and word at the Society's special spring program.

For the April 13 dinner, reservations are $12 per person, and may be sent to the Cohasset Historical Society, 14 Summer Street, Cohasset, MA 02025, or may be dropped off in the brass mail recepticle in the door at Society headquarters.

Conservatory concert April 2

Sunday, April 2 at 7 p.m., the South Shore Conservatory will present the 6th concert by The Fort Hill Chamber Ensemble.

These programs feature the faculty of the Conservatory in various instrumental combinations. There are no tickets, but a donation of $5, at the door, is suggested for adults. The program will be in Cox Hall at the Conservatory, off 19 Fort Hill Street in Hingham.

Clarinetist, David Cross and pianist, Anne Tyson, will perform Five Bagatelles by English composer, Gerald Finzi. A bagatelle is a short piece, or as David Cross describes it, "a musicial tidbit." These pieces have the feeling of folk music and give one the sense of a trip through the English countryside.

The major work will be the Horn Trio in Eb by Brahms, and it will feature: Elsa Miller, violin; Ellen Donohue Saltman, french horn; and Anne Tyson, piano. Flutist Phyllis Aronson will join David Cross in several duets in spanish music to end the program.

Warrant article review on cable

There will be a live forum and discussion reviewing articles in town warrant for the Annual Town Meeting in Cohasset on Cable Channel 3 from 8 to 9:30 p.m. next Thursday, March 20.

Participating in the discussion will be Board of Selectmen Chairman Burtram Pratt, School Committee Vice Chairman Barbara Bliss, Advisory Committee Chairman Jane Goedoecke, and Town Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon.

Wigmore Pierson, host of "Cohasset Talks: Pierson to Person" wil lead the discussion.

The public is invited to telephone questions to the participants "live" on the air and join the studio audience.

Persons wishing to see the show should make reservations by calling Robert Belliveau, Continental Cablevision, 545-0643.

All warrant articles to require override

$900,000 if a number of items are included, such as the reserve fund appropriation, salaries for non union town employees, and a police contract if negotiations are completed. If town meeting approves that figure, the total will be included in a general override question on the May 6 ballot.

The advisory committee, Goedecke explained, supports the proposed $12.7 million budget, with the understanding there are some areas which can not be reduced.

"It doesn't leave us with too much leeway," she stated, "because we can't reduce things such as health insurance, pensions, and contractual arrangements with the fire department because minimum manning is included in the contract. We can reduce such things as teachers and police officers. But there are items such as special education tuition and transportation in the school budget that are state mandated, and cannot be taken out of the budget."

The entire town budget, excluding the schools, has increased 14 percent over the current year's budget. But included in that increase is a $56,000 hike in pensions and $266,000 more for health insurance.The fire department contract calls for a $180,000 increase over this year. The school department budget, which will increase by nine percent next year, also includes a 60 percent increase in special eduaction tutition and transportations costs, and a five percent salary hike.

Town meeting will vote to authorize the budget appropriation, and the May 6 special town election will also vote on the requests. If the ballot fails, town meeting will be reconvened and the votes will be rescinded and a lesser amount will be appropriated.

"If you support a democratic form of government, then town meeting is the appropriate body and the appropriate place for cuts in the town budget to be made.

"We (the advisory committee) have approved the money needed to run this town, but the voters are the one to decide the amounts. If they do not agree, then the budgets are reduced," according to the chairman. Yet, Goedecke believes town meeting is not the place for voters to begin their disection of the proposed budgets. Voters should feel free to recommend cuts or additions to the budgets, yet town meeting is not the forum for the entire budget review to begin.

"We're opposed to opening the budget at town meeting. We have done our job as we were appointed to do. We took the time with our experience and expertise, and we firmly believe the budget is as tight as it can be given this level of service for the town," she continued. "To scrutinize it to see if it is efficient - we would oppose that."

The advisory committee chairman noted, "This is a lean budget we're presenting to the town. There is no increase in the level of services - the items that have driven the budget up are fixed costs - costs the advisory committee can't control because they involve labor contracts."

The members of the advisory committee, she noted, are not the ones who decide what level of service the town can afford. She believes it is not within the committee's authority to present "alternative" budgets to the town - budgets that do not require an override.

"If we saw that the town was $100,000 short right now, we'd attempt to find that money without an override. But the fact is, we can't find $900,000 without an override. It's up to the town, not the advisory committee, to decide what they want from their town."

For instance, advisory committee members should not be the ones who order the school committee to cut eight percent from its budget, she stated. But if that is the wish of town meeting, the advisory committee would certainly help to determine what cuts could be made with the least amount of harm to the schools.

There is something one should keep in mind at Saturday's town meeting, Goedecke warned. If the budget is opened for public scrutiny by one voter who wishes to reduce the budget in a specific area, the entire budget is open for inspection and may be sliced in other areas as well.

In addition to the general budget override, voters will be asked to fund several separate items that will require debt exclusion overrides or capital outlay exclusion overrides. It will be up to selectmen to decide what form the override election ballot will take, but it will likely include such items as the police and fire station renovations, school bus purchases, repair of the Osgood School roof, and Milliken Field renovations.

"People should understand that for every article they approve, they must be willing to pay higher taxes," Goedecke said. If calculated at 18 cents per every $100,000 appropriation, the town's general operating budget plus a few additional items, will increase the tax rate by about $1.62. The various debt exclusion and capital outlay exclusion articles will add to that rate.

The advisory committee supports the $700,000 police and fire station renovations, saying the plans have been significantly reduced since the proposal was originated last year. Many of the changes proposed in the current plan are required by law and delaying them further will only cause more cost increases.

The newly-revised Milliken Field renovations are also supported by the advisory committee. The $280,000 plan will result in basic playing fields for the town, while also addressing the drainage problems.

The committee supports the five percent wage increase for non union town employees, and they approve the proposed sewer rate hike which will decrease the town's subsidy of the sewer system from 80 percent to 50 percent.

State approval for Cohasset Heights expansion . . .

was adequate and there was no evidence presented which determined an on-site system was preferable.

In addition, the state noted that a Camp, Dresser and McKee preliminary study which was commissioned by the health board, had found "that Lily Pond (the town's drinking water supply) was not now threatened by the landfill."

However, the state added, "the continued expeditious disposal of the leachate and contaminated groundwater at the landfill is an essential part of the Department's plan approval." Therefore, DEQE required that Cohasset Heights provide assurance it will be able to afford to meet its off-site leachate disposal commitments.

The health board and the trustees also argued that DEQE has allowed Cohasset Heights to contaminate the groundwater into Whitney Woods. DEQE replied that the state's solid waste regulations do not require them to monitor the level of volatile organic compounds. However, the state noted in its findings while the level of the compounds is "higher than desirable," they are not a threat to "large-scale environmental degradation. The areas of the (Whitney Woods) with elevated levels of VOC's are not currently used by people in a way that is likely to make the VOC's imminently dangerous to human health.."

The monitoring wells currently in place will allow CHL and the state to notice any change in those levels, the state noted. DEQE required as part of its expansion approval that Cohasset Heights submit quarterly reports on the monitoring of the volatile organic compounds.

The state also listed a number of regulations that must be met regarding the installation of a liner in the expansion area. In addition, the state modified its approval by requiring a comprehensive erosion control plan for Cohasset Heights which must be submitted within 60 days.

And finally, in order to assure the continuation of the erosion control plan, the state has required that Cohasset establish an escrow account of $10,000 to cover on-going maintenance and replacement costs of the erosion control structures and all maintenance operations. In addition, the state is requiring Cohasset Heights to immediately repair an area around the sedimentation pond before expansion in Area 4A is allowed.

Barry, an owner of Cohasset Heights, said the conditions outlined in the March 10 decision are "fairly reasonable" and the company intends to comply.

"We feel we're entitled to the expansion. We've worked hard to comply with all the regulations," he said. Barry's brother, John, a co-owner and the financial manager of the business, is confident they can meet all the financial requirements established by the state.

The landfill is allowed to accept 299 tons per day of demolition debris. At that rate, Barry estimated, Area 4A will add an extra two to three years of life to the facility.

State cites town dump . . .

number of violations, including poor spreading and compaction, numerous leachate seeps and discharges into wetlands and groundwater, and inadequate disposal of waste and salvageable materials.

Another inspection in September, 1987, revealed the same conditions and in December of that year DEQE levied the fine against the town.

The last inspection, resulting in the latest fine, was made in January. At that time the inspection revealed unsuitable measures to minimize scattering of refuse, the operator was not spreading and compacting the refuse, six inches of uniform compacted materials was not being placed on all expose refuse, conditions at the site could attract rodents and insects because of improper cover, and the brush disposal area was not operated with a proper site assisgnment.

In addition there were leaf and yard waste composting violations, and there was a pile-up of materials at the recycling center.

"I think the big thing we've done since the penalty in 1987 has been to hire Resource Control to begin a hydrogeological study. That was finished in September," Becker noted. "We gave it to DEQE because we needed to hear from them before we implement a leachate control system. But we haven't heard back from them."

The state is aware that Cohasset is awaiting implementation of a new transfer station at the landfill. But that was overlooked in the inspection report, she said.

There are a number of things Cohasset has accomplished since the January inspection, she noted. The brush pile has been a continual problem for the local landfill, although the amounts are gradually disintegrating, Beck stated.

The scattering of refuse from the landfill is a continual problem for the town, she explained. Trash bags are often improperly tied and on windy days the refuse travels to the adjacent residences. And although the landfill now requires all trash to be contained within a secured bag, not all residents comply, Becker added.

The town now mandates recycling of all aluminum, glass, newspapers and yard waste. More is being done by the health board to step up the recycling program, Becker said, including an event April 29 and 30 when health board members will be at the landfill to hand out recycling decals and to explain the methods which will be used at the new transfer station/ recycling facility.

The state has given the health board 30 days to comply with the state code. But that compliance order will be on hold while the town files for an appeal of the findings.

Cohasset senior shuttle back on track . . .

week when the Council on Aging was presented with a brand new eight-passenger van purchased through the generosity of the Cohasset taxpayers and the local Rotary Club.

Town meeting first approved the concept of a senior shuttle service in 1974, and a leased vehicle was rented through Cohasset Ford. When the dealership closed, the local Rotary Club stepped in with the purchase of the van.

In 1986 when the senior center opened in Cohasset, the Council on Aging felt it was time to replace the shuttle vehicle. Town meeting approved a $9,000 appropriation and once again, Rotary came to the rescue with a donation of $2,500.

Everything was fine, but with a bout of torridly hot weather last summer, the vounteer drivers thought it was time to install air conditioning in the vehicle. Through donations, they raised $1,400 and the unit was installed in the vehicle. The fire occurred shortly thereafter and the van was considered a total loss.

Insurance on the van came to $9,000 and the December special town meeting agreed to pay the $7,000 purchase price difference.

"The Council on Aging was very pleased that selectmen, the advisory board and ultimately town meeting, supported the purchase and it passed overwhelmingly," Bryanton stated. "There was virtually no opposition."

There is air conditioning already installed in the new, longer vehicle with extra storage space in the rear. The fully automatic vehicle also includes extra lighting which will be handy when seniors are exiting the vehicle at night.

Now that everything is back in place, Bryanton is making a renewed pitch to attract more seniors to the free service. Right now there are 1,425 seniors in Cohasset. One-third are over 75 years and 50 are over the age of 90. "We have an older population in this town that is increasing," she explained.

"And what we want to do is introduce them to what we see is a flexible, door-to-door transportation system that is available to them free of charge."

A senior may use the shuttle service for a variety of reasons, she noted, including doctor's appointments, food shopping, a visit to town hall to pay taxes, a visit to a friend or a spouse in a local nursing home.

"Any request that is made we try to fulfill," Bryanton said. "We realize there is limited public transportation here, but we don't want seniors doing without, or only getting out of the house when a daughter, son or neighbor can take them."

One local woman, she noted, likes to go to the library once a week. Her weekly visits to the Paul Pratt Library make her feel independent, according to Bryanton.

There are also regularly-scheduled shuttle trips which are available to the local seniors. They include travels to various health clinics, to the Social Service League food distributions, to the 60-plus club meetings, "mystery trips" on Wednesday afternoons, or to the Boston museums. The shuttle travels to the Braintree mall once a month, to Hanover twice a month, and with the new van in serice, trips to the Marhfield/Pembroke Plaza and the Hingham Plaza will now be reinstated.

"One thing we do in Cohasset that other towns do not, is to take seniors to church services on Sunday," the director explained.

What is truly miraculous to the senior center director is the numbers of shuttle driver volunteers and their complete devotion to the service.

Headed by Ray Remick, who receives Bryanton's constant praise, is a staff of 117 volunteers. Remick does all the recruiting himself, and completes a two-month shuttle schedule. "Somehow he knows what days are good for some people, and what days are not. He makes all the changes to that schedule himself," the director said in amazement. "No stone is left unturned." No other town operates its entire senior shuttle on a voluntary basis like Cohasset.

Drivers are called upon an average of three hours per month. "It's not an enormous commitment because of the numbers of people Ray has recruited to the program," Bryanton stated. And in case of emeregency, there is always a back-up driver available.

"In the three years I've been here, we've never had a driver not show up," she added. "They are the kindest, most generous group of people I've known in all my life."

If a senior has a problem walking down stairs, the drivers show up early at the home to assist him, she said. "We have drivers who visit the elderly when they're sick. They keep in touch with these people, because they care. We had one woman driver who took all her passengers out for sundaes after their shopping trip to the mall. And when one of the drivers was hospitalized recently, I had all the other drivers popping in here and asking how she was doing and what they could do to help out."

Bryanton added, "They're like a piece of fabric very tightly woven. There's a sense of caring that makes them so unique. I really believe the drivers care as much about the people they are serving as their own family."

The shuttle service operates Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to noon, and 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Anyone who would like more information or would like to request the shuttle service, call Marguerite Ritterhaus at the senior center, 383-9112.

Voters agree to smaller version of Milliken . . .

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

A proposal to expand and renovate the town's athletic fields received overwhelming support Tuesday night - a far cry from the reaction of voters to last year's more expensive proposal.

This year's version of the Milliken Field renovation plan will cost taxpayers $280,000, which will include expanding the playing areas between Milliken and Lillard fields to the size of four football fields. The plan will include an extensive drainage system and regrading for spectators areas, but an all-weather track included in last year's $1 million proposal has been eliminated this year.

Wayne Sawchuk, chairman of the study committee, said the members recently realized the great need for playing fields in town when 635 youngsters registered for the spring soccer program. "There isn't enough room for them now," he said.

The proposal will incorporate land given to the town from the Bancroft family, along with sections of water department and school department land needed to expand Milliken and Lillard into four acres of playing surface. The fields will be used by the school and town athletic organizations.

In addition, Sawchuk explained, some of the soil excavated from one area will be used to fill the spectator area around the fields. New drainage will be installed in the new playing field and in one-half of Milliken Field, and then connect into the existing drainage at Lillard.

(See page 32)

The second time was the charm for the police and fire station as voters this week approved $714,000 in renovations to the 27 year-old building.

Study committee chairman Barbara Moore presented a detailed analysis of how this year's committee viewed the numerous structural problems and attempted to resolve them in the most cost-effective way. Her argument was successful as only eight out of 236 voters opposed the proposal.

A $1.1 million renovation project presented to town meeting last year was defeated.

The project must now succeed at the May 6 special override election when voters authorize the appropriation by a debt exclusion override. According to Town Treasurer Elizabeth Ripley, the station renovations will cost the town about $128,000 the first year in principal and interest payments which will not begin until 1992. That will add about 22 cents to the tax rate that year. Once the entire debt is paid, the tax rate and the tax rate will not be affected.

The architects for the project, Strekalovsky and Holt, agreed to a resolution proposed by Max

Students swarm to new lacrosse team

Bill Modestino
Mariner correspondent

When the Cohasset High School boys' track team was dropped this spring, Deer Hill elementary principal Kenneth Ekberg felt there should be another sport to accommodate the laid-off students. As a member of the 1962 All-New England lacrosse team at UMass (Amherst), he wondered if his sport was the answer. He asked several high school students to circulate a petition around the town, indicating any interest in a new sport.

"I told some kids if they were interested in starting a new sport at Cohasset, then I had to get a petition going to find out if there were any takers. When I spoke to Clark (Chatterton, CHS Athletic Director), he just told me to wait until the spring. I decided if we for fewer than 20 signatures, we would not pursue it any further. Lo

Override budget okayed by voters

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

A proposition 2 1/2 override of at least $807,000 will be needed after town meeting approved a fiscal 1990 budget of $12,444,527.69 Saturday, April 1.

The budget was approved, as were 6 percent salary increases for non-union workers and elected officials, during the first session of town meeting at Cohasset High School.

An override vote must also be approved at a special election May 6.

If it fails, the budget will be adjusted, or a new override figure computed, at a recessed town meeting May 31.

If the override passes, property taxes will go up about $1.45 for every $1,000 of assessed value.

In that case, the recessed town meeting will be closed May 31.

The original budget figure of $12,572,878.69 was reduced when group insurance costs came in at $671,500 rather than $800,601, but no other cuts were made Saturday.

"The advisory committee feels the budget is

Election results on cable TV

Cohasset Community Television Cable Channel 3 wil broadcast from Town Hall, live, the election results Saturday evening, April 8 at 7 p.m.

Cohasset Town Clerk Frances Marks will anounce the results which will be followed by a discussion about the winning candidates moderated by Pierson to Person host Wigmore Pierson.

Assurances from Murray

In telephone conversations last week with PSO Board members, Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray stated she had received over two hundred and seventy-five telephone calls and letters regarding the proposed state budget cut for the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Rep. Murray assured the PSO and her constituents that the budget for the Arts and Humanities will be reinstated, but not level-funded at $19 million. Because of the shortage of state revenue, the House Ways and Means Committee has voted to reinstate only half the amount formerly allocated to the Arts Council.

Rep. Murray thanked the PSO for advising her of their concern and said she was pleased to advocate for the reinstatement of the Council on the Arts which she had been instrumental in establishing.

Transfer station event

The Recycling Committee and Board of Health will hold a celebration to prepare for Cohasset's new transfer/recycling facility Saturday and Sunday, April 29 and 30, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the town landfill.

Residents will receive their recycling decal and guide, and meet with committee members.

The transfer/recycling facility is scheduled to open this summer.

Until that time, residents are asked to make sure that all non-recyclable trash is securely bagged to control the litter problem.

The 1988 annual town meeting unanimously passed a recycling by-law mandating that townspeople recycle paper, glass, aluminum, heavy metal and yard waste.

The regulation became effective July 1, 1988.

Recycling committee members are Arthur Lehr, chairman; Merle Brown, Jack Hubbard, Barbara Kern, Melvin Waldfogel, Alix White and David Bigley.

Health board members are Sharon Becker, chairman; William Baird, and Michael Sullivan.

Town meeting action

Town meeting took the following action at its first session Saturday, April 1, at Cohasset High School:

•Adopted a resolution thanking outgoing selectman Cliff Mitman for "his outstanding service".

•Adopted a resolution thanking the 200 men and women who volunteer to serve on committees, boards and commissions for the town.

•Approved an article to set aside $150,000 for a reserve fund.

•Approved an article to appropriate $2,000 for mosquito control.

•Approved articles to appropriate $22,625 and $44,763 for street resurfacing.

•Approved an article setting up a revolving fund for the deposit of fees collected by the board of health in connection with the delivery of septage, sludge and related waste to Upper Blackstone

They must be returned by Saturday, April 8.

Health insurance meeting

Selectmen executive secretary Greg Doyon has been invited to attend a meeting Friday, April 7, at 2 p.m. at Weymouth Town Hall on the prospect of reducing group health benefit costs.

"We are really excited about the prospect of reducing our group health benefits costs," Russell J. Connor, Jr., executive administrator wrote to Doyon.

"At our recent meeting on March 17, 1989 were discussed the possibility of establishing a joint purchase group.

"Your participation at that meeting and continued interest are appreciated."

Connor said that a consultant from insurance cost control will provide each community with a cost comparison analysis which will identify actual savings that can be expected, should the community choose to become part of the joint purchase.

In addition, he said, the group will discuss the prototype joint purchase contract distributed at the last meeting.

necessary to maintain the current level of service in town," said advisory chairman Jane Goedecke.

"We could have decided to cut $800,000 from the budget," said Goedecke.

"...But we don't feel it is our job to decide. It's your job.

"It's up to you to see if you want to pay for them (town services.)"

Henry Dormitzer of S. Main St. asked what action the advisory committee would recommend if the override fails.

Goedecke said the school committee has already given estimates of where it would cut its budget.

She said all other departments would be notified to prepare contingency budgets.

The cuts would be divided between the school and non-school side, according to Goedecke.

"I don't believe Prop. 2 1/2 was intended to ensure that towns never increased their taxes more than 2 1/2 percent," noted Goedecke.

"Voters can decide how much more they want to spend," she said.

Emmett Holt of Highland Ave. said,"It sounds like an all or nothing question.

"Could we possibly go to a lower level of override?"

"It's possible to go through as many iterations as you want," said Goedecke.

"But July 1, the new fiscal year starts."

"We could prepare a couple of scenarios.

"Then if a lower amount is voted on, we would set a date for another ballot to ratify that."

Goedecke added that the town will probably face more override votes in the future.

"I don't feel the time will be coming soon when we will not be faced with override questions in the near future," she said.

"We have to look for alternative sources of revenue."

She suggested such sources as user fees.

"We don't have the opportunity for large commercial or industrial growth, so our options are somewhat limited," she said.

"But we have to look for other options for revenue."

"I'd like the town to have some options at the next town meeting," said Holt.

Selectman chairman Burt Pratt invited anyone with ideas on ballot questions to talk with executive secretary Greg Doyon.

"We have a fiscal problem," said Don Massa of Atlantic Ave.

"We have decreased revenues and increased expenses.

"Inflation is going up a lot higher than 2 1/2 percent.

"With my own business, I don't have the luxury of saying I only get $12 million, but I want $13 million.

"The town should look hard at what goes on.

"It's up to us to respond.

"Everyone has to look at how they run their own budget."

School committee chairman Diana Kornet said that if the school department is asked to cut its budget by $400,000, that figure will increase to $500,000 to pay for unemployment for those it has to let go.

"It is not just teachers we would consider," she said.

"We could eliminate all transportation except for kids two miles or more from school.

"That's not what we think the town wants for service.

"We will favor a smaller teacher-pupil ratio rather than transportation."

Jackie Dormitzer of S. Main St. said "townspeople in general don't have enough information to make a decision."

"All we can do is one by one as the issues come up, address them," said advisory member Ray Kasperowicz.

"Everyone on this board is as frustrated as you are."

With regard to the pay issue, selectman Cliff Mitman made the motion to amend the article to include a 6 percent, rather than 5 percent raise for employees.

"It is the consensus of the board of selectmen that it is more appropriate to go with 6 percent than 5 percent," said Mitman.

The advisory committee and personnel board had recommended 5 percent."

"We think a 5 percent increase is equitable," said personnel chairman Charles Douglas, "and we continue to recommend it."

"We urge you to vote against 6 percent," agreed advisory member Christine Bassett.

Joseph Hamilton of Beechwood St. noted that in 1988, salaries increased by only 3 percent.

"Take care of your people first," said Hamilton, "amenities later."

After the 5 percent raise was amended to 6 percent, the article was passed unanimously.

and behold, the kids came back with 51 names, and that's how we got started," explained Eckberg. In the early 1970's Eckberg spent two years at Tufts University, followed by two years at Brandeis and one year at UMass- Amherst as varsity head coach.

Under the confines of MIAA (Mass. Interscholastic Athletic Association), the CHS lacrosse team will be recognized only as a club sport, not a varsity affiliation this spring. Each boy will pay $150 dollars to keep the sport afloat. Eckberg mentioned there are no cuts from the squad, thus everybody is given the opportunity to participate.

Last week, Ned Chase and Jimmy Reidy were named co-captains for the 1989 campaign.

"We are a young team with a mixture of Juniors, Sophomores and seventh and eighth graders. Our main goal is to go out there and enjoy the sport. Overall, I have been very satisfied with the way the program has grown. I just can't believe the amount of enthusiasm generated by the kids so far," said Eckberg.

All home games wil be played at Milliken Field. The first home game for the Skippers is slated for April 24 against Falmouth Academy).

The temperature is rising and the frozen athletic fields are thawing out, which means only one thing to the townspeople: the start of spring sports at Cohasset High School. But before tossing the first pitch, or serving the first ace or firing the starting gun, let's find out what varsity team has the talent to win the state title in June of who will be proclaiming the longstanding proverb 'wait 'till next year' through our annual spring preview.

BASEBALL

Coach: Bill Fallon, third year at Cohasset. Last year's record: 7-11.

Key performers: Mark Corkery (P/3B), Jeff Bryant (P/1B), Mike Ellinger (P/OF), Scott Flaherty (SS), Jay Staunton (2B), Jim Gallagher (CF), Brian Pompeo (C/OF), Linc Marsac (OF) and Chris Froio (C).

Outlook: After losing two of their top pitchers (Craig Mulcahy and Eric Daniels), Corkery, a senior, will be expected to carry the pitching load, Bryant, a senior, is the leading hitter (.250 last year), and he will also join Corkery in the stating rotation. Add freshman Evan Spencer to the staff as well.

Cohasset lost five skilled players (C, SS, CF and two starters) to graduation last year. Mike Ellinger, Scott Flaherty and Bryant are the only three returning starters for the Skippers.

Strengths: The middle infield is strong, with Flaherty and Staunton providing a steady balance; will hit and score a lot of runs.

Question Marks: Pitching. Bryant and Corkery must pitch well if the Skippers are to be strong.

Fallon: "We have many seniors and juniors but we are inexperienced in game situations. We have good hitting, but our pitching is our big question mark. If our pitching is good, we will be competitive. Norwell, East Bridgewater and Abington are the teams to beat in the South Shore league small schools division. It is going to be a tough league this spring."

Hoban given beer and wine license

Selectmen voted Monday night to grant a beer and wine license to James Hoban, owner of Cohasset Meat and Produce.

At a meeting prior to the start of Monday night's town meeting, selectmen voted 3-2 to give the license to the Cushing Plaza business. Selectmen James Gallagher, Burt Pratt and Rocco Laugelle supported the license. Selectmen Cliff Mitman and Martha Gjesteby opposed the motion, saying there was no "demonstrable need" shown by the applicant.

At a March 27 meeting of ther selectmen, Hoban requested the license, saying that many of his customers ask him for beer and wine.

He presented the board with a petition with the names of 500 people in favor of the license. Hoban stressed that he would be using only about eight feet of store space for the beer and wine.

"I'm not looking for a big display," he said.

"I just want to satisfy customers."

Executive secretary Greg Doyon noted that the town has five such licenses, three of which are taken.

Selectman Martha Gjesteby said that there is a beer and wine license near Cohasset Meat and Produce, and a pouring license at Papa Gino's.

"I don't see a problem granting the license," said selectman James Gallagher.

"It's not going to be a big display case."

Speaking in strong support of the license was Greg Jordan representing Cushing Plaza where the market is located.

"We are deeply concerned about the success of tenants in our shopping center,"he said.

"He (Hoban) has done great things for the center."

The opposition included George Peters, who with his son, Rick, owns Sea 'n Cheese at Cushing Plaza. The business has a beer and wine license.

Peters said that competition from the Stop & Shop with a large fish counter took 20 percent of his store's business.

"If we hadn't been so well situated, we probably would have gone out of business," he said.

"We're in the plaza to complement each other, not compete.

"If you put in another beer and wine license, that's going to be competition."

Sohier St. resident Robert Davenport noted that Bildner's, previously at the site of Cohasset Meat and Produce, had applied for a liquor license twice.

Davenport said the store was turned down because of the proximity to everything else.

"I don't think there is a viable reason to come in and try for this license now," he said.

Hoban responded that when Bildner's was turned down, the key word was need.

"People used to go to Central Market (in Cohasset Village)," he said.

The market has since closed, and the liquor license was revoked.

Hoban had applied for such a license, but was turned down by selectmen who had no other licenses to give.

"I didn't apply when I first opened," Hoban said.

"I waited to see what happened with Central Market's license."

Hoban said his customers want wine with gourmet food.

"I can't say how long I will be there without a beer and wine license," he said.

Peters conceded that Hoban is doing "a pretty good job".

"But I don't think we need any more licenses," he said.

Selectman Rocco Laugelle said, "I can't believe the owner of the plaza is coming in here and saying to put another beer and wine license in."

Jordan responded that the beer and wine licenses would be incidental to the stores.

"He (Hoban) has a grocery store," said Jordan.

"The Peters have a fish store."

"We're looking to generate new activity,"he said.

Laugelle said he voted against the license for Bildner's.

"But this is an entirely different situation," he said.

"Jim is a resident of town, he has a wife and five children.

"To me, he intends to stay here."

"I'm not looking to hurt him (Peters)," said Hoban.

"I hope he's not looking to hurt me."

"My draw is my good meats," he continued.

"I'm looking to be the new Central Market.

"There is still a need for a small market in town."

Hoban noted that Central Market did a good business delivering liquor to older people in town.

"If you rely on beer and wine, you are not going to make it," said Peters.

"If I go out, every story is in trouble," replied Hoban.

Voters okay land swap for new town cemetery

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

Plans for a new 5,000-plot town cemetery off Smith Place took another step forward at town meeting Saturday at Cohasset High School.

An article to abandon 14 acres of school department land and transfer it to selectmen for use as a cemetery was passed by a hand count of 197 to 20.

A related article to appropriate $50,000 for engineering, design and development services was also approved on a voice vote.

Cemetery committee chairman Glenn Pratt explained that there is dwindling cemetery space in town.

"As of December, 1988, we had 160 graves for sale," said Pratt.

He noted that the graves are sold at a rate of about 50 per year.

Pratt added that the graves must be used within 72 hours, and no more than two can be sold at a time.

He said that the lack of space was not unexpected.

A 1961 report stressed that the town had 30 years of cemetery space left, according to Pratt.

Selectmen appointed a committee to study the problem in 1986, and a consultant was hired in 1988.

In 1988, engineering firms were interviewed and one was hired, he said.

Eight sites in town were considered for a cemetery, said Pratt, and the school facilities land was selected.

"We feel the parcel meets a lot of criteria for siting a cemetery," said Pratt.

"We're asking you to agree with the committee and the school committee that the land be released to selectmen.

"In 1991, we probably will be out of available graves to sell."

Pratt said that in 1990, funds will be requested to start construction, and if appropriated, site development of phase I will begin.

Site maturity will take place 1991 to 1992, and the first burials will take place in the new cemetery in the spring of 1992, he said.

"We're impressed with the thoroughness of the presentation," said Elizabeth Millard, a member of the advisory committee which recommended passage.

"We think it is probably the best location in town for a cemetery."

A S. Main St. resident asked how much of the 14 acres is usable land.

"Probably only eight acres is usable," said Pratt, who spoke of some very wet, and low land.

Another resident said he was concerned about the amount of traffic on Smith Place, and asked how many entrances are planned.

"We don't have that sorted out yet," answered Pratt.

Ralph Kidder of 2 Cushing Road noted that the entire project could cost about $1 million.

"You really don't have studies comparing the various sites and their costs," Kidder said.

Merle Brown of the conservation commission said his group was not in favor of the site as a cemetery.

"We would like to keep it for use of the living," said Brown.

Richard Silvia said the school facilities committee endorses the plan.

"We feel it's the best location, or we never would have given up school property," said Silvia.

A Summer St. resident asked what studies have been done on groundwater.

Pratt said the groundwater elevation is known.

"The plot is 1500 ft. from Elm Meadow pumping station,"added Pratt.

"No harmful chemicals are leached into the soil from the cemetery," he said.

Another resident voiced concerns about traffic problems.

"Funeral traffic to me doesn't go too fast," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

Pratt said the work is estimated to cost about $78,000.

"We have the use of the Norfolk County Engineers, so the price has come down," he said.

Regarding the appropriation, Millard said the advisory committee hopes that the cemetery committee prices lots high enough to equal the cost of the land and perpetual maintenance.

"Fees should be set so that all costs are recovered," said Ned Tebbetts, capital budget committee chairman.

"We've been asked by selectmen to submit new rules and regulations for the two cemeteries and the new one," acknowledged Pratt.

"The cost of buying a grave, perpetual care and opening up a grave are artificially low.

"We need to get the prices into the reasonable range."

Resident Max Pounder offered a resolution, which was accepted, prohibiting exceeding the construction budget by 10 percent.

"Mr. Pounder is attempting to see that we don't get any grand ideas the town can't afford," said Pratt.

"...It's good language to put in."

Town meeting also failed by 155 to 77 to appropriate $7,500 to help in the selection of a computer land use mapping system.

Conservation chairman Merle Brown said the money would go for a consultant to work towards getting a better mapping system for the town.

He said it would cost about $200,000 for "a terrific set of maps for the town."

"We hope this will save money in the end," said Brown.

"Some of the things in town could have been planned better with better maps."

Brown also said the town has been fortunate there haven't been more lawsuits because of the mapping system.

Advisory member Jill O'Donnell said that a number of town boards agree the maps are needed.

Emmett Holt of Highland Ave. said that "$200,000 scares the bejeezes out of me.

"Do we really need a system?"

In response to a question from Robert Davenport of Sohier St., Brown said the first phase could cost $35,000 to $97,000.

He said the whole package could go up to $172,000.

Holt suggested town meeting vote no until it reviews the experiences of other towns implementing the system.

Last mooring holders rejected

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

Voters delayed a decision on the revision of the harbor bylaws. However, they unanimously rejected a petition from a group of residents who had asked town meeting to return their moorings.

Those eight boaters vowed to bring their case against the town to court if the state Division of Waterways does not first approve their appeal.

A petition article signed by ten residents asked voters to restore moorings to the eight people who lost them last year when they failed to pay their annual fee by June 1, 1988. Their pleas were rejected along with a request by 58 persons on the mooring waiting list who failed to meet the annual notification deadline in 1988.

According to harbor committee chairman Fritz Pfaffmann, only eight of 325 mooring holders failed to meet the payment deadline. And 275 people affirmed their positions on the waiting list within the specified time.

"It has to do with fairness," Fairoaks Lane resident Al Moore explained to town meeting Tuesday night. Moore is one of the harbor boaters who did not pay his annual fee on time and was kicked off his mooring by the former harbormaster. He said a confusion between harbor regulations and bylaws, and the suddenly stricter enforcement by a new harbormaster in 1988 caused the dilemma.

Prior to the strict enforcement, Moore said, payment of the annual fees was completed on a more relaxed basis. In his instance, Moore said he went down to the harbormaster's office three times and no one was there. When he went again on June 2, former Harbormaster Steve Osborne told him it was past the deadline.

"If you paid (the annual mooring fee) on time, then you should probably vote against this article," Moore stated. "But we're seeking to get things straight, and establish some harbor rules that we can live by."

On advice from town counsel, the selectmen, the advisory committee and the harbor committee opposed the petition article, saying there is ample time given for payments. "A mooring is a privilege offered to a fraction of the town. If it is not valuable to the people who have them, then others should have the opportunity to move toward that privilege," advisory committee chairman Jane Goedecke said.

Selectman Cliff Mitman also noted that a number of boaters were removed from their moorings in 1987 for the same reason. "I don't think it's fair to them and to those on the waiting list to treat (mooring holders) differently in 1987 than in 1988," he added.

James Hamilton of King Street told the Tuesday night audience that the mixup between harbor regulations and bylaws resulted in these boaters being used by the authorities in this town like Silly Putty. One specified an April 1 deadline date, and another stated a June 1 deadline. Hamilton said the petitioners "wouldn't have a leg to stand on" if all town officials gave sufficient notification that the 1988 deadlines would be firm without granting any grace period for late payments.

"Unfortunately," Hamilton said, "these people in the know knew, and the public didn't know."

Several residents, including Patricia Facey of Woodland Drive and Joseph McElroy of Windy Hill Road, recalled how they were penalized when they failed to make a timely fee payment, or reaffirm their position on the waiting list. After pursuing the issue with legal counsel, McElroy said he was reassured by former executive secretary Donald Andrew that "a strong push" would be made so that no exceptions to the deadline are allowed.

"There has to be a point where you draw the line," he stated. His argument was met with loud applause.

"The person to blame is yourselves," according to H. Edward Brennock Jr. of Doane Street. "You had a choice not to reaffirm your place by a date specified. Then there is no recourse."

Richard Guilfoyle of Nichols Road also lost his mooring in 1988. He supported the petition, although he explained he no longer owns a boat and is moving out of town. Guilfoyle's attorney informed him that the current harbor bylaw is illegal, does not conform to a superceding state law, and is unenforceable.

He said enforcement of the current bylaw is unconstitutional, and if the waterways commission does not approve their appeal of the decision, "eight people intend to go forward in the courts," he said.

A hand vote of the town meeting indicated 51 voters supported the petition while 136 were in opposition.

In other action Tuesday night, confusion and questions over a proposed revision to the harbor bylaw resulted in a postponement of action.

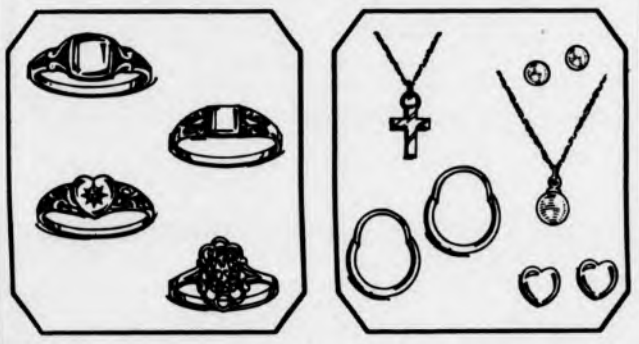
The revisions, according to harbor committee chairman Pfaffmann, clarified the language in the bylaw and melded some of the harbor regulations into the bylaw.

Commercial fisherman Herbert Jason objected to bylaw, saying it deliberately excluded the fishermen from a definition of "boatowner."

"I'm only asking for equal justice," he said, noting that the fishing industry brings in about $1 million in revenues to the harbor annually.

Pfaffmann noted that after lengthy discussion, the committee decided not to change that defintion, which he said, has never been altered. Town Counsel Richard Henderson noted that by excluding the fishermen from that definition "their rights are not preserved" under the bylaw.

The committee chairman was also asked if the transfer of mooring permits will be made only to spouses of commercial fishermen, as stated in the revised law. He wondered if the decision would be made on an individual basis and not solely by the harbormaster.



Pfaffmann said the permit would be

□ Hockey certainly was the topic of conversation this weekend as Harvard won the Championship and the headlines everywhere! We have our own set of champs in our town, maybe someday they will play for Harvard . . . some Seahawk players made a great showing on the ice against Canadian skaters in two tournaments in Montreal Easter Weekend! Pee Wee Squirt and Mite Seahawks were: Mike Riley, Brian Riley, Adam Donovan, Brian Donovan, Kyle Bunstein, Taylor Devin, Tim Herzog, Ted Goff, Billy Good, Jay Whorisky, Greg Schultz, Sean Norris, Matt O'Connor and Nate Cotter.

□ Nana and Howard Hennigar were in our town for a nice visit recently. They are living in China, Maine now. Nana got the opportunity to visit with a few of her old friends, but there is never enough time to see everyone, she wanted to be sure to say hello to everyone! She and Howard both look wonderful, and feel great too.

□ For the last seven years, St. Anthony's Parish has held an Easter Egg Hunt on Easter Sunday morning. Mary and Henry Brennock have been the organizers for this event every time; and, appreciation for their generosity, as well as many thanks, are in order! They are a wonderful caring couple who do so much for so many. Cohasset is lucky to have them.

□ As you read this, Ed Bursk should be home! He was due home at the end of last week, and you know that Mrs. Bursk was so excited and happy in anticipation that she was glowing! She told me that she is sure that all of the fine Cohasset residents who offered their prayers, their thoughts and their kindnesses were greatly responsible for his recovery, and she doesn't know where to begin to thank all of them. For the cards (did you know that he received cards from his Boy Scouts, he had a troop when he first arrived in Cohaset in 1943! What does that tell you about the man?), and all else that people gave of themselves the Bursks thank you so much! As for the Bursks, we'll bet that he will be spotted walking Sandy Beach as soon as the weather permits. Best of luck and lots of love goes out to them.

Photographs by Cohasset photographer Eleanor Gorman will highlight a "Toast to Friendship" gala event at the Art Center Sunday, April 9 from 5 to 7 p.m. A wine and cheese reception will be held. Tickets may be purchased at the door. Proceeds will benefit the South Shore Big Brother/Big Sister Assn. in its efforts to match children with adult volunteers.

□ This weekend will be the finals in the regional Patriot Ledger Spelling Bee, and we have two students from Cohasset that will be participating in it. Alissa Sexton, who is 11 and a sixth grader at the Deer Hill School, and Karen Kristiansen, who is 12, and a seventh grader at the Cohasset Jr./Sr. High School. Alissa's winning word was preliminary and Karen's winning word was shrewd. The winner will go to Washington, D.C. for the Scripps Howard National Spelling Bee which will be held May 28 to June 3 and we surely hope to see one of these gals there. In any case, we know that you are winners, and we congratulate you for your efforts. Good luck!

□ Jeff O'Neill, son of Don and Sally O'Neill, sure had a great season for Boston College in the hockey arena! He had lots to "ink" throughout the season for his efforts, and wound up the season with the Boston Globe saying of him, "Jeff O'Neill is an emerging force for the Eagles." Tons of us in Cohasset have always loved to watch Jeff do his magic on ice, it is nice to see him continue to do so well. Keep it up Jeff!

□ Benjamin Dean, Taylor Fairman, Tobey Horn and Andrew Pozatek should be very proud of themselves for all of their hard work. They are all students who made Second Honors for the second term at Derby Academy. That means that they had to have a B average or better, which is quite a feat. Congratulations to you all.

□ Everyone that attended the Class of '89's Variety Show were glad that they did! Who would have known that the Frolo brothers were such accomplished dancers (or were so good looking as gals?) for example! How about Jay Staunton with all of his abilities as master of ceremonies! Did anyone know that Pat Donovan would be a wonderful Charlie Brown? Or that David Eno loved red sneakers? You could picture Matt Kuhn as Santa Claus perfectly! And, watching Kristin Ellinger with her hula hoop prowess was grand! The list is endless, but this article is not . . . so, we congratulate all of the seniors for all of their hard work and we are happy that it turned out so well for them.

□ Christopher Brent Kirkendall of Cohasset was among students named to the Dean's Honors Lists at Texas Christian University for the 1988 fall semester. This recognition cites undergraduate students for academic achievement.

Kirkendall, whose home address is 83 Atlantic Avenue, is a junior majoring in psychology.

□ Don't forget to call me with your news, that is what makes this column possible!

transferred only if the spouse is dependent on the income from the commercial fishing boat. Each case would be decided on an individual basis by the harbormaster, with advice from the executive secretary and selectmen. The inclusion of the word "may" in that section of the bylaw allows a decision to be based on need, and is not an automatic approval, Pfaffmann added.

Some residents expressed concern that corporations with unnamed partners could own a commercial mooring, although a recreational sailor is part of that corporation. "Is it even possible that one fishermen could eventually own the whole fleet there? These are some questions," asked South Main Street resident Ray Kasperowicz.

William Lean of said it would be a "terrible precedent" to allow moorings to be transferred in the event of a death of a commercial mooring holder. Corporations with several partners could eventually monopolize a large number of moorings as their value increases.

Selectmen opposed the bylaw revision, saying it favors commercial fishermen over pleasure boaters by allowing the mooring transfers. They also objected to allowing corporate ownership of the fishing industry. He noted the town has experienced problems in litigation against a corporately-owned boat, "because they are not the ones fishing from that boat."

Michael Sullivan of Fairoaks Lane said in some cases, the children of a deceased fisherman might be entitled to a mooring as the beneficiaries of an estate. Reviewing each situation case by case will weaken the bylaw, he stated.

A motion to indefinitely postpone the article was accepted by town meeting. In addition, related articles revising the mooring list notification process, and the mooring fee payment schedule, were postponed.

Board reduction defeated by voters

A proposal to reduce the board of selectmen from five to three members went down to an overwhelming defeat at Tuesday's session of town meeting.

The idea to return to a three-member board was initiated by Sohier Street resident Robert Davenport who simply told the audience, "I believe it is a more efficient government with three rather than five."

The proposal was opposed by the advisory committee, Chairman Jane Goedecke noted, "we asked him (Davenport) to tell us why, and he didn't say. We thought a more substantial reason should be given to us. We'd seriously like to know the reasons - so we can make a decision on the information. We oppose because there are no strong arguments in favor of change, and change is always unsettling and causes confusion, and without reason it is detrimental."

Selectman Cliff Mitman, who is leaving the board following Saturday's election, said selectmen oppose the reduction because five represented a wider diversity on that board. "And (if a member is absent) I'd rather have a quorum of three or four rather than two at a meeting when serious issues are discussed," he added.

But Holly Lane resident Richard Conley supported the change, saying "now we have five selectmen, an executive secretary who has a secretary who has a secretary - and no water in the duck pond." Saying that town government is a business, and selectmen were the board of directors, Conley noted, "I am telling the board of directors they are not very good leaders. Five people do not make good government. You only have good government when (selectmen) are polite and courteous to the people before them. We have nothing to lose by going back to three."

Despite the argument, voters defeated the proposal on a voice vote.

In other action Tuesday night, voters quickly approved article 54, which allowed town meeting to rescind a prior action made at the 1988 town meeting. At last year's town meeting, voters approved the purchase of a front end loader for the highway department, but the appropriation was defeated during the subsequent special override election. Because there was no appropriation, voters were required at this annual town meeting to rescind their approval to purchase.

Last year's article proved unnecessary anyway, as selectmen later found $13,000 in their current budget to purchase the vehicle.

A policy change

Saturday, April 8 is decision time for the voters of Cohasset. And rather than bemoan the lack of candidates local political office attracts, this year Cohasset has a wide variety from which to choose.

For selectmen, we have five candidates vying for two, three-year terms: James Gallagher, Richard Barrow, Charles Kane, Diana Kornet, and Ned Tebbetts.

In the race for two, three-year seats on the school committee, we have incumbent Christopher Ford, along with Ralph Kidder and Edward Brennock.

There are two candidates for a three-year vacancy on the sewer commission - Henry Rattenbury and Manuel Salvador. And health board chairman Sharon Becker is facing a challenge from Hugh Morgan this year.Incumbent housing authority member Joanne Nawnn-Young has an opponent this term in Anthony Finegan.

We wish all candidates good luck and thank them sincerely for the time and effort they have put into their earnest campaigns for public office.

Which brings us to another issue - endorsements by the local newspaper. It has been our policy since the birth of this paper not to endorse candidates for local office. Our feelings were, why discourage anyone from running school committee or selectman by publically supporting one hard-working candidate over another?

But we have been thinking long and hard about the flip side to this argument. Why not endorse a candidate and help enlighten the public by outlining the qualities of one candidate over another? Who is better suited to this responsibility than the reporters and editors who have attended the board meetings, participated in candidates' debate forums, and interviewed the candidates?

And isn't simply shirking our responsibility by refusing to support a candidate? Lord knows, we've had to pay the price when we've supported one particular side of a controversial issue. And even when we know there will be that price to pay, we have never shied away from confronting an issue or telling the public how we feel and why.

We're not smug enough to say that Cohasset voters will simply read our editorials and go to the polls, paper in hand as they select the identical candidates. Actually, it could very well have the opposite effect.

But after discussing this issue thoroughly, and receiving complete encouragement by the management of this newspaper, we have decided that following this election we will begin to endorse candidates for office. We decided that because of the brief time before this week's election, it would be unfair to immediately implement the new policy without warning. In the future, following an early interview of the candidates, we will come out with an endorsement, but not before we have shared our opinion with all the candidates.

In the meantime, we must assure all our readers that we have not endorsed nor suported the candidacy of one candidate over another in this election. As far as the editor and writers of this newspaper are concerned, they all deserved an equal shot at the prize, and we stand in the way of no candidate in that endeavor.

Seniors want good government, too

The Selectmen's debate on Pierson to person Thursday night, March 23, 1989, took on the tone at one point as if Seniors were about to panic over the upcoming request for an override. It should be made clear that Seniors support good government service, and if it takes a reasonable budget request to maintain the current level of service, we support it.

We are deeply concerned when Social Security payments are slowed or reduced and Medicare payments go skyward. However, we do not overreact and take it out on our Town Employees. Seniors more than any other group need a good educational system which Cohasset has and we are willing to continue to support. We do not ask what you can do for us, but rather what can we do for you.

This tight money situation started a few years back when the Federal Government started reducing and eliminating the funding of many programs. It is now being felt at the local level, more this year than previously.

Let's move cautiously on our spending, but do not curtail our current level of services.

T. Gerard Keating
Cohasset Council on Aging
Vice Chairman

Jogger wonders who hit him

To the Editor:

To the driver of the red and white pickup truck who was heading east on Hull Street on Saturday morning, March 25 at 6:30 a.m., this letter is addressed to you.

As you are aware, I was running with a friend that morning. It was drizzling but visability was fine. There was no other vehicular traffic coming in the other direction yet you still felt it was necessary to honk. That was okay. But what I don't understand is why you still struck me with your bumper and side mirror. You certainly saw me. You obviously knew you had hit me. And yet you didn't stop. In fact, you didn't even slow down. It is unfortunate that we were unable to see your license plate number.

In case you are wondering, I'm fine. Upset but fine. Upset because I find it incomprehensible that someone can hit a person and not stop. Would you have kept on going if I had been a child? Probably.

I have been running for 12 years and this is the first time something like this has happened. Sure, there have been close calls but I have never been hit. And there is no question you did this purposely. There are a couple of parts in your makeup that are sadly lacking. Common sense and decency.

Rotary thanks town for a great race

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Rotary Club, I wish to express our most sincere gratitude to the residents of Cohasset for the welcome and support shown the runners and spectators at the Thirteenth Annual Roadrace. I want to thank the Police, Fire, Highway, Park and Animal Control Department for their assistance and direction. We can take great pride in the concern and safety they provide to Cohasset. The warmth and welcome shown Sunday is the true spirit of our town. Special thanks to the Mariner for its coverage. The success of the Race would not have been possible without the endless efforts of The Muncey Family, Don Harrold, Steve Hart and Roy Fitzsimmons.

Again, our appreciation and gratitude,
Peter J. Logan
Rotary Chairman

Osgood playground schedule is set

The Project Playground Committee is thrilled to announce the design is completed and the work agenda is our next area to tackle.

The design is exciting and includes 4 slides, 4 unique bridges, 2 telephone systems, balance beams, 2 firemens poles, ladders through decks, swings, a lighthouse, a loch ness monster, a sand boat, a shinny pole with bell and more!

The following is outline is for volunteers to gather together and build the community playpark. We need everyone — there are jobs for all skill levels — even unskilled and workers to serve lunch! Don't miss out on a great opportunity for work, fun and satisfaction!

Preparation Work — Fri., June 2, 8 a.m.: An auger truck will dig holes and we are on the lookout for 20 strong people to carry wood. Saturday, June 3 and Sunday, June 4 we need 20 skilled workers for preliminary work.

The Big Weekend — June 10 from 7:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. and June 11, 8:30 a.m. - 6 p.m., with a one hour break-lunch provided.

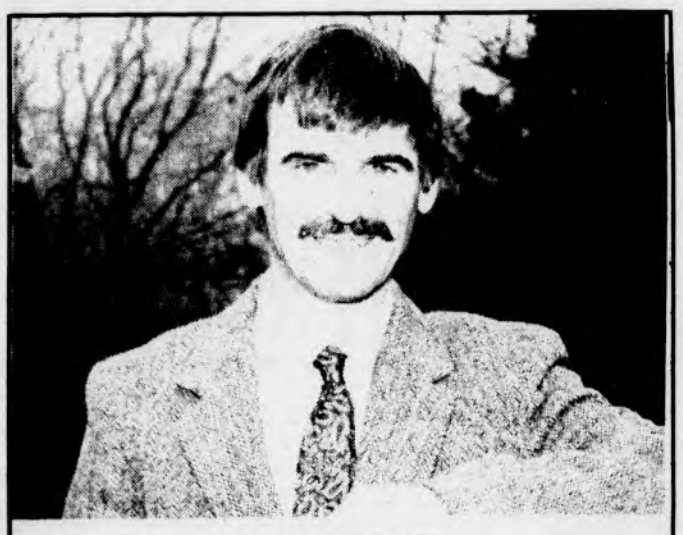
Selectmen

Richard Barrow

Richard Barrow
Age: 63
Address: King Street
Occupation: sergeant, Cohasset Police Department.
Education: Cohasset High School, police courses at Northeastern University
Divorced with four children

1. What qualifies you to be running for the position of selectman?

"I think I have a lot of qualifications based on the number of years I've served this town. First, I've been on the police department for 39 years and served as sergeant for 21 years. I've been an elected member of the recreation commission for the past 15 years, and served as chairman for the past 14 years. I spent six years on the harbor committee, and ten years on the Government Island study committee, of which I am still a member. I spent three years in the U.S. Navy, and for six years I was director of the Cohasset Swim Center. For three years I was on the Cohasset Boy Scouts Council, and way back, I was elected constable for two years.



2. What do you feel if the greatest problem facing Cohasset and what solutions do you offer?

"I feel that Proposition 2 1/2 is the biggest thing right now in Cohasset. And the only way I can think of right now to help out this town is to regionalize some of our services. We have to project our needs down the road - right now we have an ambulance that is shared by four towns, and that's a savings to the people of Cohasset. But we have to look further. For instance, we have been a standby for Scituate when their water supply has been low - maybe we could think of some kind of mutual aid betwen four towns for water.

"Right now, the way I see it, if we don't stop this spending at the current level, our taxes are going to double every six years. Pensions have to be capped for town employees - the cost of health insurance is killing us too. We've got to look into more regionalization to stop this. All our neighboring towns are hurting, so let's come up with some future plans that will help us all."

3. Why are running for this particular office at this particular time?

"Because a seat on the board of selectmen was vacated and because I'm going to be retiring soon from the police department. I'll have plenty of time to devote to the town - although I have invested a lifetime already in this town. I was born here and I've always been interested and involved in the town and its politics. I guess now that I'll be retiring, I feel I'll have even more time and I can help out more than I have in the past."

James Gallagher

James Gallagher
Age: 44
Address: South Main Street
Occupation: master tradesman
Education: Cohasset High School
Married with two children - and a granddaughter.

1. What qualifications do you have to run for the position of selectman?

"I think by being a selectman for three years and knowing how town government runs - by being there for the past three years and working with people in town hall, knowing all the department heads and having a good rapport with them qualifies me for this position. I've worked with the state, the tri-town commission and the South Shore Coalition and I have a good handle about what's going on in this area. Knowing the issues is a big plus for me compared to the other candidates.

"Working with fellow selectmen - people like Cliff Mitman, Diane Sullivan and Mary Jane McArthur and the present board - I've learned a lot. I'm a very easy person to work with. I very rarely get mad. I try to keep my Irish temper down. But I feel I have a good working relationship with everyone I come across."

2. What is the greatest problem facing Cohasset at this time?

"The biggest problem is financial. We have to sit down and educate the people who don't really know what Proposition 2 1/2 is all about. A lot of people around town ask me why their taxes are going up. They wonder if it's bad financial management. But I tell them the town fathers are not to blame. It's the increasing costs of services and unseen expenditures like insurance, an oil leak at Lily Pond that cost us $100,000. The state used to help out with its cherry sheet revenues, but everything is drying up. The town has to look at different revenues or come up with different ideas for revenues that will not place the burden on the taxpayers. I'd like to look into user fees and other ways to raise more revenue. If elected, I will go to the South Shore Coalition, where I've been Cohasset representative for the past three years, and discuss with other towns how we can all work to raise revenues for our towns. the little people - people like me- can't afford increasing taxes."

3. What are you running for this particular office at this particular time?

"Because I feel I'm qualified for the position. I've helped to save the town a lot of money during the past three years in various possible lawsuits. One of the things I was interested in when I was first elected to the board was stopping some of the litigation against the town, and cutting the budgets of the town counsel and the special town counsel. We haven't spent as much in those budgets as in previous years. And I like to think I helped a little by talking to people and getting various town officials together to straighten things out before they reached the courtroom.

"I have a good working relationship with many people in this town. I'd like that to continue. I think the town has prospered in my three years as selectman. I have a good grip on town affairs and I'd like to continue the work I began three years ago. I feel after another three year term, that will be it - I'll be burnt out. But until I retire from town politics, I think I can still be an asset to the town."

Diana Kornet

Diana Kornet
Age:45
Address: Nichols Road
Occupation: parttime travel agent and sales associate at a childrens' clothing store.
Education: Connecticut College, degree in biology, certified teacher in Connecticut.
Married with four children.

1. What qualifies you to run for the position of selectman?

"I think the most obvious qualification is the ten years I have served on the school committee. In that capacity I have experience working with half of the town's budget and working with other members of town boards as their interests overlap ours. I am probably better informed about the town than the average resident because I've always been interested in town government and have served in an elected position.

"Having had the responsibility of supervising a significant number of personnel - over 150 in the school department - I've been responsible for contract negotiations and I've also had the responsibility of overseeing building maintenance, all of which will help me face the town's similar problems.

"I think the town really needs effective leadership now. I think that it is a top priority of every selectman to keep the public informed about crucial issues. People are so busy nowadays and it's hard to keep abreast of pertinent information. But as long as we are a town governed by town meeting and are able to make these decisions by ourselves, it is essential to be informed and not go to the polling booth with half the information.

"If elected selectman, I will regard as my first important duty to spend the first month in office getting the information out to the citizens of Cohasset about the ballot questions regarding the override."

2. What is the greatest problem facing Cohasset and what solutions can you offer?

"The greatest problem is how to cope with the town's financial situation without facing this traumatic override process year after year. We need to really look very closely at what services we want, and be willing to pay for them. User fees are a fact of the future whether it's in school, moorings in the harbor, or beach stickers. I think several people have mentioned the sale of the town-owned property, but that will only offer temporary relief. It is no longterm solution. I personally was not in favor of Proposition 2 1/2 the way it was written, but I do hope somebody at the state level will formulate a better bill to limit spending at the state level.

"I do support the present override of the operating budget. If elected, and an informed citizens' group indicates they want to cut services in this town, then I will do my best to implement their wishes. But I believe people in this town want the services they currently receive. And we must remember, an override will not address expanded services, simply services at their current level."

3. Why are you running for this particular office at this particular time?

"To continue being well-informed and being an effective leader. It will be an easy transfer because I do not intend to drop my educational interests, but will incorporate them into my thoughts on what is good for this town. It's important to have a diverse board. I represent a perspective that needs to be included in the solution of the town's problems. I represent families with children in school, and conservation, environmental issues. I have several perspectives I will represent on the board."

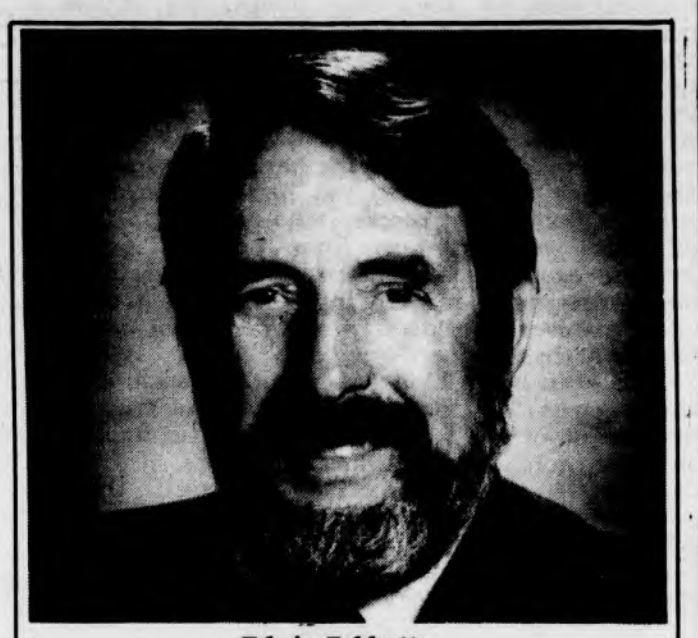
my business and family obligations, to give 100 percent of my time to the position of selectman."



2. What is the greatest problem facing Cohasset and what solutions can you offer?

"The greatest problem is money and taxes. Everybody's is aware now that the state is having financial problems. and the town is also experiencing similar problems. As a businessman, I can help solve some of those problems - by better communication between department heads - to come up with something realistic for the town. We should look to purchasing with more towns. I think we could solve a lot of problems because we're just jumping into a lot of things we should be jumping into."

3. Why are you running for this particular office at this particular time?

"Nobody says where you have to start off in politics, and the selectmen's office is where I feel I can be most effective for the whole town. I have a long history of community involvement in other communities where I lived. I ran for state representative 22 years ago and ran state Rep. Michael Morrissey's campaign 13 years ago. I've also worked on other political campaigns while I lived in Quincy. And I figured it with my business experience, I know enough to make a good selectman.

"I feel I had the opportunity and I feel I'm qualified to do it. I have businesses being run by my sons, and now I want to do what I want to do. I think I can enjoy and be a good selectman for this town."

Edwin Tebbetts

Edwin "Ned" Tebbetts
Age: 63
Address: Jerusalem Road Drive
Occupation: self-employed investment advisor. Employed for 27 years as an actuary for New England Mutual Life Insurance, and previously at John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Education: at 55, Tebbetts "persuaded" administrators to admit him into the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University where last year he obtained a master's degree in politics and public administration. He holds a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from MIT; a master's degree in mathematics from the University of Michigan.

Married with three sons.

1. What qualifies you to run for the position of selectman?

"Probably the first qualification is my education. I was the oldest guy in the program at the Kennedy School, but I was admitted after telling them I was serious about running for public office.

"I have been a member of the Capital Budget

Interviews with the candidates

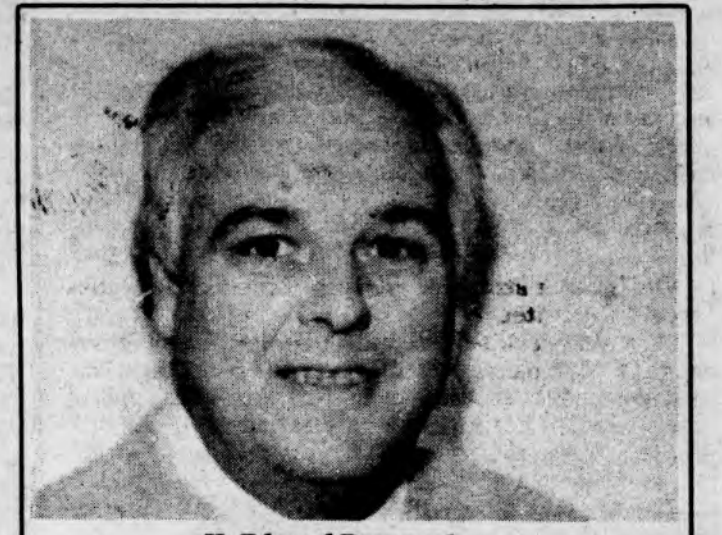
Committee for nine years and chairman of that committee for the past five years, where we've received every capital request from every town department asking for $10,000 or more. I've adressed each of these issues on that committee and made the recommendations to all the voters on the floor of town meeting. I feel I am quite intimately familiar with the town's finances, and I don't think several of the other candidates are as familiar with the town's overall finances."

2. What is the greatest problem now facing Cohasset what solutions can you offer?

"One problem that is a local, state and national problem has to do with pollution which affects everybody. It affects the air we breathe and the water we drink. Part of the problem has to be dealt with on a national level and on a state level. Anyone who holds elected office must put the pressure on other elected officials to take action.

"I also don't think the town's finances have been well-managed. A letter I sent to selectmen several years ago forecast our problems. There are some issues the town has not acted upon properly, such as the sewers. That has been the town's number one priority for many years, but nothing has been done. Regarding the police and fire station, the capital budget committee gave it a higher priority than the town hall addition, but the addition was approved instead. Yet, we've known for years that we have to do something to the station so it will meet state code.

"My view is that we should rely less on real estate taxes and more on other items. We can't control the state cherry sheets, but we can control some of the other things. We should contemplate raising money from other sources. One may be to have more fees. We already have quite a few, but it's important to look at whether this is a service available to everybody or whether it's a service limited to a portion of the community. If you look at the harbor, the town is spending a lot more on the harbor than it is getting from the people who use it. That difference is made up from property taxes. Another example is cemeteries. If the costs of our cemeteries is more than the income, it once again involves subsidies for the benefit of a few families at the expense of everybody.



"The town has a hidden asset in the amount of land it owns. The town currently owns a four to five-mile stretch of land along the railroad that is probably worth about a million dollars. If they restore the rail service to Cohasset, then Cohasset by the rules of eminent domain is entitled to the market value of that land at some point. Cohasset should begin negotiating and get what we are entitled to for that land."

3. Why are you running for this particular office at this particular time?

"I feel I have a lot of ability to serve the town at a time when a lot of different decisions need to be made. I feel my background and qualifications give me the skills to be able to measure in a meaningful, financial way what alternatives are available to the town for various projects. This is the first time I've run for elected office, although I've been active in the politics of Cambridge and Newton where I grew up.

"I'm convinced that some of the other candidates lack the necessary financial skills or may be indebted to a special interest. I am not indebted to any special interest group."

School committee

H. Edward Brennock

H. Edward Brennock, Jr., 42, of 136 Doane St., is a lifelong Cohasset resident who is employed by New England Telephone Co. He and his wife, Kathleen, have three daughters, Heather, 14; Katie, 13, and Holly, 9.

How would you convince voters to approve an override so that the school committee budget won't be cut?

"The first thing we have to do is ensure the voters that we are making the best possible use of the finances that are available to us. What I mean by that is I don't want them to think that we are frivolously spending the funds avaiable just so that we can get more money for the override."

Candidate interviews . . .

School committee

What can Cohasset do to find needed resources to continue quality public education?

"I don't know what avenues have been investigated as far as trying to raise extra funds to support the school system. It is something that would have to be looked into and without more information I might be redundant. I'd have to look at what has been looked at, what has failed, what has been half way successful and go from there."

What are the strengths and weaknesses of the Cohasset school system?

"The only weakness we really have is a lack of money, and I don't think we are that much different than a lot of other towns. I think that's the only weakness we have. The strengths are a dedicated administration, group of dedicated teachers, parents of students who are deeply involved in the schools, for instance different organizations that you have like the PSO, and the numerous booster clubs that are in town. Football, basketball and hockey have their own booster clubs. That's a strength, an example of people getting involved. It's very important that parents do get involved. I think another strength is a nice that we have a nice progression of our schools. One is kindergarten to grade three, with the availability to go in kindergarten and grow to a third grader then go to the Deerhill school and start all over and progress to the sixth grade, then repeat it at the high school for grades 7 to 12. I think that's a nice progression."

What qualifications do you have and why should people vote for you for school committee?

"I have no particular special qualifications. I am not an expert in money matters. I'm not an expert in managing people. But I do feel my strengths are that I have a willingness and desire to work hard as a part of a school committee team that would dedicate itself to providing the best possible education that we can possibly give our children."

Christopher Ford

Incumbent Christopher Ford, 47, of 145 Border St., is a realtor and owner of Hallmark 100 Properties of Cohasset. A resident of the town since 1956, he has served on the school committee for three years. He and his wife, Karen, have three children, Erica, 18; Paul, 15, and Jon, 12.

How would you convince voters to approve an override so that the school budget won't be cut?

"I would appeal to the voter's basic assumptions that

More than 900 join in Cohasset's spring race

George Hitt of Milton and Robert Chasen of Weymouth epitomized what friends are all about at last Sunday's thirteenth annual Cohasset Roadrace by-the sea.

Running together for the entire 10 kilometers (6.2 miles), they crossed the finish line simultaneously with their arms raised high to declare victory. Upon reviewing the photo finish at the conclusion of the race, the judges rules that Hitt was the overall winner in a time of 32.12, edging Chasen by a half step.

"I knew Bob has never won this race, despite being near the top in his previous nine attempts. So, I figured 'what the heck?' We're good friends and I wanted to be tied for first," said Hitt, whose last triumph at Cohasset ocurred 10 years ago.

Under cloudless blue skies with a field of more than 900, Hitt and Chasen, who met each other at a local race in 1981, led through the race, with Chasen setting the pace most of the way. They set a quick pace through the first 10 minutes, then hit the flats along Cohasset's Sandy Beach, where the wind became a factor.

"The wind was a problem along the beach," said Chasen, a former Scituate 10 K race director. "I felt I could have run at least 30 seconds faster if the wind hadn't been that strong.

"A little wind is good, but asking for it to stop is like asking for the beach to dry — it never happens."

"Bob did the hard work on the hills," Hitt said. "By running in front of me, he blocked the wind off."

"I'm using this race, and other local races like it, as tuneups for the Peachtree Classic (this 10 K event attracts 25,000 athletes) in Atlanta on July 4. I'm looking forward to the caliber of competition in Georgia.

Hitt said he hopes the Peachtree Classic, which draws international recognition in running circles as well, will earn him national respect.

"Since I'll soon be turning 40 on the fourth, the Peachtree is a great opportunity for me to make some advances in the national scene in the masters (40 and older) class."

Chasen boasted that Hitt will be among the best 40 year-old runners in the United States next year.

The Cohasset race, a perennial favorite among South Shore runners, has quickly become one of the largest on the South Shore. It drew 100 entries its opener in 1976. The field on Sunday exhausted the number of runners' numbers that they actually ran out of them, said coordinator Roy Fitzsimmons.

"We've come a long way," he said. "In 13 years, it's gone from clipboards and stopwatches to electronic timers and computers. It's great."

The race organization, which starts in December, involves (approximately 100 people) who donate their time and entry. They're divided into crews by Fitzsimmons and Peter Logan and work right up to race day.

"We've never needed major sponsors, because we have so many volunteers, there would be no race," Fitzsimmons said.

The proceeds from the race first cover its expenses, then go toward scholarships for residents and other causes like the town's senior shuttle.

"This is a true community effort. There is a tremendous show of support for the race by the town," said Fitzsimmons, who was the official starter of the race, filling in for Will Cloney, a former Boston Marathon race director, who was on a business trip in Omaha, Nebraska.

"I would definitely say that this race is the best one yet," said Logan, who conceded the Men's Team Trophy to Good Sport, thus snapping Cohasset Liquors' 11-year dominance. However, Cohasset Liquors did retain the Women's title. According to several of Logan's employees, standing outside the Cohasset Community Center during the award presentations, "we still hold the edge, and there is nobody out there who can match our record."

First-place winners receive a bouquet of flowers, along with a cash prize to the male champion and a beautiful watch, donated from King Jewelers to the female champion. Other prizes include gift certificates from local restaurants and a shirt to each runner-up.

High School voter registration

Approximately 20 students have registered to vote during a special Voter Registration Week held at the high school from March 24 - 28.

Any Cohasset student who will be 18 years of age on or before May 6 and who has not yet registered may do so by seeing Mrs. Schultz in the Main Office. Those registered by April 10 may participate in the town election scheduled for May 6.

Continental math league results

The fifth CML test in mathematics was held on March 16 at Cohasset Junior High School. Winners from grade 8 included Ben Chittick with a perfect score of 6, Kate DeLima, Eric Dripdale and Will Adams with a score of 5 and fourteen eight graders with scores of 4. This was a great showing for grade 8.

Since this was the final match the winners for the year are:

#1 - Peter Fahey;
#2 - Kate DeLima; Nathan Fiore;
#3 - Ben Chittick;
#4 - Alex Vanderweil.

Congratulations Grade 8!

An Evening of Living Arts

An interdisciplinary project is entitled, An Evening of Living Arts, will be held at the high school on April 11, 1989. This evening provides a showcase for work by students of art, music, home economics, and industrial arts. This year literature and dance will be represented as well.

Originally, Sharon Webber, a trained dancer from Cohasset, volunteered to use a piece of student writing as the basis for a dance production. Written work was produced especially for this project by the English classes of Mr. Reade; however, stories were also entered from the whole school population. The story "Dragon Master," by Daniel Baird of Mrs. Wood's class was finally selected.

Ms. Foley, instrumental music instructor at the high school has been working with students to write music for a dance version of the story. Shop teacher, Mr. Hughes, and art teacher, Ms. Lucas, are supervising the construction of props and stage sets. Ms. Lucas is also working with Mrs. Contis and Mrs. Wunschel of the home economics department, whose students are creating costumes for the production.

Meanwhile, Ms. Webber has been instructing the students in the fundamentals of movement and space. The students are choreographing the story, and it will be performed for the public on the evening of April 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cohasset Junior-Senior High School Auditorium.

Don't miss this Fantastic event!

Library programs in Cohasset

At a recent weekly school library staff meeting Mrs. Miller noted that during March she will be introducing the Caldecott Medal winners to the first graders at Osgood. These award-winning books are ones chosen by the American Library Association as the best illustrated children's books in a given year.

The 1989 winner was The Song and Dance Man by Karen Ackerman with The Boy of the Three Year Nap by Diane Snyder, Free Fall by David Weisner and Goldilocks and the Three Bears by James Marshall listed as Honor Books.

The books which the second graders are writing are being typed up at the high school library by Mrs. Batts and will soon be ready for the children to illustrate.

In addition the children at Osgood have recently completed a most successful Read-a-thon to raise money for their new school playground.

Calculus contest

The following students were the high scorers in the Continental Advanced Placement Calculus contest:

Arthur Meacham, Kristin Maki, Amy Hobbs, Letitia Linsley, Melissa Nothnagle and Eileen O'Connor.

Arthur Meacham has the highest cumulative score to date.

CHS Sr. Chorus

The Senior Chorus, students listed below, attended a rehearsal and performance of Handel's "Messiah" on Wednesday March 22.

This performance involved several schools including Scituate, Hanover, Rockland, Bridgewater-Raynham, Oliver Ames and our host Silver Lake (Pembroke Campus).

The Senior Chorus includes the following students:

Chorus in 'Messiah'

Members of the Sr. High Cohasset Chorus recently participated in a performance of Handel's "Messiah," combining seven school choruses. The work was performed with full orchestra and harpsicord at Silver Lake High School (Pembroke.)

Students and their teachers joined talents to produce a truly outstanding performance. Participating schools were: Bridgewater Raynham, Cohasset, Hanover, Easton, Rockland, Scituate and Silver Lake.

The learning disabilities network

The network is sponsoring a five-week So. Shore Parent Support Group, beginning March 28, Tuesday evening, at the Hingham Library. The program is designed to answer parents' questions about learning disabilities and provide them with the support they need. Issues addressed will include self-esteem, support services, IEPs, behavior, homework, the Team Meeting. Cost: $12/session per person; $18/couple. Call 740-2327 for more information.

Instrumental concert April 6th

Cohasset Music Department News Flash: The April 4th All-Instrumental Concert has been postponed until Thursday evening, April 6th, to avoid possible schedule conflicts with the Cohasset Town meeting.

The concert will feature instrumental ensembles from grades 4 through 12 to celebrate "Music in the Public Schools." It will be held at the high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Spelling Bee winner

Karen Kristiansen won the preliminary round of the Patriot Ledger Spelling Bee. She is the school champion and will represent the school at the regional contest to be held on April 8 at Weymouth South High School. She received a gold-tone medal and certificate of honor from the Patriot Ledger. The following were also winners: Diane Salde — Seventh grade runner-up; Nate Fiori — Eighth grade champion; Kate deLime — Eighth grade runner-up.

Also participating in the school's final round were the following:

GRADE 8: Will Adams, Joe Andrade*, Peter Collins, Bridget Corkery, Meri Hansen, Will Jordan, Maria Kierce, Jen Knowles*, Allison Ludlow, Erin McAllister*, Karyn Murray*, Erin O'Leary.

GRADE 7: Christa Ansbergs, Doug Damron*, Brian Duffy, Cilia Goff*, Matt Graves, Spencer Henderson, Vicki Magnard*, Theresa O'Brien*, Marisal Perry, Adam Reid.

Each participant received a certificate from the school and a silver dollar generously donated by the Cohasset P.S.O. *Individual class-room champions.

PSO awards grant

The Home Economics Department has been awarded a P.S.O. grant to buy Nutri-Calc software for the Macintosh Computer. The program is designed to determine the nutritional content of 900 different foodstuffs. It analyzes the content of the foods eaten by measuring the quantities of each of the following eight nutrients: calories, protein, fat, carbohydrates, iron, vitamin C, sodium and cholesterol. For example, Mrs. Contis' Pre-Chef students record everything they eat in a 24-hour period and type it into the computer. The Nutri-Calc makes a nutritional analysis for foods eaten by the students and gives the student a 2-page print-out of the breakdown of food eaten in a day. The program displays the information in the form of charts that graphically illustrate the value in energy or RDA's in each student's daily diet.

The printouts have been quite an eye opener for students and teachers alike. It is hoped that this will encourage more nutritious eating habits.

Student leadership conference

March 21, 1989 twelve students (Sophomores and Juniors) attended the Second Annual South Shore Leadership Conference entitled "Count Me In, III" at Braintree High School. This conference, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, was a full school day meeting that was attended by seventeen other area schools.

Cohasset student participants were: Kerri Anglin, Bill Baird, Nicole Barry, Dudley Bryan, Liz Buckley, Andrea Cann, Michael Cisneros, Noah Hill, Kerri Miele, Margaret Moore, Matt Norris and Caleb Slotnick. Donald Kelly was the faculty advisor who accompanied the students to Braintree.

CHS senior project proposals

Seniors at the High School are busy writing proposals for their senior projects which will take place from April 24 until May 19.

A senior project is a four-week independent educational program offered to seniors during their last four weeks of school as an educational opportunity not previously available. Admittance to this program is based upon a written proposal explaining the educational value as well as the feasibility of the project. Participation in senior project is open to those who have demonstrated punctuality, good attendance, responsible citizenship, and satisfactory academic achievement.

Students individually design a project that will provide a significant learning experience for them such as: composing a piece of music on the computer, exploring a career, helping a teacher at Osgood or Deer Hill, volunteering for a town committee, attending an inner city school for 4 weeks, writing a play, doing an art project, etc.

Seniors may be involved in the project from two periods a day to the entire day depending upon the scope of their project and their class schedule. Students are permitted to make arrangements with their teacher to drop a course during these 4 weeks if they are in good standing.

Proposals are submitted to the senior project committee: Mrs. Contis, Director; Ms. Boyle, Ms. Buckley, Mrs. Burbank, Mr. Cisneros, Ms. Goldenberg, Mrs. McFadd, Mrs. Porter, and Mrs. Wunschel for review. A "pass - fail" grade will be recorded on the student's transcript and on the individual report cards, and an evaluation upon completion of project will be placed in student's permanent file.

Local students on Derby honor list

The following Cohasset residents were named to the second honors list for the second term at Derby Academy. They earned a B average or better in all subjects.

Benjamin Y. Dean, Taylor M. Fairman, Tobey Horn and Andrew J. Pozatek.

Youth soccer starts soggy season

The week's rain washed out Saturday's home schedule of Cohasset youth soccer games, but a handful of local squads managed to get in their away contests.

In the lone victory reported, coach Nino D'Urso's girls' Under 12-1 team beat Kingston 3-1, behind Melinda Johansen's hat trick. "Melinda was assisted on all three by Erin Murphy," coach D'Urso said, "and Erin played as well as any player I've coached." Stephanie Lubitz was a defensive standout in the contest.

The girls' Under 16 team dropped a close 1-0 decision to Hanover, a game in which they were led by Heidi Lincoln and Jennifer Goodman.

In boy's play, the Under 10-3 team, made up almost entirely of newcomers to the sport, had a tough opener at Plymouth, where they lost 9-0. Playing well, though, were Andrew Ross, Paul Sheerin and Dennis Rooney.

Under 14-2 boys also lost at Plymouth, 4-1. Brendan DeVos, Andy Church and John Kinchla stood out in that game. And boys' Under 1602 were beaten at Marshfield, 3-0, despite good play from Jim Yess, Mac Campbell and Willie Bruns. The Under 19 boys' squad lost 4-0 to Pembroke.

Last weekend's games, local youth soccer officials reported, will begin to be made up this Sunday, weather permitting.

SELECT KORNET

Essential Qualities for A Good Selectman:

- Fairness and objectivity.
- Willingness to listen.
- Ability to negotiate controversial issues rationally.
- Initiative to propose creative solutions to problems.

Diana Kornet has a proven record of responsible planning and effective management in a leadership position during 10 years on the Cohasset School Committee.

Interviews with the candidates . . .

we owe it to the present school age generation to provide them with the best quality of education that we can reasonably afford. I see this as a question of fairness and a question of a very wise investment in our future. Second, I would impress upon the homeowners of the community that to not provide adequate financial support for our schools could have a lasting impact upon our property values. This has been demonstrated already in other communities. In essence, to not approve the override would be a penny wise and dollar foolish decision and that for the few extra dollars involved in an override per thousand dollars property value could be measured in the lost value of many thousands of dollars on that same property if we get the reputation as a community with inadequate schools."

What can Cohasset do to find needed resources to continue quality public education?

"First, we have to begin at home and assure that the financial burden of our schools is being equitably distributed. This is going to require that all homes in Cohasset be fairly and properly assessed and current market trends suggest that there are some wide discrepancies in property values which must be addressed. Secondly, we have to continue as we have been doing to produce lean and hard budgets which reflect the economic realities of the present time. Third, we must take a hard look at potential areas of regional cooperation. These could include exploring the possibilities of regional athletic teams and the sharing of faculty across school districts, and the sharing of certain resources. Finally, we must explore the possibility of having parents participate more directly in financing certain aspects of their child's education through either user fees or some form of voluntary contributions."

What are the strengths and weaknesses of the Cohasset school system?

"The greatest strength is that we have achieved a tradition of quality education. We have achieved this through a dedicated faculty, and a concerned community who strongly believe in quality schools. I believe the smallness of our schools is a big plus. It allows for greater participation and helps minimize the problems of alienation that are experienced in larger school systems. Perhaps our greatest weakness is in the way that we serve our non-college bound students. I am very concerned that when we are confronted with having to cut back that it might be this element of our population that is most likely to suffer. It would be a shame if we ever have to eliminate such programs as industrial arts and home economics, and some of our general business classes. We pride ourselves in the number of our graduates who go on to college and rightly so. But we cannot short change the balance of our school population."

What qualifications do you have and why should people vote for you for school committee?

"I have already served on the school committee for three years, and I'm willing to give an additional three years. I own a local business, so I am sensitive to the economic conditions of our community. Since I graduated from Cohasset schools, this provides me with a deep personal commitment to the community. The fact that I have a Ph.D. from Michigan State University in the field of education and that I have experience both as a teacher and as a legislative aide in the US House of Representatives gives me a wide range of educational and political experience."

Ralph Kidder

How would you convince voters to approve an override so the school budget won't be cut?

Ralph Kidder, 43, of 2 Cushing Rd., is corporate controller for Wedgestone Financial, Newton. A Cohasset resident for three and a half years, he and his wife, Linda Keller, have three children, Elizabeth, 9; Sarah, 6, and Ian, 4.

How would you convince voters to approve an override so the school budget won't be cut?

"By demonstrating to the voters that the resources which have been provided have been used efficiently and effectively and that every effort had been made to accurately reflect in the budget the needs of the schools. This would best be done by setting measurable goals and objectives and demonstrating that those had been met. It is clear that the school committee has done a good job this year of presenting to the town a maintenance budget. The effects of a failure to override would be immediately visible."

What can Cohasset do to find needed resources to continue quality public education?

"The school committee should appoint a blue ribbon commission to explore a mechanism by which private endowments can be established for the schools. Secondly, the school committee should explore corporate partnerships."

What are the strengths and weaknesses of the Cohasset school system?

"The strengths include an excellent professional staff, and a supportive community. The weaknesses include facilities and a lack of coordination of the curriculum due to the constraints placed upon the professional staff."

What qualifications do you have, and why should people vote for you for school committee?

"My qualifications are 15 years experience as a professional educator, educational administrator and consultant. In addition, my current position as a controller involves the preparation of budgets, financial forecasts and financial reports, and the supervision of the accounting department. I believe that my professional experience, my involvement in the community as a member of the strategic planning committee, the Cohasset Parent School Organization, Project Playground, the Community Center nursery school board, and my dedication to quality public education, have provided me with the skills necessary to serve the children and all of Cohasset as a member of the school committee."

1. What qualifications do you have to run for the position of sewer commissioner?

"First of all, I was one of the original members of the sewer study committee. I've worked on several occasions with the sewer commission discussing sewerage problems with the town. My background in the service was working with pumps and air compressors, air conditioning and refrigeration pumps, and I've worked on evaporator plants where fresh water is made from salt water. So I've had experience working with the same type of equipment as the treatment plant.

SEWER COMMISSION, DAVID BUCKLEY, CHAIRMAN

Two town officials honored by town meeting

Two resolutions, honoring two longtime town officials, were overwhelmingly approved at Tuesday's session of town meeting.

The first resolution was presented by Advisory Committee Chairman Jane Goedecke in honor of member Jill O'Donnell who will be retiring from the board after six years. The resolution cited O'Donnell's sense of fairness, dedication and good humor, and extended the best wishes of her fellow townspeople.

A second resolution was offered by the school committee in honor of ten-year member Diana Kornet. She was cited for her "wise counsel, common sense and tact . . . to provide schools of the highest quality for all the students of Cohasset. We are deeply grateful for her service to the town."

Kornet, who served as chairman of that committee for the past two years, is running for a three-year term on the board of selectmen.

Interviews with the candidates . . .

Sewer commission

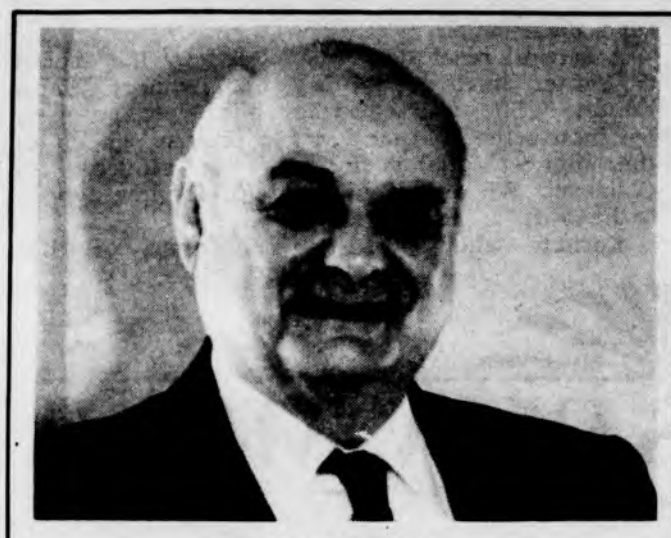
real estate firm for the past ten years - that's my managerial experience.



"Basically, the duties of the sewer commission are more managerial than an operator's position. My opponent has based his campaign on being a plant operator. But that's not required of a sewer commissioner. We've never had a sewer commissioner who was required to have an operator's license."

2. Why are you running for sewer commissioner at this time?

"I've always been interested in the needs of the town in this area. Being a boat owner, I've always been interested in what's happening to the harbor area. And living in the Hillside area, I am well aware of the problems we have now and the people who are having such a difficult time dealing with them., It's absolutely necessary that something be done for them as quickly as possible."

3. At this time, what can you say to Cohasset homeowners who are buying time until the sewer system in Cohasset is expanded?

"If possible, we should try to avoid spending large amounts of money to completely replace their existing septic systems. They should try to keep them pumped and live with the problem until we get sewer service to the area. Seeing that the plan to tie into the Hull treatment plant is no longer feasible, we will go to the DEQE and the EPA and try to convince them that to expand the plant we have now is the most cost effective and expeditious way to help homeowners who have problems."

Manuel Salvador

Manuel Salvador
Age:62
Address: Elm Court
Occupation: retired
Education: Cohasset High School; Massachusetts Trade School; various wastewater treatment and plant operations courses at Syracuse University, Bridgewater State College, Merrimack College, Sacramento College, Lowell University, Clemson University and California State University.
Married with one son.

1. What qualifications do you have to run for the position of sewer commissioner?

"I have 22 years of wastewater management experience including working with three engineering firms that did studies of Cohasset's problems. This gives me hands-on experience in dealing with the operation of the present system which could be most valuable to the town. I am not running for personal gain.

I attended sewer commission meetings in the official status of plant operator and superintendent for 16 years where I've had first hand knowledge of how the sewer commission's business is handled."

2. Why are you running for sewer commissioner at this time?

"I am presently retired and will be available to devote fulltime to the sewer commission. I'm convinced with the options available to us now regarding how the expansion of the sewered areas will be accomplished - we are at a standstill. No state money is available for us to go to Hull. The commissioners are talking about expanding the present plant to peak flows of a half-million gallons per day. The outfall will be in a marsh which is affected by flooding and the destination of the effluent is in Cohasset Harbor surrounded by beaches and marshes."

3. Why can you say to Cohasset homeowners who are buying time until the sewer system is expanded?

"As a candidate for sewer commissioner, I will try to find answers to many of the problems facing the present plant which may never be able to be expanded due to an environmental impact study and the possible lack of state approval. We could be two to three years away from an answer. We may have to look into sewering the concerned areas in a different manner than expanding the present plant."

Interviews with the candidates . . .

Health board

Sharon Becker

Sharon Becker, 44, of 186 North Main St., describes herself as an "environmental advocate."

A resident of Cohasset since 1967, she has served on the health board for three years, and is currently chairman.

She and her husband, William, have a 19-year-old son, Karl.

What are your qualifications for this position?

As an incumbent, I have three years experience. I also have a master's degree in environmental policy from Tufts University and experience on different committees such as the solid waste study committee, Cohasset mapping committee, Mass. Bay/Cape Cod program, the Massachusetts Association of Health Sports, and Straights Pond Study Committee. I also was an intern in an environmental law firm in Boston.

Are you pleased with the progress being taken at the Cedar St. Landfill to resolve its state health violations - and what else needs to be done?

I wasn't pleased with the recent violation order because I don't believe that DEQE (Department of Environmental Quality Engineering) is fully aware of the plans that are underway for our new transfer recycling facility and the hydro-geological study we have done. They haven't reviewed that study yet and they've had that since last September. Progress is slow as far as the building is going. We have had the contract for over a month now and are still waiting for ground breaking. But once that facility starts operating I really envision an excellent recycling and transfer facility. But otherwise it is just a standard procedure that towns have to go through the violation orders. We have replied in letter form and by telephone and we are taking the necessary legal steps for the appeal. The litter problem is ongoing because many residents are not complying with securely bagging their trash. So that was one of the violations, and we just seem unable to control it until everybody complies with the regulation for bagging trash. Recycling has been working well. We've had good compliance with recycling. We've applied for a grant for a compost facility and we expect to get that grant money.

What are the greatest problems facing the health board now, and how would you propose resolving them?

Probably the biggest problem is failing septic systems. Proposals to take care of that would include enforcing our regulation regarding pumping every two years. With our new computer, we expect to enforce that regulation which we haven't been able to do before. At town meeting, we expect the article regarding septic disposal will pass and Rep. Mary Jeannette Murray has told the board of health she will expedite the passage of legislation that would allow the town to enter into a contract with upper Blackstone for septic disposals which will alleviate the problem that septage haulers now have with septic disposals. We expect that to be taken care of. I'd like to see more work done in the public health area such as smoke-free society by the year 2000, and radon testing of homes. People need to be more aware of the radon problem. They need to test their own homes. I'm also working toward a pesticide reform bill that would reduce pesticide use. Protecting our drinking water supply is an important issue now with increased development. In the expansion of Cohasset Heights Ltd. Landfill, there is an ongoing issue that the board of health needs to be involved in.

Hugh Morgan, 44, of 24 Bow St., is a revenue collection supervisor with the MBTA.

A Cohasset resident for most of his life, he and his wife, Suzanne, have two children, Derek, 17, and Christopher, 13.

What are your qualifications for this position?

I'm a concerned citizen of the town of Cohasset and I keep up with the problems of the town that affect the board of health. The town was just fined by the state for violations of the septic systems which are a major problem in the town now, as are disposal of septic waste and leachate from our dump. I'm very concerned about it and keep up with all the activities. I am willing and able to take on the job to correct all these problems. I attend board of health meetings periodically.

Are you pleased with the progress being taken at the Cedar St. landfill to resolve its state health violations, and what else needs to be done?

No, I am not at all pleased with the situation at the landfill. What's happened up there is it's going to be a very costly close. When we do cap the dump off, it's quite a bit of money that has as yet not been appropriated for removal of leachate and where its going to go. Also, residents of Cohasset have nowhere to bring their brush now. They are not accepting a lot of tree stumps at the dump, which is a problem for people cutting trees. That has to be resolved. I think the town should invest in a commercial chipper and allow the people to bring the stumps and brush and have it chipped. I'd like to improve the recycling of all recyclable materials. I would also like to see the transfer station move along smoothly, on schedule and efficiently.

What are the greatest problems facing the health board now, and how would you propose to resolve them?

One of the greatest problems is the septic systems in town and the breaking down of septic systems. The cost factor for systems now is running between $20,000 and $50,000. I'd like to see, if possible, the home owner get a break if a repair is possible in order to save them money. At the present time, if the repair is not feasible, try to help get financing for a new system. Also, there is a major problem with the Peppermint Brook which very possibly could run into the water supply. We need to clean up the raw sewerage going into that . The board should work very closely with the sewer commissioners to try to get the federal funds back so that we can sewerage more sections of the town. It should also work closely with the water commissioners in order to safeguard our water supply. In addition, it should make sure after our Cohasset landfill is closed, we make it safe for all residents, with no hazards. I would also like to make sure that the salt shed at the Dept of Public Utilities on King St. is taken care of. Sodium from the salt shed could get into the drains and water supply. No one has shown what long range effects are on sodium, but it bears looking into. I would like to make Cohasset the healthiest and safest town on the South Shore.

Little League try-outs

The Cohasset Little League will hold try-outs for the Major League Saturday, April 8 from 9 a.m. to noon. All registered 10, 11, and 12 year-old candidates must attend the try-outs. The raindate will be Sunday, April 9 from 1 p.m. to completion.

Copies of birth certificates must be submitted to the League before the candidate's name is added to a team roster.

At the try-outs, coaches will evaluate the candidates' performance in batting, hitting, throwing, catching, and fielding.

Summer soccer camp

Again this summer the Cohasset Recreation Department has contracted North American Soccer Camps, Inc. to conduct a half-day, week-long soccer clinic, which will begin Monday, August 14, to Saturday, August 19, at Deer Hill Field.

The program will be from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The Saturday time will be annouced during the week. The cost for camp is $80 for the first child in a family, $75 for the second, and $70 for the third or more in each family.

Each participant is also provided a camp T-shirt and soccer ball. Parent coaching clinics will be held on two evenings during the week.

To register for this program, call the Recreational Department office at 383-6791 as soon as possible.

A $25 deposit will be necessary at the time of registration and the balance will be due by June 1, 1989.

Milliken Field approved by voters . . .

Sawchuk said the fields will be surrounded by a 100-foot buffer separating the grounds from adjacent residential neighbors.

The committee chairman said a consultant was hired to assist with the plans, and he thanked Norfolk County for supplying additional engineering work.

The advisory committee recommended the proposal, noting it will cost about one-third of the original plan. The capital budget committee, which makes recommendations on expenditures over $10,000, supported the renovation project, but noted that it will add about four percent to residential tax bills and will be subject to approval on the May 6 ballot for a debt exclusion override.

One resident, Gary Vanderweil of Jerusalem Road, argued that an all-weather track should be included in the current plans. He suggested that provisions be made to improve the existing conditions at Milliken Field.

However, according to the committee chairman, the track was eliminated because of the exorbitent costs, but that provision can always be included in the future.

"Why did you drop track in favor of soccer?" Vanderweil asked.

Sawchuk noted that the committee did not eliminate the program from the high school. He explained that the changing athletic preferences of youth required additional soccer fields at this time, rather than investing in a new track surface.

Another member of the committee said they agreed that excluding an all-weather track would save the most money . But there is enough space provided in the plan so they could return to a future town meeting with a request for the installation of a track facility.

Although the measure needed a two-third majority to pass, it was clearly supported by most of the voters in attendance. The results of the vote were met with loud applause.

In other town meeting action Tuesday night, voters approved a $41,000 appropriation to repair the Osgood School roof. School committee chairman Diana Kornet explained that the price of the project had been reduced from the original $100,000 estimate.

Voters also sided with the sad plight of wire inspector Stephen Wigmore who requested a $27,000 appropriation for a new truck for the wire department. Wigmore told voters how he has been saddled with a "lemon" since 1980. Since he purchased the town-owned vehicle, it has had a history of fires, breakdowns and repairs.

Despite objections voiced by the advisory committee, voters decided to approve Wigmore's request.

The town also voted to support a total of $900 in longevity pay for three longtime elected town officials. The advisory committee did not recommend the additional pay, saying the officials are subject to regular evaluations and cost of living increases. However, selectmen noted that unlike town employees covered by union contracts or town bylaws, these employees do not receive longevity bonuses. Voters abided by selectmen's recommendation and approved the request.

Voters also approved revisions to the Cohasset wetlands protection bylaw. Conservation commission chairman Merle Brown explained that the revision will allow that board to seek a court decision if a ruling is appealed by an applicant. It will also require developers to pay the cost of all town engineering work completed during the commission's project review.

Town counsel explained the new bylaw will not allow town officials to trespass on private property without any recourse for the landowner. If a commission member feels there is a need to go onto private land, he must first file for permission from the district court. It will give the commission the same rights now held by the health board and the building inspector, he stated.

One resident argued the revision may result in additional legal expenses if the commission is required to hire special counsel when a decision is appealed. But chairman Brown noted that only two of the commission's decisions have been appealed since he has been a member of the board. In addition, the commission has never enlisted the help of special counsel.

The bylaw revision was approved by a 108 to 40 margin.

Police, fire station okayed . . .

Pounder of Stockbridge Street, which requires all engineers and architects employed by the town to abide by a contract which is within ten percent of the budget appropriation.

The advisory committee and selectmen added their recommendations to approve the project, saying the renovations are required by state law. Selectman James Gallagher noted that the current project is about $300,000 less than the one defeated last year by town meeting. And if the repairs aren't made this year, he warned, "it will be a lot more money down the road."

In her presentation to town meeting, study committee chairman Moore outlined the necessary work which will be completed, including a new roof, replacement of some windows and sills, install handicapped access and bathroom facilities, improve ventilation, install air conditioning, replace some brick work, and install drywells to prevent basement flooding.

The state now requires separate by equal facilities for women officers and firefighters, along with handicapped facilities and acess, a secure evidence room for the police department, secured storage area, and a functioning combined toilet and sink in the cells, Moore said. In addition, the committee felt that some items should be included in the project, including an additional automatically- activated upward door for the fire department, a fire pole with safety features, a communication console and communication equipment, upgrading of the telephone system and a bullet proof entrance to the police station.

The construction and remodeling will cost about $515,000, according to thr architect's estimates. All fees should amount to $48,000, expenses will add another $10,000 to the project, $79,500 for the furnishings, $10,000 for the clerk of the works, and $50,000 in contingencies.

Francis Collins of South Main Street, a member of this year's study committee, told town meeting he was opposed to the $1 million project last year, but said this year's plan was better, less expensive, and provided a greater use of the building. He noted that members of the committee will continue to negotiate with contractors, because "there's still money to be saved from that," he said.

"Who is in charge of maintaining (the station) and what is the plan for maintenance?" asked Patricia Facey of Woodland Drive. "If we are putting an investment to improve the building, I hope there's a plan for taking care of it." Her suggestion was met with loud applause from the audience.

Selectman Burt Pratt noted that selectmen are in charge of maintenance of town buildings – "and we hear you."

Court orders town to approve Rt. 3A plaza

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

Following a March hearing, a Dedham Superior Court judge has ordered the planning board to approve plans to construct a 12-store plaza on Rte. 3A.

Judge Robert Donahue issued an order March 24 stating that the Cohasset Plaza site plan should be reconsidered by the planning board.

But a hearing has yet to be scheduled on the matter. Atty. Charles Humphreys, representing applicant Donald Staszko, has unsuccessfully attempted to contact town counsel on the matter.

"Every day this matter is not concluded is costing my client money," Humphreys said this week. "The fact is, that land is laying fallow when a judge has told the town to approve it.

"Mr. Staszko owns this property and has expended a substantial amount of money to hold it. But right now he is being deprived of his right to use the land and is suffering a financial loss."

The Mariner was unsuccessful in its attempts to contact town counsel.

In his March 24 order, Judge Donahue said Staszko should be allowed to use the existing Rte. 3A entrance as the main access to the proposed plaza. He recommended the town amend the previous court ruling which allowed that access for the Stop and Shop store.

He concluded by stating, "the site plan does appear otherwise to conform to the zoning bylaw of the town of Cohasset."

Judge Donahue has remanded the plan back to the town "where it rightfully belongs," Humphreys said. "He didn't see any zoning problems with this plan and he's telling the board not to use the excuse about an access onto Sohier Street. But the main thing is, he's telling the planning board that this issue belongs in the town, not the court.

"However," the attorney noted, "if the planning board fails to approve this plan, or it approves the plan with unacceptable conditions, the court will retain jurisdiction over the matter and they will approve it."

Humphreys said this is the course many justices follow when local town boards fail to follow through with their responsibilities. "What they are saying is 'why should we be a patsy for people elected to town boards who will not make decisions,' " he stated.

When the planning board voted on the Cohasset Plaza site plan last summer, the decision ended in

Rotary welcomes its first female member

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

History was made Monday night at the Rotary Hall when a traditionally male bastion welcomed its first female member.

Susan Travers, manager of the Cohasset branch of Noble's Camera Shop, was inducted Monday night into Cohasset Rotary - the first woman member in the 47-year old organization.

Nothing had actually prevented the inclusion of women into the local service organization, But as President Brian Noble stated, "would you want to be the first?

"Nobody wanted to be the first until Susan. Once that barrier is broken, however, I'm sure there will be many more."

Travers, who was a longtime Scituate resident before moving to Weymouth, said she never gave much thought to the issue of "being the first."

"I guess being the first in anything is a little scary - be it the first woman, or the first man in a women's organization. But heck, if someone isn't first, things would never get done," she laughed.

She said being the first woman in Rotary doesn't bother her. "I know many of the members very well because they're customers at Noble's," she explained. "I knew I'd be with a good group of people."

She was eager to join the organization because of her familiarity with the group and its humanitarian contributions. "I like what Rotary stands for and I like the idea that professional people in Cohasset are giving back to their community. I wanted to be a part of that."

The store manager thoroughly enjoyed her first Rotary meeting, along with her father, John, who

Town officials gathered to break ground at the Cedar Street landfill for construction of the town's transfer station. Joining in Tuesday's ceremonies were: (l to r) Arthur Lehr, recycling chairman, Priscilla Tebbetts, chairman of the disposal area study committee, Anson Wheeler, chairman of the transfer station building committee, Sharon Becker, chairman of the board of health, and Joe Laugelle, landfill supervisor.

Groundbreaking for transfer station

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

"Perhaps some day, other towns will come to Cohasset to see how a good facility is run," said health board chairman Sharon Becker after ground breaking ceremonies Tuesday morning, April 11, for the new recycling and transfer facility at the Cedar St. Landfill.

On hand for the brief ceremonies were members of the building committee, selectmen, board of health, recycling and disposal area study committees as well as landfill supervisor Joseph Laugelle.

"The reason for the ground breaking was to let people know work has started on the facility," said Becker.

The project, which will cost about $550,000, is expected to be completed in about 150 days.

"We hope to start operating Aug. 1," said Becker.

When residents use the new facility, their first stop will be a recycling area where the trash bins are now, she said.

There will be receptacles for such things as paper, glass, metal, cardboard and aluminum, according to Becker.

"Then they will drive to a covered area and throw their trash into an open topped-trailer," said Becker.

Third stop will be a composting pad, she said, followed by another composting area from which residents may take material, she said.

Trash will ultimately be taken to SEMASS in

Gallagher despondent but proud of his service to town

It had been a depressing 24 hours for James Gallagher.

Following his re-election defeat, Gallagher spent a few hours by himself on Sunday, and was then ready to face family and friends who gathered to console him.

"It was a shock," the former selectman admitted. The self-employed painter and wallpaperer talked from Nantucket Island where he is working this week. "I'll tell you the truth, I never expected to lose, and certainly not by 200 votes."

That was the point-spread between him and successful candidate Diana Kornet. Edwin "Ned" Tebbetts topped the vote with more than 2,000. By virtue of the two highest tallies, Tebbetts and Kornet took the two seats on the board of selectmen.

"It's a tough thing to deal with," Gallagher said, describing his reaction to an unexpected defeat. "I know in my heart I did a beautiful job on that board. I don't mean to sound like sour grapes, but it doesn't seem fair to me. I just wanted another three years to prove myself, and I wasn't given that opportunity.

Election results pg. 11

"If I had done a bad job, or missed meetings, I'd be the first to say I couldn't do the job. But I had the time, and I did the job. It saddens me to go out this way - losing by 200 votes. I was so sure I would be re-elected - it's a shock."

Gallagher said he can look back on the past three years with pride. Furthermore, he liked what he was doing. "I definitely enjoyed it," he said. "I put so many hours into, I had to like it. I guess I kind of neglected my family a lot of times, but I think they understood. I worked hard on that board and I came to all the meetings well-informed and ready to take a vote. I never abstained from a vote - only when it involved my son-in-law in the fire department. But I never backed away from a crucial

Special permit hearings

Cohasset's Solid Waste Disposal Facility will be among the applicants for special permits at a meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals Thursday, April 20, at 7 p.m. at Cohasset Town Hall.

The facility will request a special permit for a trailer at the Cedar St. Landfill.

Also scheduled are applications for special permits from:

*B & H Realty Trust to alter the structure at 430 South Main St.

*David and Paul Buick to construct an addition and fence to the structure at 3 Highland Ave.

*Irene Volpe to construct an addition to the structure at 45 Church St.

Rotary says thanks

The Rotary Club and Road Race Committee has written to selectmen expressing gratitude for help with the recent road race.

"On behalf of the Rotary Club and the Road Race Committee, I wish to express our most sincere gratitude to you and the many town departments," wrote Peter Logan of Deep Run.

"The excellent assistance by the fire, police, highway, park and animal control departments assured the race would be a success," he said.

"From the many comments of the runners, the event was something we can all take pride in.

"The warmth and welcome provided by the residents conveyed the true spirit of the town.

"The funds raised will be used for the many in-town charities the club supports."

State aid receipts

The town's state aid receipts for fiscal 1990 could be reduced by $21,715, according to the Massachusetts Municipal Association.

If a Sunday lottery is begun, that loss could be offset by $19,827, the MMA said.

But assessments could increase by $51,231, the association noted in a letter to selectmen.

The MMA recently provided the town with estimates of the amounts the community might receive based on available revenues as proposed by the House of Representatives version of the state budget.

"It is not clear what revenues will be available in the various categories of local aid in the Senate since there has not yet been a Senate debate on the state budget; in fact, Senate hearings on the budget had not begun as this information was being compiled," said the MMA.

"What is clear, however, is that the Senate may cut even further, since doubt has been raised as to the House budget being balanced.

"Such cuts would have an impact on local aid as well as all other portions of the state budget."

The MMA noted that the information does not provide community-by-community information about many other grant and reimbursement programs that are on the Cherry Sheet.

" State wide, the House budget cut these and other grant programs that are not on the Cherry Sheet by $56 million below FY 1989 levels," said the MMA.

Selectmen's action

Selectman took the following action during their meeting Monday night, April 10, at town hall:

*Reelected Burt Pratt as chairman for another term. Rocco Laugelle was elected vice chairman.

*Praised former selectman James Gallagher for his three years of "thoughtful and energetic" service.

"He worked very hard," said selectman Martha Gjesteby.

*Tabled appointment of an assistant building inspector until the building inspector can be at the meeting.

*Tabled a New England Telephone petition for a proposed underground conduit location and one serving area connector terminal at Sohier St.

*Appointed a sub-committee of new selectmen Ned Tebbetts and Diana Kornet to work with executive secretary Greg Doyon on selecting an architect for the Curtis Estate.

*Granted a Sunday license for the Stop & Shop.

*Granted a request from Airport Shuttle Service, Inc., Carver, to provide limousine service to Logan Airport.

The company is to supply selectmen with a rate schedule.

*Granted a request from Beechwood Church to park cars on Pratt/Billings Park April 16, at 4 p.m.

*Agreed to ask members of the Police/Fire Station Renovation Committee to act as the building committee for the project.

*Agreed to study a suggestion by selectman Kornet that major town boards coordinate their schedule so that they do not meet on the same night.

She noted that both the school committee and selectmen meet on Monday nights.

*Wished administrative coordinator Janet Chalke good luck with her new job with Hingham selectmen.

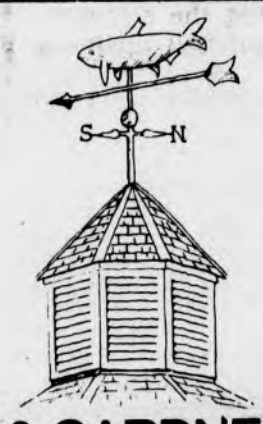
"Hingham's gain is our loss," said Pratt.

Common pond work

Selectmen voted Monday night, April 10, to accept a request from Civil Designs Inc., Boston, for $1,500 for work on the common pond.

As part of the work, Civil Designs will prepare technical specifications and expansion joint details for repair to the walls of the pond.

It will investigate pond leaks and recommend remedial measures.

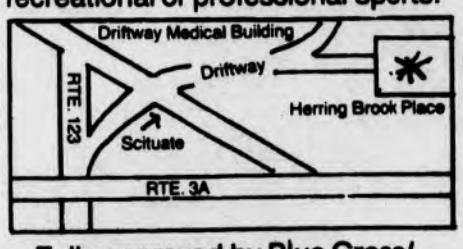


The consulting engineers will also try to ascertain the cause of the leaks.

At present, the firm feels the leaks are caused by cracks in the pond walls, leaky drain valve at the pond, water leaking from the pond through the drain trench and leaky clay liner for the pond.

If the clay liner is the problem, the firm said it will consider replacing the liner with a PVC or equivalent liner, repairing the existing clay liner by adding more clay, and adding makeup water.

The firm also plans to pressure test the pond drain and drain valve, if necessary.



The work, which has already begun, is expected to be completed the week of April 24.

Selectmen to study more user fees

Selectmen said they will ask the town accountant to do a survey of town departments with user fees to see which ones are self sufficient.

The survey was suggested after the board of health and recreation commission talked with selectmen about increasing the cost of the facilities sticker, or having a separate sticker for the disposal area.

The board decided not to make any change right now.

"They want to increase revenues to help support the new transfer station (at the Cedar St. Landfill)," explained executive secretary Greg Doyon.

"You know the old saying about nickeling and dimeing people," responded selectman Rocco Laugelle.

The board recently increased the sticker fee from $6 to $7.

"You have to come to a halt," said Laugelle.

"Continually raising the rate -whatever it may be - I don't think it's needed."

"A user fee is a good way of raising revenue," said health board chairman Sharon Becker.

Becker noted the cost of the new recycling and transfer station, as well as the need for hazardous waste collection days.

"They are very expensive," she said.

"Raising the sticker fee is a way of improving public health.

"You went up $1," said Becker.

"What if we raised it to $20-$25?"

"Never would I accept a fee of that nature," said Laugelle.

"I was in favor of raising the fee to $10," said selectman chairman Burt Pratt.

Advisory committee member Arne Gjesteby noted that many cars in town are not registered in Cohasset.

"They have to be registered where people live," said Gjesteby.

"We would get a lot of revenue from excise tax."

Jack Worley of the Recreation Commission said that his department issues about 4,000 facility stickers to residents a year.

They are good for the landfill, government island parking, and town beach.

New selectman Ned Tebbetts noted that sticker fees amount to $21,000 a year.

"Say it costs $100,000 to run the disposal area," said Tebbetts.

"The $80,000 difference shows up in the tax rate.

"The taxpayer subsidizes the difference."

Another new selectman, Diana Kornet, said that the schools are another area where user fees could be part of the future.

Worley said if there was a separate landfill sticker, it would add a lot more work to his department.

"We would need more time, or a third person," he said.

"I don't see any advantage with two stickers."

"You assume the recreation commission would bear the brunt of the stickers," said Pratt.

Worley responded that the town bylaw gives the recreation commission jurisdiction in issuing facility permits.

"The beach and government island are recreation areas," said Pratt.

"But the dump is something else.

"We should think this through for another year," said Pratt.

"I do not like user fees," he added.

"It's just another tax."

"Whatever you do, there's only one guy who is going to catch hell-me," said landfill supervisor Joseph Laugelle.

"The population is used to getting one facility sticker," said selectman Martha Gjesteby.

"I think we better keep it that way.

"But maybe $7 is low."

Worley noted that the sticker fee was once $10, but was decreased.

Becker said that the health board hasn't voted on the sticker fee proposals.

"But it's just something I felt very strongly about," she said.

The board also noted that some residents have complained that the facility stickers are available only during certain hours during the summer, rather than during regular town hall business hours.

"No matter when you do it," said Worley" someone can't make it."

Dump closed April 17

The Cedar Street Solid Waste Disposal facility will be closed Monday, April 17 for the Patriots Day holiday.

The Board of Health wishes to remind the townspeople that the landfill is also closed on Tuesday and Thursdays. Gates are open from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on all other days for disposal of trash.

Yard sale donations needed

The volunteers from Cohasset, preparing to make their journey to Leslie County, Kentucky for a week long work project (with the Appalachia Service Project) are holding a "Yard Sale" May 6 (voting day) at the Second Congregational Church.

We need saleable items: "good junk," tools, furniture, toys, sports equipment, etc. (No clothing); also any special opportunities local merchants might be willing to offer (meals, free donuts, pizza, etc).

Proceeds go toward our goal of raising $7,000 to travel, but materials and help improve the lives of several needy families in Kentucky.

From now through Wednesday, May 3, items may be dropped off at the Second Congregational Church during office hours (Monday through Friday between 9 and noon), or left in the office entry way on the town hall side of the church toward the rear of the building, or by appointment.

We will pick up large items — just call the church office and leave a message (383-0345).

Crystal Woods hearing continued until May 4

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

During a two-and-a half hour hearing April 6, the developer of the proposed Crystal Woods project and his consultants supplied the Zoning Board of Appeals with information.

But they will have to come back with the answers to more questions at the next hearing May 4.

Jack Hurley of Crystal Land Development Corporation is requesting a comprehensive permit for the 60-unit condominium project on 20 acres of land on the Cohasset/Scituate line.

The permit allows developers to bypass some local zoning in exchange for providing affordable housing.

There would be 22 affordable units at Crystal Woods, off Route 3A. Ten would be in Cohasset, 12 in Scituate.

The Ledgewood Neighborhood Association, Cohasset abutters to the project, have registered their opposition.

Their concerns include density, proximity to property lines, proposed connection to Ledgewood Drive, and the effect on Cohasset's water pressure.

More than 65 of the neighbors attended the ZBA hearing at First Parish meeting house, but did not have a chance to speak before the meeting concluded for the evening.

Comments will continue to be taken at the next meeting,May 4, at 8 p.m. at Town Hall.

"There positively is a demonstrated need in Cohasset for affordable housing," said Hurley's attorney, Michael Savage.

Savage gave the ZBA a copy of a letter from Amy Anthony of the Executive Office of Communities and Development which recently awarded $1.9 million in Housing Opportunity Program (HOP) funds to Crystal Woods.

He also said that the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency has given preliminary site approval, and the Cohasset Housing Partnership has also given conditional approval.

Hurley said that of the 28 units in Cohasset, 18 would be market rate, and would sell for $145,000 to $185,000.

He said the affordable units would be sold to first time home buyers or the housing authority for $75,000 to $95,000 each.

The 10 affordable units in Cohasset would be equally divided between two and three bedrooms, according to Hurley.

"Thirty-six percent of the total development is considered affordable," he said .

There would be no three-bedroom units at the market rate, according to Hurley.

The project would be constructed in three phases, he said.

The first two phases would include construction of 32 units in Scituate over 14 months, he said.

During the third phase, 28 units would be constructed in Cohasset over 10-12 months, Hurley said.

"We expect to finish the project in 20-24 months," said Hurley.

He said that a traffic engineer was hired last week, and will start work on the project in the next two weeks.

Architect James Kelleher of Architectural Axiom of Hanover said that five buildings will be constructed in Cohasset.

"The Cohasset site seems more dense than the Scituate site," commented board member Terrence Farrell.

"You really packed into Cohasset a lot of units," said Farrell.

"This was the most desirable site plan we could come up with," answered Hurley.

Hurley said a curb cut on Route 3A would be requested for an entrance to the site, and that a tie-in to Ledgewood Drive is also planned .

It is currently a dead-end street in Cohasset.

"For social purposes, it is best served not to take affordable housing and make it a 'ghetto-like' development," said Savage.

"We believe in this tie-in," he said.

"It wouldn't adversely impact traffic."

"I don't believe it would be 'ghetto-like' by having one entrance," said Farrell.

"The issues we are discussing are of traffic and safety.

"That's the test of any development.

"It would be helpful if you would not use high charging words.

"We want to stay with the issues of traffic and safety."

More discussion of traffic issues was postponed until May 4 when Hurley is expected to have his traffic engineer present.

Kelleher said that set backs are expected to range from 80 feet to 170 feet.

He said the setbacks would allow the developer to leave vegetative buffers untouched.

Engineer Henry Novier said that most of the drainage would go toward Route 3A, into an 18 inch pipe which ends up in Cohasset Harbor.

"The flows would be approximately 10 percent less than now," he said.

"We feel we have a very sound drainage system and design."

The septic system would be in Scituate.

Board chairman Myrna Putziger said she was concerned about a multi-jurisdictional project.

Putziger also asked about responsiveness to complaints from Cohasset residents if the sewage system in Scituate should fail.

Novier said water for the development would come from Cohasset.

"How does Cohasset put a lien on land in Scituate for non-payment?" asked Putziger.

In response to another question from the board, Hurley said that the affordable units haven't been designated on the plans yet.

"It just doesn't seem that you are up to speed with technical people," said Farrell.

"We don't have all the answers," said Hurley.

"We have hit the issues as we found them the hottest," he said.

Putziger said she was troubled that there were no market rate three-bedroom units.

"There is a distinction between affordable and market rate," she said.

"That says something very negative to me."

She also asked about local preference.

Savage said that because the project was not supported by selectmen, the Mass. Housing Partnership feels community support has not been shown.

"But they said they would reconsider local preference," he said.

"It is all based on how much the community wants to participate with affordable housing."

"Our position is that local preference is necessary to make this a success," said Hurley.

"It's important to keep local residents in town. It's vital to the project."

Putziger said that local preference should be shared between Cohasset and Scituate uniformly in all phases.

Savage said that some of the requests by the board would require the developer to go back to the MHFA and renegotiate the plan, possibly endangering the grant.

"We don't want to be told we have a take it or leave it project," said Putziger.

Farrell said the state agency would be open to recommendations.

"Don't resist some legitimate issues were are raising," he said.

Putziger asked Hurley to come back with calculations comparing the density of the adjacent neighborhood.

Planning Board chairman Robert Sturdy said "the most obvious, appropriate connection is Gannet Pasture Rd. " in Scituate.

Sturdy also spoke of drainage problems on the site.

He suggested a hydro-geological study.

Transfer station groundbreaking . . .

Rochester, N.Y., at a cost of $55 a ton.

The landfill averages 10 tons a day now, according to Becker. That breaks down to 3-5 lbs. per person, a day.

"Every ton we can recycle will save us $55, plus the money we can get back," she said.

"Aluminum is getting a high price."

Enforcement of the town's mandatory recycling will be stepped up when the facility opens, Becker said.

"We'll have recycling information days April 29 and 30 at the landfill," she noted.

"We'll give out a recycling guide and decals.

"There will be balloons and coffee.

"Residents will be able to meet with people and talk about recycling."

Much work led to the ground breaking,noted Becker.

The disposal area study committee put in many hours over a number of years, she said.

"Priscilla Tebbetts did a fine job as chairman ," said Becker.

Other members are Hap Pompeo, Eleanor Smith, Jeff Power, Donna French, and Anson Whealer, she said.

"Their charge was a long range solution to the landfill problem," said Becker.

Their work included putting out the bid for a consulting firm, said Becker, and working on the design and bid for the recycling and transfer station.

The town plans to cap and close the landfill next year, according to Becker.

"We're running out of space at our landfill," she said.

"But we will have time until the transfer station opens."

Becker said the town decided not to go to Phase 2 at the landfill because of the expense of a liner and leachate collection.

"It would need a very expensive lining system," she said.

There will be leachate collection for the part of the landfill that is not capped yet, she said.

But the price will be high, according to Becker.

It will be about $300,000 for the leachate collection system, and $250,000 to cap the landfill.

"You are talking about major expenses," she said.

The new facility will help clean up the litter problem at the landfill, said Becker.

And there will be more recycling facilities available.

"It will be a neater and cleaner environment up there," she said.

Becker said that a similar facility in Wellesley is a pleasant place to visit.

"It's a model for the state," she said.

"It's just wonderful," she said.

"It's a transfer station like we'll have."

According to Becker, 80 to 90 percent of Wellesley's residents participate in recycling.

Cohasset's goal will be 45-50 percent, she said.

"We could do it," Becker said.

"This really is the way to go.

"The most environmentally safe way to dispose of trash is recycling."

Though the town's unrecyclable trash will be incinerated at SEMASS, that is still more environmentally sound than a landfill, said Becker.

In addition to Cohasset residents, the landfill is also used by commercial haulers and businesses, she noted.

When the transfer station begins operation, the haulers will be required to recycle as well, said Becker.

a 2-2 tie. At that time Humphreys argued that a tie vote constituted no action on the matter. Since the time limitation had expired, Humphreys said the plan should be automatically approved. In turn, the planning board argued a tie vote constituted a denial.

In his order issued March 24, Judge Donahue said the tie vote was a legal action by the planning board. However, his final message to the board was to review the matter again - and to approve it.

Humphreys said if the planning board finally schedules a hearing on the matter, it must approve the plan or approve it with acceptable conditions. If those conditions are deemed unacceptable by the applicant, the plan will be brought back into court for the judge to decide. "If it does go back into court, the judge will obviously decide to approve the plan," he said.

The attorney is concerned with the lack of action by the town. "Frankly, I have no idea what's going on. I'm very surprised the town hasn't moved on this because it is something the court has dictated," he noted.

Chiropractic for Health

CONSTIPATION

Constipation is a common symptom that is treated by many with traditional therapy. That is, the patient takes a laxative to eliminate waste. Most laxatives work by irritating the bowel, and the body rejects them along with fecal matter. Unfortunately, the intestional flora so vitally needed for proper digestion are often lost with the laxative and waste. The chiropractic approach is primarily intended to treat the causes, not the symptoms. Spinal adjustments are made to remove interference, enabling the body to resume proper flow of nerve energy to the affected organ. Normal functioning results. In addition, such factors as diet, exercise, and stress may be analyzed to see how they may contribute to the disorder, and what can be done to modify their effect.

Chiropractic addresses virtually every point and problem within the body. Through chiropractic applications, points of interference can be eliminated, thus allowing Mother Nature's instructions for a natural healing process to take place. At SCITUATE HARBOR CHIROPRACTIC, we are here to serve your needs. Call today. Located at 80 Front St., Scituate Harbor. Tel. 545-7388. By appt. Early morning and late evening appts. Rotary inducts its first female member . . .

Her boss at Noble's is also a member of the Hingham Rotary. Three women joined that organization several years ago, he said, and since that time, a number of other local business women have joined their ranks.

Rotary International began in 1919 as an all-male organization. But lawsuits filed against Rotary and other all-male service clubs resulted in a ban against discrimination.

"You have to understand that when Rotary first began, men were the only ones making the important business decisions of the day. But as businesses changed, the role of women in companies has changed," Noble explained. "Years and years ago, the United States Rotary wanted women to join. But International Rotary, which is much larger, defeated that proposal. There are some countries that still do not recognize women, and they outvoted the United States."

Noble admitted the idea of women joining Rotary should not be new, since women play an increasingly important role in business.

"But the fact is, nobody wanted to be known as 'the first,'" he stated.

It was Noble who proposed Travers name as a member. It was a logical choice, he said, describing Travers as "an aggressive, thoughtful, caring, selfless business person who would make an excellent addition to Rotary."

Her nomination was unanimously approved, and Monday marked the first meeting for the Weymouth resident.

Noble described Cohasset Rotary as the "principle business vehicle" in the town because it meets regularly each week. Rotary is perhaps best known for the publication of its local phone books. Last year, Noble said, donations and advertising from that phone book netted $18,000 toward scholarships for Cohasset High graduates, sponsored by the organization.

In addition, the Rotary has organized the annual roadrace. That event, which brings in about $4,000 for the Rotary, is now considered a qualifying event for the Boston Marathon.

Rotary has been the primary sponsor of Cohasset's Special Olympics team and in the past they have helped with the purchase of the senior shuttle van.

In addition, Cohasset Rotary was recently recognized for raising $30,000 to help with the International Rotary's Polio Plus campaign, an effort to wipe out that crippling disease.

"I'm proud of what I did and I'm proud of my family for helping me. Being a selectman can be hard on the family, but they were great," he added.

If he had been re-elected, Gallagher said he was looking forward to meeting with members of the South Shore Coalition, to help uncover alternative resources and revenues for the town. As selectman's liason to the landfill, Gallagher was hopeful about the new plans for a transfer station, and for implementing a mandatory recycling program at Cedar Street.

He was also liason with the police and fire station committee, and eagerly anticipated the start of the renovation project. "That's something I really wanted to stay involved with," he noted. "I'm in the building trades and had a good grasp of what was happening there."

Gallagher also felt a sense of involvement with the town's struggle to develop affordable housing. He recalled that former executive secretary Donald Andrew and he drafted the first copy of a fair housing agreement, which was later molded into the policy statement adopted by the town and the state.

James Gallagher

Although he is wary of the comprehensive permit process, Gallagher said he looks forward to the town developing its own housing units, such as the ones proposed on the former school land off Rte. 3A. As a selectman, Gallagher said he would fight to see that Cohasset residents are given top priority for the affordable homes built in this town.

When asked if he would consider running for elected office again, Gallagher replied, "not in the immediate future. It takes a tremendous toll on the family."

The former longtime member of the recreation commission said he will remain active in town politics, and, as always, will be a faithful attendee at town meeting.

"I'm not soured by politics," he said. "But right now I feel kind of sad. It was a real letdown, and I'm going to have to get over that. I still love this town and I will always remain active.

"It's just going to take some time."

Thanks for Easter egg hunt

The annual Easter Egg hunt requires the combined efforts and interests of many people who are willing to donate their time.

Also required is financial support for payment of the various expenses. Monies are donated through the combined generosities of local organizations, businesses and residents.

Special gratitude is extended to Jean Salvador. We all owe Jean a special vote of thanks for her efforts, and for caring about our community and our residents. Also, to Anita Ross Fraiser and Manuel Salvador, whose efforts and interest remain essential to the program.

Many thanks go to: American Legion Post #188, Cohasset Chamber of Commerce, Cohasset Police Association, Cohasset Rotary Club, Cohasset Veteran's of Foreign War's Post #9146, Tedeschi Corporation, Kimball's-By-The-Sea, Dan Lahey, Colonial Pharmacy, Ralph Harrison, Woolworths, Mr. Hathaway, Walgreens, Cohasset Recreation Commission, Richard P. around town

□ Congratulations go to Kim Edward and Lori (Catler) Ackley, who had a bouncing baby boy on March 21 at South Shore Hospital.

A little girl also was born on March 21, in South Shore Hospital to Rodney and Neiton White. There are two more reasons not to close any of the Elementary schools: babies are becoming bountiful in Cohasset again.

□ It is certainly hard to picture our town without our favorite Margaret Keating buzzing around it! A real lady with a ready smile, always time for a chat and a wonderful friend! Any one whose life she touched should be grateful, she was special indeed. We will miss her.

□ Congratulations go to Janice Crowley and Helen Pratt, who were honored by Hunneman and Co. for their strong sales performances in 1988.

□ Tim Curran makes the news this week. Son of Ed and Elaine Curran of 128 Doane Street, Tim has completed a transportation officer basic course at the U.S. Army Transportation School, Fort Eustis, Va. Tim graduated from Cohasset High School in 1984 and received a bachelor's degree from Boston College in 1988.

□ Speaking of college, Derek Lacks made the Dean's List at Providence College. Good work Derek.

□ To all of our resident Senior Class members, no matter which school you are attending, there is good news. If you are interested in art and have been accepted by a school of fine arts or an accredited institution of higher learning which includes fine arts curriculum you are eligible to apply to the South Shore Art Center's scholarship competition. The Art Center wishes to encourage local students to further their art education, what better way than through a scholarship! For more information call the South Shore Art Center at 383-9548.

□ Hats off to Barbara Weisenfluh of Hunneman and Company Realtors/Better Homes and Gardens. She was honored recently for exceeding $2,000,000 in sales for 1988. Shirley Tolan was recognized as the office Broker of the year! Ruth Keefe, Claire Shields, Jane Crocker, John Gallagher and Karen Kirkendall were also recognized for their outstanding sales achievements in 1988.

Jen Burns waits on customers on the grand opening day at Dwyer's Cleaning Spot headquarters. The former building on Rte. 3A was destroyed by a fire last summer. (Staff photo/Buzz Wadsworth)

□ Won't it be nice when the dedicated CHS Senior Class member removes the graffiti from the Beach House and replaces it with a mural? It is part of the voluntary senior project that will involve 27 senior class members, we think the idea to be an admirable one indeed!

□ It sure is nice to see our seniors really riding in style in their new shuttle van that was purchased through the generosity of the Rotary Club and the Cohasset taxpayers. As one senior citizen put it, "It's the only way to go."

□ Congratulations to all of our newly elected officials, here is to an illustrious term for all of you. To those who didn't win, we thank you for making the race a challenging one, and encourage you to run again for your spot! Our town needs you and your services. We also thank Channel 3 and Wigmore Pierson for his fine coverage of the election day results, it was fun to watch.

□ We sure hope that everyone is on the lookout for the red and white pickup truck that hit Peter Wood as he was jogging last week. What a horrible thing, unbelievable really! Keep an eye out for him Peter, you are bound to spot him again as you jog each morning!

□ Sunday, April 9, Kristin Ellinger and Nancy Riley were honored by the Massachusetts basketball coaches association as members of this year's academic All-State Team.

Criteria for selection to the team is both athletically and academically very demanding. Players must excel in the classroom as well as on the court. Only 20 players throughout the entire state are selected each year.

Cohasset Junior/Senior High has had seven girls' basketball players selected to the state Academic All-State Team in the past five years.

□ Next week is CHS's spring break, and all of the other schools, too. Keep a diary, so that you can let us in on your happenings, they should be plentiful at this time of the year!!

Limit for Little Harbor jet skis

Voters at last Wednesday's session of town meeting sided with the residents of Little Harbor and supported a speed limit for jet skis.

There was some lengthy debate about the topic at the previous session Tuesday night.

For the first time in recent memory, a town meeting article resulted in a tie vote, with 77 in support and the same number opposed to the speed limit.

A second vote taken immediately after the first led to the adoption of a jet ski speed ban, with 85 in support and 82 opposed. A motion to reconsider the article was made later during Tuesday's meeting by Stephen O'Connor of South Main Street.

During Tuesday night's debate, Gammons Road resident David Weltman explained why the 12 m.p.h. speed limit was proposed by the residents surrounding Little Harbor. He recalled that voters at the 1988 town meeting defeated a proposal to ban the water vehicle from the harbor and in Little Harbor. State law currently allows municipalities to limit the speed of the vehicles.

He read from an advertisement which called attention to the jet ski's speed, and informed voters that New Hampshire has banned all jet skis from that state's lakes. In Massachusetts, there are three bills pending in the legislature which would restrict or prohibit the use of jet skis. Weltman also told voters about a local resident, Kurt Weisenfluh, who was seriously injured when a recklessly-driven jet ski crashed into his sailfish.

The 12 m.p.h. limit was proposed, he said, because jet skis "fall into the water" when operated under that speed. Weltman also noted that above that speed, jet skis will leave a noticeable wake in the water. He suggested that residents along Little Harbor could patrol the area for violations.

The advisory board did not recommend the article, saying that the speed limit is not ennforceable by the town's harbormasters.

But it was Selectman Rocco Laugelle who voiced the strongest objections to the proposal. "Little Harbor is for the residents of Cohasset, not just for the residents who live around there," he said. "Some people just don't want anything around Little Harbor. You can't stop them (jet skis) from coming into Little Harbor. I'm not saying they should 40 or 50 m.p.h., but they won't function at 12 m.p.h. We should allow them at a reasonable rate."

Laugelle also objected to the residents' statements that they will "keep an eye on things" in Little Harbor. The selectman told about an incident when he went to inspect clams with a state official, and they were reported twice by residents who spotted them on the beach.

"Release Little Harbor to the town of Cohasset," he stated.

Steve O'Connor of South Main Street said he frequently jet skis in Little Harbor. He told the voters that all vehicles are registered by the Coast Guard, and they are not allowed to drive them at night. He also has seen five waterskiers in Little Harbor at one time, which O'Connor said is a more dangerous situation than the jet ski.

He said there are only six jet skis in Cohasset and he never witnessed any of them "roaring" into Little Harbor. He called residents' testimonies "a little melodramatic."

Edward Long of Nichols Road said the noise and speed of jet skis are not compatible with the other forms of quiet water recreation in Little Harbor, such as canoeing and windsurfing. "It gets a little dangerous and overcrowded," he said.

Editorial

A new regime

A new regime, so to speak, has begun in Cohasset. With a new election, comes a few new faces and some fresh personalities on the town boards and committees.

But before we welcome the new, we must take the time to say farewell to the old.

The board of selectmen will be without two familiar faces this year - Cliff Mitman and Jim Gallagher. Cliff announced several months ago he would not be seeking re-election to the board. After six years and a change in employment, he found the commitment too great.

Most people found Cliff to be the voice of reason and sanity on the board of selectmen. When things threatened to get out of hand at a meeting, Cliff would step in as a referee and chart matters back on course. He did this without anger and with great respect for his fellow board members and the public. And that is what Cliff received in return. He was respected by his peers and the public. Although they did not always agree with him, people in this town respect the former selectman.

His final decision, to refrain from another three-year term on the board, was perhaps his most reasonable. He realized that his frequent absences from the board because of business commitments, caused problems during important decisions and discussions. Although the town will sorely miss his even temper and intelligence, it was time for another to take his place.

Parting was indeed sweet sorrow for former selectman Jim Gallagher. The three-year incumbent dearly wanted to remain on that board, but was defeated in the attempt.

Jim, who was an elected member of recreation commission for many years, was emotional over his loss. There were many things he had hoped to accomplish in the next term. But at least, Jim feels he did a good job while he was in town hall.

And no one can take that away from him. There were times this year when a meeting of the selectmen resembled a shoot-out at the O-K Corral. And although his fellow board members could raise Jim's temper, he was always a gentleman to the public. He treated every person who came before that board with respect and kindness.

One resident commented this week that Jim "has a good soul." He may not be as sophisticated as some of the "well-bred" residents of this town, but he has compassion and kindness. Those are rare and valuable qualities in any person.

He should not feel too badly about the outcome of Saturday's election. The voters felt it was time for a change in town government, and he was in the midst of that move. There will certainly be more change in the future.

We wish all our new board members great success in their new terms. Their promises and platforms will be watched closely by residents who are eager to see if campaign pledges will be followed through.

A sure sign of spring was recently spotted on a lawn in Cohasset.

Crystal Woods exposed its flaws

To the Editor:

Statement by the Ledgewood Neighborhood Association concerning the Zoning Board of Appeals' hearing on the Crystal Woods Development proposal:

The public hearing exposed the flaws and weaknesses in this proposal which have concerned us from the beginning. The issues of traffic, water, drainage and sewage and the complications from trying to determine responsibility and accountability from two towns are very serious concerns. Unfortunately, Mr. Hurley did not have answers to most of the questions about these issues.

His lack of experience as a developer was very evident by his failure to have information about traffic studies, water flows and other important aspects of the project.

Letters

We noted he agreed with our earlier contention about the weak qualifications of his original general contractor. However, we now have no idea about who will be responsible for building the complex.

We are pleased that the planning and land use questions we have raised about this project, which have nothing to do with affordable housing, are being recognized as the legitimate issues.

Paul Wetzel, for the Ledgewood Neighborhood Assn.

Progress can be sad for some

To The Editor:

We have lost a glen in our town, a gentle place where for years a gentle person lived alone in an old outbuilding from an estate of another time. He loved the sea and his treasured sloop still sits in our harbor, even in the winter — which would probably concern him since boats, like us, like to be comfortable in the winter with something around them for protection. But a greater sadness for him would surely be the disappearance of his glen and his classic shack. When you passed the horse fountain with its summer petunias years ago, his place was hidden away; you sort of had to peek through the leaves to see it and in later years his old sloop "Sigeuner" resting in the yard. Now you are slammed in the eyes by what passes these days for a mansion, a great heap of symbolism at the edge of the road, sitting on top of what was such a pleasant glen for an old man of the sea who took the Sunday paper out to the lightship. Maybe it's progress, but it sure is sad.

Laugelle's misguided interpretations

To the editor:

Mr. Rocco Laugelle, one of our selectmen, addressed the Town Meeting last Wednesday (April 5) night early in the discussion of Article 55 which would limit the speed of jet skiing in Little Harbor to 12 m.p.h. At first it was not clear whether Mr. Laugelle was speaking for the selectmen or only himself although it soon became readily apparent. The derogatory remarks he made toward the people who live around Little Harbor who sponsored the article was very distasteful to many people in town, not only those to whom the tirade was directed. Very few of Mr. Laugelle's remarks concerned the substance of the subject under discussion.

For some reason Mr. Laugelle has trouble understanding why people who live around Little Harbor take an interest in wanting to do things which promote the enjoyment and safety of a large majority of everyone who uses Little Harbor.

Mr. Laugelle's comments about his inspection of the Little Harbor clam flats with someone from the state resulting in many complaints to Town Hall was curious. How did anyone know it was Mr. Laugelle out there and not someone taking clams — the flats are closed to claming? Isn't it reasonable for people to check out possible threats to a protected resource of the town? Does Mr. Laugelle really think we own the clam flats?

We all welcome comments from our selectmen on matters coming before Town Meeting but we would hope they would focus on the substance of the issues rather than dwelling on misguided interpretations of why a proponant proposes an article. I might say, it usually works the way it should.

Sincerely,
John Hubbard
Beach Street

Joggers should stay to right

To the Editor:

I sympathize with Peter Wood, the jogger who was deliberately hit by a selfish, senseless driver. I wonder, however, which side of the road Mr. Wood was on? All joggers and walkers should keep to the left facing traffic. They will then be able to step off the road when they see that someone is about to hit them, deliberately or not. They are also more visible at night when the driver's headlights will pick up their faces.

Cohasset roads are much to narrow and winding for joggers and walkers to go with the traffic. "Keep to the left, facing traffic" has been the law in New York state for years.

Selectmen go for eight questions on May 6 ballot

Eight Proposition 2 1/2 override questions totalling $2.15 million were approved by selectmen for the ballot at the May 6 special election.

Selectmen also agreed at their April 10 meeting to hold an information night on the override questions Tuesday evening, April 25, at Town Hall.

They hope to have it televised by the local cable TV company.

Ballot questions will request voter opinions on:

*An $844,000 override for the town budget as well as mosquito control, $2,000; elected officials longevity, $900; unpaid legal bills, $2,969; septic system, $5,000; town hall painting, $15,000; and removal of gas tanks, $10,000.

A general override of the levy limit results in a permanent increase in the tax base.

In this case, it would result in an increase of $1.52 per $1,000 of assessed property value, or $300 a year for a $200,000 house.

*A capital outlay exclusion of $58,235 to pay for a wire department truck, $27,000; dog van, $7,000; defibrillation equipment, $7,500; and a ride-on mower, $16,735.

*A capital outlay exclusion of $60,000 for refurbishing and additional equipment for the fire department ladder truck, $60,000.

Capital outlay exclusions allow communities to exclude the cost of a capital project from the levy limit.

It lasts only for the fiscal year for which the expenditure is made and does not become part of the tax base.

Debt exclusion questions include:

*$714,000 to pay the bond issue to renovate and add an addition to the Police/Fire Station, as well as purchase equipment.

*$93,000 to pay the bond issue for the repair and replacement of roofs at the old town hall and the Osgood School.

*$52,000 to pay the bond issue for two school busses.

*$50,000 to pay the bond issue for the design and specifications for the construction of a cemetery.

*$280,000 to pay the bond issue for design and engineering of the expansion of Milliken/Lillard Field.

A debt exclusion allows communities to exclude the principal and interest payments on the debt from the levy limit.

Last year, the town approved six of the seven override questions for a total of $3.7 million, and an average tax increase of $316.

Selectmen did not recommend for the ballot this year a second override question of $650,000 to partially fund the town operating budget, as well as the other warrant articles.

A mix of old and new celebrate their victories

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

Voters decided it was time for a change - at least on the board of selectmen.

Two newcomers, Diana Kornet and Edwin "Ned" Tebbetts, were elected to the board, ousting three-year incumbent James Gallagher. In the race for two seats on the school committee, voters stayed with the incumbent. C. Christopher Ford will be joined on that board by political newcomer Ralph Kidder. He and Ford outvoted a third candidate, H. Edward Brennock, in Saturday's election.

And once again, an overwhelming number of voters sided with the current board of sewer commissioners by backing candidate, Henry Rattenbury. The Briarwood Lane resident, who was supported by the commission's two members, handily defeated former sewer plant supervisor Manuel Salvador by more than a thousand votes.

Rattenbury credited his 811 votes in Precinct one to loyal customers he has served as a mailman for the past 25 years, "That's my route, and I know a lot of people in that precinct," he said, adding that his home is located in the second precinct.

"I thought from the beginning I could win. The margin was the big question in my mind," he said. "I'm extremely pleased with the results.

Rattenbury, a past advocate of the Ward sewer plan and the intermunicipal pipeline connection, sides with the other two commissioner in advocating expansion of the current treatment plant.

"It's the only economically feasible thing we can do now," Rattenbury said. "The federal funds have dried up and the state has no money. So we have to go it alone. We have the money available to expand the plant, so we won't have to go to the state and say we need a million dollars."

The newest sewer commissioner said his priority in the next three years will be prepare a viable plan to expand the sewer treatment plant for next year's annual town meeting. "It's something the state has to be convinced of, so it's going to take us six months to a year to come up with an acceptable plan," he added.

The newest member of the school committee, Ralph Kidder, was also 'extremely pleased" with the results of last Saturday's election. His success at the polls was due to a combination of hard work by campaign leaders Karen Kirkendall and his wife, Linda Keller, and "a lot of support from a lot of people," he commented.

Kidder, a corporate controller, said his first prority on the school committee will be to "get myself up to speed" on the current issues facing that board. "But of course, the real issue is the override," he added.

"Once the selectmen decide what form the override will take, I will work hard for that override."

In addition, Kidder will focus on the platforms of his campaign, which includes attracting corporate money for the schools and developing a method of obtaining private endowments for the public schools. Kidder expects that by next fall, there will be a commission formed to work on that private endowment process.

Diana Kornet is no newcomer to Cohasset politics. But rather than returning to the school committee, Kornet took a turn to the town hall where she will sit on the board of selectmen.

Kornet, who was a member of the school committee for the past ten years, was elected to the selectmen with 957 votes. "I was delighted with the turnout. I think it's a good indication," she said, "that there are a lot of informed voters out there. I hope there is just as good or a better turnout at the May 6 special (override) election."

The 45 year-old Nichol Road resident said educating the public about the override is the most important topic on her immediate agenda. "It's so easy for someone who doesn't want his taxes to go up to have that kneejerk reaction against an override. Unless the voter is truly informed, the override is in danger. That has to be a top priority for selectmen right now," she said.

Once the special election is over, Kornet said she will focus her energies on encouraging better communication between town boards. "How can we expect citizens to be informed when we don't know what's happening with between our town boards?" she questioned.

Another serious concern for the new selectman will be the issue of revitalizing Cohasset Village. "Selectmen can't solve the problem, but we could bring it to the forefront and be receptive to any ideas that might help," she suggested.

Tebbetts, the top vote-getter in the selectmen's race, credited his win from a strong campaign and willing workers. Now that the campaign has ended, Tebbetts, former chairman of the capital budget committee, said he expects to put in about 1,400 hours to the job. "That makes it almost a fulltime job, so it works out that I'll be making about 60 or 70 cents an hour," he laughed.

His first priority, which began at Monday night's meeting, is to give "extensive exposure" the the override issues on the May 6 ballot. "I do support the general override, but I expect to oppose some of the other capital overrides," he said.

Tebbetts, who said he enjoyed his frist formal session as a selectman, noted this was his first attempt at elected office. Thoroughly familiar with the world of politics, Tebbetts promised this would not be his last campaign.

Artists' studio tour in April

The South Shore Art Center will be sponsoring an artist's studio tour, April 28 and 29 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The tour will encompass visiting 29 local artists' studios in six towns (Cohasset, Hingham, Scituate, Norwell, Hull and Marshfield.)

Uncover the mystique of creativity by seeing the artists in their work environment. Talk to the artists about their work and inspiration.

For further information about the specific itinerary or to register, call 383-9548.

Memorial art scholarship

The South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road in Cohasset is sponsoring a new scholarship for members.

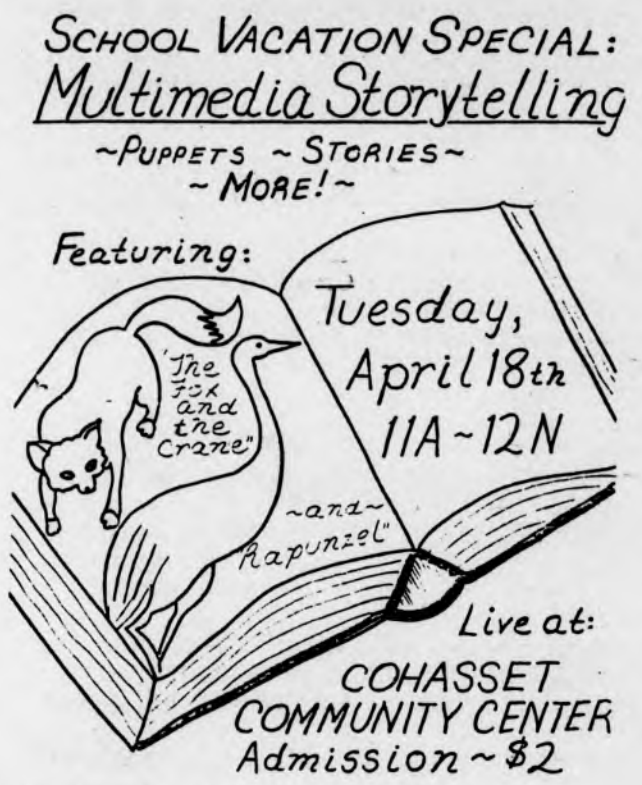
The Margaret Marshall Dillon Memorial Fund has been established to assist an individual who is an artist whose artistic aspirations have been interrupted. Potential talent rather than accomplishment of the applicant is the focus of the $500 award. Art work and a written proposal will be evaluated by a jury.

An individual who has studied art, is currently studying art or has never studied art, but at some point has tried to create visual art and has some physical evidence of the fact, is encouraged to apply.

The award will be made on June 22, 1989. Applications and art work must be submitted to the South Shore Art Center by April 29, 1989.

For additional information call the Art Center at 383-9548.

South Shore GOP Club



On Monday, April 17, Walter Dziura, Hingham Public Library director, will be the guest speaker at the South Shore Republican Club meeting at the Orange Hall, Route 123, Norwell, next to Stone House Gardens.

The social hour will begin at noon. Mr. Dziura will present a book review at 1 p.m.

Hostesses will be from Hanover, Rockland and Abington. Mrs. Lot Phillips II, of Hanover, and Mrs. Norman Poole, of Abington, will serve as hospitality chairmen for the day, with Mrs. Virginia Whitmore, of Whitman, hospitality chairman, assisting.

The Club was started in 1924 by Mrs. Horace Fogg, of Norwell, who was a member of the Norwell Republican Town Committee. It's inception came at the time when women were given the vote and its purpose was to educate women in voting and in current events.

Everyone is welcome to attend. For more information on the club, call Mrs. Phillips, 878-3885, or Mrs. Roy A. MacLeod, membership chairman, 447-5704.

Multimedia storytelling

Mary Ann Donnelly, a multimedia storyteller, will be performing at Cohasset Community Center during school vacation on Tuesday, April 18 from 11 a.m. to noon.

Donnelly employs a lively mix of puppets, storytelling, and her own persona as a clown to beguile and entertain her young audiences. She has worked extensively in the Greater Boston area including the Children's Museum, local libraries and in the Boston Public Schools.

She will be performing two programs at the Community Center: "The Fox and the Crane," and "Rapunzel." Admission is $2 at the door.

Young artists courses at center

The South Shore Art Center is offering a rainbow of young artists courses for pre-schoolers through high school students this spring.

Registration is now open for two and three day vacation week workshops beginning April 17; and 10-week daytime, after school, and evening courses beginning the week of April 24.

Vacation week workshops in Cohasset for grades 1-3 will be offered in Castles & Creatures in Clay taught by Lis Wyman, and Discovering Dinosaurs Mural Workshop, taught by Nancy Connolly. For grades 4-6, workshops will be Blast-Off To Outer Space taught by Linda Stevens, and Cartooning & Comics taught by Serena Brundige. For grades 6 & up Judy Rossman will teach Bangles & Beads, Clay Jewelry Workshop, and for high school seniors Mandy Avery will teach a Portfolio Counselling Workshop.

Ten-week courses starting the week of April 24 at the Center in Cohasset include Nancy Connolly's Moms/Dads & Tots for preschoolers on Tuesday mornings. After school courses for grades 1-3 include Lis Wyman's Inside Outside Artworks on Mondays, Linda Steven's Adventures in Art on Wednesdays, and Nancy Connolly's Clay, Handbuilding, & Sculpture on Thursdays. For grades 4-6 Lynn Rizzotto will teach Adventures in Art on Tuesdays, and Serena Brundige will teach Cartooning on Mondays.

For grades 5-9, George Dalton will teach Wheel For Kids, and for grades 6-8 Serena Brundige will teach Calligraphy & Graphics, both on Fridays.

For grades 7-12 Susan Rodgerson will teach A Taste Of Art School Drawing & Painting on Monday evenings, and Susan will also take students in grades 7-12 on Saturday Museum Tours to Boston and Cambridge.

The Center offers courses for young artists in Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Norwell, Plymouth, Scituate, Quincy and Weymouth funded in part by a grant from the Drown Foundation and grants from local Arts Lottery Councils.

Please call (383-9548) or visit the Center (119 Ripley Rd.) Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. for information and a brochure.

Registration is limited and will close April 21. Early registration is encouraged to ensure your child's place in a course.

Summer arts camp in Cohasset

A unique and innovative summer camp program will be available to children ages 6-12 this summer in Cohasset. The program, entitled Summer Arts Camp will be offered jointly through the South Shore Art Center and the Cohasset Community Center, providing a variety of stimulating activities for the older child.

This summer, campers will discover the cultural heritage of China through the arts with hands-on projects and activities that will focus on China's rich cultural traditions and inspire the imagination and creativity of the young artists.

Visual Arts will include daily scheduled workshops including making Chinese dragons, silk painting, kite making (and flying!), calligraphy, clay, pottery, and mask making. Special demonstrations, workshops and video presentations by visiting artists will enrich the creative environment. All artwork will be put on display on the last day of camp in exhibits created by the students.

Daily workshops in Chinese Theatre will culminate in a Grand Finale performance of a Chinese Fairy Tale.

Daily classes in Dance and Creative Movement, set design and costumes will culminate in a Grand Finale performance under the professional instruction of Nancy Gratta Tringali of the Duxbury Dance Shoppe.

Time will also be available for bowling, lunch and supervised outdoor activities during each day.

Collaboration will be emphasized: the camp's variety of disciplines will be presented in a collaborative format so that children can work together with the artists and each other to make the arts work together. They'll have the opportunity to film each other working on projects and contribute to a final video presentation. All in all, Summer Arts Camp will provide a unique enrichment experience not available in the school system.

Registration opened Monday, March 20 for Sessions I (Monday-Friday July 17-28, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.). Classes are limited so early registration will ensure your child's place.

For further information call the Cohasset Community Center at 383-0088 or the South Shore Arts Center at 383-9548.

Summer creativity workshops

Make this a creative summer for your children.

The Children's Summer Creativity Workshops will begin in August. In this established program, students meet once a week for five weeks in an outdoor setting.

Classes will be two hours in length and are held in Hingham. Nature themes will be the main inspiration for the stimulating projects offered in this series.

As part of the program youth artists are invited to participate in the Clothesline Art Exhibit held in the fall. Projects include drawing and painting from nature, fabric leaf printing, hand-building with clay and nature collage. Realistic work as well as imaginative work will be encouraged. Developing a more finely tuned sense of observation will be stressed.

Registration is now being accepted for children ages five through thirteen. The closing date for all registration for the summer program is May 22. New spring workshops begin in May.

For more information, call instructor Lynn Rizzotto at 749-2453.

Vacation puppet show

Tuesday, April 18, at 11 a.m., Maryanne Donnelly, a multi-media storyteller and puppetteer will perform two stories at the Cohasset Community Center, 3 N. Main St.

Maryanne has worked extensively in the Greater Boston area including the Children's Museum, local libraries and the Boston Public Schools. She is affiliated with Arts Reach and Massachusetts Special Arts and has many years of experience with a disabled audience. The program planned will be two multi-media presentations of "Rapunzel" and "The Fox and the Crane."

This program is open to the public for $2 payable at the door. All pre-schoolers must be accompanied by an adult.

The program will last approximately one hour. For more information call 383-0088.

Garden club lecture

The Community Garden Club of Cohasset monthly meeting will be held April 25 at 9:30 a.m. at Walter Rogers Hall.

"Gardening With Wild Flowers" will be presented by Susan Dumaine, teacher and lecturer for the New England Wild Flower Society, the Arnold Arboretum and Mass. Horticultural Society. She will show slides and discuss the uses of native plants in a variety of situations and conditions including the garden club's nature study area adjacent to the two Cohasset elementary schools.

PIT Comes To fifth grade

The fifth grade students at the Deer Hill School will be involved in a interdisciplinary unit christened "PIT." PIT stands for the Process of Inventive Thinking. All fifth grade students will have the opportunity to understand the mental processes involved in invented thinking through a series of activities devised by Mrs. McLean, Cohasset Elementary Enrichment Coordinator, in cooperation with all fifth grade teachers. "PIT" will culminate in a hands on activity which will allow all fifth graders to try their hand at inventing while they practice the thinking skills learned in the "PIT" program. Inventions and Inventors are part of both the Science and the Social Studies Fifth Grade Curriculum. This program will take place on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday (April 25-27) and coincides with National Science and Technology Week.

The "PIT" program is in preparation for a visit from Tom Edison. Mr. Edison will discuss his life and his inventions in the Deer Hill Cafeteria on May 2. This program is funded by the Education Division of Eastern Edison Co.

Any person who would like to donate gears, buttons, wheels or sprockets can drop them off at the Deer Hill School any time before Tuesday, April 25. Anyone seeking information about the PIT program (named so by Mr. Deakin) can call Mary McLean, Enrichment Coordinator, at the Deer Hill School (383-6116).

Trip to Washington D.C.

Nineteen eighth grade students from the Cohasset Junior/Senior High School will be spending three educational and fun-filled days in Washington D.C.

The students, along with teacher chaperons Joe Bouchard and Scott Newkirk, will be leaving on Saturday morning, April 15 and will be returning Monday night, April 17. Our itinerary, which includes Capitol Hill, the White House, all the memorials, the National Zoo, Washington Monument, the Smithsonian Complex, and the Arlington National Cemetery just to name a few, is a very ambitious one.

Both the students and chaperons have been anxiously awaiting the moment of departure and anticipating the learning experience which awaits them in our nation's capital.

Art Students honored

"What If Electricity Had Never Been Discovered?" That was the theme for the Art and Essay Contest sponsored by the Eastern Edison Company and co-sponsored by all of the electric utilities in Massachusetts. It marked the tenth observance of "National Electric Energy Day"—"NEED" and was endorsed by the Mass. Assoc. of School Committees, Energy Sec. Sharon Pollard, and Gov. Michael Dukakis.

Secondary students wrote essays and over 750 elementary students from eleven communities served by Eastern Edison illustrated the theme which imagines our world today without electricity.

The purpose of the contest was to teach students about the importance of electricity in our daily lives. The importance to the elementary art program was to serve as an excellent subject for imaginative illustration. This theme also provided a highly motivated vehicle which addressed other objectives in the art curriculum dealing with spatial concepts, composition, detail, and drawing from observation and memory at the various grade levels.

The results were delightful well planned illustrations with made up characters doing things. The young artists were well recognized for their efforts. Seven students received savings bonds and certificates at an award ceremony held at Eastern Edison in Brockton.

The Joseph Osgood School winners were Genevra MacPhail, 2nd prize and Mark Caristi, Carl Dean, and Paul Sheerin Honorable Mention in the K to 3rd grade category.

From the Deer Hill School, Jeremiah Stevenson won 1st prize, Katie Cibelli won 2nd prize, and Jessica Eaton-Bruce won 3rd in the 4th to 6th grade category.

Sr. Chorus to perform in Washington

The following Sr. Chorus and Show Choir students are going to perform in Washington D.C on Friday, April 28 for an event called "America Sings," which will benefit homeless children.

MBCA All Academic Team

This past Sunday April 9, Kristin Ellinger and Nancy Riley were honored by the Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association as members of this years Academic All-State Team. Criteria for selection to the team is both athletically and academically very demanding. Players must excel in the classroom as well as on the court. Only 20 players throughout the entire state are selected each year. Cohasset Jr./Sr. High has had 7 girls basketball players selected to the state Academic All-State Team in the past 5 years which is quite an accomplishment.

Educators attend conference

Mary Ellen Gallagher, principal of Cohasset Junior/Senior High School and Kearin Dunn, chairperson of the Mathematics Department attended a Self-Study Seminar April 4 at North Reading High School.

Sponsored by the Commission on Public Secondary Schools of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, the Self-Study Seminar is designed to acquaint principals and steering committee members of schools scheduled for evaluation in 1991 with current Commission policies and procedures.

The New England Association of Schools and Colleges, founded in 1885, is the oldest accrediting agency in the country and is recognized by the U.S. Department of Education as a reliable agency to award accreditation to New England Schools.

CHS alternative school

Have you ever heard the term "Alternative School" and wondered what it meant? The CHS students were asked to give a definition of the Alternative School with the following results:

Simple. The Alt School is for people who don't like regular school. It's one or the other, period. But those who are better aquainted with the Alt School or friends with some of the "alties" know that the students who join and their reasons for seeking "an Alternative" path to graduation are as numerous and diverse as are the "alternatives" available to motivated students. For example, here's what some Alt school students have to say.

"The Alt School is like a big family where we all know each other and can share our feelings. It helps with school for people that just want to give up and drop out!"

"The Alt School is whatever you make it! It is a chance for people to get experience they would not otherwise get simply from the limited CHS curriculum. Being a small school, CHS is often stifling in social matters and Alt School is an outlet from the pressure to conform."

". . .it's a specialized program which allows students to expand their own personal horizons. . . .The point of Alt School is the individual, not the group. The Alt School is what the Alt student makes of it - it can be a safety net, or springboard - or both."

". . .it's a place where you have more freedom for academics, a place with a more relaxed atmosphere than regular school, a place where you learn a hell of a lot more! (What'd he say?!?)

Clearly, the Alt School is a very personal experience for each individual. That's why there is no one correct definition of Alt School. But there are common goals for all Alt students: to maximize learning on an individual basis; to become a productive member of a small community; and develop the skills for evaluating one's productivity, initiative, responsibility, and citizenship.

Cohasset High School's Alternative School was established in 1972 by a joint Steering committee of parents, teachers, and students who felt that a number of CHS students were not learning to the best of their abilities.

Does it work? Is it successful? YES! (of course, it is not without its share of problems.) But just take the following quiz to learn about the individual goals and successes of Alt Students.

Which Alt School student is building his own guitar?

Which student is a prodigious writer and aspiring poet?

Which Alt student is a talented guitarist and writer of rock lyrics?

Who among Alt students studies psychology at Harvard, Russian during spare time, and is a serious musician and dancer?

If you had a computer question, which Alt student may just be the expert you are looking for?

Who is the aspiring chef that often bakes the bread you eat in school?

Which Alt School student makes beautiful hand crafts, paints, attends outside Art classes and loves animals?

How about the one who can be heard to say "I hate school!", but loves to read and knows the library system inside out - who is that?

Which one-time discipline problem hasn't been called to the office once this year and has been praised by some teachers for a highly successful first term?

Which student decided that it was time to learn some more math, and got placed in an algebra class without anyone demanding it?

Though many students love children, which altie worked at Osgood and won the praise of her teacher-supervisor for her kindness, gentleness, and natural ability to work with children? (Do you think we can get her to become a teacher someday?)

Who works as an apprentice learning the skills of drafting - a most demanding challenge?

Cohasset High School is fortunate that it can offer this choice to its students. It definately fills a need within the school community. The students are also lucky to have Jack Buckley as the Director of the Alternative School.

Enrichment activities

The Osgood third graders have recently been enjoying curriculum enrichment activities at the Museum of Science in Boston and the Water Treatment Plant in Cohasset.

The Museum of Science had two special offerings: the Planetarium's "Stars of the Season" and the Gold Exhibit where the children experienced "panning for gold."

A most informative tour of the Water Treatment Plant was graciously and very ably hosted by Mr. Joe Hamilton. Supt. Ben Curley invites all Cohasset residents and their families to enjoy the same.

Watch and listen for more news about the METCO PICNIC - April 30, 2 - 5 p.m. Families wishing to help with the picnic call: 383-6358 or 383-6337, and leave a message. And save the date - April 30!

CHS senior Nancy Riley received the good citizen award from DAR chairman Dorothy Bates.

Riley receives DAR award

The Colonel Thomas Lothrup Chapter of Cohasset recently presented the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizen Award to Nancy Riley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Riley of 7 Woodland Drive in Cohasset.

The Good Citizen Award is presented each year by the Chapter to a senior at Cohaset High School who exemplifies the qualities of Dependability, Leadership, Service, and Patriotism. Nancy was chosen to receive this award by both her classmates and the Faculty of Cohasset High School.

Mrs. Howard Bates, the Chapter's Good Citizen Award Chairman presented the award.

Students from the Deer Hill School who participated in last week's Race By the Sea.

Deer Hill Fliers

The thirteenth annual Cohasset Road Race by the Sea was highly participated by the Deer Hill School. There were eleven runners from the Deer Hill School who ran the race. They were Eric Henry 51:02, Ryan Freeman 51:05, Ryan Sawchuk 54:01, Scott Moe 54:04, Jeremiah Stevenson 54:58, Ben Redfield 54:59, Kate Carrol 56:27, Herb Crehan 58:58, Jayne Singelton 1:06:17, Corinna McMackin 1:14:53, Jemihah Afshar 1:15:03. The record for Deer Hill is held by Ned Thompson in 47 minutes for the and Soffie Redfield with 54 minutes, both ran those times in 1984.

The race which is 6.2 miles attracts runners from all over Massachusetts and New England.

The winner of the girls under 14 division was Kate Carrol of the sixth grade, second was Jayne Singelton of the fourth grade. Also Eric Henry of the fifth grade won third in the boys under 14 division.

Deer Hill video news show

Once again, the sixth grade classes at the Deer Hill School in Cohasset have been involved in video news productions. Each class has the opportunity to produce an entire news show highlighting special events and regular school activities. There are feature stories about students who are newsworthy and a book review section. The whole class is involved in the production which provides a hands on experience related to writing styles, and integral part of the sixth grade Language Arts Curriculum.

The students wrote their own news stories, edited their work and typed their final news copy. Editors were in charge of assigning news stories and following up on deadlines. Every attempt was made to give the students the feeling of personal control over their newscast from deciding on news topics, designing their own logo, to the naming of the news show. The students learned to operate the Camcorder, edit their results and interview feature presentations.

In the studio, the students operated the T.V. cameras, learned to direct the entire news production and use the computer system to type credits at the end of the show. While the town will only see the four newscasters on T.V., the students learned first hand that it takes many supportive services to make the newscasters job look easy.

Who are the valuable resource people the newscasters depended upon?

Another component of the activity design is to have the sixth graders train the fifth graders in film editing and camera operation so that the skills they attained will be passed on to future students. The school system has just given the Deer Hill School its own editing equipment and the children can now put their productions together much more easily.

The final news show is taped at the cable T.V. studio located in North Scituate under the supervision and support of Bob Belleveau who trains and supports the students through their experience.

This learning experience reaches out into the community for support and training that is as "real life" as is possible and combines cooperative group work, individual work, writing for a purpose and creating an audience for the written work. The program would not be successful without the cooperative "work" of the educators who were involved. Dr. Packard - audio visual director at Cohasset High School, Mrs. McLean - Enrichment coordinator, Bob Belleveau - community liaison at Cable T.V., and most importantly, Mrs. Elizabeth Cisneros - Sixth Grade Language Arts teacher who's dedication to the concept brought this enjoyable and valuable learning experience to fruition.

Don't forget to watch the news show April 13 at 7:30 on Channel 3 Cable.

Message to parents

Could you send in any old buttons, spools of thread, broken pieces of toys (wheels, etc.) and unusable small appliances? I plan to use these items in an inventor's workshop for all 5th Grade students. Have the children drop these items off in the Enrichment Room. Thank you!

Project Playground

It's finally here! The design is in and the children are excited and looking forward to June when they'll be playing on it!

We are looking for workers — 18 to 80 — interested in a community project. We provide coffee/snack in the morning, lunch in the afternoon and babysitting is available.

Amy Golden, coordinator of volunteers, will answer any questions at 383-6664 or Anne Whiteley, project coordinator, 383-9310.

Work agenda is as follows:

Friday, June 2, 8 a.m.: An auger truck wil dig holes and we need 20 strong people to carry wood.

Saturday/Sunday, June 3, 4 — Preliminary set up work — we need 20 skilled workers.

Saturday/Sunday, June 10, 11 — We need 115 workers — 40 of whom must be skilled. People can commit for half a day but would be ideal to commit for the entire day to avoid interrupting the work flow.

CHS sports review . . .

By Bill Modestino
Mariner correspondent

When town rivals Scituate and Cohasset baseball teams meet each other every year, it seems that the outcome always comes down to the final out of the game.

Such was the case last Tuesday when visiting Cohasset held off a late Scituate rally to post a 7-6, non-league victory.

Mike Ellinger pitched the final 1 1/3 to earn his first varsity save, including the final out when he fanned Scituate's Rob Duffy at a called third strike with the bases loaded. Freshman southpaw Evan Spencer picked up the victory for the Skippers with a strong 5 2/3-inning performance.

The Skippers tagged Scituate's hurler Casey Smith with four runs in the first. Ellinger delivered Gallagher for the first run with an RBI single. Jeff Bryant followed with an RBI double, while Brian Pompeo and Spencer each added run-scoring singles.

Cohasset knocked out Smith in the second as the Skippers employed the double steal (Gallagher scoring) to make the score 5-0.

In the third, Linc Marsac and Flaherty scored on Gallagher's double (7-0.)

Trailing 7-0 after the fifth inning, the Sailors began to claw back into the game. Keith Clyde started the comeback with a two-run single (7-4.)

Kevin Magnarelli reached base on a lead-off double and scored on Phil Murray's base hit to right field in the sixth (7-5.)

After Ellinger retired Scituate's top slugger, Terence Shea, on a fly ball to right field, Howie North set the stage by beating out an infield hit. Magnarelli followed with a walk, placing runners at first and second. Murray then hit a grounder to short whereas Flaherty fired the ball over to Gallagher at third base for the force on North.

However, with the ball already there and waiting for North, the senior centerfielder knocked the ball loose with his fist, thus loading the bases for the Sailors. Billy Kroeger cut the deficit to one, 7-6, when he hit into a fielder's choice, allowing North to score. Duffy fell behind the count, 0-2, by fouling off two borderline pitches. He then worked the count to 3-2 before Ellinger unloaded the lethal pitch.

SOFTBALL

Annmarie Talacci had three hits and three runs batted in, helping Scituate to a 10-5, non-league victory at Marshfield, April 10.

Amy Lane was the winning pitcher, working 6 2/3 innings. Amanda Campbell relieved and pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the seventh inning.

Deanna Fletcher had two hits and Colleen McLarey scored three times for the winners.

On the following day, the Lady Sailors made it three victories in a row (their best start since the 1979 season, the year they reached the state finals) with a 15-8, non-league win over Cohasset April 11.

Scituate pushed across seven runs in the top of the seventh to put the game out the reach.

Debbie Beale, Annmarie Talacci and Colleen McLarey led the Sailor offensive attack with two hits apiece.

"I am pleasantly surprised at our start," said SHS softball coach Phil Pisano. "But the more we win games, it is just going to instill confidence on the entire squad. This is something that's needed because we are a young team."

GIRLS' TENNIS

Coach: Betty Zadel, second year at Cohasset. Last year's record: 10-8.

Key Performers: Katie Lord (Sr.), Ellen Schramm (Soph.), Katie Murphy (Sr.), Sophie Redfield (Soph.), Katie Ryan (Sr.), Michelle Massa (Jr.) and Amanda Church (Sr.).

Outlook: Everybody is back from last year's club. They missed the tournament by one match, losing to cross-town rival Scituate, 3-2, on the final day of the season. The starting seven (three singles and two doubles) are already etched in stone for the Skippers. Ryan, Massa and Church each begin their third year on the varsity level. Ryan is a strong baseline player. Massa has been playing regularly, improving on her all-around game, especially the forehand shot. Church is the best athlete on the club. Lord and Murphy complement each other well as first team doubles' partners.

Projected Lineup: Ryan (number-one singles), Massa (number two) and Church (number three), Lord and Murphy (first doubles) and Redfield and Schramm (second doubles).

Strengths: Experience and a good mixture of players.

Question Marks: Little more aggressive at the net, and still learning the game's strategies.

Zadel: "We are expecting a terrific year at Cohasset High. All of our seven starters are back for another season. Most of the girls practiced regularly over the winter, which, I feel, will make them better competitors. Norwell will be our toughest opponent in the SSL Smalls. Because of the realignment of schools in the South Shore League, Cohasset will play only 13 matches this year instead of 18. It will definitely give us more practice time."

Next week: softball, boys' tennis, and girls' track.

A LIGHT TOUCH

Kitchen lighting comes in two general forms – general illumination and task lighting. Probably the best quality overall lighting comes from incandescent bulbs. Although they are more expensive to operate than fluorescent bulbs, they offer the closest approximation to natural light. It is also important to mount general illumination so that it does not hit the back of the cook's head to create shadows. To alleviate this design problem, recessed lighting fixtures should be mounted about two feet from the wall in order to illuminate counters with general lighting. For more specific lighting needs, strip fixtures concealed under upper cabinets provide excellent task lighting. Warm-white fluorescents shed light on the chore at hand without heating the area. After food preparation is done, enjoy a candlelight dinner.

Shedding light on the subject can be a major factor for a kitchen remodeling. The need for open spaces and better placement of lighting and work areas are important aspects to include in a kitchen design. Come to KITCHEN DESIGN ASSOCIATES for beautifully designed kitchens. We come to your home for complete measurements. We have experience in creating quality rooms. You can choose Millbrook cabinets or Poggenpohl, the Mercedes of kitchen cabinets. We take pride in our work and pass outstanding results on to you. See us at 962 Washington St., Rt. 53, Hanover. Tel. 617-826-4121.

HINT: Use a rheostat on general kitchen lighting to control the mood of the room.

Hockey players honored for '89

Cohasset Hockey Boosters and parents honor 1988-1989 Cohasset High Hockey team.

School officials, coaches, parents and team gathered for an Award Banquet this past evening to honor the Cohasset High heroes. Coach Dennis Walsh gave specific accolades to each of the players and managers and reiterated the common thought of all present as to the personal and team achievements for the year. He spoke of the individual improvement as well as the team improvement, but more importantly to the desire and knowledge of the game on part of the team members.

Co-captains Ned Chase and Brian Pompeo thanked the parents and the team for their continual efforts throughout the year. Captains presented gifts to Head Coach Dennis Walsh and Assistant Coach Benjamin Watson. Other awards for the evening were given to Ned Chase, receiving the Kevin Delaney Award, Joel Reidy receiving the James Graham Award. Other honorees receiving gifts were Coaches Walsh, Watson, Coach's son Chris Walsh, Wally Young and Janet Figuero as RIDO fans and loyal bus drivers.

The Boosters further asked for continued support of parents, students, school officials and the community at large to continue Cohasset High athletics in general and specifically the Cohasset High Hockey Team.

The high school hockey team included the following players:

Only a few soccer games postponed

Despite rain, snow and hail, Cohasset's youth soccer teams completed their weekend home schedule with the postponement of only a handful of games.

"We had a crew out Saturday squee-geeing the field," Larry Shultz reported. "The fire department loaned us the equipment, and John Suhrbier, Steve Endris and Steve Geary helped with the effort."

Two Under 10 boys' teams both scored their first victories. Under 10-1, with goals from Ryan Staszko and Taylor Devin, beat Hanover 2-1. Also playing well in that game was left wing Ted Reardon. 10-2 beat their Hanover counterparts 4-1, on goals by Greg Bilton, Nate Cotter, Steve Kovach and Matt Verrochi. On defense, John Kasamayer was a standout.

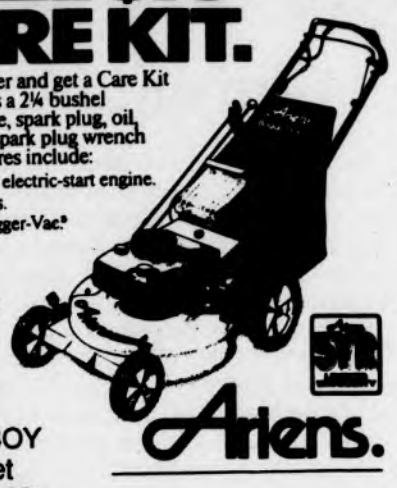
Girls' Under 12-1 won their second in a row, clobbering Sacred Heart of Kingston 5-0. Coach Nino D'Urso's squad was led by Erin Murphy's three goals, while Melinda Johansen (her fourth of the season) and Andrea Mercurio added one apiece. Girls' Under 12-2 played Kingston to a 1-1 draw, with Katie Campbell scoring for coach Sandy Theriault, who got good play from both Jennifer Cullivan and Megan Fahey.

In a game played the previous week, Girls' Under 14-1 upset Scituate 1-0 on Katie Carroll's goal. Coach Jack O'Brien, winless in 1988, credited Jennifer Knoles' shut-out goaltending and halfback Colby Lawrence's ball control for the victory.

Boys' Under 12 squads suffered tough losses. Under 12-2 lost to its Duxbury counterparts, 5-2, despite goals by Brett MacQuarrie and Joe Magner. Defender Brian Riley also played well for coach Peter Mangan. In a game played the previous week, 12-2 was beaten by Hingham, 2-0. Goalkeeper Kevin McKenna was outstanding, stopping one penalty shot, and Jonathon Crafts excelled in midfield.

Boys' Under 12-3 fell to Kingston, 3-2 with goals by Schuyler Doten and Doug Cameron. Brian Sasso stood out on defense.

Girls' Under 12-3 lost to Middleboro 5-2, with goals by Andrea Freeman and Kelly O'Donnell. Andrea Grew also played well as goalkeeper. In an earlier game, girls' 12-3 were beaten by Plymouth, 9-0, despite good play from Kathleen Bruns, Laura Slotnick and Melissa Verocchi.



Girls' Under 16 lost to Middleboro 4-1, with Heidi Lincoln scoring Cohasset's lone goal. Both Rebecca Kirk and Jessica McDonald played tough defense.

Other weekend scores included Boys' Under 19, beaten by Hingham 2-0, and Boys' Under 16-2, losing to Plymouth 4-0. "Our reporting still isn't complete," Nino D'Urso said, "because individual coaches haven't been phoning in their results. We urge them to do so."

Weddings/engagements

Godwin/Meehan

The engagement of Sara Virginia Godwin to Leo J. Meehan III of Cohasset is announced by her parents Mrs. Phyllis Papani Godwin of Marina Bay formerly of Hingham, and Joseph F. Godwin of Brookline. Mr. Meehan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Meehan, Jr., of Squantum.

Miss Godwin was graduated from Hingham High School, the Ethel Walker School, and is continuing her studies at Wheaton College. She is employed as a sales representative at W. B. Mason in Brockton.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas V. Papani of Quincy.

Mr. Meehan was graduated from Boston College High School and Stonehill College. He is a Vice-President of W.B. Mason Company.

A June 10 wedding is planned.

Goodwin/Willard

Susan J. Goodwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Goodwin of Cohasset, recently became the bride of Andrew D. Willard. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlan D. Willard of Athol.

They were married in the Second Congregational Church of Cohasset by Rev. Gary Ritts and Rev. Andre Gariepy. A reception followed at Hugo's Lighthouse on Cohasset Harbor.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Sandra Goodwin, as maid of honor. John Willard, cousin of the groom, served as best man.

The bride, a graduate of Cohasset High School and Fitchburg State College is a software engineer for CalComp of Hudson, N.H. The bridegroom is a graduate of Athol High School and Fitchburg State College. In May he will receive his Masters Degree in Organizational Management from Central Connecticut State University.

Sara Godwin

After a trip to St. Lucia the couple is making their home in Hudson, N.H.

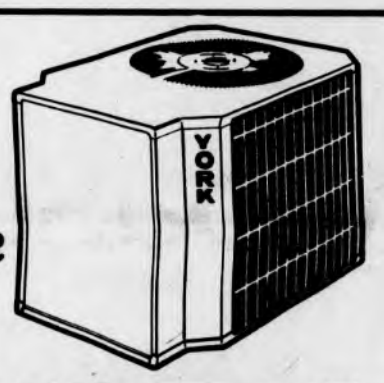
Koch/Daniels

Mrs. Frederick J. Simmons of Duxbury, formerly of Cohasset, announces the engagement of her daughter, Emily Hart Koch, to Thomas Shannon Daniels, son of Mr. & Mrs. C. Ross Daniels of Pawling, NY.

Miss Koch, also the daughter of Mr. Edward T. Koch of Malvern, PA, is a Dartmouth College graduate. She is employed as a senior researcher in the development office of Boston University, and plans to pursue graduate studies in the fall.

Mr. Daniels, also a graduate of Dartmouth College, is currently studying jazz trombone at Berklee College of Music. An August Wedding is planned.

Summer soccer camp



The Cohasset Recreation Department has contracted North American Soccer Camps, Inc. to conduct a half-day, week-long soccer clinic, to begin Monday, August 14, through Saturday, August 19, at Deer Hill Field.

The program will be from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The Saturday time will be announced during the week. The cost for camp is $80 for the first child in a family, $75 for the second, and $70 for the third or more in each family.

To register for this program, call the Recreation Department office at 383-6791 as soon as possible. A $25 deposit will be necessary at the time of registration and the balance will be due by June 1, 1989.

Registration is necessary in order to assign the proper number of coaches.

Obituary

Margaret M. Keating

A funeral Mass was celebrated April 8 at St. Anthony's Church for Margaret M. (O'Connor) Keating, 67, of Cohasset, who died April 5 at New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston, after a long illness.

Burial was at Central Cemetery.

Mrs. Keating was a postal clerk at the Cohasset Post Office for 23 years before she retired in 1982.

She was a Gold Star Mother. Her son, Army Spec. 4 Allen F. Keating was killed in action Oct. 19, 1969 in Vietnam.

Mrs. Keating was a member of the George H. Mealy American Legion Post Auxiliary, and a volunteer at South Shore Hospital, South Weymouth.

She lived in Cambridge, before she moved to Cohasset 50 years ago.

Mrs. Keating was a graduate of the Burroughs Business College, Boston.

She leaves her husband, T. Gerard Keating, former postmaster of Cohasset; five sons, Lawrence Keating of Hull, Thomas Keating of Duxbury, Brian Keating of Marshfield, Christopher Keating of Duxbury, and Stephen Keating of York, Maine; a daughter, Joan M. Bowman of Portsmouth, R.I., and two brothers, Lawrence O'Connor of Cambridge and Dr. Stephen O'Connor of Cohasset.

She was the sister of the late Gerald J. O'Connor.

Funeral arrangements were by McNamara-Sparrell Funeral Home, 1 Summer St.

The Rev. John Keohane celebrated the funeral Mass.

Donations may be made to the Friends of the Cohasset Council on Aging, 3 N. Main St., Cohasset, 02025.

Tax Deadline Extended

For all you procrastinators, you have extra time to file your federal income tax return.

The deadline this year is midnight, April 18 for taxpayers who file at the Andover Service Center in Massachusetts.

Since April 15, the annual deadline, falls on a Saturday this year, the due date is extended to the following Monday. But this year, Monday, April 17, is Patriot's Day, a legal holiday in Massachusetts, so the deadline is extended to April 18 giving you one extra day to file your return.

Although April 17 is a holiday, Massachusetts IRS offices will be open to assist taxpayers, to distribute forms and accept returns. IRS also has hundreds of volunteer sites throughout the state where taxpayers can obtain assistance. For more information on site locations call 1-800-424-1040.

Bank sponsors business seminar

Rockland Trust Company will sponsor a course in Small Business Management to be held on Saturday and Sunday, May 6 and 7, 1989, at the Cardinal Cushing School Campus, Hanover, MA.

This two-day workshop will run from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. The program is designed to instruct the participant in the initiation, development, financing staffing, and recordkeeping of the small business. This workshop will feature classroom and group discussions, guest speakers, and will also include breakfast and luncheon daily, as well as a 200 page Small Business Handbook for each participant.

Registration information is available from any branch of the Rockland Trust Company (878--6100), or by mail to Business Seminars Institute, 136 Gordon Road, Waban, MA 02168 (965-0365).

For more information, contact Ernest Silver at Business Seminars Institute, (617) 965-0365.

How To Piece Together An IRA Based On The Tax Laws.

If you're married and your combined adjusted gross income is less than $40,000, your IRA contribution is fully tax-deductible.

Even after you begin withdrawing from your IRA, your account will continue to earn interest, tax deferred, until the account is depleted.

If you receive a qualifying pension distribution, you can defer the taxes by investing the sum in an IRA.

If you're single and your adjusted gross income is less than $25,000, your IRA contribution is fully tax-deductible.

Contrary to popular belief, you don't need $2,000 to open an IRA account. In fact, you can open up an IRA account at Quincy Savings Bank with as little as $10!

An IRA's accumulated interest is sheltered from taxation until you begin making withdrawals after age 59½.

A lot of people think that the tax laws prevent them from deducting IRAs on their taxes. They couldn't be more wrong! In fact, most taxpayers are still eligible to write off all or part of their IRA contributions as a tax deduction. At Quincy Savings Bank, we can show you how to put together an IRA that will allow your retirement fund to grow quickly, and in turn, shelter it from taxation. So if you're interested in making the most of your retirement fund, stop by your nearest Quincy Savings Bank office. And get a piece of the action.

So. Shore GOP club meets April 17

On Monday, April 17, Walter Dziura, Hingham Public Library director, will be the guest speaker at the South Shore Republican Club meeting at the Orange Hall, Route 123, Norwell, next to Stone House Gardens.

The social hour will begin at noon. Mr. Dziura will present a book review at 1 p.m.

Hostesses will be from Hanover, Rockland and Abington. Mrs. Lot Phillips II, of Hanover, and Mrs. Norman Poole, of Abington, will serve as hospitality chairmen for the day, with Mrs. Virginia Whitmore, of Whitman, hospitality chairman, assisting.

The Club was started in 1924 by Mrs. Horace Fogg, of Norwell, who was a member of the Norwell Republican Town Committee. It's inception came at the time when women were given the vote and its purpose was to educate women in voting and in current events.

Everyone is welcome to attend. For more information on the club, call Mrs. Phillips, 878-3885, or Mrs. Roy A. MacLeod, membership chairman, 447-5704.

Override rejection could result in service cutback

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

If the $844,000 general override vote fails to pass at the May 6 special election, 50 street lights in town could be removed in a cost saving effort.

And some town departments could close to the public one day a week if employee hours are cut back.

Those were some of the possible reductions proposed by Executive Secretary Greg Doyon and discussed by selectmen Tuesday night.

The reductions as well as others proposed by Doyon, would save $30,642.

The cuts were suggested after advisory committee chairman Jane Goedecke sent a memo to all town departments and boards asking that they prepare a contingency budget in case the general override fails.

The budgets were to be 9 percent less than the one previously approved by the advisory committee.

"Please keep in mind that this is a beginning point, and additional changes will have to be made," said Goedecke.

"We also ask that when you plan where to make reductions, you avoid areas of building and equipment maintenance and avoid deferring necessary purchases in order to protect employees.

"We cannot expect that moneys lost this year will be reinstated next year, so deferring expenses is not a plan that will work.

"Budgets will have to be designed to reflect substantial changes in how departments operate."

Other cuts suggested by Doyon were:

*Reduce amount for town audit by $4,000.

*Remove two telephone lines at town hall for a savings of $720.

*Close Government Island duplex , disconnect water and reduce maintenance budget, for a savings of $2,175.

*Defer rehabilitation of garage behind town hall at a savings of $3,000.

*Reduce salaries in the selectmen's office by $11,767 by cutting the hours of the clerk/receptionist from 35 to 21 hours per week , close office to public one day per week to help make up for lost productivity through fewer interruptions, and reclassify administrative coordinator's position.

*Reduce by 9 percent selectmen's conference

Area artist studios to come alive April 28

A diverse array of artists will be featured in The Autobahn of Artists, a six-town studio tour sponsored by the South Shore Art Center in Cohasset April 28 and 29, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.,

The artists range from painters to sculptors, pottery makers to photographers, stained glass to wood workers.

But within those different art forms, are variations in style from traditional to innovative, realistic to abstract.

Two Cohasset artists who often work in abstract art are Claffy Williams, a painter, and Nancy Hansen-Connolly, a fabric artist.

"It's hard to describe abstraction," said Williams, a warm, friendly woman.

"An artist just kind of feels it," she explained.

"My main theme is color."

Williams explained that she might look at a grouping of rocks from her studio which overlooks the water.

But instead of painting the scene realistically,

Talk of Cohasset-Hull pipeline resumes

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

Just when you thought it was dead in the water, the Cohasset-Hull sewer pipeline connection has been resurrected.

Last week, the state House of Representatives approved a $1.45 billion bond issue for water and sewer programs for Massachusetts cities and towns.

After perusing the 40-page document, sewer commissioner Ted Guild noticed that Cohasset, once approved for 90 percent federal funds, is on a "privileged" list of communities slated to receive 75 percent grant money, along with a 25 percent interest free, 20-year loan.

Last July, the state notified the sewer commission in a letter that the state grant money for the Hull-Cohasset connection was not available because of the state's fiscal crisis. Although the 1988 town meeting approved a $1.2 million appropriation to begin the state-approved project, it was dead without the funding.

But soon afterward, Rep. Emmet Hayes of Whitman filed legislation that would assist cities and towns with a new program of loans and grants.

"It's a new ballgame," Guild exclaimed this week.

Cohasset's week . . .

Absentee ballots available

Absentee ballots for the May 6 special election are available in the town clerk's office, according to Town Clerk Frances Marks.

The ballots can be picked up during business hours, Monday to Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Thursdays, 5:30 to 8 p.m., and Fridays, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

They must be returned to be counted on or before Saturday, May 6, said Marks.

She noted that the town clerk's office will close Friday, May 5, at noon to prepare for the election.

Central Market appeal

The Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission will hear an appeal from Cohasset Central Market Thursday, May 11, at 12:30 p.m. in the Saltonstall Building, Boston.

The market is appealing the revocation of its license earlier this year by Cohasset selectmen for failing to exercise the license since July, 1988.

The revocation took place earlier this year after a number of hearings.

Water lien concern

Assessors have written to Town Counsel Richard Henderson expressing concern about water liens in the proposed Crystal Woods development.

Developer Jack Hurley of Crystal Land Development is proposing to build a 60-unit condominium project on 20 acres of land on the Cohasset/Scituate line.

He is requesting a comprehensive permit from the appeals board which would allow him to bypass some local zoning in exchange for providing affordable housing.

The next hearing is scheduled for May 4.

"It is our understanding that the entire project will be supplied with water from the Cohasset Water Department," wrote assessor James Lagrotteria.

"The practice of the board of assessors, with the cooperation of the water commissioners, has been to establish liens against real estate properties for unpaid water usage bills.

"The question then arises (re: Crystal Woods) where half of the development resides on Scituate property and is subject to Scituate taxation, how can we recover unpaid water usage bills?

"We feel this matter should be addressed and resolved prior to any 'hook up' to Cohasset's water supply.

"By no means are we indicating that we should not provide water to those residences,"added Lagrotteria,"but rather that this issue be attended to.

"Obviously, there is a solution, since a similar situation exists in the northeast section of Cohasset receiving Hingham water.

"Perhaps a policy by the water commissioners to shut off water after a certain period would be the easiest solution.

Weeks memorial planned

The Community Garden Club of Cohasset will be conducting a Tree Planting Ceremony in memory of Arnold Weeks.

Mr. Weeks was a very active member in the Cohasset Historical Society, on the town advisory board, the Old Goats Club, and the First Unitarian Church of Cohasset.

He leaves his wife Alice Weeks, two sons Phillip Weeks of Scituate, Christopher Weeks of Philadelphia; a daughter Cornelia Jameson of Reston Va. plus numerous grandchildren and great grandchildren.

On behalf of the Weeks family and the Community Garden Club of Cohasset an invitation is extended to the community to partake in this memorial ceremony at Constitutional Park (next to Cohasset Post Office April 28 at 4 p.m. with a rain date of April 29 at 4 p.m.).

Proposed housing forum

The Cohasset Fair Housing and Housing Partnership Committees will present a series of informational meetings concerning proposed housing.

The first will be held on Sunday, April 23 at 11:30 a.m. at the Second Congregational Church. A second meeting will be held Friday, April 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Parish Hall.

The third will be held Sunday, May 7 at 3 p.m. at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Each meeting will have the same format, presented at a variety of times so many people may attend.

Representatives from the Housing Authority will also be on hand to answer questions.

A slide presentation will show types of family rental, mentally retarded group homes and will show low income houses which have already been built in other towns.

Information will be available about these programs and there will be a question and answer period. Each session will last one hour.

These informational meetings will be moderated by the Reverend E. Clifford Cutler of St. Stephen's, Chartis Langmaid of the Housing Partnership Committee, Joanne Young-Nawn of the Cohasset Housing Authority and Dan Walsh and Stephen Bobo from the Fair Housing Committee.

Cohasset's week

Joe DeNucci to speak

State Auditor Joseph DeNucci will be Wigmore Pierson's guest on "Cohasset Talks: Pierson to Person" Thursday, April 20, 8 to 9 p.m. on Cable Channels 3 and 53.

Auditor DeNucci was first elected auditor in 1986. Previously, he was a State Representative from Newton, from 1976 to 1986. For six years, he was Chairman of the House Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee.

Selectmen take action

Selectmen took the following action at their meeting Tuesday night, April 18, at town hall:

*Tabled until later in the year a request from Building Inspector Don Robbins for an assistant building inspector.

*Approved a request from Carol Martin of the PSO for overnight use of Sandy Beach after the senior prom May 30.

*Delayed until June appointments to the Arts Lottery Council. That is when other appointments to boards are made.

*Agreed to allow the Paul Pratt Memorial Library to discard surplus property.

*Accepted the bid of AGN Marine Contractors of Sandwich to remove algae from Little Harbor for $2,272.50.

*Told executive secretary Greg Doyon to narrow down the applicants for administrative secretary from 17 to 3 and present them to the board with his recommendation.

The position will fill a vacancy which will be created when Janet Chalke leaves Friday, April 21, to take a similar position in Hingham.

Override info. forum

"The purpose of the meeting is to educate the public about what the override is all about," said selectmen chairman Burt Pratt, of a Proposition 2 1/2 forum Monday night, April 24.

The forum will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the town hall auditorium, and will be broadcast live by Continental Cable.

A four or five person panel will provide information on the override and the projected impact of budget cuts if the override fails to pass.

All town departments have been asked to send representatives to the forum.

There will be time for questions and answers.

"The important thing to convey is the consequences if we pass the override, and if we don't pass it," said selectman Diana Kornet during the board's April 18 meeting.

"It's supposed to be informative so the people really understand."

"It will be somewhat like town meeting," said Pratt.

"We are there to explain what each of the nine questions are about."

Charts and graphs could be used to illustrate finances, cable's Bob Belliveau told selectmen.

Selectman Ned Tebbetts said he would sit down with executive secretary Greg Doyon to work out a tax table to be cablecast.

Tebbetts noted that TV could reach 1,000-2,000 people who weren't at town meeting.

"With question one, (which includes the $844,000 operating budget for the town), we should say what is likely to be cut if the override is not passed," said Kornet.

Tebbetts noted that while all the selectmen seem to favor question one, they may have different on the other questions.

"If we go as a divided board, we can lose the entire override," said Pratt.

"If the board of selectmen doesn't present a united front, there is going to be a bad problem."

"We can present the pros and cons of the questions," suggested selectman Martha Gjesteby.

"You won't hear any cons out of my mouth," said Pratt.

"I think personal feelings should be subdued somewhat."

"We supported having all the questions put on the ballot," said Kornet.

She suggested that the bulk of the time during the forum be spent on question one.

Staunton selected as all-star

Michael Bird of Hingham High School and Jay Staunton of Cohasset High School were chosen as members of the Boston Globe State High School Drama Festival All-Star Cast for their outstanding performances.

Bird was selected for his role as Hamlet in Hingham High's production of "A Danish Soap" by Peter Filichia and Staunton was selected for his performance as Alan in Cohasset High's production of "This is a Test" by Stephen Gregg.

During the three-day finals competition of the Drama Festival, held recently at John Hancock Hall in Boston, 15 schools performed one-act plays or excerpts from classical and contemporary theater in hopes of capturing one of the two best in state awards.

Now in its 58th year, the State High School Drama Festival is sponsored by the Boston Globe, the Massachusetts High School Drama Guild, John Hancock Financial Services and is sanctioned by the Massachusetts Secondary School Administrators Association, Inc.

Override rejection could result in town service cutbacks and travel reimbursements for a savings of $180.

*Remove postage meter, for a savings of $150.

*Cut executive secretary's travel and conference reimbursement by 9 percent for a savings of $150.

In addition, Doyon noted that an audit could be completely eliminated this year for a savings of $10,000.

"We could then opt for retaining the clerk's position at full time and cut only 10 percent of the street lights," said Doyon.

"Some of the cuts were very, very painful," he noted.

Doyon said by cutting two of the towns 10 regular and two Watts line, $720 could be saved.

"We could live without two lines," he said.

He noted that the public may encounter busy signals and staff may have to occasionally wait to call out during busy times.

Doyon's original suggestion had been to remove 20 percent, or about 100, of the town's 513 street lights.

"How about eliminating 50?" suggested new selectman Ned Tebbetts.

Selectman Rocco Laugelle suggested taking a ride around town with the police and fire chiefs to see what areas need the lights most.

Laugelle also said that about 40 percent of the town's street lighting had been cut after Prop. 2 1/2 first went into effect.

"I hope we don't have to do any of this," commented selectman chairman Burt Pratt.

"It only goes into effect if the override fails," said selectman Martha Gjesteby.

Pratt expressed reservations about closing the Government Island duplex.

"We have always had that for people who can't pay high rent," said Laugelle.

Pratt said he favored closing the Bates Building which had housed some town departments which have now moved to the new addition.

However, it was pointed out that the sewer department uses the building's workbenches and toilets, and the Rotary Club holds its meetings there.

Pratt said that the town had hoped to convert the building to affordable housing.

"But the housing authority said the state refused because it would take too much money to rehabilitate it," he said.

He noted that the VFW has expressed interest in obtaining quarters for its organization there.

Pratt said he "hated like heck" to remove $3,000 for renovating the garage behind town hall.

"It looks terrible," he said.

"We could get free labor from the Norfolk County Sheriffs Office.

"I don't believe it would take more than two to three weeks to do the job."

"So we are reluctant to take that one out," said newly elected selectman Diana Kornet.

Doyon said he talked with other department heads about the effects of possibly having to cut back hours of employees.

"We would all have to close one day per week, and not answer phones," said Doyon.

He suggested that Wednesdays are the slowest days of the week.

"That's serious business," said Pratt.

"Town hall would slow down."

"This is a consequence that could happen if the operating budget is not passed," said Kornet.

"Cuts are never easy," agreed Gjesteby.

Doyon noted that he did not propose cutting such things as legal counsel for collective bargaining, dues for the South Shore Coalition or dog officer's budget.

Hull-Cohasset pipeline may be on track. . .

"We had all but given up on the Hull pipeline, and now they've changed the rules again."

In other words, Guild explained, the Hull-Cohasset pipeline project may very well be back on track.

But before he breaks open that bottle of champagne, Guild said the state senate must approve the bond issue, and it must be signed into law by the governor.

And it will be a week before Ward engineers calculate whether this project will be more cost-effective than the alternative proposal planned by the commission to expand the Cohasset sewer treatment plant.

It's not known at this time whether the Hull pipeline project, or the proposed expansion of the Cohasset sewer treatment plant is the more cost-effective route.

As Guild explained this week, the town has already appropriated $1.2 million toward the Hull pipeline project. That money was approved by town meeting and at last May's special override election. But that money was based on the town receiving 90 percent federal/state funding. Now that the state has said Cohasset could receive 75 percent in grants, there is the matter of making up that 15 percent difference.

But there is a bright spot, Guild noted, because that remaining 15 percent loan will be interest free for 20 years, according to the terms of the legislation.

Although the second alternative plan to expand the Cohasset sewer plant may be less costly than the Hull pipeline, Guild said it may not prove to be that less expensive.

There are other factors to consider, other than the outright cost of the two alternatives, he explained. Expansion of the current Cohasset plant to service an increased amount of homes will cost Cohasset about $1.5 million, he said.

The other option, to connect into the Hull treatment plant, will cost the town about $3 million, considering the lesser amount of government money available to fund the project.

"But we have to remember a few facts," Guild emphasized. "With the Hull connection, Cohasset will be out of the wastewater business, which is highly desirable. And there will be no ecological concerns, such as discharge into our harbor. We also have to remember, the Hull connection has already been approved by the state - the expansion proposal is only an idea at this stage.

"Then again, the Hull connection will be about two times more expensive than the expansion, although there will be no interest on the loan. So if town meeting approved the extra amount, there would be no interest charged and that would not be added to the tax rate."

Guild predicted that when the two plans are compared, the costs will be similar. Although the Ward plan will now cost the town about $3 million, the interest loan for 15 percent of the project is enticing, he said.

"And the fact that the Hull plan has been approved by the state is a big factor. With the plant expansion, we'd have to go through the

State offers 'Partnership Community' status

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

Cohasset is being offered designation as a "Partnership Community" by the Massachusetts Housing Partnership (MHP).

"This designation is being offered in recognition of the local commitment for continued efforts to provide affordable housing and is effective through March 31, 1990," said Amy S. Anthony, secretary, Executive Office of Communities and Development, in a letter to selectmen.

According to Anthony, the designation opens access to a range of state resources assembled for MHP.

They enable communities to:

*Apply for special MHP set asides of program resources, and obtain special consideration for local initiatives, providing a competitive advantage for locally supported applications for a variety of state housing resources.

*Apply for Municipal Advance Program grants up to $30,000 to obtain professional services such as planning, design review, engineering, legal fees, needed by the city or town to put together affordable housing proposals with private developers.

*Receive special consideration for other funding for activities related to affordable housing strategy, including Strategic Planning Grants, Incentive Aid, Massachusetts Small Cities Program, and others.

*Submit joint applications with local non-profit organizations for front-end loans that enable them to design, package and implement housing development proposals.

"Even more important than the specific resources, MHP designation opens to you a new way of doing business with the state," said Anthony.

"Rather than 'waiting for the next funding round,' your community is invited to bring projects to MHP when they are ready.

"We will work with you to assemble the expertise and resources needed to push projects ahead."

She noted that the designation is contingent on acceptance by selectman of the following conditions regarding local partnership efforts:

*Commitment to development of a balanced housing policy that serves the full range of housing needs in your community.

*Identification and development of local support for affordable housing.

*Identification of a range of potential future initiatives/projects.

"We look forward to working with you and appreciate this opportunity to recognize Cohasset's commitment to develop affordable housing," said Anthony.

"In any event, we leave this matter in your capable hands for a proper resolution."

process again to see if the state will approve it. With the Hull connection, we have a signed agreement and town meeting approval," he noted.

Guild explained that in either case, the proposal will be brought back to town meeting for further appropriations. If the commissioners decide to support the Hull plan, town meeting will have to approve by a two-thirds margin the extra money needed to complete that project. If the commissioners favor the expansion plan, voters will have to approve a $1.5 million appropriation for that.

"We still want to look into expansion, but at this point, we have a brand new ballgame," Guild said. "We thought this was all over, but it looks like the Hull connection may be very much alive."

Engineers for the commission are attempting to calculate the difference in the costs of the two options. The results should be ready by the end of this week, Guild said.

Cohasset recreation news

The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 1207, sponsored by the Cohasset Harbor and Recreation departments, will conduct a six lesson Boating Skills and Seamanship course. This course is mandatory for all boaters 16 years old and under who plan to operate a craft with more than 25 horsepower.

The course is open to all ages, and will be held at the audio-visual room at Cohasset High School, beginning June 5, at 7 p.m. Monday and Wednesday evenings.

Registrations will be accepted by calling the Cohasset Recreation Department office at 383-6791 before May 19. There is a $10 fee for the text and homework books. Checks should be made payable to "U.S.C.G. Flotilla 1207".

The Boating Skills and Seamanship Course will be limited in size and is available to non-Cohasset residents.

SPRING-AFTERSCHOOL RECREATION

Winter afterschool programs at Deer Hill gym will end the week of April 24 and new programs for grades K to 3 will begin the week of May 1.

To register, call the recreation office at 383-6791. Programs will be limited in size. The fee for all programs is $12, with 50 percent family discount. Because children will be allowed to stay afterschool, a permission note must be brought to the school office prior to the start of the programs. All programs will be held at the Osgood School field until 4:30 p.m.

SUMMER RECREATION PROGRAMS

The summer recreation programs are being planned. A flier will be sent in June, depicting all children's and adult programs. The basic format for the summer playground program will be the same as last year's.

A wedding reception will accompany exhibit of gowns

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

The Cohasset Historical society is planning a wedding reception .

But the reception won't follow a wedding ceremony.

Instead, it will accompany an exhibit of 10 bridal gowns dating back to the late 1800s.

Dates are Friday and Saturday, May 19 and 20, 2 to 5 p.m. at the Lothrop House, 14 Summer St.

Admission is free. Refreshments of a white punch and white cupcakes will be served.

"We hope all kinds of people will come," said Betty Grassie, chairman of the society's costume committee which is planning the event.

"We thought where we were displaying the gowns on the theme of spring weddings, we might as well do it up and have a wedding reception," she said.

The 10 gowns are among 500 pieces of period clothing which have been donated to the historical society.

"Fr. John Keohane allows us to use the attic at St. Anthony's Church (next to the Lothrop House) to store the clothes," said Grassie.

"The gowns were primarily worn by people who lived in Cohasset," she explained.

Most date back to the 1890s and early 1900s.

"They were all donated to the society," she said.

"Some came with information about the origin, some did not."

The featured gown in the exhibit was worn by Maude Dickinson Snow during her wedding to Ephraim Snow Jr. of Cohasset Dec. 12, 1894.

"It is featured because we had so much background information," Grassie explained.

"The others were equally ornate."

The gown was donated about eight years ago by Snow's family in Barre, Vt.

"It was in its original box, but in pieces," said Grassie, who explained that it was taken apart in preparation to be worn by Snow's granddaughter."

"She cancelled the engagement, so it was not used," said Grassie.

The granddaughter, Paula Blackmur Young, who later married another man, provided the historical society with photos of her grandmother in the gown so they could use it as a guide to piece it back together.

"We didn't know how to put it together without documentation of how it looked," Grassie said.

Young explained that her grandmother was married at 28 years old in the home purchased for the couple by the bride's mother, Martha Knox Dickinson, at 15 Beach St.

"The ceremony took place in front of a long, ornate mirror in the left front parlor in what was known as the Blue Room," Young explained in a letter to the costume committee.

The heavy satin used in the gown cost $44 a yard when the dress was made, according to Grassie.

"Mother feels sure Granny's gown was made by someone in Boston," said Young.

The wedding gown of Maude Dickinson Snow will be featured at the exhibit of bridal gowns at the Lothrop House May 19-20.

"The skirt was heavy, but Granny was about 5-feet, 5-inches tall, shapely, but able to carry the weight of the dress.

"Both mother and I are delighted that you are having something to do with the display of 'our' lovely wedding dress."

The gown, decorated with Madeira lace from Spain, was made in two sections and has a long train.

The neckline is trimmed with pearls.

It will be displayed on a mannequin with lingerie, shoes, stockings, a shawl and a parasol, said Grassie.

Among the other gowns to be exhibited are an ivory satin one worn by Mrs. Harold Cousins.

"Most of the gowns seem to be ivory satin," commented Grassie.

"We're not sure if they turned that color or if that was the original shade."

Also included will be a cream faille gown worn by the wife of Benjamin Johnson Lane, and a cream and brown wedding gown was worn by Mrs. Steven Nichols.

"It was not unusual for brides to wear colors then," noted Grassie.

"One gown was navy blue, but it was not in good enough condition to show."

A cream color, heavy silk wedding gown decorated with chiffon, circa 1891, was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Tuck Collins of Hingham.

"Lots of chiffon was used in that era," said Grassie.

"It gives a soft look."

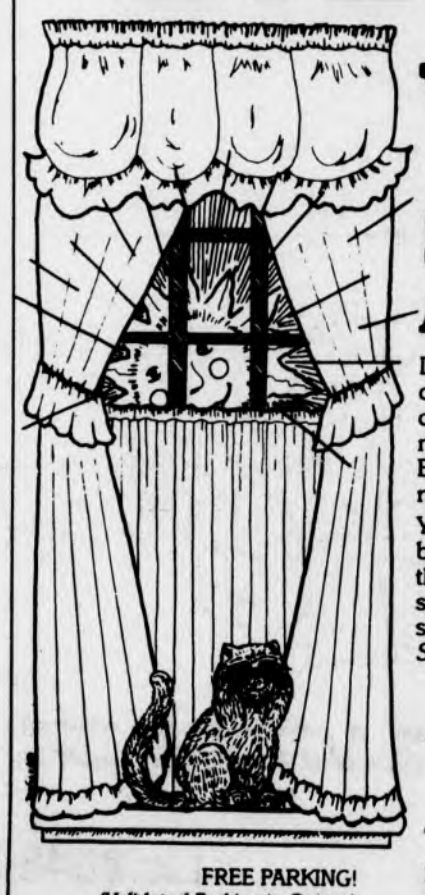
None of the gowns came with head pieces, according to Grassie.

Young told the costume committee that her grandmother wore a comb in her hair for the wedding.

"Most of the gowns are tiny," said Grassie, "with tiny waists.

"We have trouble fitting them on mannequins."

The exhibit takes a great deal of work, according to Grassie.



Many of the gowns need repairs, and almost all need to be steam pressed.

"We started months ahead of time to get ready,"she said.

Exhibit of historical wedding gowns

"We have eight ladies who work on the gowns, and we're always looking for new recruits."

The committee plans to extend a special invitation to students at Cohasset High School.

"We want to invite them so they can learn about the history of the town," said Grassie.

Young and her husband, Stewart, have been invited to lunch and for a private showing of the exhibit May 20.

Grassie said the society tries to put on four exhibits a year to interest people in the town's history.

Last summer, an exhibit of garden party dresses was held.

"If you don't do things, you don't get known," said Grassie.

Upcoming events include revisiting Minot's Light, a jazz festival, and tour of the Bellarmine House.

But for now, the costume committee is concentrating on the bridal gown exhibit and reception.

The only thing missing from the event will be bridegrooms.

"No grooms will be coming to the wedding," said Grassie.

"We have some men's clothes, but very little."

Gallery artist jurying

The Gallery Selection Committee of the South Shore Art Center will hold a Gallery Artist membership jurying and an Exhibition jury Saturday, May 13.

Artists may deliver portfolios Friday, May 12, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Pick up portfolios Tuesday, May 16, noon to 4 p.m. and Saturday, May 20, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Requirements are: five works of art, properly framed, for artists working in painting, drawing, pastel and sculpture. All sculpture must include stands.

Photographers must submit a minimum of 10 pieces, matted in white or off-white; the works need not be framed.

□ The volunteers (12 teenagers, 6 adults), preparing to make their journey to Leslie County, Kentucky for a week long work project (with the Appalachia Service Project) are holding a yard sale at the Second Congregational Church.

They are looking for saleable items: "good junk, tools, furniture, toys, sports equipment, etc. (no clothing); also any special opportunities local merchants might be willing to offer (meals, free donuts, pizza etc.).

Proceeds go toward their goal of raising $7,000 which will be used to travel, buy materials and help improve the lives of several needy families in Kentucky.

From now through Wednesday, May 3, items may be dropped off at the Second Congregational Church during office hours (Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon), or left in the office entryway on the town hall side of the church toward the rear of the building, or by appointment.

Likewise, for large items, they will pick up—just call the church office and leave a message (383-0345). They would also appreciate any special cash donations from local businesses. If you have any questions call Gary Ritts, 383-0345.

□ A hearty welcome to Henry and Nancy (Babine) Kucinski's brand new son, born on March 16 at South Shore Hospital.

□ An update on the ISIA Skating Competition last weekend. The competition was held on the Cape, and once again, the Cohasset skaters excelled!!

Lauren Wood earned a second in freestyle, (16 to 20 years old,) a first in couples, a second in figures (16 to 20 years old) and a first in production: Michelle Buckley skated to a second in footwork, (nine to 12 years old), a second in figures, (nine to 12 years old), a third in freestyle, (nine to 12 years old), and a first in production; Kara Protulis wowed 'em with a first in freestyle, (13 to 15 years old), a first in couples, (13 to 15 years old), a first in interpretation, (13 to 15 years old), a second in footwork, (13 to 15 years old), and a first in production; Kim Ward won a third in freestyle, (13 to 15 years old) and a first in production; Michelle Ward earned herself a fifth in spotlight, a third in figures (in the 10 to 12 year old group) and first in production; and Marisol Perry won a fourth in freestyle, (9 to 12 years old) and a first in production.

Once again these gals were outstanding, and once again we are proud of them for all of their hard work and hours of practice that it takes to make them what they are!!

□ You can't keep a good lady down. . . . Isabelle Wilson had eye surgery recently, and was spotted around town looking ever so grand in her fancy dark glasses. She is really a wonderful lady, and we are happy to report that she is making such good progress!

□ Speaking of women, we congratulate Susan Travers's new membership in the Rotary Club of Cohasset. Susan, the manager of Noble's Camera Shop in Cohasset, is the first woman to become a member of the Club, and we'll bet she will have a lot of input for them.

□ Ken Sargent is going to be teaching a furniture refinishing course this spring, and if you have the time you should make a point to sign up! Having been to Ken's shop many times, his work is beautiful and he takes great pride in what he does! He is teaching through the Cohasset Recreation Department. Call 383-6791 for details.

□ Mary McLean, Enrichment Coordinator for the Deer Hill and Osgood Schools, is looking for items to use in an inventors workshop for all fifth graders. If you have any old buttons, spools of thread, small appliances or wheels and things from broken toys, send them in with your children to the Enrichment Room.

□ Congratulations go to Nancy Riley, this year's winner of the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizen Award. Nancy is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Riley of 7 Woodland Drive, and the honor is a special one!! To earn it, Nancy had to excell in dependability, leadership, service and patriotism.

□ Professor John Zotos of NU's Department of Mechanical Engineering was the Guest Speaker at MIT's Tau Beta Pi Annual Winter Banquet held at the Cambridge Marriott Hotel on Friday, Feb. 10. This National Engineering Honor Society's Massachusetts Beta Chapter was established at MIT early in the twentieth century and was recognizing the 106 MIT Juniors and Seniors who had just been initiated into their group earlier that afternoon.

The subject of Prof. Zotos' address was "The Engineer As a World Citizen" and he attempted to show them how important each and every one of them possessing such an abundance of technical talents has the role and responsibility to use these capabilities to make the Planet Earth a better place to live on as we head into the 21st century. The subject was very appropriate since the 106 students represented many races, nationalities, and both men and women.

Prof. Zotos of Cohasset also serves a Faculty Advisor to NU's Massachusetts Epsilon Chapter of Tau Beta Pi and has spoken at several District 1 Conferences throughout New England during the 1980's.

State Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray congratulated Abagail Hobson of Cohasset for becoming a Massachusetts Notary Public. Gail is the Office Manager for Admins Incorporated of Cambridge. The firm is in the computer software business.

□ March 31, members of the Thayer Community participated in a benefit concert for Amnesty International. Davis Walp of Cohasset performed for students, faculty and friends in Thayer's "Human Rights Pretty Soon" concert.

□ Kerri Anglin, Bill Baird, Nicole Barry, Dudley Bryan, Liz Buckley, Andrea Cann, Mike Cisneros, Noah Hill, Kerri Miele, Margaret Moore, Matt Norris and Caleb Slotnick all attended the Second Annual South Shore Leadership Conference held at Braintree High School. The meeting was attended by 17 other high schools als, and everyone said it was a grand day.

Arts Lottery Council endorses several grant applicants

The Cohasset Arts Lottery Council voted to endorse 10 of 21 grant applications received for the spring funding cycle.

The recommended applications need the approval of the state council.

Cohasset's total allotment for grants was $1,265, and $516 for the Performing Arts Student Series, which helps pay for tickets to approved events for students in Grades K-12.

The following proposals were endorsed:

They are: Cohasset Arts Boosters Club, for a Performing Arts Scholarship to a graduating senior.

Cohasset Council on Aging/Senior Center, for a quilting class for senior citizens.

Cohasset Historical Society, for the ongoing restoration of artworks.

Cohasset Parent School Organization, for performances at the Junior/Senior High School by "The New English Song and Daunce Companie."

Arts Magazine, for general operating support.

South Shore Association of Retarded Citizens, for a Visiting Artist Program at the South Shore Art Center.

Felecia Bartow, Melissa Nothnagle, and Erin Monaghan, for a mural on the Sandy Beach Association beach house.

Cohasset Recreation Commission, for Summer Band Concerts.

Sister Veronica Julie, for painting clases at the Cohasset Senior Center.

South Shore Art Center, for Children's Workshops at Festival.

Cohasset PSO/Deer Hill fourth grades, for a performance of "The Secret Garden" by Theatre Works U.S.A. at The Berklee Performance Center. (PASS)

Cohasset Junior/Senior High School, for a performance of the "Taming of the Shrew" by the Publick Theatre, Boston. (PASS)

Recreation news

A number of adult recreation programs continue all year. Currently, volleyball meets Tuesday evenings until school ends; various aerobic exercise classes meet all year; dog obedience classes are finishing up; bridge classes will soon end. However, the recreation department is currently taking names for a Spring furniture refinishing and restoration class. Both adult golf and tennis classes will be announced shortly.

The 1989 facility permits are scheduled to go on sale Monday, June 5, 1989. Your current year sticker expires on June 30, 1989.

It's on the record at town government public meetings

In the past The Mariner has had some - shall we say discussions - with individual town officials about what should and should not be off the record, in other words when we should quote them and when we shouldn't.

Although the paper has always had the same policy, we apologize to anybody who has felt aggrieved in the past, because obviously we have not made it clear.

With a number of new town officials taking office, this is a good time to start with a fresh slate and discuss this off-the-record business.

Information can be put into three categories: 1. that which can be quoted; 2. that which can be printed, without attributing the source; and 3. that which is off the record and never printed.

1. On the record: all public meetings, hearings, etc. are always, always, always on the record.

Public meetings are public. That means that anything said or done at the meeting is fair game for the press. All of Cohasset has a right to know what their public officials are saying and doing.

If you are on a town board, commission or agency, please don't make remarks in a meeting, then ask the press not to print them. If the reporter is any good at all, he will disregard your request. He may even write in the story that you asked him not to print it. He is not being mean. He is simply reporting that meeting.

If the meeting strays off the subject, gets into personalities, turns into a fight, etc., that is your problem not ours.

Questions about town business are also on the record. On several occassions, town officials have answered a question about town business with "well, off the record . . ." and then answered the question.

This puts the reporter in an awkward position. Is he supposed to write that the official had no comment? Or just leave it out? These are not honest courses of action because the official had a comment and the reporter knows what it is.

You have a duty as a public official to be honest and forthright with the people you serve. Common sense demands it; the people expect it; the law requires it.

Sometimes people have conversations that drift back and forth between what can and cannot be quoted. This can be a nightmare for the reporter. When he gets back to the office and reviews his notes, it is very easy to confuse what is and isn't on the record.

This type of conversation puts the official in the position of editing the newspaper, which is not his job. If an official does not want to comment he should say so - and possibly read in the Mariner next week that "Official X refused to talk about such and such."

If the question is about business coming before your board or commission, then you should be able to talk about it.

2. Material which is not for attribution: This is what people usually mean when they say "off the record." This is information which everyone understands is going to be printed, but the source is not going to be identified.

For instance, someone may suggest an editorial or a story idea, or tell us issues and people to watch in the future.

Complaints are also usually in this category, but if there is to be a correction, we may need to quote someone directly to substantiate information.

Caution: if you are going to talk with any reporter, not for attribution, then be sure he agrees in advance. To say you don't want to be quoted after answering the question is unfair and can get you into trouble when your remarks appear in next week's paper.

3. Off the record information: It is unlikely this material will ever be printed and obviously the reporter must agree in advance.

This category may include background material on a certain subject, or something of a sensitive personal nature.

Things which belong in category two - not for attribution - might end up off the record if they can't be substantiated.

When a reporter receives off the record information, he should not be taking notes, the pen should be put away. This is because things that are written down can find their way into the paper (at 2 a.m. it's easy to make that kind of mistake.) Notebooks can also be lost and read by others.

Genuinely off the record conversations are rare and should be treated seriously.

Officials should be aware that when we do take information off the record, we cannot make reference to it when we write. An official once told us confidentially that his board was going to handle a specific problem. When it didn't do so, we wrote that the board was doing nothing. The official came back with, "But I told you we were going to." But we can't write that if it's off the record. Officials can't have it both ways. We can't cover for them. It's unfair to our readers and unfair to your constituents. That's why we have the policy.

Town employees: It is not usually necessary to quote town employees, such as fire and police officers or town hall workers, by name because their opinion as individuals is not being sought.

For example, if the town clerk says the deadline for dog licenses is April 1, we say "the town clerk's office reminds residents that . . . "

Town workers might be quoted by name if their opinion is being sought about changes in their office, or job description or if a madman came in and shot someone and they were witnesses. But usually just the board member or office holder (such as the town administrator) in charge of that department can expect to be quoted by name.

Ordinary citizens: There is even more leeway in quoting ordinary citizens. If you are an ordinary citizen, we would want to verify your remarks anyway, putting you into category two (not for attribution.)

But, if you are an authority on a certain topic, or crucial to a story, (an accident happens in front of your house, for instance) we might have to quote what you said. This would depend on the circumstances and you would probably have no trouble realizing the intentions of the reporter. This is mostly common sense.

Speaking at public meetings: People sometimes speak at public meetings and then refuse to give their names, this is unfortunate.

If people speak at a public meeting they enter the public domain and are fair game for the press. Boards should (and usually do) require that names be given.

The paper - and often the town - does not take anonymous complaints or opinions as seriously. If you have a point, stand up for it. How can officials or the paper be expected to investigate something if you don't feel strongly enough to give your name? How do we even know you live in Cohasset?

If you speak at a public meeting and we discover your name afterwards, don't be surprised if you see it in the paper.

It is not just in the interest of the press to conduct things on an on-the- record basis. The government benefits too.

Citizens appear to be inherently suspicious of their local governments. They seem to suspect plots, nefarious dealings, incompetence at every turn.

We have not found this to be the case in Cohasset. And the more things are on the record, the easier it is for us to say so.

NEWS ITEM — Cohasset: History was made at Rotary Hall when a traditionally all-male bastion welcomed its first female member. Noble's Camera Shops' chain Cohasset branch manager, Susan Travers, never gave much thought to the 'being first issue' in joining the Cohasset Rotary Club, a 47-year-old local service organization. 'A good group of people,' said Travers

"...What's all the sudden fuss...all the ties, your best suit?...
It's just your regular Rotary Club meeting..."

she might depict the motion of water on the rocks.

"I might work on the motion and make up the color I want," she explained.

Williams said when she first began to paint, she worked in watercolors and did realistic landscapes.

"Then I found myself more interested in making shapes, overlapping with other shapes, so I went to abstracts."

Williams, who grew up in Brookline, always loved art.

"I have four children," she said,"and when they were out playing, I always had a pad of paper with me.

"It was difficult because they were always moving," she laughed.

Williams started taking extension courses at the Museum of Fine Arts, where she worked as a gallery instructor.

When her children grew up, she had more time to devote to art.

"I studied with an artist in Wayland, George Dergalis," she said.

Two noted Cohasset artists will open up their studios! Above, Claffy Williams in her studio and below, Nancy Hansen Connolly with some of her projects including a quilt painting on the wall.

"He was excellent on structure of painting and color.

"He drew out of each student their own talent."

That was followed by two years study of painting and drawing at the MFA.

"I was older than most of the students," said Williams.

"I didn't want a degree, particularly.

"I just wanted to paint, and time was marching on."

Since then, her paintings have been exhibited in one-person shows and commissioned by art collectors.

Williams' next one-person show on "Time and Space" is scheduled for May 13 to June 4 at New York's Ariel Gallery in Soho.

"I've had about 12, one-person shows," said Williams.

"More have been in the Boston area.

"It's very exciting to see all your work together," she said.

Her first one-person show was in 1974 at the Copley Society of Boston, according to Williams.

"At first, you worried that no one would come to the opening," she remembered.

"That's kind of a concern.

"I like comments about my work, I'd like more.

"But I was very sensitive in the beginning."

Her three largest one-person shows were for the Duxbury Art Complex in 1985, Madelaine Carter gallery in Brookline in 1987 and South Shore Art Center in 1988.

Williams served on the board of the Cohasset art center from 1980-1987, and was president for those last two years.

"That was when we built the new art center," Williams said.

"The staff at the art center now is doing a super job with lots of new programs and classes.

"The director, Lanci Valentine, is so sharp."

Williams has also done a number of works on commission.

For example, a few years ago, she did 20 works for a conference room in Dallas, Texas.

"I did it in three months," she said.

The paintings were on an Oriental theme, according to Williams, and some were 6-feet by 2 1/2 feet.

"They were built around a Buddha and other Oriental themes,"she said.

"I was happy with how they came out."

Another commission was for a boat company in Florida.

"I prefer to do what I want," said Williams,"to really feel the painting.

"But commissions are good for a change."

In addition to abstract scenes, Williams loves to do paintings of birds.

"Lately, it's the only subject I don't abstract," she said.

Williams generally doesn't do portraits.

"It doesn't excite me to do portraits," she explained.

"But I can see why other people do them.

"I'm so excited about other things to do."

When Williams travels with her husband, she frequently sketches realistically, then may work from that later.

"I also write little notes about color," she said.

A Cohasset resident for about 10 years, Williams has owned her studio for five years.

"I painted in the house, but there were a lot of distractions,"she said.

She usually paints five days a week.

"The trouble with artists," said Williams, "is that you have to spend 75 percent of your time on nitty gritty, the rest of the time you can paint."

Williams enjoys painting in the morning and for a few hours in the afternoon.

"It doesn't matter what season," she said.

"I like them all.

"I like every day.

"I try to leave the studio with an idea of what to do the next day, and that helps.

"One idea feeds another."

She is looking forward to welcoming guests on the studio tour.

"It's great to show my studio off," said Williams.

"I like to have people come to my studio."

Visitors to Hansen-Connolly's studio, built on the foundation of a barn behind her house, will have a number of works of art to enjoy.

One will be an armature to an assemblage, a sculptural composition like a large doll.

Called a Monument to Motherhood, it hangs from a hook.

"I got the idea to make a big fertility figure with the head of a bird, and to have it suspended," said Hansen-Connolly, a soft-spoken woman whose enthusiasm for art shines through.

"It will look like a big doll from the distance."

Another assemblage, about two feet tall, is about Hansen-Collins emotional ups and downs as a teenager.

It features many different textures, and is supported by a lab stand.

"It's a lot of parts assembled together," she said,

Chamber committed to Capt. Jason's request

Letters

To the Editor:

During the discussion period relating to Article 54 of the Warrant for the Cohasset Town Meeting, Mr. Herbert Jason suggested an amendment to this Article. Article 54 dealt with Article IX - HARBOR of the General Bylaws.

Mr. Jason suggested that the words "Commercial Fishermen" and "Commercial Lobstermen" be inserted in the Article as exceptions to the exclusion of Corporations under the definition of "Boatowner."

"Boatowner" was described as an individual only and specifically excludes corporations with exceptions which generally could be described as "businesses."

Does anyone have any doubt that the men owning these boats are businessmen? Does not the consideration of the investment entailed, the marketing and bookkeeping functions involved and hours worked preclude any other determination?

To omit such language in the definition would commit a grave disservice to a very productive part of our business community and much more importantly to the individuals involved.

Further, since the Corporate Form of ownership in business is a well recognized vehicle and could result in many benefits to the owners of these boats it would seem to be discriminatory to deny them this option.

If this results in the need for a specific plan of action to address the needs of the Commercial Fishing and Lobstering Industries then so be it.

The Cohasset Chamber of Commerce wishes to go on record as being completely committed to the request of Captain Jason and asks that the Cohasset Harbor Committee be particularly attentive to the needs of this segment of our business community.

CHS at Math Day

Cohasset High School was one of 30 high schools represented at the fourth annual Sonia Kovalevsky High School Mathematics Day held April 6 at Simmons College in Boston. Teachers Margaret Lee and Maura Devin, and students Nicole Bieryla, Ann-Margaret Grew, Jill Hamilton, Candy Jones, Kristen Ellinger, and Allison Reilly were among the participants in the half-day program.

The purpose of the program was to encourage young women to pursue the study of mathematics, and to consider careers in mathematics and related sciences. Students attended workshops and participated in a problem-solving contest, while teachers discussed applications of mathematics and shared teaching strategies. Alice Shafer, cofounder of the Association for Women in Mathematics, delivered the keynote address, "Women in Mathematics."

Shakespeare celebrated

To welcome spring and to celebrate William Shakespeare's 425th birthday, the Cohasset PSO will present "The New English Song and Daunce Companie" in "Season's Delights" at the junior/senior high school Wednesday, April 26.

The group will perform dining entertainment during both lunch periods, and then will adjourn to the auditorium for a special assembly for seventh grade English classes, ninth grade Humanities students, and Living Arts majors in Music and Art who would have a particular interest in various aspects of the group's repertoire.

Five costumed members of this unusual troupe will draw the audience into Elizabethan times through songs of diverse types: madrigals, rounds, tavern songs, and songs from the plays of Shakespeare.

They use period instruments including the fiddle and recorder as well as shawm, pipe, tabor, and timbrel.

The group has been entertaining at schools, festivals, and conventions throughout New England for eight years. In 1984 they represented Massachusetts at the World's Fair in New Orleans. Last year they presented a Harvest Festival at the John Alden House as part of Duxbury's 350th anniversary celebration, and a spring festival at the South Shore Conservatory in Hingham.

Joan Gatturna, former CHS librarian, is a member of the troupe and Tom O'Neil, CHS Latin teacher, is a former trombonist with the group.

CHS teachers plan to incorporate ideas from the presentation into their spring curriculum, so there will be preparation and follow-up activities in four departments. Teachers have been invited to dine with their students to enjoy the performance and to share in this delightful and educational experience.

PSO representatives Carol Martin and Claudia Story, Pat Baird and Regina Schultz have collaborated to bring this worthwhile curriculum enrichment presentation to the Cohasset Jr./Sr. High. They have been approved for a grant by the Cohasset Arts Lottery Council. This program is supported in part by the Massachusetts Arts Lottery, as administered by the Cohasset Arts Lottery Council. Additional funding is provided by the PSO.

Chess Club organizer and teacher Joseph Becker recently awarded the following students prizes. L-R, first place, Robin Ordelheide, second place, Jeremiah Stevenson and third place, Michael Coates.

Metco banner design

Wednesday April 26 artist and Metco host parent Nancy Connolly will meet with the students at Osgood School — involved in the Metco Program to design a banner to celebrate Metco's 20 years in Cohasset. The banner will wave at Sandy Beach April 30 at the Metco picnic.

This is the event at which Cohasset families host Boston families here in the town where their children attend school.

This year this picnic is scheduled early so senior and upper classmen can attend, and will take place, partly, at the beach. Special beach art projects & special awards are planned.

PSO ANNUAL MEETING

Save the date of May 11 on your calendars. The PSO promises you an enriching evening with Dr. Robert Brooks. Who's topic will be "Self-Esteem of the Children."

Vaudeville review in Cohasset

The musical stage of yesteryear will come alive in Cohasset during a performance by the team of Joey MacDonald and Brian Gurl.

Their energetic vaudeville review is a blend of music, comedy, dance, colorful costumes, and audience participation. The performance is scheduled for Sunday, May 21 at 2 p.m. and will be held at Cohasset High School. Admission will be $3 at the door.

Acrylic painter Rosalind "Roz" Farbush. Ms. Farbush will be exhibiting her paintings at the "Art for Heart" exhibit and sale to benefit the American Heart Association April 23 at the National Fire Protection Association headquarters in Quincy.

'Peter Pan' rehearsals

Casting for the musical "Peter Pan" is completed and rehearsals are underway at That New Theatre in Norwell.

Performances will be given at the Cushing Center in Norwell at 7 p.m. April 28, 29 and May 4, 5, 6 and 7. Matinees at 2 p.m. will be performed April 29, 30, May 6 and 7.

Among the cast members from Cohasset are: Sarah and Kate deLima and Kristian Remes.

Tickets for the show are $9 each, with a group rate available for 15 or more. Tickets can be obtained by sending a check payable to That New Theatre, P.O. Box 270, Norwell 02061. Orders should specify date, time and number of tickets desired very clearly since there are ten performances. Tickets can also be reserved by calling 878-1298 or 659-2589.

AARP to meet

The South Shore Chapter of AARP, will meet April 27 at 1:30 p.m. at the Sons of Italy Hall, Hingham, Route 3A. The Program is Health Thyself. Speakers are B. June Williams, Ph.D. President of South Shore Elder Services and Susan Young, Director of South Shore Elder Services. Margerita Grabosky is the host.

Historical prints displayed

The Pilgrim Cooperative Bank in Cohasset Village has generously loaned its window to the Cohasset Historical Society for the display of full-sized color prints of original paintings.

These prints, by the noted photographer Imants Ansbergs, are of pictures owned by the Society and are being sold as beautiful mementos of Cohasset or for gifts. They range in price from $25 to $130 and include such subjects as: The First Black Rock House, The Barque "Kepler" or a 3-Masted Schooner, Christopher James Farmhouse (now the Red Lion Inn, Harbor Views — as of 1850, as of 1898 from Tilden's Wharf (Kimball's), and Lighthouse Keeper Lopaus.

The display at the Cooperative Bank features small proofs of all the prints and three full-sized exmaples of this collection. Those interested in buying may call the Society, 383-6930 or Dave Chittim, 383-6245.

Old Colony Chapter DAR

The April meeting of the Old Colony Chapter DAR was held at Brandon Woods April 12. Members of the Col. Thomas Lothrop Chapter DAR of Cohasset were guests. Dessert was served prior to the meeting, courtesy of Brandon Woods.

Miss Kerri Beal of Rockland High School was the State Winner of the annual Good Citizens Award. She had been sponsored by Old Colony Chapter and was presented her award at the March State Conference of DAR in Westborough.

CHS spring sports roundup :Exhausting start

By Bill Modestino
Mariner correspondent

It was an exhausting seven days for some Cohasset High athletes as they were trying desperately to fit in as many games as possible before embarking on their own Spring Break adventures which began this week.

Katie Devine got the win in her first varsity start and Debbie Beale and Annmarie Talacci each had two hits and two walks, leading Scituate to its 15-8, South Shore League softball victory over host Cohasset April 11.

The Sailors broke the game open with a seven-run seventh inning. Kim Barclay ignited the uprising with a double. Deanna Fletcher contributed with a run-scoring double and Colleen McLarey and Devine drew bases-loaded walks before the inning was over.

For Cohasset, Allison Ludlow had two hits and Sara Bishop scored twice. Center fielder threw out a runner at the plate, while McLarey made a diving catch in center for Scituate (3-0 overall record.)

April 13, senior Kim Dowd threw 4 2/3 innings, allowing three hits and no runs, pacing Duxbury to a 12-3 romp over visiting Cohasset.

Jen Grant and Alison Zimon each had two hits and two runs batted in for the Green Dragons (2-0).

Dowd entered the game with one out in the third inning, with the bases loaded and the score tied 3-3.

Cohasset (0-2) was led by Kristin Ellinger's two hits and two RBIs.

Boys' Lacrosse

Ned Chase scored two goals and Greg Nourie and Matt Marks scored one each as the Cohasset boys' team did well in its first ever lacrosse match April 13. Unfortunately, they could not prevail in the end, dropping a 6-4 decision to Barnstable.

"They played very well against a Division One club," said Coach Kenneth Eckberg of Cohasset. "We had 51 boys come out for this team (it is a club not a varsity sport) and they're enthusiastic."

Goalie Travis Coley made 22 saves for the Skippers.

Cohasset will play its first home game at 3:45 p.m., April 24, hosting Falmouth.

Boys' Tennis

Scituate opened its 60th season with a 4-1, SSL victory over Cohasset at home April 11. Freshman Dana Moore won his first varsity match at second singles. Cohasset's Pat Milligan, a transfer from Florida, picked up the lone point for his team by winning the first singles' match.

TENNIS RESULTS

Singles

1. Pat Milligan (C) defeated Mark Brandon (S), 6-3, 6-1.
2. Dana Moore (S) defeated Joel Reidy (C), 6-2, 6-0.
3. Bill Vigliotte (S) defeated Frank Willshire (C), 6-3, 6-2.

2. Steve Backus and Rob Bechtold (S) defeated Mike Cisneios and Caleb Slotnick (C), 6-2, 6-2.

Girls' Tennis

Down 4-1 in her first set, Katie Ryan battled back and took her second singles match, defeating Kristen Steverman, 7-6, 6-1 while the first doubles team of Katie Lord and Katie Murphy gave Cohasset (1-0) the margin of victory in the 3-2 SSL decision over Scituate at home April 11.

Singles

1. Heather McDonnell (S) defeated Amanda Church (C), 6-2, 6-3.
2. Katie Ryan (C) defeated Kristen Steverman (S), 7-6 (7-5), 6-1.

Three youth soccer teams undefeated after Week 3

Three Cohasset youth soccer teams remained undefeated after the third week of Coastal League play, as rain and wind forced the postponement of Sunday's games at Milliken Field.

Girls' Under "12-1" won their third straight, beating Scituate, 3-1 behind Erin Murphy's fourth and fifth goals of the season. Andrea Mercurio added another score, and midfielders Martina Snyder, Jessica Connor and Amy Silvia led coach Nino D'Urso's defense.

Two Boys' Under 10 teams won their second in a row. "10-1" upset Plymouth, at Plymouth, behind striker Burke Davis's hat trick. Goalkeeper Ely Kahn anchored the defense in the 3-1 win, while Bobby Meehan assisted on the third goal. Paul Cotter's 10-2 squad knocked off Kingston, 1-0, on Greg Bilton's score, and Andrew Singleton's and Justin Golden's defense.

Boys' Under "10-3" showed remarkable improvement, dropping a close 1-0 contest to Carver, and getting good play from Ryan McWilliams, Kevin DeVito and Garrick Towle.

The Under 12 teams had fine showing, too, winning two out of three. "12-1" beat Middleboro, 5-0, as Jim Magner registered a three-goal hat trick, and coach Bucky Redfield got strong play from Pat Reynolds and Eric Henry, and shoutout goalkeeping from Chris McKenna.

"12-2" dropped a close game to Halifax, 2-0, with Kevin McKenna playing well in goal, and midfielder Conor Mangan and fullback Matt Pierce outstanding on defense.

"12-3" won their first of the season, edging Middleboro 1-0 on Matt Belson's goal in the game's opening minute.

"12-3," which played the game with just 10 players, was led by goalkeeper Justin Buckley, defender Brett Leahy, and forward Matt Conley.

Boys' "14-1" played to an 0-0 tie against Hanover, a defensive struggle in which goalie Chris Goodman, sweeper Dan Baird, and back Eric Drysdale and Mark Mercurio all excelled.

In the scoring performance of the weekend, Girls' "12-3" exploded for a 13-3 win over Sacred Heart of Kingston. Coach Kevin O'Connor tried to hold the score down by insisting on several passes before each shot, but to no avail. With only 11 players, O'Connor couldn't substitute. Scoring for "12-3" were Katie Anderson, Lauren DeVito, Andrea Freeman, Marrisa Verrochi and Kelley-Marie O'Donnell.

In other reported scores, Girls "10-2" were edged by Hanover, 2-1. Alexandra D'Urso scored for Cohasset, and Jennifer Burns and Rebecca Jenkins played well on defense.

Girls "14-1" fell to Hanover, 5-0, in part because coach Jack O'Brien could field only nine players, because of school vacation conflicts.

His depleted squad got good play from goalkeeper Jennifer Nohe, Erin O'Leary, and Sara Douglas.

Girls' Under "12-2" beat Marshfield, 2-1, on goals by Rebecca Golden and Emily Spencer in a great effort. Coaches Don DeMichael and Tom Killilea had only nine players for the game.

5th and 6th Grade: No Sunday School April 23 (School Vacation Week). We will be having an extended class on April 30 at my house from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Looking forward to seeing you then — Happy Vacations! LCJ

CONGRATULATIONS — TO KAREN FORD on her election to the Board of Christian Education, filling in for Gay Dane's last year of her 3 year term.

YARD SALE COMING — WE NEED YOUR DONATIONS! The Senior High Youth Group, in preparation for their journey to Leslie County, Kentucky for a week long work project (with the Appalachia Service Project) are holding a "Yard Sale" on May 6 (voting day) here at church. WE NEED: saleable items: "good junk," tools, furniture, toys, sports equipment, etc. (but please, NO clothing); also any special opportunities local merchants might be willing to offer (meals, free donuts, pizza, etc). Proceeds go toward our goal of raising $7,000 to travel, buy materials and help improve the lives of several needy families in Southeastern Kentucky. From now through Wednesday, May 3, items may be dropped off in the church during office hours (Monday through Friday between 9 and noon), or by appointment, or left at any time of day in the church office entry way toward the rear of the building on the town hall side. Likewise, for large items, we will pick up — just call the church office and leave a message. In your spring cleaning, keep us in mind.

VACATION WEEK — The "Beacon" will skip a week. Next issue to go out Tuesday, April 25. In case of emergency, please call Muriel Wheelwright, 383-1318.

APPALACHIA SERVICE PROJECT UPDATE: The headquarters has advised us that their reservations are full for our week of service, so they will be unable to increase our allotment of volunteers. To date 20 teenagers and 9 adults have pre-registered, our allotment was for 12 teenagers and 6 adults — or 18 total persons. An advisor's meeting has been scheduled for this Thursday (4/13) to discuss our options and make specific tasks assignments. We will keep you posted.

SERMON DISCUSSIONS TO BE POSTPONED

Informal afternoon get-togethers entitled "Fitting the Sermon into Our Lives" will be postponed to Sunday afternoons, April 23 and 30 at 4 p.m. Gather at the Rectory, 29 Highland Avenue, for discussion over coffee, tea, wine, cheese and crackers.

FOOD DONATIONS

Quincy Crisis Center relies on St. Stephen's to provide a hot meal once a month to feed the South Shore hungry. Sarah Pease, who is coordinating the food preparation every third Saturday, would very much appreciate a volunteer to drive the meal from Cohasset to Quincy around 9:30 a.m. If you are interested, please call her at 383-1406.

INFORMATIONAL MEETINGS ON PROPOSED AFFORDABLE HOUSING

The Fair Housing and Housing Partnership Committees have scheduled an informational meeting at three times so as many people as possible can get to come to the meetings. The meetings will entail a slide presentation of affordable housing units in other towns, plus information on proposals for Cohasset-family rental housing, a care facility for the mentally retarded, and information on what a comprehensive permit is and the home ownership programs.

The meetings will take place on Sunday, April 23, at 11:30 a.m. at the Second Congregational Church; on Friday, April 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Church Parish House; and on Sunday, May 7, at 3 p.m. here at St. Stephen's.

UNITED THANK OFFERING

At services Sunday, April 23, we will make our spring contributions to the United Thank Offering. From our contributions given in thanks for God's care, millions of dollars nationwide are received for the mission of the church at home and abroad.

LESSONS ON PLAYNG THE CARILLON

Sally Slade Warner will be at the Church Saturday, April 22, May 6 and 20, and June 3 for introductory lessons on the playing of the carillon. Sally will be in the Practice Room from 10 a.m. to noon on the above days.

SPRING CLEAN-UP TIME

Saturday, April 22 — 9 a.m.
Rain Date, April 29 — 9 a.m.

Once again it is time to spruce up the grounds around the Church. Volunteers are needed to help weed, prune, dig up roots of small trees on the front banking and provide whatever other general help may be needed. With eight or ten people, most of what needs to be done can be accomplished in one or two hours. Please help us! Sign up on the sheet posted on the bulletin board in Walton Rogers Hall, or speak to or call Roger Nast. If you prefer doing inside work and would still like to help, please let me know of your interests. We have several small projects currently under consideration that need helping hands.

The Cohasset Community Center sponsored a multi-media puppeteer show Tuesday. Mia Lieb Lappen (far left) munches on an apple during the show, while Kerry Lynne Kiley, 3, is spellbound by the puppeteer.

Kevin Halligan, 3½, and his best friend watch the show.

Caroline Carry, 4, watches with her Mickey Mouse puppet.

Among the spectators were children from the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens. Aide Anne Marie Schnelle with Robin O'Keefe, Philip Gerety, Meg Mullare, Andrea Giardano, Michael Russell and Erika O'Brien.

Three interested children are Mark and Matthew Davis and Mathew Corey.

A conversation with artist Nancy Hansen Connolly

"little things I collected or found."

"Everything I do tells a story with color or shapes," said Hansen-Collins.

"You find out early that not everyone gets the story, but that's ok.

"That's why it's nice to teach. You get to tell the story."

Hansen-Collins teaches a moms and tots pre-school class at the South Shore Art Center, as well as a workshop on drawing, painting and crafts at the Beechwood Community Life Center in Quincy.

This spring, she plans to teach a marionette class for the Duxbury Art Association.

"What I enjoy about teaching is that there is a lot of interaction," she said.

"In the studio, you are by yourself."

Hansen-Connolly has lived in Cohasset with her family for nine and a half years.

She and her husband, a painter and sculptor, have had the studio for about two years.

Their two young sons like to come to the studio and draw, as well, she said.

Always interested in art, Hansen -Connolly went to the Mass. College of Art. That's where she met her husband.

"I always liked to make things," she said.

"It seemed someone was always taking things apart and putting them together again.

"We bought this house and needed to renovate it."

Her art work isn't limited to assemblages.

For a change, she also draws, paints and sews quilts.

"If I'm sewing, there is a lot of cutting and tedious work," said Hansen-Connolly.

"So, I do drawing, too."

For the quilts, she starts with a sketch, then uses her own version of playing cards to work out the design.

She is currently working on a 6 1/2 foot by 6 1/2 foot quilt for a friend, who in return will do a realistic painting for Hansen-Connolly.

Though the quilt has 20 different colors, the predominant one is blue.

"I try to work with colors close in value so the eye plays tricks on you," she said.

It incorporates the interests of her friend, who lives by the water.

"There are sail boats and a house form," she said.

"I enjoy abstracting images in quilts," she said.

"I grew up drawing pretty realistically, but then I started changing the shapes.

"It's like inventing your own language if you work with abstractions.

"You have a series of images and you can change and enlarge them over and over.

"It's like writing a book with an imaginary language.

"They change, but you can still read them.

"The process is slow, and can be tedious," admitted Hansen-Connolly.

"But I like all of it because you have to think about what you are doing.

"I try to do all the work with color during the day for the natural light, and I sew at night.

"And I listen to music, from the Rolling Stones to Beethoven."

Among her other projects have been stuffed flags for a bank in Boston for the country's bicentennial in 1976.

Hansen-Connolly tries to spend time in her studio every day.

"Sometimes, its for a couple of hours, sometimes longer.

"It depends on my teaching schedule."

She likes the idea of having visitors to her studio for the tour.

"I've always liked the idea of being able to go on a tour of other studios,"she said.

She is a member of a group of artists called Drawn Together which was started about a year ago and meets once a month.

The group had a show at the art center last summer.

"It's a way to get people to mix together," she said.

For more information on the studio tour, call 383-9548.

Officials explain effect of override

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

Confusion regarding the Proposition 2 1/2 override ballot abated Monday night when town officials explained the cause and effect of the nine override questions.

The May 6 ballot will include a request for $844,000 to fund the town's operating budget; two capital outlay exclusions for various town equipment; and six debt exclusion articles for the police and fire station project, a roof for the town hall and the Osgood Schoool, two school buses, design of a new town cemetery, and renovations to Milliken Field.

Town officials explained that approval of the general override for the operating budget will increase the real estate tax rate by $2.06 per $1,000 property valuation.

Monday night's discussion included a warning from advisory committee chairman Jane Goedecke.

"Remember, the ballot question is not a referendum or an appropriation. It is a vote to increase your taxes. What you are saying is 'you may or may not increase my taxes to buy that,' but town meeting has already said that we could buy it," she explained.

If a majority of voters decide not to approve question one calling for a $844,000 override to fund the town's operating budget, town meeting will be reconvened May 31. At that time, voters will have the opportunity to reduce the town budget by that amount, or voters may actually call for another special election to attempt once again to approve a tax increase to pay for town services.

Selectmen think override vote too close to call

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

Most selectmen believe it's going to be a close vote for the override questions at the May 6 special election.

"I was confident last year (that the questions would pass), said newly elected selectman Diana Kornet.

"But I'm not so confident that all of the articles will sail through this year," she said.

"I think it will be closer this year," said selectman Martha Gjesteby.

"The economic aspect is the issue," she said .

"It's like being between a rock and a hard place.

"I think many people will wait until they get to the ballot booth to decide."

Another newly elected selectman, Ned Tebbetts, said he thinks the vote for the first question will be very close.

This includes the $844,000 override for the town operating budget.

"I think it will probably pass," he said.

"But a lot of people are angry about the substantial size of the tax increase.

"A lot of people are on fixed incomes, and I have sympathy for them."

Tebbetts said he didn't think all of the other questions would pass.

Selectman Chairman Burt Pratt expressed more confidence in the voter outcome.

"I think the questions have a lot of support," said Pratt.

"Some people say they are opposed, but it's basically because they don't understand."

He noted that an information night is scheduled for Monday night, April 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the old Town Hall auditorium.

"I have a feeling when people understand, they will vote for them," said Pratt.

"I'm optimistic that everything will pass."

The fifth selectman, Rocco Laugelle, was not available.

Many of the ballot questions were favored by selectmen.

"Basically, this is the operating budget for the town," said Pratt of the first question .

Also included are $2,000 for mosquito control, $900 for elected officials longevity, $2,969 for unpaid legal bills, $5,000 for a septic system, $15,000 for painting old Town Hall and $10,000 for removal of gas tanks.

"The budgets were put in at level funding or below in some cases," said Pratt.

"I had a couple of questions about whether all the items were appropriate to include, but it was the consensus of the board of selectmen," said Kornet.

"Our job is to line up the questions, and make it (the ballot) as simple and clear as possible.

"The voters can concur or disagree.

"The question includes the budget and other items essential to do."

"A lot of people are concerned about costs," said Gjesteby.

"The water rates are going up, people are con-

Local artists to welcome public into studios during two-day tour

Works of art begin in the imagination of the artist, but often come to life in an artist's studio.

The South Shore Art Center in Cohasset will provide a glimpse of that process by sponsoring a tour of artists' studios April 28 and 29, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Twenty-four artists in Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Marshfield, Norwell, and Scituate will open their homes so that visitors can see their work as part of "The Autobahn of Artists."

Some pieces may be purchased.

One and two day tickets are available. For more information, call the center at 383-9548.

Among the local artists participating in the event will be painter Mary Reardon and woodworker John Collins, both of Hingham.

"Visitors will be able to see the working condition," said Reardon, a freelance painter whose work over the years has included portraits of such people as Umberto Cardinal Medeiros and her late brother, the Hon. Paul C. Reardon.

She has also done large mosaics such as the one on the Resurrection designed for the St. Louis Cathedral.

"I did the design in a full-size cartoon painting," said Reardon, a gracious woman who has travelled the world to find subjects for her paintings.

"I used five-foot wide rolls of paper, some 30 feet long.

"The mosaic company makes the mosaic," said Reardon.

"It's exceedingly beautiful material which makes everything look even better."

Reardon was always artistic.

"My father was a doctor, but he loved art," said Reardon, who grew up in Quincy.

"There were books in the house, and reproductions of etchings."

She graduated from Radcliffe and the Yale School of Fine Arts.

"In college, I majored in fine art, but it was more the history of art," explained Reardon.

"At Yale, they emphasized mural painting and I was interested."

She also worked with Siqueiros, a Mexican artist in San Miguel.

"I was spending all my time on art," said

"If I'm sewing, there is a lot of cutting and tedious work," said Hansen-Connolly.

"So, I do drawing, too."

For the quilts, she starts with a sketch, then uses her own version of playing cards to work out the design.

She is currently working on a 6 1/2 foot by 6 1/2 foot quilt for a friend, who in return will do a realistic painting for Hansen-Connolly.

Though the quilt has 20 different colors, the predominant one is blue.

"I try to work with colors close in value so the eye plays tricks on you," she said.

It incorporates the interests of her friend, who lives by the water.

"There are sail boats and a house form," she said.

"I enjoy abstracting images in quilts," she said.

"I grew up drawing pretty realistically, but then I started changing the shapes.

"It's like inventing your own language if you work with abstractions.

"You have a series of images and you can change and enlarge them over and over.

"It's like writing a book with an imaginary language.

"They change, but you can still read them.

"The process is slow, and can be tedious," admitted Hansen-Connolly.

"But I like all of it because you have to think about what you are doing.

"I try to do all the work with color during the day for the natural light, and I sew at night.

"And I listen to music, from the Rolling Stones to Beethoven."

Among her other projects have been stuffed flags for a bank in Boston for the country's bicentennial in 1976.

Hansen-Connolly tries to spend time in her studio every day.

"Sometimes, its for a couple of hours, sometimes longer.

"It depends on my teaching schedule."

She likes the idea of having visitors to her studio for the tour.

"I've always liked the idea of being able to go on a tour of other studios,"she said.

She is a member of a group of artists called Drawn Together which was started about a year ago and meets once a month.

The group had a show at the art center last summer.

"It's a way to get people to mix together," she said.

For more information on the studio tour, call 383-9548.

Officials explain effect of override

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

Confusion regarding the Proposition 2 1/2 override ballot abated Monday night when town officials explained the cause and effect of the nine override questions.

The May 6 ballot will include a request for $844,000 to fund the town's operating budget; two capital outlay exclusions for various town equipment; and six debt exclusion articles for the police and fire station project, a roof for the town hall and the Osgood Schoool, two school buses, design of a new town cemetery, and renovations to Milliken Field.

Town officials explained that approval of the general override for the operating budget will increase the real estate tax rate by $2.06 per $1,000 property valuation.

Monday night's discussion included a warning from advisory committee chairman Jane Goedecke.

"Remember, the ballot question is not a referendum or an appropriation. It is a vote to increase your taxes. What you are saying is 'you may or may not increase my taxes to buy that,' but town meeting has already said that we could buy it," she explained.

If a majority of voters decide not to approve question one calling for a $844,000 override to fund the town's operating budget, town meeting will be reconvened May 31. At that time, voters will have the opportunity to reduce the town budget by that amount, or voters may actually call for another special election to attempt once again to approve a tax increase to pay for town services.

Selectmen think override vote too close to call

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

Most selectmen believe it's going to be a close vote for the override questions at the May 6 special election.

"I was confident last year (that the questions would pass), said newly elected selectman Diana Kornet.

"But I'm not so confident that all of the articles will sail through this year," she said.

"I think it will be closer this year," said selectman Martha Gjesteby.

"The economic aspect is the issue," she said .

"It's like being between a rock and a hard place.

"I think many people will wait until they get to the ballot booth to decide."

Another newly elected selectman, Ned Tebbetts, said he thinks the vote for the first question will be very close.

This includes the $844,000 override for the town operating budget.

"I think it will probably pass," he said.

"But a lot of people are angry about the substantial size of the tax increase.

"A lot of people are on fixed incomes, and I have sympathy for them."

Tebbetts said he didn't think all of the other questions would pass.

Selectman Chairman Burt Pratt expressed more confidence in the voter outcome.

"I think the questions have a lot of support," said Pratt.

"Some people say they are opposed, but it's basically because they don't understand."

He noted that an information night is scheduled for Monday night, April 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the old Town Hall auditorium.

"I have a feeling when people understand, they will vote for them," said Pratt.

"I'm optimistic that everything will pass."

The fifth selectman, Rocco Laugelle, was not available.

Many of the ballot questions were favored by selectmen.

"Basically, this is the operating budget for the town," said Pratt of the first question .

Also included are $2,000 for mosquito control, $900 for elected officials longevity, $2,969 for unpaid legal bills, $5,000 for a septic system, $15,000 for painting old Town Hall and $10,000 for removal of gas tanks.

"The budgets were put in at level funding or below in some cases," said Pratt.

"I had a couple of questions about whether all the items were appropriate to include, but it was the consensus of the board of selectmen," said Kornet.

"Our job is to line up the questions, and make it (the ballot) as simple and clear as possible.

"The voters can concur or disagree.

"The question includes the budget and other items essential to do."

"A lot of people are concerned about costs," said Gjesteby.

"The water rates are going up, people are con-

Local artists to welcome public into studios during two-day tour

Works of art begin in the imagination of the artist, but often come to life in an artist's studio.

The South Shore Art Center in Cohasset will provide a glimpse of that process by sponsoring a tour of artists' studios April 28 and 29, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Twenty-four artists in Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Marshfield, Norwell, and Scituate will open their homes so that visitors can see their work as part of "The Autobahn of Artists."

Some pieces may be purchased.

One and two day tickets are available. For more information, call the center at 383-9548.

Among the local artists participating in the event will be painter Mary Reardon and woodworker John Collins, both of Hingham.

"Visitors will be able to see the working condition," said Reardon, a freelance painter whose work over the years has included portraits of such people as Umberto Cardinal Medeiros and her late brother, the Hon. Paul C. Reardon.

She has also done large mosaics such as the one on the Resurrection designed for the St. Louis Cathedral.

"I did the design in a full-size cartoon painting," said Reardon, a gracious woman who has travelled the world to find subjects for her paintings.

"I used five-foot wide rolls of paper, some 30 feet long.

"The mosaic company makes the mosaic," said Reardon.

"It's exceedingly beautiful material which makes everything look even better."

Reardon was always artistic.

"My father was a doctor, but he loved art," said Reardon, who grew up in Quincy.

"There were books in the house, and reproductions of etchings."

She graduated from Radcliffe and the Yale School of Fine Arts.

"In college, I majored in fine art, but it was more the history of art," explained Reardon.

"At Yale, they emphasized mural painting and I was interested."

She also worked with Siqueiros, a Mexican artist in San Miguel.

"I was spending all my time on art," said

Recycling celebration April 29

A Recycling Celebration will be held Saturday and Sunday, April 29 and 30, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Cohasset Landfill to help prepare for the new Recycling/ Transfer Facility due to open this summer.

Residents will receive their recycling decal and Guide and meet with members of the Recycling Committee and the Board of Health.and Facility

Caution at town landfill

Heavy equipment operations and blasting will be occuring during the construction of the recycling transfer facility at the Cedar Street landfill.

Anson Whealer, Transfer Station Building Committee Chairman, has asked all residents to be especially cautious when using the facility during the construction period.

Days for residential trash disposal remain the same — Monday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. During construction, the gate may be open on days when the landfill is closed to allow the contractor access. No trash disposal is permitted on Tuesday and Thursday.

The Board of Health requests your cooperation by not entering the landfill on days it is not operational. This will provide for the safety and protection of all parties concerned.

An easy move

The Cohasset Conservation Commission has written to selectmen thanking them for making the move from the Bates Building "so easy and well done."

"We would like to especially thank selectman chairman Burtram Pratt, and executive secretary Greg Doyon, for making the arrangements to move our office to town hall," said Patricia C. Buckley, commission chairman.

"In addition, we really appreciated tree and park superintendent Peter Laugelle's solicitude for our welfare and exact placement of furniture.

"Our special thanks go to the men who moved our heavy files and desk: Joseph Litchfield, Herbert Marsh, Tony Pereira, Bob Piepenbrink and Sean Murray.

"They really worked hard!"

Board reorganization

Two town boards have written to selectmen to inform members of their new officers.

William E. Baird, was elected chairman of the board of health.

Michael Sullivan will serve as clerk; Sharon Becker, as a member.

Richard P. Barrow was elected chairman of the recreation commission.

Gerard A. Buckley will serve as vice chairman; Mary K. Muncey, secretary.

Problems persist

Although a number of items have been completed within the past month, selectmen are still withholding a final $20,000 payment to the town hall addition contractor until a list of 37 "punch list" items are finished.

Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon told selectmen that a leak in the roof has been repaired, the front walkway had been replaced, the heater in the hydraulic oil tank in the elevator had been installed, and the second floor windows in the selectmen's hearing room has been replaced.

When the foreman for A.P. Whittaker and Sons asked for a final payment this week, Doyon said he handed him a copy of the list which includes 37 more items that need to be corrected at the town hall. "His reaction was very negative," Doyon reported to selectmen Tuesday night.

Selectman Burt Pratt said there were additional items he wanted to include on the list. He also noted that because the architect has already been paid in full, Donham and Sweeney will no longer converse with Cohasset selectmen or come down to Cohasset without charging a $100 per hour fee.

Selectman Diana Kornet suggested more detail be added to the list so the company will know the exact problems to be addressed.

Pension plan review

Selectman Ned Tebbetts will research a proposed revamping of the state pension fund which may affect local municipal employees.

After reviewing a copy of the plan, Tebbetts, a former actuary with extensive experience in pension plans, said he could not understand the document sent by the state.

"In regard to the state plan," he said, "the system has been seriously flawed for a very long time. The state has only put in enough money to pay money that is due that year." Every year recommendations to improve the system have been given a low priority at the state house, he said, adding that he would be mistrustful of an agency that says it will now fully fund the system.

Tebbetts said the proposal is worth looking into-a process he volunteered to complete.

Chamber says tree lights will go

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

After selectmen were flooded with letters and phone calls in opposition, the Chamber of Commerce has withdrawn plans to provide an electrical conduit at the town common.

The Chamber proposed several months ago that while repairs were being made to the duck pond, an electrical condui could be installed so they could once again install lights along the trees that line the common. The installation would be done at the Chamber's expense.

For several years during the Christmas season, the Chamber provided white lights for all the small trees along the perimeter of the common. It was generally done in conjunction with their annual White Christmas celebration, an event the Chamber sponsored for the public.

Although the Chamber no longer sponsors an annual Christmas event, Staszko said they would like to continue the tree lighting tradition.

Since the proposal was made public by selectmen, they have been flooded by a number of residents, urging them not to support the Chamber's request. Selectmen Chairman Burt Pratt said opposition to the proposal was greater than support by a ten-to-one margin.

At a meeting before selectmen Tuesday night, Chamber President Donald Staszko assured selectmen they would withdraw their proposal if residents and abutters opposed the idea. Several neighbors, including Linton Young of Highland Avenue, reiterated their opposition.

"Our message is - don't do anything," he told Staszko.

Selectman Diana Kornet noted that several persons who have expressed their objections to the common tree lighting are not abutters, but live in other areas of the town. She suggested that perhaps the Chamber could substitute lighting the bare-limbed trees with lighting a single traditional evergreen tree.

Highland Avenue resident Patricia Murphy said she loves to see the trees along the business district lighted during the Christmas season, but she objects to the lights around the historic common. "This is not a commercial area. But I would hate to see you stop lighting the trees downtown," she told the Chamber members.

"As a homeowner on the common, I can see where you are coming from. If there's a problem, then that's the end of it," Staszko assured the neighbors.

Susan Straley, co-owner of Cards 'n Shards and a member of the Chamber, said many customers in her store and many children have asked her when the Chamber will light the common trees again. They enjoyed skating on the duck pond with the extra lighting, she said.

Elizabeth Warren of Sankey Road suggested that the Chamber consider lighting trees around Constitution Park, a small open space area at the corner of Ripley and Stagecoach Roads. Selectmen supported that idea.

Staszko noted that if any resident has ideas for a holiday project by the Chamber they should contact a member of the organization.

"We're willing to do whatever you want," he told the residents at Tuesday's meeting.

In other action Tuesday night, selectmen took under advisement a proposal by New England Telephone to implement an enhanced 911 emergency telephone line throughout the state.

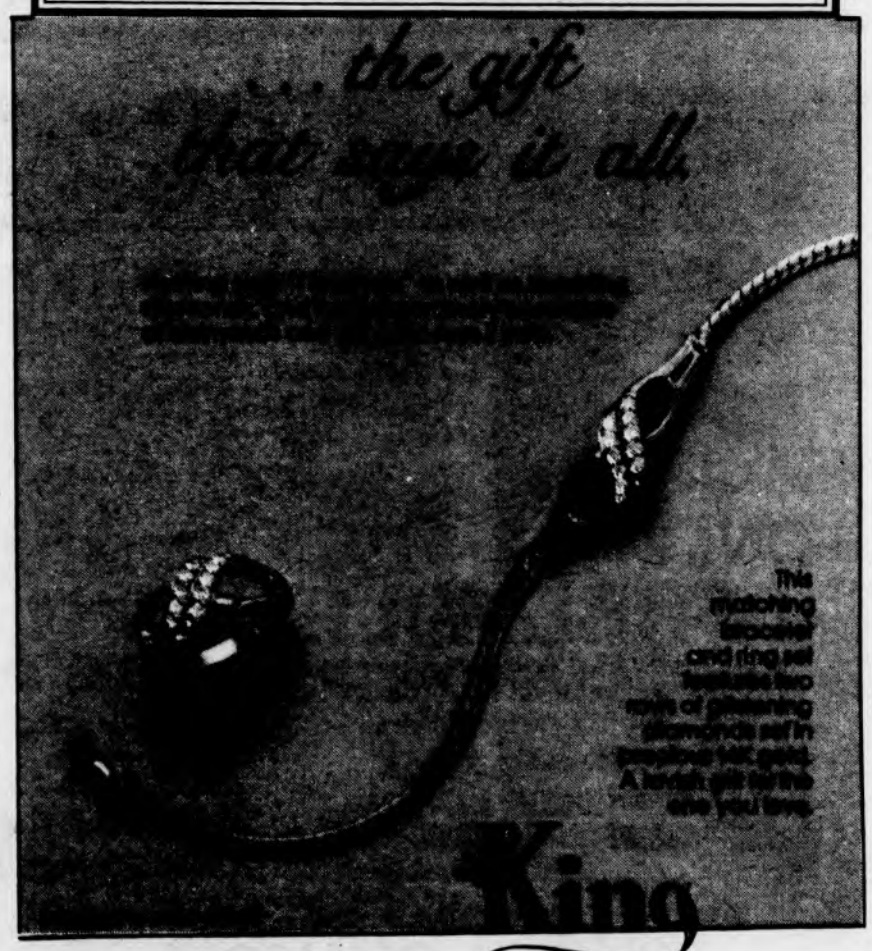
Carolyn McKeon, N.E. Telephone liaison with the South Shore, told selectmen the company was presenting the proposal to individual cities and towns, seeking their support rather than explaining the merits of the program on Beacon Hill.

Although Selectman Burt Pratt said it could be "a back door" method by the telephone company to eventually raise rates, McKeon emphasized it was a method to prevent escalating costs of the directory assistance 411 service. Under the enhanced 911 service, she said, callers would be able to make an emergency call anywhere in the state and the call would be immediately placed to the appropriate public service agency, such as the local police department, In addition, the location of the caller would be immediately indicated to the operator, in the event the caller does not know his location or does not know what appropriate agency to contact.

There is a special feature of the state legislation which would require N.E. Telephone to install special teletype phone machines in the homes of all hearing and speech impaired residents. A special amplifier would also be installed in several phone booths across the state, for use by the hearing impaired.

Funding for the $40 million service would be from the 18 percent of Massachusetts residents who dial directory assistance more than 10 times a month. If more than ten calls per month are placed to directory assistance, that person will be charged for each additional call to 411. In this manner, McKeon said, the phone company can begin to control the escalating costs of providing that directory assistance. Without a provision for controlling the service, the charge of expanding the 411 operation would eventually be passed off to residents in a rate hike.

"From the information I've received, there's more here than meets the eye. I wouldn't trust a utility as far as I could throw them," Selectman Pratt said.



McKeon told selectmen the legislation has received the endorsement of the Massachusetts Municipal Association and the Police Chief's Association. She did not know whether Sen. William Golden and Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray supported this current version of the legislation.

She also assured the town officials that if more money is received from the 411 surcharges than is needed to fund the 911 service, the extra revenues will be passed off in a refund to customers. The method of refunding the revenues will be determined by the Department of Public Utilities.

cerned about reassessments.

"It doesn't matter whether people have a small amount of money or a lot of money.

"I think people will carefully choose.

"If people would realize we really need it, we are not going hog wild..."

Tebbetts said he supported the question "because I don't want to see cuts in the school system."

The second question is a capital outlay exclusion of $58,235 for a wire department truck ($27,000), dog van, $7,000; defibrillation equipment, $7,500; and a ride-on mower, $16,735.

"The wire department has pointed out that the truck was a lemon from the day it was bought," said Pratt.

He said the town's current dog van is "rusting away" and is not "runable."

"The defibrillator is a lifesaving piece of equipment," Pratt said.

"The mower is to replace a piece of worn-out equipment. The tree and park department gives it a real workout in the summer."

Kornet said she favored the proposal.

"I believe wholeheartedly that the town should be governed by town meeting, not by the ballot box," she said.

"This was approved by town meeting."

"Maybe some of the expenditures could be delayed," said Gjesteby, "but when you hear the departments say they need all these things...

She noted that the financial aspects of a positive vote should be made clear.

For example, the $844,000 override would result in a tax increase of $300 a year for a $200,000 house.

"But without the override, the town can't have the same services," she said.

Tebbetts said he leaned towards supporting the question but was still undecided.

"Chief (Daniel) Brock has got a program to bring the equipment up to date," said Pratt of a $60,000 capital outlay exclusion for refurbishing and additional equipment for the fire department ladder truck.

"It's a lot of money, but it needs to be spent," he said.

Kornet said she would not vote in favor of the question.

"I was more in favor of the partial $25,000 expenditure," she said.

"There are other services the town needs more."

Gjesteby said she also would have preferred to support the $25,000 request, rather than $60,000.

"That was enough," she said.

"I don't support this," said Tebbetts, who noted that the capital budget and advisory committees had supported the $25,000 expenditure.

"This is a building we've been trying to get in shape for a couple of years," said Pratt of a debt exclusion for a $714,000 bond issue to renovate the police/fire station.

"The physical plant really needs to be brought up to code," agreed Kornet.

"This is a much better plan than a few years ago," she said. "It's more economical."

Selectmen views on override . . .

"I know we really need this," said Gjesteby.

"The committee has done a lot of good work.

"The building hasn't been renovated in five years.

"The work should be done, and supported by the town."

"The work has to be done to comply with the state code," agreed Tebbetts.

"There is the possibility of lawsuits if we don't comply."

Pratt said he was in favor of a $93,000 bond issue to repair and replace the roofs at old town hall and Osgood School.

"We must maintain town buildings," agreed Kornet."When you defer it, it mushrooms into a much worse problem."

"If it can't be delayed a year, we should vote for it," said Gjesteby.

"If you have a leaky roof on a house, you fix it," said Tebbetts.

"It's a legitimate need."

A regular school bus and a mini bus at a cost of $52,000 are requested in the next question.

"I don't think you can argue the need for the buses," said Pratt.

"Even if the town gets the buses," noted Kornet, "it must still cut back on services.

"The school department wanted two buses and a mini-bus," she said.

"But they'd rather cut buses than teachers."

"We should support this if the schools feel there is a need," Gjesteby said.

Tebbetts pointed out that a state law governs the age of school buses.

"The schools have a certain time period to take corrective action, and that time is coming up," said Tebbetts.

Another question involves a $50,000 bond issue for the design and specifications of construction of a cemetery on school department land off Route 3A.

"It's very timely to get this project off the ground," said Pratt,"so when we need more graves, this will be in place."

"This is a good place for development of a cemetery," said Kornet.

"It will not hamper land use for the schools in the future."

"I'm in favor of the cemetery," said Gjesteby," but I don't really like using school land."

Tebbetts noted questions about cost and design, and said he was undecided.

The last question involves a $280,000 bond issue for design and engineering of the expansion of Milliken/Lillard Field.

"It will increase the playing field," said Pratt," and it is a reasonable price."

Kornet said she would support the question "because we have so many young people who want to use town fields."

But if the override budget wasn't approved, then she would not support it, she said.

Gjesteby commended the work of the committee, but said a track for all ages should have been included.

Tebbetts said he has not yet decided.

"This is lower in priority than the other items," he said

Town officials talk about effect of override . . .

As Goedecke noted, the process "could go on forever," but she warned that a tax rate must be set for the coming fiscal year.

Regarding the five debt exclusion articles, Goedecke said if the articles fail at the May 6 ballot, it's conceivable the appropriations authorized at town meeting could hold up and the money would have to be found elsewhere in the budget to cover the expenditures.

"People are confused," Town Treasurer Elizabeth Ripley noted. "Town meeting has authorized the projects - that's not the purpose of the ballot. The ballot is to increase the tax levy -town meeting has already authorized the purchases."

Most of the discussion centered on question one, calling for the general override for the town's operating budget. Goedecke explained approval of that override will permanently increase the town's tax base and the tax rate. On a home assessed for $200,000, question one will increase property taxes by $412 to $3,338.

The advisory committee requested that all department heads prepare contingency budgets, slashing their annual appropriations by one percent. That is the amount that will have to be cut from each department if the general overide fails.

Goedecke noted that the contingency budgets proposed by the individual department heads may not be the same ones recommended by the advisory committee if the override election fails. "It is a base from which to start," she said.

In answer to a question from Richard Conley of Holly Lane, Goedecke noted that Cohasset, like many other communities, is within half of their tax ceiling allowed under Proposition 2 1/2. The ceiling, she explained, is two and a-half percent of the full and fair cash value of the town's assessment. Right now, Cohasset's tax ceiling is about two times the current assessments. Under Proposition 2 1/2, towns are allowed to override the legislation until they reach the tax ceiling. Cohasset is at 56 percent of that ceiling limit, she said, which is an average rate for communities in this area, she said.

One-by-one, town officials painted pictures of fiscal doom as they projected what budgets would look like after a nine percent budget reduction.

The biggest budgets, including the schools, the police and the fire departments, would be hardest hit with staff layoffs and decreases in equipment purchases.

Police Chief Joseph Kealey warned that nine percent would mean a reduction of $65,842 in one area of his budget - personnel salaries. He predicted the layoff of two officers and a parttime clerk.

"It's equally important as the schools. The safety of the public will be jeopardized," Chief Kealey emphasized "We have two officers on the street now, but we would have some periods when we would have one officer on the street. That's a ridiculous level of service for the police department."

Fire Chief Daniel Brock predicted an end to the town's ambulance service. He calculated that layoffs of the newest men on each shift would reduce the number of EMT's available to man the emergency vehicle. That would necessitiate more overtime, so the only alternative is not to provide the service to the town.

Effects of override vote . . .

He said to cut $95,000 from his budget next year will require the reduction of two firefighters and the ambulance service.

According to school committee chairman Barbara Bliss, they have considered three options if the budget override fails. She said the committee would likely choose a middle ground, which would result in the layoff of ten teachers, a secretary, three teacher aides, a $15,000 reduction in transportation, and a $35,000 reduction in athletics. In addition, all students participating in extra curricula sports would have to pay a $50 user fee. Supplies and capital expenditures would also be reduced, Bliss stated.

The reductions will mean larger classes in the elementary grades. Where class sizes now average 22 students, an override defeat will mean increasing that number to 30 students per classroom. The budget reduction will also increase scheduling problems at the high school and more students will be forced to walk to school as some bus routes will be eliminated.

There will be no computer purchases and no replacement of equipment and materials in the next year, Bliss warned.

When asked if Cohasset's per pupil costs were higher than other school systems, Supt. Stephen Hart said the $3,831 annual cost is above the state average of $3,755 per pupil, but far below many area communities. In the comparable town of Weston, he noted, per pupil costs average $5,259 per year.

Individual department heads explained how their budgets would be affected by a nine percent reduction if ballot question one is defeated:

Library

Trustee Barbara Power said if nine percent is cut from that Paul Pratt Library budget, it could mean a reduction in librarian staff, supplies, and their computer system network. She said there would be no alternative but to reduce library hours.

Water Dept.

Supt. Benjamin Curley said maintenance will be reduced and the planned purchase of a vehicle will be delayed. Because the department is required to have licensed operators on staff, it would be impossible to reduce salaries, he said.

Sewer Dept.

The only area which can be reduced, according to commissioner Henry Rattenbury, is in service and maintenance. They would "very reluctantly" cut money to automate the emergency generator. He noted that increased fees in the coming fiscal year will bring in an additional $30,000 in revenue to the town.

Town Hall- Selectmen

Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon explained that several cuts have already been proposed by selectmen in their budget. After meeting with town hall department heads, it was decided that because of staff reductions throughout town hall, employees needed more time to complete their around town

Sarah DeLima (Mrs. Darling) of Cohasset secures her daughter, Kate's (Wendy Darling) for a safe flight through "That New Theater" production of Peter Pan.

□ Talk about Scouts doing good deeds, see what you think of Cub Scout Troop Den I Pack 38! The boys decided to do something for a senior citizen that would be of great benefit to them. They chose to clean up the yard of Mary Barnicle, who was widowed recently. They arrived with their rakes, clippers and trash bags, and went to work. John-Paul Laugelle, Kevin DeVito, Todd Bestick, Greg Boyne, Andrew Sorrentino and Ben Ketchum had the yard sparkling before they were through! What a great bunch, everyone sure is proud of you guys! And, Mary Barnicle must be a grateful lady for all of your efforts.

□ We hear that Jean Fink is feeling so much better after her recent hip replacement surgery. Having gone through it once before, she is probably a pro as to what is involved by now. We sure hope you mend as rapidly this time, Jean, we will see you "around town" very soon.

□ Hats of to Caitlin Staunton a sophomore at Dartmouth College. . .Caitlin is studying the culture and language of Spain this spring in Granada, Spain, as a participant in the Dartmouth Language Study Abroad Program. Knowing Caitlin she will take full advantage, she is a good student and a great gal! Record your travels, so you can give us a full report. We will love to hear all about it.

□ Another Cohassetite attending school makes the news this week David Kierce. David is a senior at Nichols College and he received the Marketing Club Award at the recent Nichols College Honors Weekend activities.

□ Nicole Bieryla, Ann-Margaret Grew, Jill Hamilton, Candy Jones, Kristen Ellinger and Allison Reilly all participated in the recent Sonia Kovalevsky High School Mathematics Day held at Simmons College. The purpose of the program was to interest young women in studying mathematics and to pursue the same in their careers. They attended workshops and were in a problem-solving contest (we don't know who solved the problems).

□ This really begins a busy time of year for travel, but you can still vote before you go! As everyone knows, the special election is to be held on May 6, and the ballots can be picked up during town hall business hours at the Town Clerk's office. They must be returned on or before May 6, so you have plenty of time. Just remember to do it, it sure is important!

□ Congratulations go to Jay Staunton. He was chosen as a member of The Boston Globe State High School Drama Festival All Star Cast. Anyone who has seen Jay perform, knows why. . ."he's good. . ."

□ Isn't it great to see the Duck Pond on the Common full of water? We are sure the ducks think so too!

□ Good news, start planning your summer soon! The South Shore Music Circus schedule is due out in a week to ten days, and the line-up looks to be the best one yet! There sure promises to be something for everyone!

□ While making those plans, be sure to circle Saturday, June 10, that is a special day. As most know, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Streeter and Pat Plante are all retiring at the end of this school year and there is going to be a big "bash" held for them at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Rte. 139 in Pembroke. We cannot imagine what the High School will be like without those faces in the halls. They are a wonderful crew. Admission for the gala is $25 per person, and tickets are available. Call Clark Chatterton at his office (383-6103) or his home (383-0560) for more details or tickets. There are also four secretaries that are retiring, we will save their names for another column, they are wonderful gals who deserve recognition.

□ Speaking of former Cohasset High legends, ran into John Raferty the other day. He asked to be remembered to all of his pals around town, and hopes to be able to attend the retirement party to renew several friendships. He reports that all is well with his family, and he looks wonderful himself.

□ We saw one proud granddad last Sunday! Ozzie Ingrams' granddaughter, Janet Hatfield, was the guest minister at the Second Congregational Church and what a superior job she did! Her mom, Judy Ingram, was in the congregation, and she was so pleased! Janet will certainly make her name, she was outstanding. . . and so pretty!

□ Two Cohasset brothers were named to the honor roll for the second term at Thayer Academy. Peter Izzo, a junior, and his brother, Stephen, an eighth grade student, were named to the honor roll. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Izzo.

□ Associates of the Jack Conway Co. Cohasset office recently attended a five day real estate and finance seminar held in Puerto Rico. Associate Marilyn Jarvis and office manager Mary Ellen Neagle qualified for membership in the President's Silver Club by their outstanding performance during the past year.

John Kuntz of 2 Hammond Avenue, has been named to the Dean's Honor List for the Fall 1988 semester at Emerson College. To be named to the Dean's List a student must achieve a minimum grade point average of 3.0 during the semester.

Kuntz, a member of Emerson's class of 1990, is studying in the Division of Performing Arts.

That's the news from here, please give me a call with your latest tidbit!

Support override

Cohasset's town budget and several municipal projects face their final test at the May 6 special election.

Now that town meeting has approved the various appropriations, it will be up to the voters to support that action with their second affirmative vote.

In other words, this is the vote that will really count. If a majority of voters do not approve the ballot questions, the individual appropriations will go down to defeat. One "yea" vote won't do it - it takes two to override Proposition 2 1/2.

The advisory committee and selectmen, along with the school committee, have done their best to present an objective view of what will happen if the overrides do not pass. That picture is nothing if not gloomy.

If voters do not support the $844,000 general override question (Number 1 on the May 6 ballot), all town budgets will have to be sliced for the next fiscal year. That means a nine percent cut across the board - for schools, police, fire and all other town services.

It sounds like a scare tactic when the police department says it would have to lay off two officers. But it is simple reality. Where else can $65,842 be taken from a $735,000 budget except in personnel? The fact is, the highest cost in any town budget is in personnel salaries. The greatest reductions automatically mean decreases in that portion of the budget. So when faced with a nine percent cut in the police budget, voters must realize that means less officers on patrol.

The same with the school department. If the general override fails, the schools will have to reduce that budget by more than $400,000. Once again, the greatest cuts must be made in the personnel salary account. And so a nine percent decrease is translated into 13 less staff members, including a number of teachers.

The advisory committee has repeatedly warned that override proposals will face voters far into the fiscal future. The override is a mechanism built into the state legislation which allows residents to decide for themselves whether they want to increase their property tax for specific items.

And thus, voters will have the opportunity May 6 to decide whether the town really needs a $714,000 police and fire station renovation project. They will vote whether to raise taxes for the $280,000 Milliken Field reconstruction.Voters will also decide whether two school buses will be purchased for $52,000.

These debt exclusion overrides are different from the budget's general override. The exclusions increase the tax rate only for the life of the specific loan. Approval of the general override will permanently increase the tax rate.

For instance, if voters approve the $844,000 general override, the tax rate will increase by $1.52 per $1,000 evaluation.

Town committees are not allowed by law to use town finances to publicize their support or opposition to an override question. Thus voters have not been inundated by mailings urging residents to support or oppose the overrides

After much deliberation and listening to town officials and residents at several meetings, the Mariner supports a general override for the town's operating budget.

It's going to hurt, but we believe Cohasset taxpayers would more severely feel the detrimental effects of less teachers, and fewer police officers and firefighters, than a smaller bank account.

It's a tough pill to swallow, but the consequences are even more distasteful.

A successful musical production

By Mary Ford
Mariner correspondent

The Hingham Civic Music Theatre's (HCMT) production of "Hello Dolly" closed Saturday night to a standing ovation and cheers from the 450-plus in attendance.

It was HCMT's fourth performance over two weekends of the popular musical tale set in Victorian New York, and was part of the Music Theatre's 40th anniversary year productions which will also include an original musical production this summer.

Violet N. Villani, a charter member of the HCMT and experienced leading lady and director, was delightful as Dolly. She played the match-making widow with humor and professionalism, making the character both believable and likeable.

Horace Vandergelder, portrayed by Ron Herzberg, was well cast as the old miser and matched Dolly's designs on him with unabashed churlishness.

But without a doubt the show stealers were Peter Kulka, as Cornelius Hackl, an under-rated chief clerk at Mr. Vandergelder's store, and his co-worker and friend Andrew Mahony as Barnaby Tucker.

A Hanover dentist, Kulka is a veteran of five HCMT productions and is also a member of the executive board of the theatrical group. Mahony originally played the role of Barnaby in 1975 while a student at Hingham High School.

The comedy duo won the hearts and laughter of the audience with the 'I Can Dance' scene in Mrs. Molloy's hat shoppe in which they enthusiastically leap t around the stage exhibiting their newly acquired skill.

'Hello Dolly' was Ginny Landry's, an actress with both professional and amateur experience, first performance with HCMT. She played the elegant and love-lorn Irene Molloy with quiet sophistication and her singing voice is truly lovely.

A name to watch is Cori Couture, a Marshfield resident, who studied in London during her junior year at Northwestern University. Couture was adorable as Minnie Fay, Mrs. Molly's chirpy assistant, and one could easily imagine her in the same role on Broadway.

Other members of the cast included: Timothy Fitzgerald as Ambrose Kemper; Laura Nigro as Ermengarde; Annabelle Berlenbach as Mrs. Rose; Doris Herzberg as Ernestina, and Roy Colella as Rudolph.

James "Bud" Berlenbach was the director, Joan Diane Kenney was the choreographer, and Ray M. Terbowich directed the orchestra. The 30-member chorus performed several singing and dancing numbers, including an elaborate number as waiters and waitresses with silver trays being waved overhead in the restaurant scene just before Dolly returns.

Special mention should go to Jack Dorlay, Jeanne Hunter, Joan Kenney and Shirley MacDonald for the beautiful and colorful Victorian costumes. The set design, by James Berlenbach, was subtle enough not to detract but to add to the performance.

Over 1600 area residents attended the four performances. The HCMT consists of a small 'multitude' of talented people who come together to make music and be on stage.

IMPACT DECREASES IN FUTURE YEARS AS INTEREST DUE ON BALANCE DECREASES

How the override will impact school budget

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

This interview was conducted with School Supt. Stephen Hart regarding the impact and importance of the $844,000 override on the school's budget for 1989-1990.

Q. What is the proposed school budget for 1989-1990?

A. "Our proposed budget, and the one passed at town meeting is $5,576,783."

Q. In your opinion, what is the responsibility of the voter who must make the decision to override Proposition 2 1/2 at the May 6 election?

A. "To maintain the level of services we have now - expenditures at this level, it is absolutely necessary to vote for the override (question one). There are no new initiatives in our budget for next year. Perhaps it is desirous if we call it a maintenance budget because with this budget we are maintaining a high level of opportunity for our students in Cohasset. I think the community wants that."

Q. How is the school budget prepared - start to finish?

A. "It actually begins during the early months of the school year. We develop far in advance of when it is actually implemented the following year. It actually begins at the school level with teachers and school administrators developing their budgets, keeping in mind the number of students we anticipate and our historical reliance on past expenditures. Of course, personnel is the largest part of our budget and that is determined by the number of students. We have approximately 21 or 22 students per teacher, although in the secondary level it is more difficult to estimate because some classes have nine or ten students and some have 30.

"I work on the central office budget which includes such things as special education, tuition and the business office. Then I meet with the principals and review their requests. I have to ask them to remove some items so that we will be working within the limited amount funds that will be available due to the constraints of the community. The school committee then begins their review of the budget as I present it and through a series of meeting along with representatives of the advisory committee, we begin to review each area of the budget. Throughout the process, the public is encouraged to attend. Questions are answered and a final budget is presented at a public hearing. The school committee then voted to approve the budget, and the advisory committee later unanimously approved the same amount. Then we were ready to go to town meeting. The budget was approved without one question or comment, as I recall."

Q. Were there any requests from teachers or principals that you would have liked to fit into this budget?

A. "I would like to have seen a curriculum coordinator hired. The main responsibility of that person would be to oversee the implementation of curriculum K through 12 while acting as a resource for teachers and administrators reviewing and evaluating curriculum. The person would coordinate certain aspects of the curriculum, in subjects such as language arts, science, etc. The coordinator would be aware of the current trends and curriculum issues and act as a resource to the entire staff."

Q. Do many school systems have a curriculum coordinator?

"Yes, most school systems have either a curriculum coordinator or an assistant superintendent for curriculum, or an elementary curriculum coordinator."

Q. Why was this position excluded from the proposed school budget?

A. "In reviewing all the budgets from the schools, I didn't feel the funds were available to add that position. There were also requests to extensively modernize the Osgood School, particularly the bathroom facilities. They need to be replaced but it will cost about $10,000 per room. That's a considerable cost which also had to be excluded. We had addition requests for more computers. We put in money for a number of computers, but not enough for all requests. The same with curriculum materials. Although it would be best to purchase them all at once, we will have to gradually phase in materials. They're all expensive, but when you have limited funds, you have to prioritize."

Q. Then what were the main components of the nine percent school increase?

A. "Five percent of that increase for next year is from salaries - eighty percent of our total budget is for salaries. This year, we also have an unusual increase in special needs costs particularly in district placements and transportation. That accounted for 2.4 percent of that nine percent increase. That total 7.4 percent of the nine percent school budget increase for next year. It leaves only 1.6 percent for all other areas - maintenance, texts, supplies. That's a small amount of money."

Q. If the override fails, where will $400,000 be cut from the school budget?

A. "So much of our budget is for salaries, there will have to be cuts in personnel. When you look at other areas of the budget, they are very small compared to the salary account. The whole athletic budget, for instance, is only about $120,000 - that's everything in that budget. So even if we cut that out completely, we'd still have a ways to go before we got to $400,000. Our philosophy has been to be even-handed and make any cuts across the board.

"There has been talk about combining the Deer Hill and Osgood schools, but simply from a space utilization viewpoint that would be impossible. We can't fit all the classrooms we need into the Deer Hill School even if we use the music room, the library, the computer room and the cafeteria. Even if we did it, it would only result in a $90,000 savings. A lot of the teachers would have to stay along with the supplies and materials. There would be a savings in utilities and some administrative savings.

"We've developed three alternatives if the override fails. All would accomplish the $400,000 cut. Regarding the reduction in our professional staff, it would range from 10 to 13 staff members and a reduction in teacher aides from two to six. And in all alternatives, we would reduce the transportation budget by $15,000. Less children would be transported because there would be fewer routes. We would have to look more closely at the obligation of schools to provide transportation for children residing within two miles from school or within one mile of a bus stop. There would be lots of safety issues we'd have to consider. We'll also consider reductions in the athletic budget from $15,000 to $35,000. If we go for the $35,000 we would also implement a user fee to offset the cost of the programs. It will probably mean an assessment of $50 per athlete. We would reduce supplies at all schools, by about thirty percent of the budgeted amount, and anywhere from zero to $32,500 would be cut from capital outlay, depending on what option we chose. Those are the areas we'll be talking about if the override fails.

"Whatever is decided, it would have a dramatic effect on the schools - things won't be the same as the were previously.

"I feel comfortable with the budget we've proposed. I think it's very defensible and the advisory committee feels the same. If our funds are decreased, we will try to decrease those services that will have the least effect on the students. But it's not possible to have it not be felt."

Q. Is it possible to reduce the number of administrators?

A. "You have to look at our administrative setup. There are two central office administrators in the school system. I don't know of any school system with less at that level. There are three principals and one assistant principal. You wouldn't run a business without a plant manager, or a bank without a bank manager. That is the function of the principal - we feel it's appropriate to have a prinicipal at each school. And because the central administrative staff is so small, we have delegated some of the other responsibilities to the principals - such as overseeing federal grant programs. It is a defensible position for us to take. A survey was recently done of our central administration. Although we don't have the results yet, it will probably indicate that there should be additional staff."

Q. What about cutting teacher salaries?

A. "I don't see that as a reasonable solution. We have negotiated their contracts in good faith. Their salaries are comparable with those of the surrounding communities. Their percentage increase is consistant with what was negotiated in other communities at the same time. I don't think we're being extravagent when our teachers are being compensated in a mannner consistant with other communities. And they're not at the top of the scale - that's for certain."

Local artists to invite public in studios

Reardon.

"I took my portfolio to some architects, McGinnis and Walsh, and they liked my work," she said.

The company, which later became Kennedy and Kennedy, has worked on such projects as the National Shrine and Boston College.

She did commissions and freelance work, and also illustrated books.

For 20 years, Reardon worked out of Fenway Studios in Boston.

About 10 years ago, she decided to move out of Boston and added a studio to her home. She works under the watchful eye of her dog, Tiffany.

"It would have been impossible to do the St. Louis work in town," she said of the six year project.

The time she spends on each work varies greatly, according to Reardon.

For example, a mural at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington took three years. But a watercolor could be completed in two hours, she said.

Though some of her art is abstract, a great deal of it is representational.

Reardon enjoys painting on the scene when travelling.

"It's fun to sit outdoors and say you are working," she smiled.

Usually it's a composition or just a feeling that captures her attention.

For example, she was in Montserrat watching a couple dance in front of a steel band. The band members were wearing shocking pink shirts.

"I got the idea, and made sketches while I was sitting there," she said.

Another time, she took her sketch book with her to St. Mark's in Venice for part of the liturgy of Holy Week.

The result was a painting of the cardinal of Venice and heads of religious orders wearing brilliant red vestments and white mitres.

Yet another painting is a peaceful scene of a cottage on the Aran Islands in Ireland.

"You keep getting ideas," said Reardon.

"I take photographs but only for details.

"Technically, so many people do extremely well in their paintings," added Reardon,"but you have to say something."

Not all of her works are set far from home.

A painting with sweeping strokes is set in Hingham Harbor on a Sunday afternoon.

Reardon also enjoys doing portraits.

Hingham woodworker John Collins will welcome the public into his studio during a tour sponsored by the South Shore Art Center.

"It's a challenge to show the essence of the person," she said.

"You try to recognize characteristics. "With one's brother, one knows these things.

"But with someone else, you have to think a bit, and capture the essence of their personality.

"You try to find out their characteristic mannerisms or ways.

"There is quite a bit of study of the person.

"You don't just sit there and say 'I'll draw you'.

"At the beginning, people are self conscious.

"But we talk, see if we have something in common."

In art school, she said, she became accustomed to the regimen of painting for a half hour and resting for five minutes.

"That keeps you going much longer," she said.

Her enthusiasm for her work has never waned, according to Reardon.

"There are always other ideas," she said.

John Collins of J.F. Collins Furniture Makers does work ranging from non-functional sculpture to wall units, from avant garde to traditional.

For example, Collins and his associate, David Keller, recently entered a piece they call "Head of the Board" in a show held by the Society of Arts of Crafts in Boston.

It features a green, 100-lb. box-like shape on long, thin mahogany legs.

On the front of the box is a mezzio relief of a classical face carved out of wood.

The face was first fashioned in clay.

"It's a one-of-a-kind piece," said Collins, a friendly man who has a studio in the barn behind his home. Lila the cat greets visitors.

"Some people have a philosophy of art," he said. "But it's better to get an intuitiveness. We want to try very different things."

But the company also does such traditional work as credenzas and tables for corporate offices in Boston.

And they also constructed cribs for Collins' twin daughters.

Collins grew up in Lexington, and attended the University of Colorado where he studied art and

New officers for support group

The Board of Directors of the Alzheimer's Disease Support Group of the South Shore, Inc. (ADSGSS), met recently to elect two new directors.

Elected to three-year terms were: Patricia Leavey, director of the Colonial Day Health Center of Weymouth and founder of the Adult Day Health Center at Baypath in Duxbury; and, Alan R. Gruber, DSW, a neuropsychologist in private practice in Hingham and president of Alpha Geriatric Services with corporate offices in Hingham.

Leavey, a resident of Milton, is a licensed clinical social worker, and she has a master's degree in business administration from Cambridge College. She was formerly director of social work at Marian Manor, a 376-bed nursing home in South Boston. She was listed in "Who's Who in Gerontology" in 1987, and was a speaker at the Governor's Conference on Aging in 1988.

Dr. Gruber, who resides in Cohasset, has a doctorate in social work from Columbia University and is a candidate for a doctoral degree in osteopathic medicine from the University of New England in Biddeford, Maine. He is on the staff of the Center for Memory Impairment and Neurobehavioral Disorders in Brookline. His Alpha Geriatric Services provides clinical and medical evaluation of elderly patients in hospitals and long term care facilities.

Reelected to three-year terms as ADSGSS Directors were Jo Ann Mitchell, Carolyn Housman, LICSW, and Carolyn Philippon, all of Hingham. Officers reelected to one-year terms were Jo Ann Mitchell, President, Sandra Kent of Hingham, Treasurer, and William Weeks of Cohasset, Clerk.

Monthly meetings of ADSGSS, which are free and open to the public, are held at the Hersey House, 229 North Street, Hingham. ADSGSS is funded through a grant from South Shore Elder Services and by private contributions.

For more information or to receive the new ADSGSS brochure listing support group meetings in Hingham, Kingston, Milton, Quincy and Scituate, call 749-5417 or 749-7816.

He became involved in building houses, but didn't like the scale.

After coming back to Massachusetts in the late 1970s, he worked on things such as wall units and additions to houses.

"Gradually, I learned the techniques," he said.

"It's not something that came first nature to me.

"Even now, the more you know, the less you know."

According to Collins, "the pleasure is in making and trying things."

"There are harmonies and counterpoints," he said.

"You try to put things together differently.

"The physical part is tough, but you have just got to do that. It's part of the job."

"It's the process that's the pleasure," agreed Keller.

One of the most important parts of the process is spending time with the client, according to Collins.

"The more you tell us, the closer we can come to what you want," he said.

"It has to be individualized.

"A good client will give you a lot of information," he said.

"It's better to work with a good base like that. The more they participate with it, the better it goes.

Keller added,"We literally don't do the same thing twice.

"Working with people is an integral part of the process."

The amount of time the two spend on a piece varies.

For example, a mahogany bar could take three weeks, while "Head of the Board" took two months.

"The whole experience is a long one," said Keller,"from picking out the material, to dealing with clients..."

"You can do almost anything for anybody," said Collins.

"A lot of times, the design is built around the wood.

"You have to balance the wood and design.

"Sometimes things work, and sometimes not."

There is almost always a whimsical thread in everything they do, added Keller.

For example, the two have built a mahogany wood stove and a mahogany radiator for shows.

One of their next show projects will be a desk with a relief of the writer James Joyce.

"The desk will be called 'Head Master'," said Collins.

"None of the stuff has a philosophy," said Collins.

"We take wood and ideas, and put the tools between them."

Undefeated streak in youth soccer

Two wins over Duxbury and continued undefeated streaks by three other teams marked the fourth week of Coastal League play for Cohasset youth soccer.

Boys' Under 14-2 knocked off its Duxbury counterparts 5-2 to run its record to 3-1. Brendan DeVos and Jeremiah Stevenson each scored twice, and Brendan Kinchla added the fifth tally for coach Gordon Stevenson's squad. Boys 16-2, on Sunday at Milliken Field, beat Duxbury 3-1. Scoring for Cohasset were Tom Reardon (two goals), and Mac Campbell. Chip Anderson stood out in goal, while Willie Bruns played tough defense .

Remaining undefeated were Girls' Under 12-1, which was tied by Hanover 2-2, and two Under 10 boys' teams. Girls' 12-1 led 2-1 late in the game, but a drop ball in the penalty area gave Hanover its final score. Getting goals for Cohasset were Martina Snyder and Danielle Nohe, while Tammy Maitland played a fine defensive game.

Boys' 10-1 won its third in a row, beating Pembroke 3-2 on Taylor Devin's hat trick. After taking a 3-0 lead, 10-1 hung on to win behind the defense of Kevin Duffy, Mike Christoffel and the booming kicks of Larry Adams. Boys' 10-2 also won its third straight, topping Carver 4-1. Greg Bilton scored a pair, and Patrick Hurley and Derek Bugley added single tallies. Boys' 10-3 suffered a tough loss, falling to Kingston 2-0, despite good play from forwards David Banks and Wiley Wakeman, and defender Pat Gaughen.

In other boys' play, 12-1 knocked off Norwell 6-3 for its second win. Jim Magner kicked in three goals—the second time he's done that this spring—while Ken Leahy, Eric Henry and Ben Redfield added single tallies. Halfback Ben Manning and defender Toby Horn also had fine games for coach Bucky Refield.

Boys' 12-2 were beaten by Kingston 7-2, nd played with only 11 players. Scoring goals were Joe Magner and Jonathon Crafts, while halfback Jamie Kondrat turned in a strong all-around game. Boys' 12-3 were edged by Carver 4-2, and had only nine players available for the second half. Matt O'Connor registered both goals, his first of the season, and halfbacks Keith Jackson and John Lacks shone on defense.

Boys' Under 14-1 lost to Norwell 3-1 in a tight game. Chris Kondrat scored the lone Cohasset goal, while goalkeeper Tim Brister and defender Ben Chittick played solid defense.

Boys' Under 16-1 had a good win over Halifax, 2-1, with Linc Marsac and Devan Spencer scoring, and Mike Cisneros in goal anchoring the defense. 16-1 evened its record at 1-1, its only loss an early-season forfeit to Plymouth.

Both Under 10 girls' teams tied their opponents in exciting contests. 10-1 battled to a 0-0 standoff with Scituate, and were led by forward Ashley Brister, and goalkeepers Jo Hurley and Stephanie Connor. 10-2 used Trisha Petersen's goal to tie Pembroke 1-1, while goalie Jacqueline Hurley, and defenders Hilary Lamp and Hannah Beggan played well.

Girls' 12-2 dropped a 6-0 decision to Plymouth, in an inter-division game that didn't count in league standings. Sweeper Amie Theriault, midfielder Jayne Singleton, and goalkeeper Abbie Pease all played hard for coach Sandy Theriault.

Girls' 12-3 lost to Pembroke, 2-1, despite Melissa Weir's goal. Both Andrea Grew and Cathy Ross had good efforts for Cohasset.

Girls' Under 16 were beaten by Pembroke 5-1, but showed considerable improvement, according to coach Steve Hague. Michelle Woodland and Linda Hague combined for the score, and Jessica McDonald had some good saves in goal.

CHS sports for the week

By Bill Modestino
Mariner correspondent

With spring vacation painfully over, the Cohasset High School varsity teams had to acclimate themselves of competing again when they resumed their regular-season schedule April 24.

BASEBALL

Senior left-hander David McCarthy fired a three-hitter with 13 strikeouts and drove in the game's only run, leading Rockland to a 1-0 South Shore League baseball victory over visiting Cohasset.

McCarthy (4-0) drove in Fred Islieb with a two-out single in the second inning. Islieb led the inning with a single and advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt.

Cohasset's Mike Ellinger lost despite a four-hitter with four strikeouts and four walks. Scott Flaherty had two hits, including a double for the Skippers.

SOFTBALL

Maureen Long cracked a two-run single to spark Cohasset's eight-run fourth inning and the Skippers went on to post a 12-8, SSL softball victory at home.

Kristen Ellinger went three-for-four for Cohasset (1-2), while eight-grader Allison Ludlow chipped in two hits. Winning pitcher Linda Hague hurled a complete game for the Skippers, who trailed 4-3 after 3 1/2 innings.

BOYS' LACROSSE

Cohasset, playing in its first game at home, jumped to an 11-1 halftime lead and posted a 12-8, non-league lacrosse victory over Falmouth Academy.

Ned Chase had four goals and Matt Marks added three to lead Cohasset (1-1). Travis Coley and Gregg Nourie combined for 13 saves.

BOYS' TENNIS

Frank Willshire (4-6, 6-2, 7-5) rallied from a 1-4 deficit in the third set to lift Cohasset (1-2) to its first victory this season, a 3-2 SSL triumph over Rockland.

Pat Milligan (6-1, 6-0) and Joel Reidy (6-3, 6-0) also posted singles victories for the Skippers.

Spring sports have begun at Cohasset High. (Top) April Weeder tosses the shotput during a recent practice, while Heidi Knight (r) throws the javelin in preparation for a track meet.

For the third consecutive year L. Knife & Son, Inc. has extended job offers to Irish students planning to come to the US to work for the summer. These students will be working in our delivery and warehouse departments. Last year, quite a few families offered to sponsor these students by offering them a place to stay and charging them reasonable room and board. These students will begin to arrive in June and will work into September. If you think you are interested in sponsoring one of these students, please contact Sean Thornton at (617) 585-5165.

Jennifer Jackson

Laura Gagliano

March students of the month at CHS

JENNIFER JACKSON

Students know her as "Nif," we think Jennifer Jackson as NIFTY and deserved to be nominated for Student of the Month.

Jennifer just returned from the Junior National Swimmer Competition and is now ranked 11 nationally in the 18 year old and under division. Her team will be competing internationally in Spain this summer.

Aside from these outstanding achievements Jennifer maintains a disciplined schedule of twice daily practices, a solid academic record in our honors courses.

"Nif" is also a good friend and an excellent classmate who shows consideration to everyone. She is a real team player.

LAURA GAGLIANO

A new C.H.S. student is often hesitant to become involved in extra-curricular activities and frequently has trouble adjusting to the school's academic demands. Laura Gagliano has proven to be an exception to this generalization.

In the area of academics, she has attained High Honor Roll status and is a member of the National Honor Society. In addition, although students transferring into the Advanced Placement English program have generally had trouble adjusting to the demands of the course, Laura has maintained on the highest averages in the class.

Far from being limited to academic pursuits alone, Laura has been active in a variety of other activities In sports, she has been a member of the soccer and track teams. She also scored a touchdown for the senior powderpuff team. In music, she participates in both Senior Chorus and the Show Choir. In drama, she has served as stage manager and assistant to the director for the winter and state festival productions. When the person assigned to work the sound system for the senior variety show failed to appear, Laura took on this responsibility. In addition, she sang a duet in the show. All of this has been accomplished while Laura has held a job.

Laura has also won special recognition for herself and her school with her second place finish in the State Playwrighting Contest. Her play has also made Laura a finalist for the position of playwright-in-residence in the Discovery '89 program at Choate Rosemary Hall Summer Theatre School. This is the first time a high school student has been considered for one of these positions, which are generally held by adults. She is now at work on a new play as a senior project activity.

Through all of this, Laura has maintained a pleasant, down-to-earth attitude. C.H.S. is lucky to have had Laura transfer here' she deserves to be honored as the March Student of the Month.

Dr. Robert Brooks

Guest speaker at PSO meeting

Thursday evening May 11 at 7:30 p.m. the PSO will be having its annual meeting.

Following a brief business meeting, Dr. Robert Brooks of McLean Hospital will speak on "Fostering Self-Esteem in Children and Adolescents." Dr. Brooks is presently Director of Community Liaison and Outpatient Child Psychology Services at the Hall-Mercer Children's Center of McLean Hospital and on the faculty of the Harvard Medical School. He has a part-time practice in which he sees children, adolescents, adults and families, and he has appeared regularly on the "Good Day" television show on Channel 5 in Boston.

Dr. Brooks received a Gubernatorial Award for Distinguished Public Service for his work with Gov. Dukakis' Alliance Against Drugs.

Dr. Brooks received his doctorate in clinical psychology from Clark University and did additional training at the University of Colorado Medical School. He has co-authored a book titled A Pediatric Approach to Learning Disorders (Wiley & Sons), and published a number of articles and book chapters related to education, psychological assessment and psycotherapy. Dr. Brooks has also written a sex education book for young children called So That's How I Was Born! published by Simon & Schuster.

We look forward to seeing you May 11 at 7:30 p.m.

Winners of the Eastern Edison poster contest included these Deer Hill students: (l to r) 1st, Jeremiah Stevenson, 2nd, Katie Cibelli, 3rd, Jessica Eaton-Bruce.

CHS art room

Whispers and Shadows, the CHS literary and arts magazine is available to students during lunchtime in the cafeteria.

Celeste Prisble is the CHS artist of the month for April. Her artwork is on display in the case near the artroom.

Matt Silvia, Kasey Smith and Dudley Bryan have all been accepted to attend the Massachusetts Art All-State Festival in June.

Talent search award

Christa Ansbergs, Sara Kirk, Bonnie Krueger, Anne Lindgren, Ann Sechal, all seventh graders at Cohasset Jr./Sr. High School, have been selected to receive awards for their achievement in the Talent Search Program sponsored by Johns Hopkins University.

Cohasset High School has participated in the CTY Talent Search for the past six years. Talent Search is a program sponsored by Johns Hopkins University's Center for the Advancement of Academically Talented Youth.

The goal of the program is to identify the most academically talented seventh graders, offer those students summer educational programs, and provide them with recognition at state and regional ceremonies.

Each year for the past six years the Cohasset Public Schools has received a Johns Hopkins Certificate for Distinction in this competition.

Initially, students are selected based on their scores on the SRA tests administered each year. Students scoring at the ninety-seventh (97th) percentile or higher on those tests in the sixth grade are encouraged to participate in the program.

If they wish to enter, they take the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Board in December of the seventh grade. If their scores approximate the averages of eleventh and twelfth graders taking the test, they are singled out for distinction or to receive awards at state or regional ceremonies.

Selected to receive a Certificate of Distinction are Christa Ansbergs, Sara Kirk, Bonnie Krueger, Anne Lindgren, and Ann Senechal. The state and regional awards will be presented to qualifying students at a ceremony to be held on Sunday, June 4, at Boston University.

School library news

At Deerhill Mrs. Murphy has acquired a new monitor for the library computer to replace the one taken during Christmas break. She has already begun training a group of volunteers who have offered to help out in the library automation project. The computer is quite "user friendly" and Marge would be delighted to show anyone else who would like to help how to input. No experience is necessary . . . .

Excitement is building with the 5th and 6th grades' reading discussion groups. The most recent book students have tackled is A Gift of Magic. The young people were quick to discern that we all have our own special talents and gifts . . .

The next book up for discussion is Pearl Buck's The Big Wave which is not only "adventurous and colorful, but also has a unique value for children in its explanation to them of the mysteries of life and death . . . "

For those who are wondering which books have won the 1989 Newbery Award, the choices for this year include: Joyful Noise: Poems for Two Voices by Paul Fleischman; honor books were In The Beginning: Creation Stories From Around the World by Virginia Hamilton and Scorpions by Walter Dean Myers. The Newbery Medal is awarded annually by the Association for Library Service to Children, American Library Association to the author of the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children published during the preceding year.

Moving on to the Jr/Sr High School Library there are several projects which are now winding down, but have kept all of us (students, teachers and library staff) busy this past month — before, during and after school. These include the 9th graders' Humanities Projects on ancient Greece and Rome where the school and public libraries worked together to provide resources and service (Mrs. Terry, at the Paul Pratt Library, and also a docent at the Museum of Fine Arts, provided the ultimate in enrichment when she came into classes with a wonderful slide/talk on this period); the 10th grade projects on immigration and industrialization as well as a variety of other ongoing research projects in other classes.

Not to be left out are the Jr. High students who are in and out on a daily basis choosing books for Reading Labs.

Some favorites in the survival/adventure field which they are now avidly reading are Gary Paulsen's The Foxman, Winterkill, The Crossing, and Hatchet. Here is an author whose own life reads like an adventure story. And he is definitely a survivor! In his book Hatchet, a boy is flying in a small, single-engine plane in the far north when the pilot suddenly slumps over in his seat. The boy is left knowing it's up to him to guide the plane down to a safe landing and then to figure out how he'll survive once he does this. He has only a hatchet his mother had given him as a present. The novel chronicles his mistakes, setbacks, and small triumphs as with the help of the hatchet, he manages to survive the 54 days alone in the wilderness. . .

Another not to be missed adventure is a "Wildly original tale" by Otto R. Salassi, called Jimmy D. Sidewinder and Me. According to Booklist, this is "one of the more flavorful stories to come along recently . . . The shabby, late 1940's setting is well realized and Dumas' narrative has a genuineness that will exert a tight grip on its readers."

OUTREACH NEWS:

Each spring for the past twenty years Project Bead has begun organizing for its Hunger Walk on the first Sunday in May. As the organizers celebrate two decades of caring and commitment to helping the hungry, the Walk will have more "heart and sole" than ever. In this special anniversary year the goal is to have more walkers than ever and to surpass a dream of raising $2.5 million for over 250 local food pantries, shelter feeding programs, soup kitchens, urban gardens and other programs feeding the hungry. Last year, in spite of raw, rainy weather, 30,000 walkers raised $2,400,000. This year's goal is certainly not unrealistic!

The Outreach Committee has become increasingly aware this year of the alarming growth of hunger and homelessness in our country and has made a strong commitment to address that problem. We invite you to share our concern in a positive way. If you have the time, walkers and marshals are needed for the Walk on Sunday, May 7. Project Bread can also use plenty of volunteers on Walk Day for set up and clean up. (Jack or Carol Martin have Walking Papers and volunteer information and also would willingly share training and sponsor secrets!) If your time is limited or you are not the "outdoor type" you can still be a vital participant in the Walk! Walkers need financial sponsors to make those 20 miles really count and you can help finance the expenses needed to plan the Walk by purchasing a 20th anniversary T-shirt. If enough people are interested (10 or more) we can have these nifty "T's" for just $6. See the sign-up at church or talk to Carol Martin before Sunday, April 30. Please consider how you can help the hungry and volunteer either your time, energy or financial support!

ADULT EDUCATION:

Information on Proposed Affordable Housing

The Cohasset Fair Housing and Housing Partnership Committees will present an informational meeting on Proposed Housing, Friday, April 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish House. Come learn about the nature of the proposed affordable housing in Cohasset: who it's for, if or how it affects property values and the character of the town, permits, etc.

CABARET!:

Save May 13, Saturday, for the entertainment treat of a lifetime! Cast of thousands! Gourmet meal! Tickets available at the church office and from all choir members. Help raise funds and have fun, too!

LDS stake conference

The Stake Conference of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) will be held on Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Foxboro Chapel, 76 Main St., Foxboro, and on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the Hingham Chapel, 379 Gardner St., Hingham.

Members of the Hingham Stake, including the larger South Shore area and parts of Rhode Island, are invited to attend. The meetings are under the direction of Stake President, Robert S. Wood, and replace the regular Sunday schedule.

St. Mary's services

A talk on Medjugorje, the Yugoslavian village where the Blessed Mother reportedly has been appearing to six visionaries since 1981, will be given at the May 7 Communion Breakfast held by Our Lady's Sodality of St. Mary of the Assumption Parish.

The speaker will be the Rev. Al Winshman, S.J., who leads the Marion-Medjugorje Renewal Ministry, 300 Newbury St., Boston. Rev. Winshman has been the spiritual director for many pilgrimages to Medjugorje and holds evenings of prayer, conference days, retreats and parish renewal weeks in the eastern Massachusetts area as part of his ministry, for which there is no charge.

The breakfast will be held at the South Shore Country Club, South Street, Hingham, at about noon after the 11 a.m. Mass May 7 at St. Anne's Church, Hull.

Communion breakfast tickets, at $10 each, must be purchased in advance. For tickets, call Mary Downing, 925-4490; Kay Healy, 925-2571, or Grace Coleman, 925-0175. For more information, call Gail Besse, 925-5323.

Also, parish is forming a support group for divorced and separated people; first meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., May 1, at St. Ann's Hall.

Recreation programs

The Cohasset Recreation Department will sponsor golf lessons for beginner and intermediate levels starting Monday, May 15, from 6:15 to 7:05 p.m. for beginner level class, and intermediate class from 7:10 to 8 p.m.

Patrick McNamara, assistant pro at the Cohasset Golf Club will be teaching the five-week, 50 minutes per week sessions.

To register, please call the Cohasset Recreation Department office, at 383-6791. The fee for the five-week program will be $25 per person, payable by check, to: "Town of Cohasset." Participants will need a couple of irons, putter and a driver for lessons. If you do not have access to clubs, please indicate this at the time of registration.

Most classes will be held on the town common, in front of Town Hall off Highland Avenue which parallels Main Street. Classes will not meet if weather is inclement, and if you should be in doubt on any given evening, if classes will be held, you may call the Recreation office to confirm.

McNamara has been assistant golf pro, and Cohasset Recreation Department golf instructor for the past four years. Classes will be limited in size to afford more individual attention, and non-residents will be accepted to the program on a space available basis.

ADULT TENNIS LESSONS

The Cohasset Recreation Department will accept telephone reservations for adult, evening tennis lessons to be held in five-week sessions beginning during the week of May 15.

Frank Willshire will instruct both the beginner and intermediate classes on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Classes are one hour long and a session is five-weeks in duration.

Beginner classes meet Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., starting Wednesday, May 17, and intermediate classes will meet Thursday evenings 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., starting Thursday, May 18. Both classes meet at the recreation commission tennis courts at the top of Norfolk Road, next to Milliken Field.

To register, call the Recreation Department office at 383-6791. The fee for the five-week program is $20 per person, payable by check to the "Town of Cohasset." Classes are limited in size and non-residents will be accepted on a space available basis. Each participant will need their own racquet — classes do not meet if weather is inclement.

JOB OPPORTUNITY PROGRAM

Each year the recreation department receives a number of calls from residents who need various yard work help and babysitting.

Any Cohasset youth who feel they might be interested in mowing lawns, babysitting or performing odd jobs, may come to the recreation office and complete a job opportunity application form. Once the form is filed with us, we will refer you to the various jobs as they are called into the recreation office. Last year there were far more job opportunities than applicants to fill the jobs, so your chances of picking up some part-time work are good.

The recreation department acts as a clearing house for jobs/workers. Individual employees and employers will work out scheduling of hours, hourly pay rates, etc. This program is ideal for younger teenagers who may want to work a few hours per week during the spring, summer and fall.

If you are seeking part-time summer employment, you may call the Cohasset Recreation Department Office at 383-6791 for a job application.

If you are a resident seeking help, please call the recreation department at the same number, and we will try to find you part-time help.

AFTER SCHOOL PROGRAMS

Registrations are still being accepted by calling the Cohasset Recreation Department Office at 383-6791, for: Mondays, begin May 1, Afterschool games/sports, Grades K-3; Tuesdays, begin May 2, Kickball, Grades K & 1; Wednesdays, begin May 3, Kickball, Grades 2 & 3; Thursdays, begin May 4, Soccer clinic, Grades K & 1; Fridays, begin May 5, Soccer clinic, Grades 2 & 3.

SUMMER SOCCER CAMP

Again this summer the Cohasset Recreation Department has contracted North American Soccer Camps, Inc. to conduct a half-day, week-long soccer clinic, which will begin on Monday, August 14 through Saturday, August 19, at Deer Hill Field.

The program will be from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The Saturday time will be announced during the week. The cost for camp is $80 for the first child in a family, $75 for the second, and $70 for the third or more in each family. Each participant is also provided a camp T-shirt and soccer ball. Parent coaching clinics will be held on 2 evenings during the week and exact days and times will be announced.

North American Soccer Camp's instructors are brought to this country from Great Britain expressly to conduct youth soccer programs throughout the United States during the summer months, offering top flight instruction to youth aged 7-18 years of age.

To register for this program, please call the Recreation Department office at 383-6791, as soon as possible. A $25 deposit will be necessary at the time of registration and the balance will be due by June 1, 1989.

Registration is necessary now in order that we be assigned the proper number of coaches to keep a 1-15 coach/participant ratio. Also, the registration form on the back of this year's N.A.S.C. brochure must be completed in full for each child.

Insurance discussion on cable

John Larkin Thompson, President of Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Massachusetts will be Wigmore Pierson's guest on "Cohasset Talks: Pierson to Pierson" Thursday, April 27, live, on cable channels 3 and 53.

Thompson will discuss rising health costs in Massachusetts and what can be done to contain them.

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. Debra M. Tranberg
Chiropractor

NERVE PASSAGE

The brain controls the body through a vast network of nerve fibers. The doctor of chiropractic is concerned with interference with the nerve fibers on their route to and from the brain and the tissue. The place of greatest hazard to the nerve is the opening through which it emerges from the spine. At this point, it leaves the protection of the spinal column. Such openings exist between the vertebrae all the way down the spine. The upper part of each opening is formed by a notch in the bertebra above, the lower part by a notch in the vertebra below. If the vertebrae of the spine are out of alignment with each other, the notches no longer match perfectly and the contents of the opening can be compressed. This can lead to problems in many areas of the body.

The science of chiropractic serves to attend to such points of interference. Chiropractic corrects such points of interference allowing Mother Nature's natural healing instruction to flow and a natural healing process to ensure. For a natural approach to feeling better, we invote you to call SCITUATE HARBOR CHIROPRACTIC. Located at 80 Front St., Scituate Harbor. Telephone 545-7388. By appointment. Early morning and late evening appointments. Workers Compensation cases, VISA, M/C and most insurance plans accepted.

HINT: An artery, veins, a lymph vessel, a small nerve, and the large spinal nerve all pass through each opening in the spine.

AN ISLAND RETREAT

Even big kitchens have their problems. For instance, the points of the work triangle (consisting of the sink, refrigerator and cooking range) may be spread so far out that they render the kitchen inefficient. Generally speaking, this can be the case when these elements of the work triangle are separated from one another by eight feet or more. This would create a triangle, the sides of which would add up to twenty-four feet. Kitchen designers like to keep the sum of the sides of a work triangle under twenty-two feet. However, a large kitchen's salvation may take the form of an island. By locating the cooktop, for instance, in an island setting, the work triangle may be shortened. The island also contributes to overall kitchen efficiency by routing traffic around the work triangle.

There's no kitchen too small or large that can't be handled by KITCHEN DESIGN ASSOCIATES. We take your problems and turn them into creative, efficent rooms meant to please its inhabitants. With properly placed cabinets and counters and appliances, we'll establish the type of working kitchen that makes the best use of all available space. No matter which cabinets you choose you'll receive a product of uncompromising quality and workmanship. Talk to us about your needs at 962 Washington St., Rt. 53, Hanover. Telephone 826-4121. Continue to look for our column on different kitchen and bath topics in upcoming weeks.

HINT: Islands are especially appropriate for large U- or L-shaped kitchens.

New business center opens next week

Spring is in the air — a time to blossom and grow.

In that spirit Hingham Business Equipment of 84 North St. has a few exciting changes and additions.

Monday, May 1 will kick off a one-week celebration of the new Hingham Business Center!

HBC will be offering new services such as:

- High Volume Copies,
- Two Forms of Binding for presentations,
- Laminating — up to 25" x 36" in size,
- Personalized Stationery and Formal Invitations,
- Customized Business Cards, Business Forms & Memo Pads,
- Word Processing from Resumes to Reports,
- Two Self-Serve Copiers are available for customer use and
- American Express Money-Gram Service.

HBC will also be opening a New Computer Division which will be managed by Sal Angelone, a Hardware and Software Specialist.

Some of the services offered by this division are: Custom configuration of systems to suit any home or office needs; competitive volume discounts to OEM's schools, and corporate accounts on computers, peripherals, and all of the supplies related to these products.

Free software will be supplied with any computer-related purchase, providing the diskettes are bought from HBC.

Consultation is also available for small to medium sized business in regards to software/hardware applications.

In addition to these services, a monthly newsletter will be published and distributed to South Shore residents and business, giving up to date news on PC products and developments.

All local hardware/software developers and consultants are encouraged to send in articles with their name and telephone number regarding their current projects.

During the week-long celebration, HBC will be holding a number of drawings — giving away various prizes such as pocket calculators, gift certificates, personalized memo pads, portable typewriter cleanings, and assorted office and art supplies. These drawings will be held daily — entry forms will be available at Hingham Business Center.

TWO GRAND PRIZE DRAWINGS (a New Portable Typewriter and a Computer Work Station) will be held Saturday, May 6. All entries for the May 6 drawing must be received at HBC by noon, Saturday, May 6.

"This celebration is also a way to say thank you to our customers for their support and patience. The past months have been very hectic for all of us — learning product lines from the basic paper clip to various accounting and check-writing systems," says Nancy Kuoni, Business Manager.

"It took a little time, but we want to give our customers the assistance and service they need from knowledgeable, courteous personnel — which is often a factor lacking in larger stores."

In December of 1986, Norwell resident Kenneth Whitman purchased the business machines division of Hingham Business Machines and formed a separate company known as Hingham Business Equipment. His daughter, Nancy Kuoni of Hanover, joined him as business manager. David Barthel of Marshfield joined them as service manager.

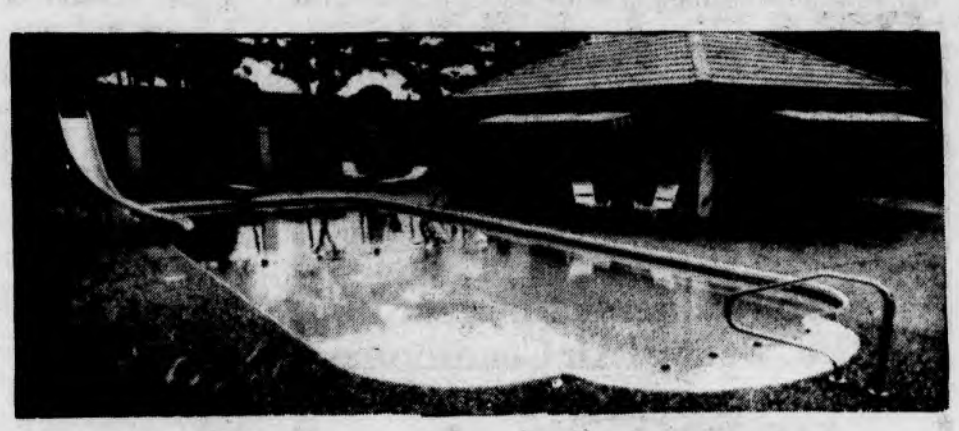
August 1, 1988, Ken expanded Hingham Business Equipment by purchasing the retail office supply division located at 84 North Street.

With the help of Sherry Nunes (Retail Manager), Joan Kearns, Sandy Davis, and Kay Nickerson, Ken has expanded and added a number of new departments in the store.

With all the local art classes, Sherry has made a point of expanding the art department to include the new Gouache paint products and calligraphy supplies. "We try to keep tabs on what each class requires and make sure we have it available. We are also expanding our Graphic Art and Drafting department."

"We are very excited about the new Computer Division and all of the new services," Ken says. "Our goal is to make Hingham Business Center the one place for South Shore customers to come for all of their home-office needs. We also offer "Cash Discounts and will be expanding our business hours to include Wednesday nights — until 7 p.m."

HBC specializes in the sales and service of electronic typewriters, facsimile equipment, shredders, and personal copiers. HBC features Canon, Olympia, and Smith Corona products — serving both commercial and residential accounts.



For further information, call Hingham Business Center at 740-2062.

Reliable Electricity
...just one of our services

At Eastern Edison Company the business of providing reliable electric service to all our customers has been our primary concern for over 100 years. We're proud of our commitment to our customers and their communities. We've shown this community commitment through the development, growth and expansion of many special-service programs throughout the years.

Here are some of the special-service programs we offer.

■ Good Neighbor Energy Fund

Initiated in 1985, the Good Neighbor Energy Fund helps those people who are having trouble paying their electric bills. People who qualify for assistance under this program are those individuals experiencing severe financial hardship but who are unable to qualify for state or federal assistance. The Fund is supported by your donations and funds contributed by organizations such as Eastern Edison Company. For every two dollars our customers donate to the Fund, we donate $1.00. Each year, hundreds of families in the areas we serve, and hundreds more throughout the state, receive much-needed financial assistance.

■ Gatekeepers

The Gatekeeper program is designed to help our elderly customers. Under this program, our meter readers and other system employees are specially trained to notice any sudden, unusual change that occurs at the home of an elderly resident. If any of our Gatekeepers notice warning signs that indicate the resident may be in trouble, they notify the Massachusetts Executive Office of Elder Affairs — which in turn looks into the welfare of the elderly resident and provides assistance if needed.

■ Radio Assist

Under the Radio Assist program, we make use of the two-way radios in our company vehicles to report danger or trouble to the proper authority. From stranded motorists, to fires, to criminal situations, our drivers are alert to spot trouble in your community and are only a radio message away from getting help on the way.

■ Traffic Net

An expansion of the Radio Assist Program, our involvement in Traffic Net helps you when you're on the road. Our employees who drive radio-equipped vehicles report serious traffic conditions and situations to the company dispatcher. The dispatcher calls the Traffic Net station which then airs the traffic report over local radio stations. By taking the time to report traffic conditions to the Traffic Net radio report, our employees can help you avoid major problems on the road.

■ Budget Billing

This program helps customers plan their household budgets more easily. Commonly called our Equalized Payment Plan, we average your yearly household electric bill into equal monthly payments. This lets you know exactly what to expect and helps you avoid unexpected fluctuations of your bill that reflect sudden weather changes.

SPECIAL RATE R-2:
RATE R-2 our Residential Service Rate is for low-income households. This rate is available for domestic uses in an individual residence, or individual apartment, providing the customer:

- Is the head of household or principal wage earner.
- Is currently receiving (a) Supplemental Security Income from the Social Security Administration or (b) AFDC, General Relief, Medicaid, or Food Stamps from the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare.
- Certifies annually, on forms provided by the utility, continuous compliance with the qualifications mentioned above.

■ TTY/TTD:

This is a special telephone system for our speech-impaired or hearing-impaired customers. If you are in need of information and you have special-needs as noted above, the number to call is 1-800-245-7007.

We are continually working to improve programs for our special-needs customers. If you are sight, hearing or speech impaired, and have suggestions on how we can make working with our company easier, please let us know. Call our Customer Service Department. In the Brockton area, call: (508) 583-3700 or 1-800-242-5810. In the Fall River area, call 675-2100. For both areas, the TTY/TTD number is 1-800-245-7007.

Community center events

TEEN DANCE: Saturday, May 13, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Students in grades 7-12 are invited to dance the night away to music provided by deejay Mike Sharp. Mike also provides a light show which adds atmosphere and excitement. Whether you come with friends or make new ones, an enjoyable time is had by all. Admission is $4 at the door.

PRE-SCHOOL PUPPET SHOW: "The Donkey and the Lion's Skin" — Friday, May 5, 10:30 a.m., admission $2 at the door. Pat Boylan delights pre-schoolers and their moms with her colorful, creative puppet shows. Pat encourages children to become involved in the stories, almost as though they were the characters themselves! The audience is then invited "backstage" to meet the puppets.

DOLL HOUSE TOUR: Thursday, May 25, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Do you have a doll house you're proud of and would like to exhibit? The Cohasset Community Center invites you to share your dollhouse with the public as part of its Biannual Dollhouse Tour. This event is a charity fundraiser and all entrants will be greatly appreciated. All are welcome to attend the Dollhouse Tour, which begins at the Community Center at 11 a.m. A donation of $5 includes the tour plus tea and cookies at the Center.

Family stress management

Cohasset Community Center will offer a workshop in Family Stress Management on Tuesday, May 9 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The course will be conducted by Dr. Helene Lieb, a licensed psychologist with nine years of clinical experience.

Dr. Lieb's approach is preventative, focusing on coping strategies, relaxation exercises, cognitive restructuring (challenging unrealistic perceptions and expectations), as well as other techniques. Information regarding community support services for families undergoing stress will also be provided. Dr. Lieb maintains that this workshop would benefit any family, whether they are experiencing stress or merely wish to prevent it.

This workshop is being offered in conjunction with Massachusetts Family Week, which is co-sponsored by the Massachusetts Psychological Association. The cost is $6 per person. To register or for further information, call Cohasset Community Center at 383-0088.

Tenth reunion planned for CHS

The Cohasset High School Class of 1979 is planning to hold its Tenth Reunion on Saturday, November 25, 1989 at Kimball's By the Sea. An announcement has been mailed to all class members. The reunion committee is looking for information on the following people:

Bruce Duncan; Chun Chan; Andrea Davis; Debbie Davis; Steve Espinosa; Arthur Glasfeld; John Golino; Steve Jancsics; Linda Labreque; Carla Latson; Pam Russell; Chris Sawicki; Laurie Silva; Dinah Souther; Cheryl Wilmoth; Stephen Ramsey; Anita Ross.

If you can assist, please call Darilynn Evans at 383-0644.

Cohasset Little League news

The annual Cohasset Little League Parade will be held on Sat. April 29. All participants should assemble in the Downtown Parking Area behind the Red Lion Inn at 8:30 a.m.

The parade will proceed up North Main St. to the Barnes Little League Field for opening day ceremonies and game.

Bank election May 9

The annual election meeting of the shareholders of The Pilgrim Co-operative Bank will be held at the offices of the Bank, 48 South Main Street, Tuesday, May 9, at 8 p.m.

An election will be held for the position of Director for a term of three years and a Clerk of the Corporation for a term of one year.

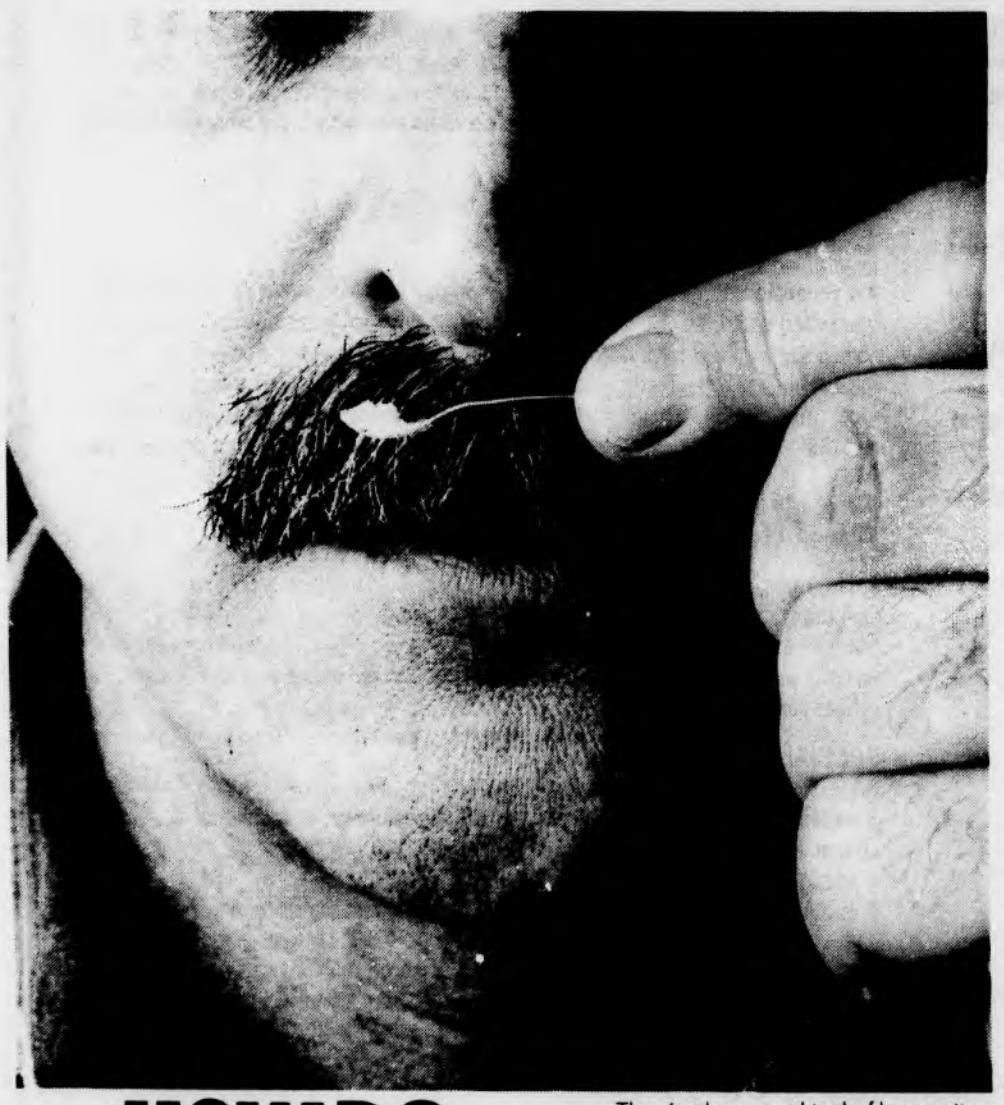
Community center aeorbics

With summer just around the corner, fitness is becoming a priority: it's time to trim down and tone up -- a discouraging prospect for many. But getting in shape doesn't have to be hard -- at Cohasset Community Center, it's fun!

The Center offers Aerobics classes for people of all abilities and fitness levels and schedules the classes to accommodate everyone: Monday-Friday 8:45 to 10 am, Tuesday and Thursday 7:00 - 8:15PM and Saturday, 9 to 10:15 am The Tuesday/Thursday evening and Saturday lasses are co-ed.The Wednesday morning class focuses on Body Sculpting, utilizing hand and foot weights and large rubber bands to tone and build muscles. The instructor is Normandie Nigh, whose infectious enthusiasm and sense of fun make working out exciting and enjoyable.

Harbour Choral Arts Concert

This spring's Harbour Choral Arts Society concert promises to be the group's most exciting presentation to date as it features an American premiere, a rarely performed work, a string quintet, vocal soloists, organ accompaniment, and the beautiful setting of Hanover's St. Andrew's Church.



The 60-voice group, completing its second season under the direction of Ken Clinton, chorus director at Hanover High School, will perform at 8 p.m. on Saturday, April 29 and Sunday, April 30. Both performances will be held at Hanover's St. Andrew's Church. The group's previous concerts, last spring's Brahms, "A German Requiem," and December's Christmas performance, received rave reviews from those in attendance.

The highlight of the upcoming program will be the American premier performance of "Tu Qui Regis," an early piece by Johann Strauss. The newly discovered work has been performed only twice, both times in England. The Harbour Choral Arts Society will be performing the piece in English.

A string quintet and organ will accompany the chorus in Schubert's famous "Mass in G." In addition, soprano, tenor, and bass soloists will sing alongside the chorus.

Finally, the complete set of seven poems which comprise Randall Thompson's magnificent "Frostiana" series will be performed. This work, rarely performed in its entirety, features seven of Robert Frost's immortal poems set to the haunting music of Thompson. Included in the work are "A Girl's Garden," "Stopping by the Woods on a Snowy Evening," "The Road not Taken," and "Something like a Star." Each poem will be narrated by Rev. William Mackie prior to the group's performance.

Tickets may be purchased at Hanover High School beginning April 24 or at the door prior to the performance either April 29 or 30.

HOW DO YOU EXPECT YOUR KID TO KEEP HIS NOSE CLEAN IF YOU DON'T?

They're the worst kind of hypocrite. Parents who warn their children about using drugs while they themselves are abusing drugs. What parents don't seem to realize is that it takes more than a good sermon to keep kids on the straight and narrow. It takes a good example. Without it, kids are likely to wind up abusing drugs just like Mom and Dad.

If you want your son to be strong.

If you want your daughter to have the willpower to walk the other way, practice what you preach.

Because you can't control your children if you can't control yourself.

IF PARENTS STOP, KIDS WON'T START.

Join wildflower enthusiasts Winnie Lou Rounds and Ted Elliman, Tuesday, May 9, 9:30 a.m. - noon for the second of three classes (last class: May 16) in search of wildflowers on the South Shore. Members/$4 per class. Non-members/$6. This trip will concentrate on wildflowers of Norwell and surrounding towns. The May 16 walk will take place at Myles Standish State Park, Plymouth. Carpool from the Science Center. Call SSNSC 659-2559 for registration details.

BEAL'S WOODS, SCITUATE

Join a SSNSC naturalist for a leisurely walk through Beal's Woods, Scituate, Wednesday, May 10, 10 a.m. - noon. Members/free. Non-members/$4. This lovely wooded property features a tree farm, many mosses and lichens, and a cedar grove. Wild turkeys have also been sighted here. This informal walk is perfect for all ages. Wear comfortable shoes. Preregister by calling the Science Center 659-2559.

GEMS!

An illustrated talk by Bruce Luscombe, a member of the South Shore Mineral Club, Wednesday, May 10, 7:30 - 9 p.m., will cover all aspects of gemology, from collecting to faceting and carving. Members/$2. Non-members/$3. You have encountered diamonds, emeralds, and rubies, but did you know that there are many other beautiful gems such as green garnets and pink tourmalines. Better yet, a number of these beautiful and unique gems are affordable! Bring the kids. Call the Science Center 659-2559 for registration information.

PERFECT PRESSED FLOWERS

Craftsperson Virginia Ballou-Hunt will teach you the subtleties of pressing flowers, Friday, May 12, 9:30 a.m. -12:30 p.m. Members/$12. Non-members/$15. Following a talk on wildflowers, you will learn the fine points of this delicate art. You'll make at least one take-home item — dried flower art stationery, a gift card, or a piece of art suitable for framing. Included is a small flower press. For registration information on this exciting craft, please call the Science Center 659-2559.

ASTRONOMY VIEWING

National Astronomy Day is May 13, but we'll celebrate on the evening before. Join Rolf Egon, a member of the South Shore Astronomical Society, on Friday evening, May 12, 8 - 10 p.m. for a viewing. Members/$3. Non-members/$4. The evening begins with a slide show of the universe, followed by outdoor viewing of the night sky's planets, moons, and constellations through our observatory telescope. Call the Science Center 659-2559 for registration information.

LOW TIDE

Spend a morning beachcombing with SCUBA instructor John Licoski and SSNSC staff, Saturday, May 13, 9:30 a.m. - noon. For children 7 years old and up. Members/$6. Non-members/$9. When the tide's away, what's at play? Walk the beach at low tide and discover sea rockets, clams, mussels, green crabs, and more. Learn how tides, wind, and weather affect these coastal inhabitants. As a special treat, you'll examine what diver John Licoski collects during his plunge. Dress appropriately for beachcombing. Call the Science Center 659-2559 for registration information.

FLOWER SHOW

On Saturday, May 6, 12:30 - 5:30 p.m., the South Shore District of the Garden Club Federation of Mass. is holding a flower show to benefit the Science Center. Entitled "Earth, Wind, and Fire," the show will be held at the National Fire Protection Association, Batterymarch Park, Quincy. Tickets are $5 and are available at the Science Center. Call the Center 659-2559 for more information.

PLANT SALE

The Science Center is holding its annual Plant Sale, Wednesday, May 24 through Sunday, May 28, 9:30 a.m. -2 p.m. daily. A large selection of perennials, annuals, herbs, and shrubs is available at reasonable prices. Call the Center 659-2559 for more information.

The South Shore Natural Science Center is on Jacobs Lane, Norwell, just off Route 123 and less than a mile from the Route 3 interchange. Hours: 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., Monday through Saturday; 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday. Call 659-2559 or drop by the Center for a complete list of spring activities.

Art center joins with Derby in Autobahn

The South Shore Art Center, of Cohasset, announces four Derby Academy Teachers will participate in the Autobahn of Artists April 28 and 29 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Autobahn of Artists, an open studio tour, includes 32 artists located in the South Shore towns of Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Marshfield, Norwell and Scituate who will open their studios to the public for these two days only in a rare opportunity to see artists in their own environments, talk to them and purchase works of art.

The four art faculty members of Derby Academy will display aspects of their work and the Derby Arts Facility. Head of the department, Gil Coyle, is a multi-media artist who recently won first prize at the SSAC All New England Juried Exhibition.

Babette Strecker creates every day objects in clay with an eye for whimsy. Margaret Tittemore is a painter of autobiographical and political statements who has recently been exploring three-dimensional possibilities in a variety of media.

Ken Winslow is a fine craftsman whose decorative pieces are rooted in the New England tradition.

Tickets are $12 for one day, $20 for both days (in advance) or $15 on the day of the tour. For information call 383-9548. Tickets are available at Marshfield, Craft and Flowers; Norwell, The Copper Corner Exchange; Duxbury, Westwinds; Hingham, Hingham Galleries, Hunneman and Co. Real Estate; Pembroke, The Silver Ribbon; Cohasset, Artist's Son, North River Frame, South Shore Art Center; Scituate, The Welch Company, Lonborg-Feeney Gallery; Hull, Galleria Donati.

Vo-tech committee delays decision on surplus money

By Mary Ford
Mariner correspondent

The school committee at South Shore Regional Vo Technical High School voted to table action on the proposed expenditure of about $22,500 in surplus revenue (FY '89) for computers, printers, televisions and VCRs for academic courses.

"We need to upgrade our academic program in the most desperate way," said Supt. Dr. Clifford W. Easton, who backed the purchase "Computers as well as textbooks and curriculum development are necessary steps."

The school was recently reimbursed $51,000 for pupil transportation costs a year late by the State Small Business Administration Board, according to Easton. Easton said the money has been set aside in an emergency fund.

With Massachusetts Basic Skills test scores below average, and with reading levels well below normal, at VoTech Easton felt the purchase of the equipment qualified as an emergency.

"We have to catch up with 20 years of neglect," he said.

Louis Crescenzi, board member from Hanover, said in his opinion purchasing this equipment was no emergency.

"How in God's name can we go back to the town and talk about belt tightening," he asked. "I don't construe this as an emergency and I don't believe these pieces of equipment are necessary."

Russell DeCoste, chairman of the academic department, expressed his sense of frustration.

"If the motion is tabled or defeated, it will be very discouraging to our staff who are excited," said DeCoste.

"With nobody caring anymore, somebody's got to care. And it's got to be you guys. I think the message (to purchase the equipment) would have a more positive impact to our staff than a negative impact across the communities."

The consensus between David Chittim of Cohasset and Stephen Farquhar of Scituate was that spending $22,000 now, was not good politically since the FY '90 budget still had to be approved by the six remaining towns. (Scituate and Cohasset have already approved it.) The budget of $4.2 million represents about a 7.9 percent increase over FY '89.

"We're going to lose the budget this year, you know it and I know it," said Easton. "What we do tonight won't make a bit of difference."

The motion was tabled until a future meeting in this fiscal year.

Non-resident tuition raised

School committee members voted to raise non-resident tuition for students attending the South Shore Regional Vo-Technical High School from $4800 to $5318 annually. South Shore Vo-Tech serves the towns of Whitman, Abington, Cohasset, Scituate, Norwell, Hanover, Hanson and Rockland.

Currently each indistrict student costs his/her town about $4700, including transportation. Easton said the increase would bring in about $30,000 more annually to the school.

Committee struggles with consolidation

Modular classrooms might be an option, officials at the South Shore Regional Vo-Technical High School say, as they investigate ways to cope with the planned closing of the Abington campus in three years. The closing will result in the consolidation of the two school populations on the Hanover campus.

Members of the school committee recently viewed a video from Arthur Industries, a company which manufactures modular structures anywhere from 300 to 10,000 square-feet in size.

Supt. Director Clifford W. Easton said that company representatives were willing to come to the school committee to make a presentation.

"They're able to meet the educational specifications for classrooms," he said.

"How will the S.B.A.B. feel?" asked Walter E. Eastley, Abington member of the board. "I don't feel they'll meet state specifications. I think we're barking up the wrong tree." (The Small Business Administration Board of the State currently provides part of the funding of new additions and remodeling.)

Easton hoped the committee would at least consider the possibility.

"It's a creative concept," he said. "We could creatively use space with relatively inexpensive units compared to regular construction."

The Abington campus will be closed because the vo-technical school is housed in an old junior high school where the classrooms were not built to standards required for technical education. The rooms in a technical school have to be larger and the ceilings higher, Lloyd E. Patriquin, vice chairman of the board and representative from Whitman, explained. There are only three more years on the current lease in Abington, and it usually takes up to three years to get construction approval, he said.

"If we had to pull out of Abington now to Hanover," said Easton, "We'd lose eight programs. It would be disastrous to the school.

"We should look at all alternatives. We have to test the water in the event that the towns don't accept brick and mortar costs," he said.

Men of Harmony place second in area contest

Massachusetts largest men's barbershop chorus, the South Shore Men of Harmony registered from Scituate, had quite a day April 1 at Division IV, Northeastern District Men's Barbershop Singing Society's annual competition at Norwood Junior High School by winning almost everything in sight against chapters from Brockton, Canton, Cape Cod, Franklin, New Bedford, Providence and Lincoln, R.I.

As was expected, the Narraganset Bay Chorus from Providence became Division IV champions with the South Shore Men of Harmony under the direction of Don Taylor of Whitman a close second.

Both choruses were selected to participate in the Northeastern competition to be held in Montreal, Canada, next October.

Docket No. 96,365

NOTICE OF FIDUCIARY'S ACCOUNT

To all persons interested in the estate of Mary K. Bolles late of Cohasset, in said County, deceased.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the 43rd through 48th accounts of Bank of New England, N.A. as Trustee, the fiduciary, under Article ninth of the will of said deceased for the benefit of Frances Hovey Howe (formerly Frances Fairfax Hovey), Richard Bolles Hovey and Dorothy Lucy Hovey have been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said accounts, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the 17th day of May, 1989, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said accounts. If you desire to object to any item of said accounts, you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

WITNESS, Robert M. Ford, Esquire, First Justice of said Court, this fifth day of April, 1989.

How town budgets will look if override fails . . .

work without disruption. It was agreed, Doyon explained, that if the nine percent budget cuts are required, town hall will be closed to the public every Wednesday to give the remaining employees sufficient time to complete their work. In addition, two phone lines into the town hall will be eliminated, along with one clerical position in the selectmen's office and reclassification of another position.

The most controversial reduction, he said, is a proposal to cut out 50 street lights, or ten percent of the total street light budget.

Council on Aging

According to senior center director Kathy Bryanton, a nine percent budget cut will reduce the mailings sent to senior citizens in town, along with a reduction in programs and office furniture at the center. Programs funded through grant money would be drastically cut because of the loss of state and federal revenue.

Conservation Commission

Commission Chairman Patricia Buckley said it would be impossible to cut staff, since there is only one secretary to handle a large volume of paperwork and mailings from their office. She is hopeful that a bylaw passed at town meeting will be upheld by the attorney general which will reduce the commission's engineering costs by passing those expenses onto the developer.

Town Treasurer

More than $10,000 will have to be cut from the treasurer-collector's office, which will mean a fulltime employee will be reduced to half-time. Treasurer-Collector Elizabeth Ripley said the one day town hall closing will be necessary so the remaining staff can complete their work.

Tree and Park Dept. and Cemetery Dept.

Supt. Peter Laugelle enumerated the various budget cuts in his department, including a reduction in temporary, summer help, contract services, advertisement, and rental of equipment, for a total of $11,400. The cemetery budget will be reduced by wiping out the summer time help, and by reducing the repair and maintenance costs.

Town clerk

Town Clerk Frances Marks said it would be impossible to cut materials and supplies from her election and town meeting budget, and the only cuts that could be made would be in the parttime and temporary help. Closing town hall for one day a week would be a necessity for her department if the budgets were reduced, Marks said.

Assessors

The board of assessors could cut only five percent from their budget, according to assessor James Lagrotteria. "We are not preared to operate our office if we are required to meet the nine percent reduction," he said. Any greater reduction would force them to close the office two days a week.

Highway Dept.

Supt. Harold Litchfield said a nine percent cut from his budget would amount to a $21,192 reduction next year. That would eliminate a staff vacancy and reduce budget items such as gasoline, pipes, materials and brook maintenance.

Board of Health

A nine percent budget cut would eliminate the annual hazardous waste collection day, according to health board member William Baird. It would also eliminate all chemical testing at Lily Pond, the harbor and beach areas, as well as chipping of brush at the town landfill. Although the board of health planned to allow residents to continue dumping bulky materials at the landfill, that would be prohibited because of the extra cost. SEMASS, which plans to accept all items from the transfer station, will not accept bulky materials. Disposal of bulky materials will be an additional cost the town can not afford if the override does not pass, Baird said. He also noted that hours at the landfill may have to be reduced, although it will be difficult to find parttime heavy equipment operators to work at the landfill. The board feels that office personnel at the town hall can not be reduced.

Recreation Dept.

According to Director Jack Worley, a nine percent cut will severely affect the town's ability to conduct programs and generate revenues for the town. One band concert will be eliminated, and the electrical service budget will be reduced along with supplies and materials. Some afterschool programs will be eliminated, although the commission is reviewing ways in which those prigrams can be made more self-supporting, Worley said.

In addition to department budget cuts, the discussion Monday night also centered on the remaining eight ballot questions. Two of those questions are capital outlay exclusions which are one-time expenditures approved this month by town meeting. The items contained in questions one and two, including the refurbishing of a fire department ladder truck, and the purchase of equipment and vehicles for other town departments, will not require a bond issue by the town.

The remaining six questions on the ballot are debt exclusions articles which will affect the tax levy limit only for the life of the loan. A debt exclusion, Goedecke explained, allows the town to exempt the prinicipal and interest on the loan from the Prop. 2 1/2 limit for the life of the debt. In addition, the impact on the tax rate will decrease as the loan matures, and when the loan is completed, the debt is gone. A positive vote on the six ballot questions will not affect the tax rate until the 1991 fiscal year.

The most controversial debt exclusion article is question four on the ballot. It calls for an exclusion to pay a $714,000 bond for the reconstruction of the police and fire station. Town meeting overwhelmingly approved the appropriation earlier this month.

According to study committee chairman Barbara Moore, the renovation work "is not so much a question of whether, but when the work will be completed". A female police officer has filed a grievance against the department citing the lack of separate but equal facilities as mandated by the state. The Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination has already determined the grievance has merit, but has delayed any action against the town while the renovation project is under discussion. If this project does not win the town's support, a cease and desist order could be issued to stop the department's discriminatory practices. The state could then order the town to complete the renovation work within a limited time period, Moore said.

Preparing for May 6 election

If override defeated, changes will be 'drastic'

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

If Cohasset voters decide against an override for the town's operating budget, changes in town services may not be immediate, but there will be a noticeable decline, the advisory committee chairman warned.

"The change may not be immediate starting on May 7," according to Jane Goedecke, "but there will be a somewhat insidious dismantling of town services that will take place."

That is why the advisory committee "strongly urges" the town to support question one on Saturday's ballot regarding the town's operating budget.

If voters fail to approve the $844,000 override, that money will never be regained, she explained. "No one should contemplate a $844,000 override for next year with future increases in fixed costs and salaries. If overrides continue to fail, we are heading down a slope that will be very difficult to recover from."

But the committee chairman is optimistic that the operating budget override will survive its second test Saturday, May 6.

"If people understand what services will not be available and they are willing to accept that and prefer that to a raise in their taxes, then that is how they will vote. I'm concerned about those voters who are not fully informed or do not believe we are telling the truth. I'd be very sorry," Goedecke noted, "if I get phone calls later complaining about class sizes that are too high, potholes that are not being repaired, or streets that aren't being plowed, and they say they didn't understand this was going to happen."

The point cannot be emphasized enough, the Town finances concerned Tebbetts

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

When Ned Tebbetts of Jerusalem Drive was recently elected a selectman, it was his first run for political office.

But Tebbetts has actually been involved in politics on the state and national level for a long time.

His extensive career as an actuary for John Hancock and then New England Mutual Life Insurance Companies in Boston, included such things as giving testimony in Washington on pension plans.

"It was stimulating when I was called in to testify," he said.

Closer to home, Tebbetts also gave his opinion on such issues as a proposal to suspend the pension plan for MBTA employees for a few years under the administration of Gov. Frank Sargent and Mayor Kevin White.

Tebbetts pointed out to the head of one of the T unions that when the pension plan payments were resumed, they would have to be larger or there would be less benefits.

"Gov. Sargent and Mayor White backed off on the proposal," he said.

"A lot of actuaries work on analytical stuff," said Tebbetts.

"I got interested in dealing with public and governmental bodies."

In several ways, Tebbetts followed in the footsteps of his late father, Walter Tebbetts, who was also an actuary.

"We were both Fellows of the Society of Actuaries,"

Tax talk on cable TV

James Braude, Executive Director, Tax Equity Alliance for Massachusetts and Barbara Anderson, Executive Director, Citizens for Limited Taxation will be Wigmore Pierson's guests on Pierson to Person on Thursday, May 4, 8 to 9 p.m., live, on cable channels 3 and 53.

Anderson and Braude will face off in debate about the merits of Prop 2½, its impact on the citizens of Massachusetts, and whether it should be repealed.

At 9 p.m., in an extended Pierson to Person program, Cohasset Board of Selectmen Chairman Burtram Pratt, Advisory Committee Chairman. Jane Goedecke, and School Committee Chairman Barbara Bliss will review the nine questions on the Prop 2½ Override Ballot for the voting on Saturday, May 6.

This program will be carried live on channels 3 and 53, also.

Absentee ballot process

Fill out and sign an absentee ballot application form only if you are unable to vote at the polls on election day because of the following reasons: Absence from town during the hours the polls are open (8 a.m. to 6 p.m.); Physical disability; Religious beliefs.

You must sign your application. If you are disabled, sign twice.

Warning! Apply early for a mailed ballot. These ballots must go through the mail twice, to the voter and back to the town clerk, and be received by election day to be counted. Instead of having your ballot mailed to you, you may vote at town hall any day from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Thursday all day until 7 p.m. and Friday the day before election up until 12 noon.

The office is closed at noon the day before election to prepare for the Election.

Mooring reconsideration

A Hingham man has asked selectmen to reconsider his forfeited mooring in Cohasset Harbor.

Edwin A. Hills of Martins Lane wrote to the board after he received a certified letter stating that he forfeited his mooring.

"Obviously, I misplaced the bill on the top of my desk," said Hills. "I did not take care of it when I should have."

He submitted a check for the mooring fee amount along with his letter.

Sharon Becker of the Board of Health and recycling committee members Mel Waldfogel, Barbara Kern and Elizabeth Durant met residents at the landfill last weekend with information about recycling.
(Staff photo/Buzz Wadsworth)

"I request reconsideration in view of the fact that you did not send a reminder or a car or telephone call," said Hills.

"I can see you are technically justified, but what a conclusion to my history of 42 years occupying a mooring in Cohasset .... going on 43."

Environmentalist at Chamber

Noted environmentalist John I. Cone will address the Cohasset Chamer of Commerce at their general meeting May 10, at Hugo's Restaurant, at 6:30 p.m.

Cone, author of the forthcoming book, "Nature's Winter," will be presenting the disturbing and controversial results of his research into our current environmental crisis. After a brief video presentation on the Greenhouse Effect, Cone will speak about our "planetary public health crisis": pesticides and our food supply, depletion of the ozone layer, degenerative diseases of both man and our planet and many other related topics.

The program will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will conclude with questions from the audience.

Cone, president of Futures Unlimited, a medical environmental research company, has studied Human Nutrition, Bio-Chemistry and Environmental Sciences at both Harvard and Boston Universities, and will be one of the featured speakers at this years "Earth Day" in New York.

This program will be open to the public, and all interested persons are urged to attend.

Bates Building in demand

The Cohasset Historical Society has written to selectmen reiterating its interest in using the Bates Building on Elm St.

The town-owned building had been used for department offices until they moved to the new town hall addition recently.

"Our president, Charles Fink, agrees that this would be an attractive option for the society and could also be a useful, shared resource for town organizations," wrote David Chittim of the society.

He reiterated the historical society's proposal to use the ground floor for a meeting room, which it doesn't have now, for public education and lecture programs.

"Such a room would also be available to any other group in town," said Chittim.

The second floor would be used to display the society's extensive gown and accessories collection which is being inventoried and upgraded.

"This collection was formerly displayed in the town's Independence Building," he said.

The attic and other spaces would be used to store the remainder of the gown collection and many other collections.

"We believe that our use of this building would be very beneficial to the town in a number of ways and would be appropriate to the design and age of the building," said Chittim.

PS Parent School Organization

WE NEED YOUR SUPPORT

May 4, 1989

Dear Voters Of Cohasset:

The PSO Executive Board urges you to VOTE "YES" SATURDAY MAY 6th on the Proposition 2-1/2 ballot questions. We believe that Cohasset's need for additional revenue is genuine and that an override is essential to MAINTAIN the existing quality of education in Cohasset.

The quality of life in Cohasset and the value of our real estate depend not only upon our oceanfront setting with its small village atmosphere nad picturesque commong, but also upon our vital town services - beautiful beches and parks, a fine public library, popular recreational programs, and most significantly, our excellent school system.

We feel that a strong eductional system is essential to community success. Students, now more than ever, require a solid educations to become productive members of society. The skills we give them will be returned to us all in the future.

Like a majority of Massachusetts communities, Cohasset's municipal expenses have grown at a rate higher than 2-1/2%. Our Advisory Committee RECOMMENDED and Town Meeting VOTED appropriations for the town operating budget, which includes the SCHOOL BUDGET. A general override of Proposition 2-1/2 is necessary to fund these appropriations.

Question #1 is the town operating budget general override. Failure to pass Question #1 would result in the following critical reductions in the school amounting to $450,000:

Elimination of 9-13 teachers at the elementary and high school. This reduction in staff would mean:
- –classes of 30-35 students in some grades
- –increased scheduling problems at the high school, preventing some students from taking desired courses
- –cuts in elementary art and music programs

Elimination of 4-6 support personnel, secretaries and aides
Elimination of $25,000 to $30,000 in capital outlay items, such as: word processors, computers, science, music and art equipment
Reduction in athletic programs by $35,000 which will mean the elimination of some sports
The introduction of users fees for sport
Reduction in school supplies
Reduction of $15,000 from transportation and elimination of some bus routes – more students will have to walk
Other school related articles approved at Town Meeting appear on the override as debt exclusion questions.
Question #6 is for Osgood School roof repairs of $41,656. Failure to pass Question #6 would prevent needed repairs on a leaking Osgood roof.
Question #7 is for a full-size bus, and a 6 passenger bus totalling $52,000. Failure to pass question #7 would prevent the purchase of these buses resulting in further eliminations of bus routes and an increased number of students will have to walk.

The PSO, in its seven years of existence, has continually evaluated each school budget. We sincerely believe that the school system has been fiscally responsible and resourceful in managing our schools. We feel support of these override ballot questions is essential.

Sincerely,
The PSO Executive Board

QUESTIONS OFTEN ASKED ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS IN RELATION TO PROP. 2-1/2

WHAT REDUCTIONS HAS THE SCHOOL DEPARTMENT MADE SINCE 1980 TO RESPOND TO DECLINING ENROLLMENT AND THE MANDATE OF PROPOSITION 2-1/2?
35.55 staff positions have been eliminated, including teachers, an adminstrator, and support personnel.

WHY CAN'T THE OSGOOD AND DEER HILL SCHOOLS BE COMBINED?
1. Combining Osgood and Deer Hill populations requires 26 classrooms.
2. Deer Hill has 17 classrooms available.
3. Using the Art, Music and Cafeteria rooms for classrooms would increase classrooms to 21.
4. 5 remaining classes would need to be accommodated by an addition or by moving the 6th grade to the high school.
5. Moving the 6th grade to the high school requires further planning and expense in developing a middle school.

WHY CAN'T CHILDREN LEARN IN A CLASSROOM OF 30 STUDENTS?
1. Cohasset educational philosophy maintains that learning is enhanced if students receive more individual attention.
2. Obvious social and economic changes and shifting family structures have created new coping and adjustment problems for our chlidren.
3. The demands of an expanding curriculum, for example, Health Education, Computer Education, and Special Needs Programs, require a reduced pupil/teacher ratio.

HAS THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE ADDRESSED THESE ESSENTIAL EDUCATIONAL ISSUES WITH LONG-RANGE PLANNING?
The Administration and School Committee have initiated a strategic planning process, which will include community representation, to anticipate and respond to changing external circumstances in the schools with an orderly allocation of resources. The outline of the strategic plan is available in the superintendent's office.

New Chamber president urges folks to 'shop Cohasset'

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

With a new president at the helm, the Cohasset Chamber of Commerce will communicate its main goal for residents "to shop Cohasset."

That is the message from Donald Staszko who was recently elected president of the local Chamber for 1989-90.

"The purpose of the Chamber," he explained this week, "is to get the business people together to hear the wants and needs of all businessmen in Cohasset. We have the same problems, but we need to talk to each other and listen to the common problems then try to find solutions."

Another responsibility of the local Chamber, according to its president, is to work on local charitable events while promoting the local businesses and shops.

"We need to have local people patronizing local businesses," he explained. "The fact is, Cohasset businesses can match the prices of any store in Braintree while giving the best service. Why spend a dollar in gas when it's only going to cost you five cents more to shop locally?"

Staszko quickly noted that the 180 businesses in Cohasset also provide valuable tax revenue to the town.

This marks the sixth year of the Chamber's existence in Cohasset. From the start, the more than 100 local businessmen in the Chamber have made their mark in the community.

With the League of Women Voters no longer in existence, the Chamber is the only organization which sponsors a candidates night featuring contestants for all town races.

Each month, the Chamber sponsors a public meeting focusing on a current event or issue affecting the community. Next week, the public is invited to attend the Chamber's meeting which will feature a discussion with noted environmentalist and author John Cone.

The Chamber has traditionally been involved in local political issues affecting the business community, and will often participate in the discussion. That will not change under the leadership of Staszko, president of Cohasset Associates, a property development and management company.

Not one to back away from controversy or confrontation, Staszko said the local Chamber will continue to support the rights and needs of the local businessman.

"I don't think taking a political stand on issues will negatively affect the individual members of the Chamber," he said. "I look at the makeup of the board of directors and can't see that happening. They are a diverse board with a lot of checks and balances which will prevent the Chamber from becoming overly political. But if we feel there is a stand to be taken and we feel we're right, then we will take that stand and explain our position to the town. If it comes out as political, then that's the way it is."

When asked if the developer of Cohasset Plaza was too controversial to adequately lead the local organization, Staszko answered no. "I was voted in unanimously after being selected unanimously by the board of directors. They looked at my leadership abilities, my knowledge of what is happening in the community, and they selected me."

The property developer has been a pilot for American Airlines for the past 16 years and was a fighter pilot in Vietnam for a year. He and his wife, Dr. Barbara O'Pray, have lived in Cohasset for 13 years. They have three children.

He was deeply involved with the Chamber's efforts to have the movie, "The Witches of Eastwick" filmed in Cohasset. That time, he said, was a learning experience for the Chamber and the residents of the town.

Thanks to the publicity generated by the filming and the numbers of people who swarmed to Cohasset to watch the production, the movie meant about $1 million in revenue to local businesses that summer. In addition, the town was gifted with $25,000 from Warner Brothers, and the Cohasset Chamber of Commerce sponsored a local premiere showing of the movie to residents and neighbors.

"That movie was an educational experience for everyone," he recalled. "Most of us had never seen how a movie was made and we got to watch firsthand how much work is involved."

During his tenure as president, Staszko said he wants to see the business community working closely with residents, "trying to educate residents that we have a vital business community right here. We want people to look at the convenience of shopping locally, and look at the quality of service."

But don't expect the Chamber to side-step the important issues confronting this town in the next year. "When issues come up in the future that will affect the business community, we will make our collective opinion known. We will want to be involved, but we want the rest of the town involved, too. We've seen too much complacency in this town. Now, the Chamber is the forum to help explain what's going on in this town."

Cablevision set to increase fees

Continental Cablevision will increase its "a la carte" premium services charge by $1 beginning July 1.

In a letter to selectmen, cablevision general manager John Walber said that the increase will bring the cost of a premium channel to $9.95.

"We will continue to offer significant discounts on premium packages," he said.

"For example, a three-premium combination will be increased to $23.45, an increase of only 63 cents per premium, and still a discount of $6.40.

"Installation and change of service rates will be increased to reflect our costs related to these tasks," he added.

According to Walber, the rates for major premium channels and a number of installation charges have remained the same since 1983.

"The costs of premium programming, labor and materials have increased over the six years and it is necessary for us to adjust our rates to customers effective July 1, 1989," he said.

"Basic Super Cable service will not be affected by this adjustment."

Walber noted that Continental Cablevision will no longer require deposits on converters effective July 1.

"All deposits and earned interest will be credited to all accounts on July 1989 statements," he said.

Walber said that Continental is also introducing a new Basic Service Tier.

Mini -Broadcast service is designed to meet requests for a tier that offers high quality reception on local channels only, he said. It includes 16 channels for $3.95 monthly.

The $50 installation charge for Mini-Broadcast reflects the cost for materials and labor to provide the service, he explained.

"We feel that these new rates compare favorably with other cable systems," said Walber.

Comments on floats

May 22 is the deadline for submitting public comments on an application by Diane L. Figueiredo to retain 290 feet of bottom-moored 6 by 16 foot floats on Bailey's Creek, Cohasset.

The floats were installed without the required federal permit, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The floats provide docking for commercial fishing craft and recreational boats.

More information may be obtained by contacting Karen Adams, the New England Division, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, 424 Trapelo Road, Waltham, Ma., 02254-9149.

The floats were the subject of prolonged litigation between the town and the late William R. Figueiredo.

They were installed in 1984.

Mr.Figueiredo claimed that he had the right to install the floats off his Parker Ave. property.

But the town maintained that they constituted an "obstruction to navigation" in the creek.

The town last year agreed to a court judgement allowing the floats in a configuration approved by the state Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. Debra M.Tranberg
Chiropractor

ADJUSTING TO HEALTH

The goals of chiropractic adjustment are to realign the vertebrae, slightly open disc space, and restore mobilization between vertebrae to normal movement. All this is done, basically, to free the spinal nerves from any interference. If the patient engages in heavy lifting, twisting, or excessive reaching and stretching, he may lose some of the benefit of the adjustment. By putting enough opposing stress on the vertebrae involved, he may well increase the time it takes to recover. As it is, a patient cannot expect immediate relief from pain in any but the most acute situations. Improvement is usually gradual. For instance, the knifelike pains in the low back begin to lose their edge. Such is the usual sign that a patient is getting better under chiropractic care.

Periodic chiropractic exams can serve to alleviate existing problems as well as addressing developing situations. Such a routine is a recommended procedure for all, especially for those engaged in strenuous physical activity. To learn more about how chiropractic can benefit you, SCITUATE HARBOR CHIROPRACTIC welcomes your call. Located at 80 Front St., Scituate Harbor. Telephone 545-7388. By appointment. Early morning and late evening appointments. Workers Compensation cases, VISA, M/C and most insurance plans accepted.

HINT: Once the pain is gone, do not overextend and reinjure yourself.

Possible playwriting career for award-winning student

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

Six months ago, writing plays was one of the furthest things from Cohasset High School Senior Laura Gagliano's mind.

Now she may consider it as a career after winning second place in a state playwriting contest with her first work.

"It was such a strange turn of events," said Gagliano, 18, of Forest Ave.

"But I'm so grateful that it happened."

Gagliano was in teacher Ron Emmons' advanced placement English class last December when he assigned her to write another scene for "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern," by Tom Stoppard.

"Mr. Emmons thought I should try writing a play, instead of doing another paper," explained Gagliano.

"So I wrote a concluding scene and used the author's tone.

The play had ended ambiguously, said Gagliano, so she clarified some of the events.

"I really enjoyed the play, and I really enjoyed writing the extra scene.

"It was about five pages long," she said.

"I wasn't sure it was all that good because it was so easy to write.

"I sat down and wrote it in about two or three hours, and handed it in," she said.

"I liked it, but I didn't know if anyone else would like it."

Emmons, as well as the other students in class, were impressed with her scene.

The teacher suggested she try writing her own play.

"He was wonderful," Gagliano said of Emmons.

"He worked with me."

"Within Reason," a one-act play with nine characters, was just as much fun for Gagliano to write as the concluding scene in the other play had been.

At Emmons' suggestion, Gagliano decided to enter the play in the Boston Globe's drama festival.

"I would get a critique, some constructive criticism, even if it didn't win," explained Gagliano.

But her play came in second in the state, out of about 15 entries.

"They announced it at the (drama festival) banquet at John Hancock Hall in Boston," said Gagliano.

"I was really surprised, and my parents were very excited.

"I got a little plaque."

"What's amazing is that this was her first attempt," said Emmons.

The Cohasset High School drama club will present Gagliano's play next fall, at Emmons' suggestion.

The play is about a girl named Leslie and how she adjusts after moving into a new area

"I'm not Leslie," answered Gagliano, to a frequently asked question.

But she has had some similar experiences since her father is in the Navy and the family has travelled extensively.

"We've been moving around since I was little," said Gagliano, daughter of Carole and Sam Gagliano.

She also has a brother, Joe, 15, and a sister, Betsy, 21.

"Last August, we moved to Cohasset from Virginia," she said.

"This is the first place we have lived that isn't in a community around a (Navy) base," she said.

"I've moved so often that you learn after a while it's easier to jump in with two feet than to wait.

"Otherwise, you waste a lot of time.

Advisors push for an override . . .

committee chairman said, that voters who cast a ballot at the town election this Saturday are bound by their vote to attend the reconvened town meeting on May 31, if the override fails. At that time, the budget will be reopened to determine how the budgets will be reduced.

"If those people who voted no do not come to town meeting and make their wishes known, this process will not take place in an efficient manner," she said.

"The setting of the town's operating budget is a two-step process which requires two votes - one at town meeting and the second at the voting booth May 6.

It is important to note, Goedecke said, that town meeting has already authorized the appropriation for the town's operating budget. The May 6 election will authorize the town to raise taxes for that appropriation.

"That other vote at the voting booth is not a referendum on our expenditures. It is a positive vote to increase taxes to cover the costs of the appropriation," she noted. "The vote to purchase the item, build the building, and pay the salaries was already made at town meeting."

Thus, if voters at Saturday's election determine they will not raise taxes for the appropriations approved at town meeting, the reconvened town meeting on May 31 will reconsider those appropriations.

"A no vote on question one (of the May 6 ballot) will necessitate a reworking of the budgets, or an additional override election," Goedecke said, explaining that the process will continue until a tax rate is set for the new fiscal year.

The scenario is somewhat different for the two capital exclusions questions (2 and 3) and the six debt exclusion questions (4-9) on the ballot.

Regarding the capital exclusions, Goedecke said a negative vote May 6 would require voters to rescind the town meeting vote to appropriate the money for the town equipment and vehicles, or they could refuse to rescind their vote. That would require the purchase of the items but at the expense of other items within the operating budget.

Regarding the debt exclusions, Goedecke said a no vote on the ballot would mean town meeting must rescind their approval of the bond issues, or they could uphold their original positive vote.

"That (latter action) would enable the project to go forward because it would have no impact on the 1990 tax rate," she said, explaining that the debt payments on these loans would be covered as part of the operating budget in 1991.

"Obviously, there would have to be reductions in other areas to make the money available," she added.

The advisory committee does not desire higher taxes for the town, Goedecke emphasized. They could have produced budgets which do not require an override of Proposition 2 1/2, "but that would have been irresponsible and we would not be fulfilling our obligations. Anything other than the budgets we have recommended would not allow the town to operate as it has in the past," she said.

"We felt it was important to the voters of this town to make that decision. We analyzed the budgets thoroughly, and we must emphasize that these budgets do not allow for any growth in town services or an increase in staff. The reason for the increase is the cost of uncontrollable increases in insurance, pension plans and salaries," she continued.

Throughout the budget override process, Goedecke said she has suspected a sense of mistrust on the part of voters towards town officials.

"But my board is not elected. We have no constituency and no special interests. We have nothing to gain from this. But we feel we have a strong responsibility and we tried to fulfill that responsibility. We are all going to face a tax increase as well as anyone else. So we're not facing this lightly."

The advisory committee chairman believes if the operating budget override is not successful, "the town of Cohasset will change drastically."

"Our committee is unanimously in support of the operating budget for this town and we strongly support a yes vote on question one of the ballot," Goedecke said.

If the override does not succeed, the most obvious changes will be in the schools where $400,000 will need to be cut. But because of a stipulation in the fire department contract, a nine percent reduction there will likely mean less equipment and fewer personnel. The police department will lose personnel and hours at the library will be reduced along with staff. Summer help, the mainstay of the tree and park and the highway departments, will be eliminated, she said.

Some people, she admitted, recall the effects of Proposition 2 1/2 when it went into effect several years ago. They look with pride on those days and remember that Cohasset survived the ordeal.

"But Cohasset was not as badly hurt as some other towns," Goedecke said. "The reason we survived in succeeding years is because we had a surplus budget. But that has diminished more and □ A standing ovation goes to Tracy Fitzpatrick this week! Tracy, a senior at Wesleyan University in Middletown Conn., was named to the second team of the District I (New England/New York/Eastern Canada) all-academic squad while earning her fourth varsity letter in basketball at the college. Tracy is a 1985 CHS graduate and a special gal!

Congratulations to John Wesley MacNeill, who received an undergraduate degree in arts and sciences from the University of Mass at Amherst in February.

Janet Amiri recently attended a two week Real Estate Brokerage course held at Bentley College.

There was a special event that took place recently, when new members of the Cohasset High School's Osgood Chapter of the National Honor Society were honored at a dinner held at St. Stephen's Church. Senior Laura Gagliano and juniors Kerri Anglin, Charlotte Begley, Juliana Chittick, Patrick Conroy, Suzanne DeCruz, Jill Hamilton, Zachary Hochkeppel and Brian Shultz were inducted. Everyone's favorite Science teacher was honored that night too, he became the chapter's first honorary member.

There certainly was a super turnout for the annual Little League Parade last Saturday and the amount of kiddoes participating was unbelievable! Certainly looks as though all of the births that this paper announced over the years are catching up with us. Remember when we couldn't find enough players for all of the teams.

Katie Ryan, the President of the Senior Class of Cohasset High, is preparing a slide presentation for Class Night. She has been busy taking pictures of the seniors in academic, sports, and social events, which should be great fun to see. In addition, she is asking parents to submit baby pictures so the class of '89 will be able to be seen through various stages of their lives.

Bound Brook Artisans is holding an open house in honor of their seventh Anniversary, to be held on May 6th. There will be a sale of selected items, and a monthly drawing. Drop in and see them, they have wonderful things and many nifty gift ideas for all of the coming events.

Don't forget that when you go to vote, you should take the time to attend the Yard Sale that is being held in the Congregational Church. As you know, proceeds will go toward their goal of raising money for the trip to Appalachia, where they are going to help needy families. They also would appreciate any of your cast-outs, as long as they are in condition for re-sale. You can drop them at the church during office hours, or if it is too big, it will be picked up for you.

Hats off to Wigmore Pierson! His Cable TV program, Cohasset Talks: Pierson to Person won seven awards! He really is talented and knowledgeable, he deserves the awards for all of that hard work!

Congratulations to Jennifer Jackson and Laura Gagliano, both of whom were chosen as March Students of the Month at CHS! A special honor for two special ladies.

Geneva MacPhail won second place, and Paul Sheehan, Cari Dean, and Mark Caristi won honorable mentions in the Eastern Edison contest for the best posters. They are students at the Osgood School. In the Deer Hill contest Jeremiah Stevenson won first prize, Katie Cibelli won second prize, and Jessica Eaton-Bruce won third.

Finally, as my yearly tribute to May 1, I will end by saying "Hurray Hurray, first of May. . .," especially to those of you who remember!

Please call with your event, it is newsworthy!

Health fair scheduled May 11

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

For the fifth year, the Council on Aging, in association with the Social Service League, is sponsoring the annual Health Fair.

The event will be held Friday, May 11 at the Second Congregational Church, 43 Highland Avenue, next door to the town hall. It is free and open to all residents from noon to 3 p.m. and again from 5 to 7 p.m.

Senior center director Kathy Bryanton explained that the special evening hours are an addition to the fair which will allow commuters traveling home from work to participate in the numerous health screenings and counseling sessions offered at this year's fair.

"It will be an opportunity for people coming home from work to have their blood pressure checked, their cholesterol screened, or their vital lung capacity tested," Bryanton explained. Those are some of the services that will be conducted throughout the Cohasset health fair.

There are some additions to this year's fair, according to Cohasset's public health nurse Mary Ann Hansen. There will be two people conducting the cholesterol screenings, she said, because of the popularity of the test and the numbers of people who traditionally receive the important test.

There will be a $6 charge for that test, Hansen said. In addition, nutritional education services will be provided by Andrea Blumberg and nutritionist Patricia Messing.

The cholesterol screening in May will coincide with Cohasset's second screening service which will be held in November. As Hansen noted, because cholesterol takes several months to decrease, anyone who has a high reading in May will want to attend the second screening in the fall.

"We're trying to emphasize that this health fair is focusing on prevention,, good health and learning," Bryanton said, noting that May was selected for the fair because it is designated Older Americans Month.

But the health fair is for everyone, she noted, not just senior citizens. Hansen agreed.

"I know a young mother who will be there with her child just because of the hearing test which will be available," Hansen said. "This fair is for everyone, and it will be particularly helpful for mothers who might have a question or concern about their child's health."

Last year, 63 residents had their hearing tested at the health fair. Forty-seven passed and others were referred for additional medical assistance.

In addition to the hearing test to be conducted by the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing, there will also be blood sugar screenings and glaucoma screenings, and a vital capacity test which will immediately demonstrate the lung capacity of smokers and non-smokers. It is especially useful for persons who have quit smoking, to indicate how far the lungs have healed since the last cigarette.

The Massachusetts Commission for the Blind will have a display of adaptive devices available for the deaf. South Shore Elder Services which co-sponsors a local support group for the hearing impaired, encourages people to look at the diversity of equipment now available.

A private room at the church will be used to conduct breast examination by Nurse Margaret Barton Burke. She will also teach women how to conduct self examinations, and a video tape will be shown on the procedure used to detect breast cancer.

This service will be provided in conjunction with the mammography test which will be available in Cohasset on June 19. As Hansen noted, it is recommended that all women over the age of 40 have a mammography every two years. It should be done annually after the age of 50.

On June 19, the mobile diagnostics mammogram will be available for Cohasset residents. Women will be able to make appointments for that test at the May 11 health fair.

"The statistics are that one in every ten women will have breast cancer. But it is an easily detected cancer, and this is one way of early detection. It has made a great impact on the cure rate for breast cancer," Hansen stated.

At noon, the Cohasset Strutters, a group of health-conscious seniors, will conduct a one-mile walk from Second Congregational. The public is encouraged to participate.

In addition, local dermotologist Kenneth Reed will conduct skin cancer screenings from 12 to 1 p.m.

According to Bryanton, the evening session of the health fair will offer most of the services which will be available during the afternoon. They include diabetes and anemia testings, the breast examination, cholesterol screenings and the vital lung capacity test.

In addition, the senior shuttle van will be available to take residents to the fair. Anyone who would like to make an appointment for the van service should call the senior center at 383-9112 or the Social Service League at 383-0771/0821.

Editorial

Don't be pound foolish

We received a letter to the editor this week that, unfortunately, we will be unable to publish. It is signed, but it includes no address or telephone number, and thus we can not verify the writer.

We wanted to take the time to note that policy, but we also wanted to outline a few of the points Alice Kaplan made in her letter this week.

First, Kaplan said she is "disturbed" that this paper would use its editorial power to attempt to sway voters to approve the override. She asked that, in the interest of fairness, her opposing opinion be published.

Although we could not locate the writer in the telephone directory, we feel there are some important points contained in her letter. But let us first reply that as the community newspaper, the Cohasset Mariner feels a sense of obligation to express its opinion on a variety of topics affecting this town.

Not everyone can attend selectmen's meetings, advisory committee sessions and a number of other weekly meetings that were scheduled to review the town budget. The Mariner was there, and we feel through our attendance and attention to these issues that we are uniquely qualified to offer our opinion.

Certainly our editorials are meant not so much as a mandate to the voters of Cohasset but as a guide. And we understand that many people oppose our opinions, and some do not. We simply offer our view as one opinion in this democratic process.

But Kaplan says she represents a lot of Cohasset residents who will not vote for the budget override on Saturday's ballot. She says that with this year's property revaluation, she and others simply cannot afford the tax increase that will result with an override.

She warns voters that the operating budget override of $844,000 will be a permanent increase in the tax rate. And Kaplan warns us that even if an override is successful (thanks partially to the Mariner's support), eventually in the future there will be cuts in town services "because we cannot keep voting in tax increases. Sooner or later the people will put their foot down."

She may very well be right. Who knows how this town is going to fare in the future? But we do know that if voters do not approve Saturday's operating budget override, there will be $400,000 less in our school budget. There will be personnel cuts in the police department. The library will be open fewer hours, and the fire department may be forced to cut out some equipment,and perhaps personnel.

No one wants to pay higher taxes - not selectmen, not the advisory committee, not school teachers and not the members of the police department.

Ultimately it will have to be a personal decision - whether you can afford the resulting tax increase or the consequences if the override fails.

Saturday's task is not a pleasant one, as many communities have recently experienced. Issues affecting our pocketbooks are always sensitive and devisive in a small town. Although we favor the override for the operating budget, each person must justify his own vote, not that of his neighbor's.

Kaplan made a final point in her letter to the editor. "Increases in our tax rate hurt property values, stretches the income of our senior citizens and those on fixed income, and utlimately presents itself as a town which cannot afford to live within its means."

On the other hand, what value is there in a community that does not support its schools and allows its police and fire departments to diminish into what the police chief has called, "a dangerous level of public safety?"

Is it not pennywise and pound foolish?

There is a need for field repairs

Letters

To the Editor:

Article 9: Milliken & Lilyard Fields Renovations:

Cohasset Fields — Is there a need?

Facts: Area will be increased from 6 acres to 10 acres: three new fields will be created. Cost: $280,000 which includes plans and construction.

Present usage of Milliken and Lilyard Fields during Fall, 1988 and Spring, 1989:

Team	Players	Practices	Home Games
Varsity Soccer-boys	24	50	10
Varsity Soccer-girls	20	40	10
J.V. Soccer-boys	24	40	10
J.V. Soccer-girls	24	40	10
J.H. Soccer-boys	32	25	5
J.H. Soccer-girls	30	25	5
Varsity Football	24	60	5
J.V. Football	20	40	5
Varsity Field Hockey	20	40	8
J.V. Field Hockey	20	40	8
Recreation Fall Soccer (6 on 6 — 50 teams)	500	Unknown	80
FALL TOTALS:	738	400+	156
Varsity Baseball	15	30	9
J.V. Baseball	15	30	9
Girls Track	20	30	3
Lacrose	45	40	4
Spring Soccer (11 on 11 — 20 teams)	356	200	100
SPRING TOTALS:	451	330	125
Six Months of Usage for 85 Teams:	1,189	730+	281

As President of the Cohasset Soccer Club, I would hope that you would consider the above facts when you vote this coming Saturday on Article 9. The renovations are sorely needed. Twenty-five years ago our field space was more than adequate but, with the increase in popularity of soccer and lacrosse, there is an urgent need to increase the playing facilities for our youth.

We ask for your continued support by voting favorably for Article 9.

Thank You.
R. Lawrence Shultz

Override is a ratification of budgets

To the Editor:

The Cohasset election on May 6th to consider override questions merits a full turn-out by all voters! This should be a ratification by us of the very diligent budget work that has been done this year, and in prior years, by Town departments and by the Advisory Committee. The expenditures carefully approved at the Annual Town Meeting now must be funded even at the cost of a tax increase. Spending has been prudent in Cohasset and certainly we don't want or deserve fewer or lesser services than we now have. At stake is the quality of education for the younger generation and the proper maintenance and safety of our Town buildings. Painful choices have to be made by all voters these days as State and Federal assistance steadily declines.

Now it is very important to vote and to support the objectives and the faithful efforts of our good citizen-officials.

Mop Mothers' meeting to be held May 10

The next meeting of Mothers of Pre-Schoolers (MOPS) will be May 10 at 9:30 a.m. at Faith Church of the Nazarene, 258 Rockland St.

Does the sound of the doorbell cause you to quake, break out in a sweat, or run and hide? Do you find yourself jumping from task to task until you're ready to drop, yet getting little accomplished? If so, the next meeting is for you. We will be discussing Sandra Felton's book, The Messies' Super Guide.

The Moppets (children birth to age 6) will be expertly led in their own exciting program of stories, songs and play.

For further information or transportation, please call Martha Wilson 749-7614.

Sen. Golden at democractic meeting

An evaluation of the 1989 legislative session will be presented by State Senator William B. Golden Thurs., May 11, at a meeting of the Hingham Democratic Town Committee.

Invited guests to the 8 p.m. meeting in the Hingham Town Office Building, 7 East Street, are members of the Co-Op 6 committees. The program is also open to interested Democrats of the 6 Co-Op towns, Weymouth, Hull, Cohasset, Scituate, Marshfield and Hingham.

Senator Golden's address will be the final program of the winter-spring series of meetings which also featured Richard Manley of the Mass. Taxpayers Foundation and James Welch, chairman of Hingham's Advisory Committee.

School comittee explains need for an override

The Cohasset School Committee today released a position paper on the Proposition 2½ override election scheduled for May 6, 1989. The text of the position paper follows.

The Cohasset School Committee believes that its charge is to fulfill the educational needs of all the children of Cohasset, taking into account the fiscal constraints of inflation, collective bargaining agreements and legitimate citizen concern for budgetary restraint. We concur with the New Hampshire Supreme Court, which recently stated that "public schools are the governmental means of protecting the state from the consequences of an ignorant and incompetent citizenship." To that end, we offer the following facts and figures in support of the school department articles on the override ballot:

1. Cohasset children consistently rank in the top ten state-wide on SAT, basic skills and other objective measures.

2. The cost per pupil of a Cohasset public education of $3,831 falls just slightly above the state-wide average of $3,755 and significantly below the per-pupil cost of many comparable school systems.

3. Children in the 1980's are very different from school children of previous decades. Changes in family structure, diversity of learning needs, social and economic changes and increased coping and adjustment problems demand greater individual attention. As a result, class sizes should not be raised significantly.

4. Small school systems like Cohasset must provide the same basic programs and services as larger systems and are therefore inherently less cost effective.

5. There are no new initiatives in the school budget. It is, at best, a maintenance budget. For example, this budget does not provide for modernization of the bathrooms and heating system at the Osgood School, completion of the High School auditorium, yearly curriculum reviews, materials for the process writing program, a curriculum coordinator nor sufficient computers for student use.

6. From 1980 to 1988, student enrollment declined about 16%, from 1,541 to 1,136 students. During the same period, the number of classroom teachers declined about 22%.

7. It is not cost effective to continue to defer maintenance on the buildings.

Three commonly raised issues regarding the school budget are the number of administrators, closing of the Osgood School and regionalization. The School Committee has considered each of these issues, and offers the following information:

A. There are only two central administrators in the Cohasset Public Schools. They are responsible for curriculum, instruction, performance evaluation, special education, business management, transportation and facilities management. It is necessary to have an administrator at each elementary school. As a result of the limited staffing at the central office, the elementary school principals have had to assume more responsibilities. These added tasks include coordinating Chapter 766 services, overseeing State and Federal programs such as Block Grants, Chapter 1 Programs, and coordination of bus service.

B. The School Committee cannot close the Osgood School. The Deer Hill School does not have enough classroom space to accomodate the Osgood children, even moving the sixth grade to the High School and converting the Deer Hill cafeteria, music, art and special needs rooms to classrooms. Moving the sixth grade to the High School would require expensive modifications to existing space and has questionable educational merit.

C. Regionalization is not possible at this time, as the School Committee has determined that none of our surrounding communities are interested. Some forms of regionalization, such as the sharing of teachers with particular specialties, are currently under study.

The proposed school budget continues to offer quality education and value for the dollar spent. However, if the override fails to pass this year, and the school budget is reduced by at least $400,000, the School Committee expects the following consequences:

1. Elimination of 10 - 13 teaching positions.

2. Reduction of some programs - athletics, art, music, business education, home economics, industrial arts, foreign language and enrichment.

3. Reduction of support staff - teacher aides, library staff, secretaries and coaches.

4. Significant reductions in bus service.

If the override fails to pass next year, further reductions of more than $250,000 will be necessary, again reducing classroom teachers, programs and transportation services. A failure to pass the override for a third consecutive year will also result in over $250,000 in cuts. These cuts would have a significant impact on the quality of public education in Cohasset.

The School Committee urges passage of the school department articles on the May 6th override ballot — Question 1 (the general operating budget), Question 6 (the Osgood School roof repair) and Question 7 (the purchase of two school buses).

Our children are our future. As adults, it is our duty to provide them with the best preparation possible for meeting the challenges of the global economy, the environment, technological change and life in the 21st century.

Newest selectman hopes to serve as 'taxpayers advocate'

he said.

"Forty years ago, he gave testimony to the state legislature on pension plans," Tebbetts said.

Both he and his father earned master's degrees in mathematics.

In addition, Tebbetts' two sisters majored in mathematics.

Born in Newton in 1926, Tebbetts attended schools in that town.

He was also a student at Andover Academy where now-president George Bush was graduated a year ahead of him in 1942.

Tebbetts attended MIT in the Navy's V-12 program and studied mechanical engineering.

"It was one of the Navy's programs run for special purposes," explained Tebbetts.

He finished the four year program in two years and eight months and received a commission in the Navy.

As an ensign, he was assigned to the cruiser Montpelier for five months before being discharged in August, 1946.

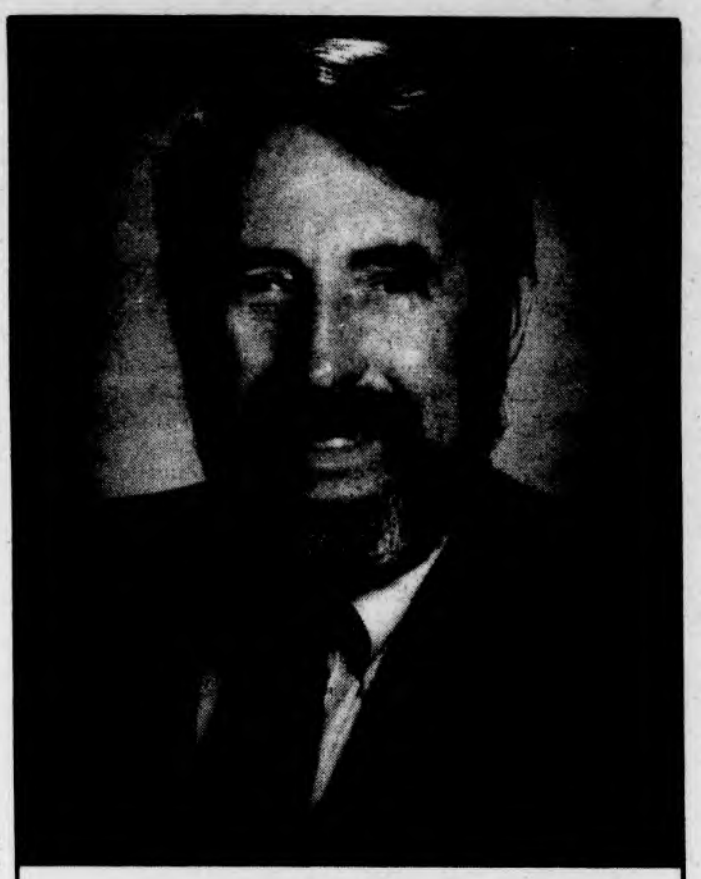
Tebbetts began working for John Hancock as an actuary, a person who computes insurance risks, premiums, etc.

"I had a very strong background in math and economics," he said.

Six years later, he moved to New England Mutual Life where he stayed for 27 years.

"I was a principal actuary for pension plans for quite a few years," said Tebbetts.

"I did a lot of visiting large corporations to discuss their pension plans and how they were designed.



"I travelled a lot - mostly in this country, but also in Canada."

Tebbetts also used his broadcast-quality voice to do some audio-visual guides on pension plans, as well as some commercials for New England Mutual.

During that time, Tebbetts and his wife, Priscilla (Stebbins) Tebbetts, raised three sons, John, 29, Richard, 28, and Charlie, 24.

Tebbetts and his wife married in 1957 after meeting at a fund raiser for the Mass. Eye and Ear Infirmary.

"We lived in Cambridge for three years when we were first married," said Tebbetts, " and bought land in Cohasset in 1960.

Ned Tebbetts

"We moved here in 1961."

Proximity to the ocean attracted them to Cohasset,he said.

"My parents had a home in Woods Hole," said Tebbetts.

Architect for the Tebbetts' house was Eastman Studds, father of Cong. Gerry Studds.

"We talked a lot of politics with Eastman," said Tebbetts.

Tebbetts retired at age 55 from New England Mutual eight years ago, and became self-employed as an investment advisor.

But he also keeps busy with a number of other activities.

Nine years ago, he was appointed to Cohasset's capital budget committee, and served as chairman for the last five years.

"There are a lot of similarities between dealing with pension plans and big companies, and small towns," noted Tebbetts.

He has also been secretary of the democratic party committee in town for about eight years, and attended all the democratic party state conventions as a delegate or alternate for the last 10.

Tebbetts said he decided to run for selectmen because he was concerned that a lot of people felt the town's finances were not being well managed.

In his campaign literature, he described himself as the "taxpayer's advocate."

His interests on the board of selectmen include investigating long-term regional planning for Cohasset in such things as transportation, water and sewage systems and education.

"Part of the plan involves cooperating with other cities and towns," he said.

"There is the opportunity for a lot more regional planning," he said.

"I hope to get a lot more involved in that."

"I'm also very concerned with alcohol and drug abuse,"he said.

"I think it's a community problem.

"It's a very serious problem for Cohasset and the country.

"An important first step is more open public discussions.

"Not enough people recognize the problem in its beginning stages, and when they do, they don't want to deal with it.

"Ronald Reagan kept saying that he and Nancy wanted to deal with the drug and alcohol problems.

"But he cut back on funds available from the federal government."

Tebbetts also feels he has an educational role to perform.

"If you want a program -- Milliken Field enlarged

Government Island rent may go up

Selectmen said Monday night, May 1, they will consider raising the rent of the two apartments at the town-owned Government Island Duplex.

The matter was taken under advisement by the board so that members can tour the duplex.

Executive secretary Greg Doyon said that the tenants are paying $350 a month, plus utilities.

Doyon said rents in the area range from $650 to $1,000 a month.

"There is no doubt it is below market rate," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"But we are here to help out people.

"To go from $350 to $600 is ridiculous."

Laugelle also added that the house is not well insulated.

"When there is a northeast storm, you could blow a match out on the other side of the house," he said.

"I don't think $600 is too much," said selectman Martha Gjesteby.

"They are large apartments.

"We have to weigh the interests of the whole town."

Gjesteby noted that town meeting appropriated $5,000 for a septic system at Government Island.

"An argument could be made that only two families have the benefit," said selectman Diana Kornet.

"What do we do - drive the two families out?" asked Laugelle.

"In regards to the septic system- that is a must."

Selectman Ned Tebbetts acknowledged that it is a difficult situation.

"But there are 50 to 100 other low income families in town," he said.

"The property on Government Island is a town investment.

"Either we should get the rent closer to market value, or subsidize increased affordable housing."

Landfill supervisor Joseph Laugelle asked what the board considered low income.

"Anything under $25,000 to $30,000 is low income," said selectman chairman Burt Pratt.

Robert Davenport of Sohier St. said that in 1962, the town accepted a study which set up a formula for figuring the rate for housing on Government Island.

At the time, the rent was $80, said Pratt.

He noted that the structure, built in 1860, was the old light keeper's residence.

"When the government owned it, they did maintenance on it," he said.

Joseph Laugelle said he thought the housing should be kept for the needy.

"I'd rather see it the way it is now than the town to rent it to a rowdy bunch," he said.

"There are good families there now."

"I don't think it should stay the way it is," said Kornet.

"The question is - how much (of an increase)?"

Selectman concerned with finances

or the police and fire state renovated -- you have to pay for it with extra taxes," he said.

Tebbetts considers the current board of selectmen conscientious and hard-working.

"I think we have a competent board," he said.

And he is aware that the board members will not always agree on issues.

"You're not going to get everyone to agree with you all the time," he said.

"I hope to be on the winning side most of the time, but I don't expect it all the time."

Tebbetts intends to be available to residents with questions or comments.

"People can call me at my house until 9:30 at night," he said.

"Part of my job involves being available to the public to answer questions and deal with legitimate complaints.

"One of the difficult parts in politics is a lot of people, special interest groups, put pressure on you for special considerations.

"It can be difficult to deal with.

"People think they can lean on you.

"But I don't like to do something for one person that I wouldn't do for another person."

Tebbetts also gets a lot of exercise.

He walks, plays tennis, rides his 10-speed bike, swims and sails in the summer.

"I'm a spectator at a lot of sporting events," he said.

Tebbetts also reads six newspapers a day, from the Boston papers to those in New York and Washington.

"I read all the news," he said.

Travelling is also an interest of Tebbetts and his wife, who have been to numerous countries including Australia, India, Israel and the Soviet Union.

They plan to visit China for three weeks later this spring.

Tebbetts has continued his education over the years, and also holds a masters degree in mathematics from the University of Michigan and a master's degree in public administration from Harvard University, Kennedy School of Government.

He earned the Harvard degree in 1988 with the intention of running for office.

Does he have aspirations beyond town government?

"Who knows," answered Tebbetts.

"We'll have to wait and see.

"I hope to run again.

"We'll have to see where it will be."

Community center to sponsor family stress workshop

Cohasset Community Center will offer a workshop in Family Stress Management Tuesday, May 9 from 7:30 — 9 p.m. The course will be conducted by Dr. Helene Lieb, a licensed psychologist with nine years of clinical experience.

Dr. Lieb's approach is preventative, focusing on coping strategies, relaxation exercises, cognitive restructuring (challenging unrealistic perceptions and expectations), as well as other techniques. Information regarding community support services for families undergoing stress will also be provided. Dr. Lieb maintains that this workshop would benefit any family, whether they are experiencing stress or merely wish to prevent it.

This workshop is being offered in conjunction with Massachusetts Family Week, which is co-sponsored by the Massachusetts Psychological Association. The cost is $6 per person. To register or for further information, call Cohasset Community Center at 383-0088.

Retirees to be honored

The Pembroke Knights of Columbus Hall should fill up quickly on Saturday evening, June 10, as friends, relatives and co-workers join in honoring a group of people that have served Cohasset for many years.

Can you imaging your next visit to C.H.S. without Dick Streeter and Phyllis Grayken in the Business Office, without Sheila Travers in the Superintendent's Office, without Pat Bowen in the Attendance Office and without Bob Thompson in the Science Lab?

Maybe you are one of the many students that were touched by the magic of Bob Thompson in the classroom. Bob began teaching in the science department in 1955 and in his own quiet, reserved, special way has won the respect and admiration of the entire community.

Do you know any of the above people?

Do you like celebrations?

Come join us in a special tribute.

Tickets are available through Clark Chatterton at 383-0560 or by calling the High School at 383-6100. The evening will include dinner and a local disk jockey as well as a few parting shots (all in good taste, of course). Donation $25. Ticket sales must be limited due to the size of the hall. Call now!

DAR essay awards

Mrs. Dorothy Bates and Mrs. Edward Dillon of the Cohasset Chapter Col. Thomas Luthrop Daughters of the American Revolution, presented awards to the following students for their essays which were submitted in the National History Essay Contest sponsored by the D.A.R.

Peter Ferenz: Silver Medal for his essay on Samual Adams; Alison Kililea: Bronze Medal for her essay on George Washington; Tim Brister: National Certificate of Award for his essay on Thomas Jefferson.

Other students of Mr. Kelly at Cohasset High School who also participated in the contest received Massachusetts Certificates of Award.

Students in Mr. Kelly's World Culture class were honored for their participation in the annual DAR essay contest. Dorothy Bates of the Col. Thomas Lothrop Chapter, DAR, presented the awards with Mr. Kelly and DAR Regent Barbara Dillon to: Tim Brister, National Centennial winner, Peter Ferenz, silver medal, and Alison Kililea, bronze medal.

Career symposium

To expose students to a variety of job/career possibilities, the Career Education Program at Cohasset Junior/Senior High School employs a Guest Speaker Program through the academic departments.

The speakers, who are generally from the Cohasset area, address a class in the academic area which closely relates the skills necessary for that career. In this way, students may begin to understand the importance of their subjects as the foundation for successful careers.

The program is designed so that every student in grades 9-12 is exposed to at least one guest speaker during the year. The program originated as a career lecture day and expanded to a lecture series with the help of the Boy Scouts. The PSO helped develop the program to its current status by arranging for guest speakers to appear on a scheduled basis throughout the academic year.

Approximately thirty guest speakers representing various career fields have addressed the students during this 1988/89 school year. Information provided to the students includes a job description, salary ranges, education requirements, and prospects of openings in the career field over the next five to ten years. Many thanks to those individuals who have contributed their time and effort to make this program available to our students.

Award-winning playwrite at CHS . . .

"It's very scary at first. But once you get started, it gets much easier."

Emmons noted that new students at the high school are often hesitant to become involved in extracurricular activities, and frequently have trouble adjusting to the school's academic demands.

"Laura Gagliano has proven to be an exception to this generalization,"he said.

She has been named to the high honor roll , and is a member of the National Honor Society.

Gagliano is also a member of the soccer and track teams, and participates in both the senior chorus and show choir.

In drama, she has served as stage manager and assistant to the director for the winter and state festival productions.

"I'm an all-around behind the scenes person," she said.

"I performed once - in the eighth grade - in a play about a haunted house.

"It was fun, but it wasn't something that grabbed me."

She was also named a student of the month at the high school for March.

Gagliano was a third grader when she began writing in her spare time.

"I used to write mainly poetry,"she said.

One of her poems was published in a magazine, "Young Miss," in June, 1987."

"I had never done anything other than poetry until now," she said.

Gagliano is now working on another play, a drama, for her senior project.

"I just finished the rough draft," she said.

The topic is a serious one, date rape.

"I tried very hard not to make it heavy-handed," she said.

Despite the topic, she has found it as easy to write as the other works.

"I love to write," she said.

"That's what makes it so easy.

"I just love to do it.

"A play is a whole new way to reach people if you write it the right way.

Because of her second place finish in the state playwriting contest, Gagliano is a finalist for the position of playwright-in-residence in the Discovery '89 program at Choate Rosemary Hall Summer Theatre School in Connecticut.

This is the first time a high school student has been considered for one of these positions, which are generally held by adults, according to Emmons.

"I think it would be a really broadening experience," said Gagliano, who explained that her play, "Within Reason," would be a topic.

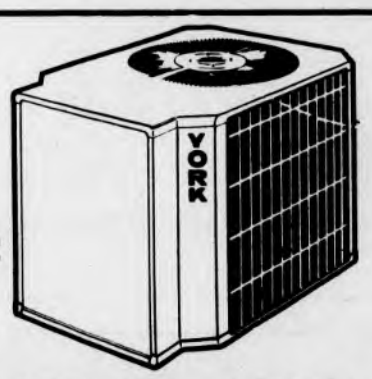
"I might get paid to do something I enjoy so much," she said, with obvious enjoyment.

Then in the fall, she will enter the University of Virginia to major in English, with an eye towards playwriting.

"I'd really like to concentrate on playwriting," she said.

"You never know what you can do until you try."

Spring wildflowers at science center



Whether you're interested in growing wildflowers or would just like to be able to identify them, the South Shore Natural Science Center is offering "Spring Wildflowers," a three-part program, on Tuesdays, April 25, May 9, and May 16, 9:30 a.m. to noon. You may attend one, two, or all three classes.

The first two Tuesdays (April 25 and May 9) will be held at the home of Winnie Lou Rounds, Norwell, and the surrounding area. A wildflower enthusiast, Winnie Lou will share some tips to help you identify wildflowers and will also demonstrate gardening techniques for those interested in creating their own wildflower gardens.

Winnie Lou's spring garden features delicate violets; lady slippers; hepatica; Dutchman's breeches, so named for its white flower that resembles tiny upside-down pantaloons; trilliums; and the trailing arbutus (or mayflower), the Massachusetts state flower, known for its subtle fragrance.

The May 16 class will take the group to Myles Standish State Forest, Plymouth, to view Canada mayflowers, lady slippers, and other wildflowers common to the park's various habitats. Science Center Education Director Ted Elliman will lead the Plymouth class.

Cohasset softball rally too late against Norwell

By Bill Modestino
Mariner correspondent

Norwell High School softball team recorded its fifth straight victory with a 13-8 decision over Cohasset and remained unbeaten in South Shore League play (3-0 league, 6-3 overall) April 27.

Norwell scored three runs in the top of the first inning and added six more in the second to take a commanding 12-0 lead before Cohasset regrouped in the later innings. Jess Anderson led the Norwell attack with two hits and five runs batted in, including a bases-clearing, three-run double in the second.

Trailing 12-0, Cohasset (1-4) rallied for four runs in the bottom of the fifth as Sara Bishop brought in a run with a bases-loaded walk, a Kristin Ellinger RBI single, and a two-run single by Barbara Lagrotteria (two RBI.)

After an Anderson RBI single gave Norwell a 13-4 lead in the sixth, the Skippers inched closer with four more runs in their half of the inning, 13-8. Ellinger produced the only RBI with a double as Cohasset mustered the other three runs of Norwell throwing errors.

"That was the furthest we've had to come back," Cohasset head coach Mike Gill said. "We had smart baserunning, which got us several runs, but we're thin in several key areas that hurt us overall."

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R	H	E
Norwell	3	6	0	3	0	1	0	13	10	5
Cohasset	0	0	0	0	4	4	0	8	8	3

Boys' Baseball

Norwell (4-4) scored four unearned runs in the second inning on four walks and two errors and withstood a late rally for the 5-4 SSL baseball victory over Cohasset at home April 27.

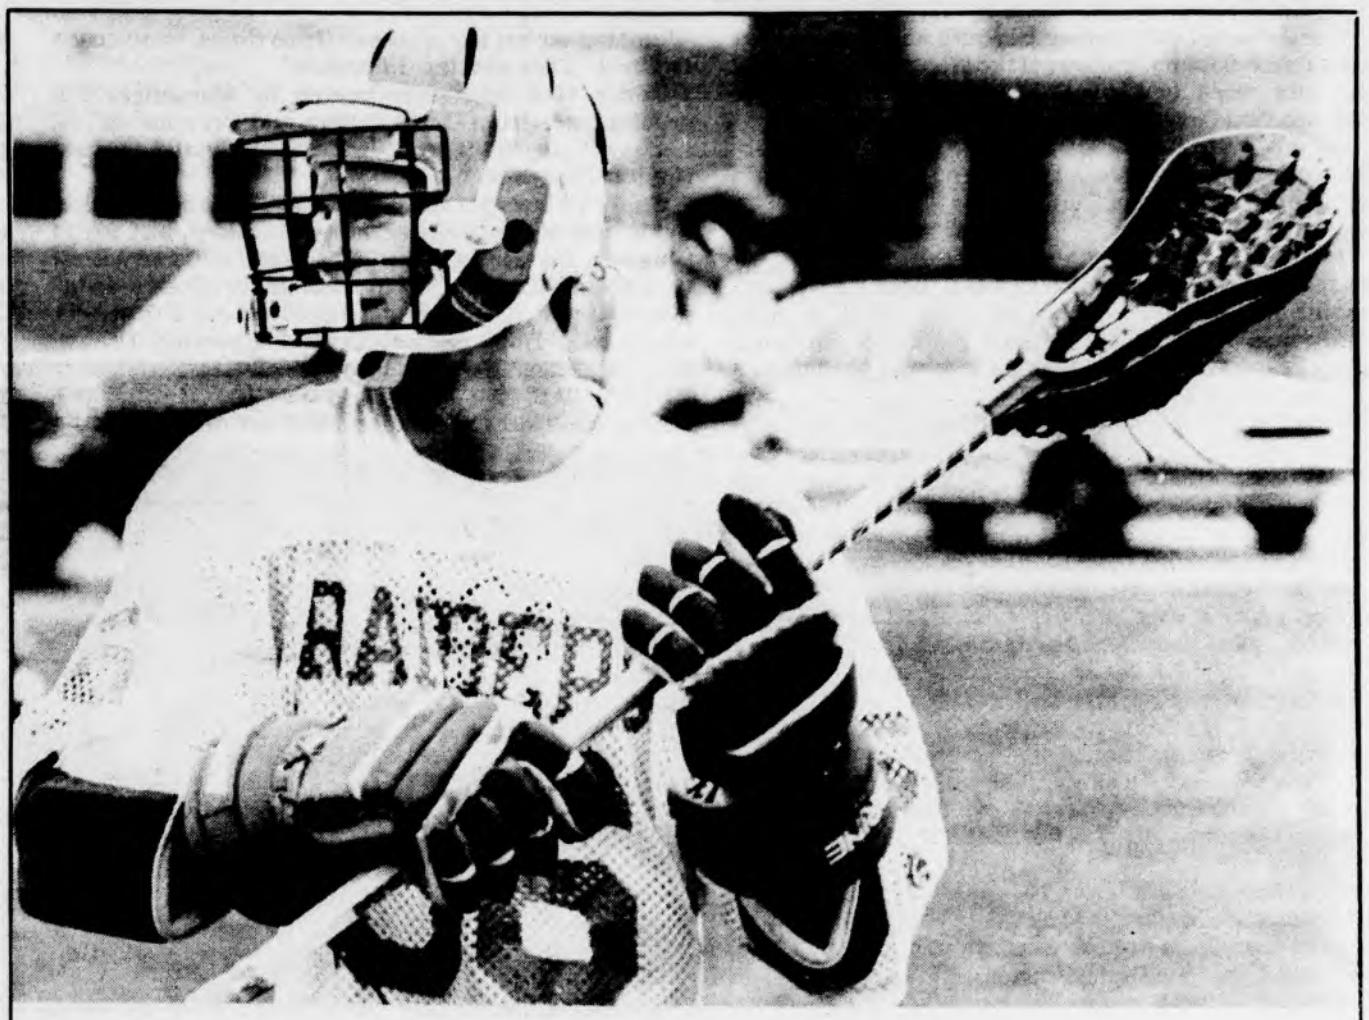
Steve Mohr scored the eventual winning run. After a walk, he stole second and third, and scored on an infield out. Josh Lopes had a complete game for the winners, giving up eight hits and striking out two.

Jim Gallagher had two single for Cohasset (1-4), and Mike Ellinger added two RBIs for the Skippers.

Boys' Golf

Junior Jason Lownds and sophomore Adam Steed each shot 45, leading Carver (1-1) to its first SSL boy's golf victory, a 6-3 decision over Cohasset April 27.

Bill Jones added a round of 49 for the winners. Cohasset (0-2) was paced by Joe Giagliano with a 48, while Sean Murray, Kevin Mulcahy and Mike Stevens shot 49s at the Plymouth Country Club.



Girls' Track

Sophomore Alyson James remained undefeated, winning four events and leaping a personal best (35' 1/2") in the triple jump as Cohasset took a SSL girls' outdoor track meet victory over East Bridgewater, 76-60, April 25. Laura Andrews won both distance events for Cohasset (3-0.)

Track results: 100: 1. James (C); 2. Laura Gagliano (C); 3. East Bridgewater. Winning time: 13.2 sec.; 220: 1. James (C); 2. Michelle Hartley (C); 3. EB. Time: 28.1 sec.; 440: 1. Sonya Butler (C); 2. Housing Needed

For the third consecutive year L. Knife & Son, Inc. has extended job offers to Irish students planning to come to the US to work for the summer. These students will be working in our delivery and warehouse departments. Last year, quite a few families offered to sponsor these students by offering them a place to stay and charging them reasonable room and boad. These students will begin to arrive in June and will work into September. If you think you are interested in sponsoring one of these students, please contact Sean Thornton at (617) 585-5165.

Girls under 19 youth soccer team wins match

The Cohasset girls' Under 19 youth soccer team beat Kingston 7-0 for its first win of the season, highlighting the fifth week of Coastal League play. Scoring for coaches Bob Beggan and Paul Berry were six different players — Kara Manion (two goals), Katie Murphy, Cory DeSantis, Madeline McDonald, Kerri Anglin and Jen Reidy — while Jen Plante and Sophie Redfield combined in goal for the shutout.

Two teams remained undefeated at the season's midpoint. Girls' Under 12-1, 4-0-1, beat Carver 7-0 behind Melinda Johansen's hat trick. Erin Murphy added two goals, as did Tammy Maitland. Forwards Molly Pease and Jessica Jenkins also had good games for coach Nino D'Urso.

Boys' Under 10-1 won their fourth and fifth games in a row, topping Hanover 4-1 on Saturday, then beating Halifax 7-0 the following day. In the Hanover game, Ely Kahn, Taylor Devin, Burke Davis and Bobby Meehan each scored, while against Halifax, Davis had his second three-goal game and Devin (two goals), Meehan and wing Jamie Buick also tallied. Jeremy Williams stood out on defense over the weekend, and Colin Pyfrom enjoyed a good game Sunday at midfield.

Boys Under 14-1 got shutout goaltending from Bill Goodman twice and knocked off Plymouth 4-0 and Duxbury 1-0 to run its record to 2-1-1. Center forward Joe Andrade scored three times against Plymouth, and Eric Drysdale added a single goal, while Charlie Endris shone at midfield for coach Steve Endris' squad. Against Duxburty, Bill Jordan kicked in the winning score.

Boys Under 10-2 fell from the ranks of the unbeaten, dropping a close contest to Scituate, 3-2, despite goals by Greg Bilton and Andrew Singleton. Brian Walsh also played well for Paul Cotter's team.

Boys' Under 12-2 lost to Plymouth 9-0, but got good defense from Jason Murphy and Brian Riley.

The Under 12-1 boys fared a bit better, falling to Kingston 6-4. Jim Magner, Eric Henry, Ryan Freeman and Ben Redfield scored, and wings Bobby Grecco and Andy Fitzsimmons played well for coach Buck Redfield. "Jim Magner hit the crossbar three times," said coach Redfield. "That was the difference."

Under 14-2 boys were beaten by Marshfield 5-2, getting goals from Gehrt Lubitz and Brandon deVos, and good play from stopper Brian Duffy and forward Brendan Kinchla.

Under 19 boys got sensational goaltending from Joel Reidy and steady defense from Bill Baird, but fell to Kingston 1-0. In that game, Ned Chase suffered a knee injury and will be lost for the remainder of the season.

Girls Under 10-2 were edged by Plymouth 2-0, but got strong play from Sara McDonald, Courtney Brown, Hannah Beggan, Sally Hammill and Trisha Peterson.

Under 12-2 girls also fell, 3-0 to Carver. Carolyne Delima and Liz Good played well on defense, while Nicole Peterson turned in a solid effort at midfield.

The Under 14-1 girls were beaten by Norwell, 2-0. Tara Gallagher, Vicki Maynard and Bridgit Corkery all had good games for coach Jack O'Brien. And the Under 16 girls lost to Plymouth 6-0, with Ellen Schramn and Rebecca Jordan both playing well.

"We're just getting by with our one field," said town soccer official Steve Endris, "and we're urging each parent to vote for the $280,000 field override question in the Saturday election." At Town Meeting last month, Cohasset voters approved the expansion of Milliken Field by a near-unanimous vote. But because the cost exceeded the Proposition 2½ spending cap — as did the town budget — it will come to another vote this Saturday.

Selectmen's briefs

Budget reductions

Selectmen voted to approve the proposed 9 percent reductions in budgets of a number of town departments Monday night, May 1.

But they didn't necessarily give their approval to the priorities within the contingency budgets.

The contingency budgets had been requested by advisory committee chairman Jane Goedecke in case the Proposition 2 1/2 override vote fails on Saturday.

Selectmen skimmed most of the budgets, but noted some of the cuts which do not have their approval.

One was a proposal by the fire department to cut the ambulance from its budget.

"Why would the ambulance be part of the equipment cut?" asked selectman Diana Kornet.

"They probably get more calls for the ambulance than fire equipment."

"It was the wrong thing (for the fire department) to do, to say that," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"It's a public relations stunt," said selectman Ned Tebbetts.

Sohier St. resident Robert Davenport asked why the school department can say it will cut teachers rather than services.

"It's not a scare tactic," said selectman Diana Kornet, former school committee chairman.

"Eighty percent of the budget is personnel.

"When you are talking a $400,000 cut, you have to talk bodies."

Kornet said she didn't want to vote to approve the contingency budgets.

"I feel very strongly if the override doesn't pass, we need to reevaluate which budgets need to be cut and how much," she said.

"I don't know if we should take all the departments down equally in percentage terms."

Kornet said that maybe the town should question retaining all the departments.

"It's not our function to overhaul the structure of town government," said chairman Burt Pratt.

"If the budget is reduced by 9 percent, we have to approve it.

"It doesn't mean if the override fails, we can't make changes later."

"We have to be realistic, as well," commented Arne Gjesteby of the advisory committee.

"You can't cut the ambulance. It takes quite a while to make arrangements with the ambulance company."

Gjesteby said if one fire department vehicle was taken away, it would change the minimum manning requirements.

Other contingency budgets approved by the board were from the building inspector, tree and park, cemetery, animal control, town accountant, police, wire department, selectman and harbor.

Computer clash

The selectman chairman and a member of the advisory committee clashed this week over the purchase of a computer for the assessor's department.

Several months ago, selectman chairman Burt Pratt had proposed a study of the needs of all town departments before any more computers were purchased.

But the advisory committee recently approved requests for computers from the health department and assessor's office.

"They blew us out of the water," said Pratt at Monday night's selectman meeting.

"The advisory committee has seen fit to violate the plan on two occasions.

"We're left with the same group of people on the same computers.

"I think it was a very, very poor decision."

"It's very unfortunate that the advisory committee approved this before we had the town-wide study," agreed selectman Diana Kornet.

"Jim (Lagrotteria) (of the assessors's office) did a very good job of convincing us," said Arne Gjesteby of the advisory committee.

Lagrotteria explained that without a computer, the tax bills are often late, which costs the town money, according to Gjesteby.

"Most of us felt it was time to get going," said Gjesteby.

"You are taking policy decisions away from the board of selectmen," answered Pratt.

"You people have stepped out of line twice."

"We are not going to take orders from the selectmen," responded Gjesteby, " and you don't take orders from us."

"You deprived us of the opportunity to look at the whole system," continued Pratt.

"There's got to be a policy everyone can agree on."

"It's done and over with," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"But I feel bad the advisory committee did this."

Selectmens' action

Selectmen took the following action at their meeting Monday night, May 1, at Town Hall:

*Granted licenses to the South Shore Music Circus for its summer schedule of performances.

Music circus director Edward Kasses said that Sunday performances will begin at 7:30 p.m. and end by 11 p.m.

Weeknight performances will start at 8 p.m.

The schedule of performers will be released soon, he said.

*Agreed to talk with the police chief and safety officer about parking problems around First Parish Church.

Selectmen suggested that the town hall parking lot be used for church functions.

*Granted a license to Peter Richards to sell ice cream at Sandy Beach.

*Granted a request from the Cohasset Community Center for bingo games on Sundays, 5:30 to 9:30 p.m., starting in the fall.

Proceeds will go towards scholarships for nursery school students, said Dennis Dooley.

The center's bowling license was also renewed.

*Agreed to meet every other week from June to August.

*Discharged, with a vote of thanks for a job well done, the Disposal Area Study, Hazardous Material Advisory, U.S. Constitution Bicentennial and Town Hall Building Committees.

*Approved the Osgood School Parade June 12, for dedication of a new play park.

*Proclaimed "Be Kind to Animals Week" May 7 to 13, and "Public Service Recognition Week" starting May 2.

Historical Society meeting a success

The Cohasset Historical Society's annual spring dinner meeting, saw 130 members and friends of the Society gather for a catered dinner, and another 30 persons join the gala meeting to see and hear an unusual program titled "The Road to Jerusalem."

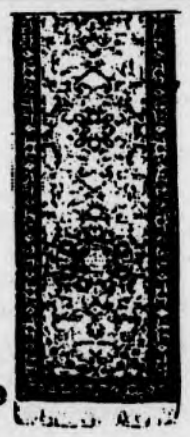
Using photographs, slides, maps and information taken from the Society's extensive documentary archives relating to Cohasset's past and present Society member, Osborne Ingram and Curator David Wadsworth presented a program devoted to the town's famous ocean-front highway.

The long history of the ancient cart path which became a summer colony was detailed by both the spoken word and photographic slides.

More than 80 slides, many made from early photographs and prints showing Jerusalem Road in its earlier days, were shown, along with an admixture of modern views of highway, home and seascape.

Jerusalem Road, one of the earliest identifiable traveled ways of Cohasset, pre-dates the dividing up of the land in Conahasset in the year 1670, and shows as a cart path on the surveyor's map made in that year.

The first farms and homesteads of Jerusalem Road dated from the decades following. By the mid-19th century the highway was identified as the site of numerous large summer "cottages" built by Bostonian families of wealth.



Many of these Victorian "cottages" still exist and are a distinctive feature of the Cohasset shoreline.

In the society's program, the early history of the ancient way was detailed by Mr. Ingram, followed by the presentation of slides.

Future Historical Society events include a showing of Bridal Gowns from its extensive collection of 19th century costumes, scheduled at the Caleb Lothrop House from 2 to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 19 and 20. The exhibit will be open to the public and admission will be free.

In mid-June, the Society's museums at Cohasset Center will open for the summer season with a special program devoted to the famous Cohasset Carillon of St. Stephen's Church

Faithful Decision-Making And The Override

A course on Christian decision-making will take place here at St Stephen's beginning on May 3. A practical example is how we will vote on the Proposition 2 1/2 override coming up on May 6. Much has been made of the consequences of an override rejection and to be sure if we are responsible we need to know this — actions have consequences.

There is more to be said, however, and I would like to add three points to the discussion. First, at least for the Christian, we do not act or vote out of private self-interest. There is more at stake than our own particular tax bill.

Second, there is the issue of stewardship. We need to think not just about the town today, but what legacy are we leaving for tomorrow? Are we easing the present only to have a more critical future? Other stewardship issues have to do with meeting the financial challenges of the day with resourcefulness, planning, and fresh ideas.

Finally, an idea in our religious tradition is the notion of commonwealth. It is a concept that stretches back to the Middle Ages and is what we call ourselves in Massachusetts to this day. It envisions a community where every member works single-mindedly for the common good. When we vote on the Proposition 2 1/2 override we could do worse than have this notion of commonwealth in mind.

Beginning on Wednesday, May 3, and continuing for four weeks to May 24, the Adult Education Committee will offer a course on ethics and values. Each class will begin at 7:45 and end by 9:30 p.m.

The course will begin by looking at ourselves and our commitments. The next week will focus on case studies of ethical dilemmas. We will look at a model for decision-making and explore some of the actual decisions in which we are involved.

Centering Prayer Group

A newly formed group on centering prayer meets on Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. Centering prayer is a form of meditation or contemplation that centers on God. It is a freeing of our mind of images so that we are not distracted. It seeks a God that is beyond our images and experiences God at the center of our self. There is a strength and a peace that comes from this prayer. If you would like to learn this prayer and join this prayer group, come on a Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to the Bartow Room.

Youth Group to the Omni

The Youth Group of St. Stephen's has planned a trip to the Omni Theater on Friday evening, May 5. In June the group will go on a weekend trip to Vermont.

Church school play

The Intermediate Church School class will perform a play about creation for the rest of the Church School and also for adults at the Fellowship time Sunday, May 7. The students have worked hard, and tufts of cloud and twinkling of star can already be seen as the stage is being made ready!

Meeting on housing

A meeting sponsored by the Fair Housing and Housing Partnership Committees will take place at St. Stephen's on Sunday, May 7 at 3 p.m. in the choir room. Slides will be shown of types of affordable housing: family rental, housing for the mentally retarded, and first time home buyer housing through the home ownership opportunity program. There will be discussion by the Fair Housing and Housing Partnership Committees, along with the Housing Authority. There wuill also be time for questions.

Former Assistant to be installed

The Rev. Roy F. Cederholm, Jr. will be instituted by Bishop Johnson as new Rector of Christ Church, Needham, on Wednesday, May 10 at 7:30 p.m. A reception will follow the service.

Bud was Assistant at St. Stephen's from 1971 to 1976 when he became Rector of St. Paul's Church in White River Junction, VT.

All are invited to this celebration of New Ministry at Christ Church, 1132 Highland Avenue in Needham.

Altar Guild captains meet

There will be an Altar Guild Captains meeting on Monday, May 8 at 10 a.m. Please be sure if you cannot attend that you send a representative from your Team.

Reaching Out To College Students And Graduating High School Seniors

The New Member Committee is at work to better include our college students in our church family. If you have a student in college please forward the name and address to our church office so that they may be included on our mailing list and in our prayers.

We would also like the names of any graduating high school seniors this year so that we may honor them at a special recognition Sunday, May 21.

Church yard sale May 6

Eighteen volunteers from Cohasset, preparing to make their journey to Knott County, Kentucky for a week long work camp (with the Appalachia Service Project) are holding a yard sale May 6 (voting day) from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Second Congregational Church. The church is also sponsoring a bake sale at the entrance to town hall from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

We need the entire community's support on this! All of us will gain something unique through this opportunity.

Annual Canvass - Please Respond

The Canvass Committee is looking for 30 more contributions from people who have not yet responded. PLEASE RESPOND and INCREASE YOUR PLEDGE this year. Remember that half of your increase will be matched by another special donor. Where else can you get a 50% return on your investment?

For your information:

There is a new Amnesty International chapter forming in the Weymouth area. Anyone interested may call Del Ketcham at 337-8213.

Shelter Through Home-Share

The Outreach Committee has been consulting with the Home-Share Organization on the problem of homelessness on the South Shore. We will be asking the church membership to vote at the annual meeting to support our participation in the Home-Share Program. The following is a brief description of that program.

Faith Home-Share is an organization and a network. The network is made up of individuals and organizations with homes and hearts open to share with the homeless. These Host Families and Organizations provide transitional housing for homeless families while the families search for permanent housing. Sheltering homes and facilities are not necessarily run by professional caregivers but rather by concerned volunteers, willing to make some sacrifice to help others who are homeless.

The Home-Share organization is the individuals who match Home-Share Families and Organizations with Clients and who follow this match from placement to outplacement and beyond. The Home-Share staff are qualified, experienced, and committed to the concept of home-share and to serving both shelter providers and guests.

ADULT EDUCATION NEWS:

The final adult education program this Spring will be a two part program on aging. The series is scheduled for Friday evening, May 5 and May 19, at 7:30 in the Parish House living room. Each evening, there will be a presentation by Carolyn Houseman, social worker for the Cohasset Social Service League, followed by a group discussion.

The first evening, Carolyn will address the issues of aging. The second meeting will respond to concerns raised during the first discussion, and also cover the area resources or those dealing with aging parents or spouses.

We hope to see you at one or both presentations!

Communion breakfast

A talk on Medjugorje, the Yugoslavian village where the Blessed Mother reportedly has been appearing daily to six visionaries since 1981, will be given at the May 7 communion breakfast held by Our Lady's Sodality of St. Mary of the Assumption Parish.

The speaker will be the Rev. Al Winshman, S.J., who leads the Marion-Medjugorje Renewal Ministry, 300 Newbury St., Boston. Rev. Winshman has been the spiritual director for many pilgrimages to Medjugorje and holds evenings of prayer, conference days, retreats and parish renewal weeks in the eastern Massachusetts area as part of his ministry, for which there is no charge.

The breakfast will be held at the South Shore Country Club, South Street, Hingham, at about noon after the 11 a.m. Mass May 7 at St. Ann's Church, Hull. Men are welcome.

Communion breakfast tickets, at $10 each, must be purchased in advance. For tickets, call Mary Downing, 925-4490; Kay Healy, 925-2571, or Grace Coleman, 925-0175. For more information, call Gail Besse, 925-5323.

Congregation anniversary

Congregation Sha'aray Shalom will officially celebrate the 30th anniversary of its founding on the South Shore and the beginning of the 10th anniversary year of the opening of its Hingham temple with special events during the weekend of May 12 and 13.

A rededication service will be conducted at 8 p.m. Friday, May 12. Rabbi Stephen Karol and Cantor Isaac Kriger will officiate.

The service will include a varied selection of creative readings and special melodies.

Highlight of the service will be a presentation planned by past presidents of the congregation.

An Oneg Shabbat will follow.

A benefit concert will take place at 8 p.m. the following evening.

Proceeds will be earmarked for temple building and program expansion.

Vocalists Rivka Isachar and Isaac Kriger will present a program of Broadway, Yiddish, Israeli and operatic music.

A Havdalah service, conducted by the temple youth group, will take place before the concert, and a dessert buffet will be held afterwards.

Tickets are $10 per person.

Anyone seeking more information about the anniversary celebration may call Susan Ferency or Joan Burroughs-Reynolds at 749-8103.

CHRIS'S CREATIVE COOKING
PIANO TUNING SERVICE

THANK YOU. . .

Phew! Christine, our OPEN DAYS were AMAZING! I know we made the cakes and the scones, but did you realize that Marge, Jeannie, Deidre and Sine served tea to over 400 people! We really do have some wonderful friends.

Yes, Iain, they certainly are- -particularly since I didn't see YOU doing any washing up! I TOLD you lots of people would want to see what Scituate's new Bed-and-Breakfast looks like from the inside--but I must say I never expected such a wonderful response. I wonder how we can thank everyone for coming -- especially when the weather was so bad that last Sunday. . .

Oh! I don't have to type hundreds of address labels again, do I?

Well. . .all right. Instead, let's put an advertisement in the Mariner.
But what would we say?

OH! Something like. . . CHRISTINE AND IAIN GILMOUR WISH TO THANK EVERYONE WHO HELPED CELEBRATE THE OPENING OF THEIR NEW BED-AND-BREAKFAST AT THE ALLEN HOUSE, 18 ALLEN PLACE, SCITUATE.

Wouldn't you put the telephone number in so people can call us?

Yes, of course I'd put the phone number in! 617-545-8221. But we're wasting time. I've got to deliver this anniversary cake for that surprise party and, even if you don't have any pianos to tune today, you've still got the bread and the rolls to make for our guests' breakfasts tomorrow morning! So get the yeast out -- and put that apron on!

Tree dedicated to Arnold Weeks

A tree was dedicated on Arbor Day last week to the memory of a man who was close to nature and according to one friend, would have appreciated the gesture.

A Japanese Pagoda tree was planted at Constitution Park at the corner of Ripley Road and Depot Court in memory of former longtime resident and town official, Arnold Weeks, who died last year.

In attendance during last week's ceremonies at the park were his widow, Alice Weeks, his daughter Susan Gerig and her husband, John, from Virginia., a son, Christopher Weeks, and a grandchild, Paula Bailey.

In his invocation, Rev. Edward Atkinson of the First Parish Unitarian Church, said the town should always remember Weeks' "wit, wisdom and sage counsel." He recalled his former parishioner as a devoted family man who was also committed to community and church.

"He was committed to passing on the best of his heritage," Rev. Atkinson stated.

"As this tree grows in maturity Arnold's memory will dwell among us and share the strength and virtue that was his."

The tree was donated by Polly Logan and the Amateur Garden Club, the organization that helped to design and organize Constitution Park. Several town department heads and local residents contributed materials and labor to beautifying the park which was created in honor of the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution.

David Wadsworth, chairman of the town's Constitution committee, recalled the dedication of the park in September, 1987. It was established through the cooperation of that committee, the Amateur Garden Club, the Community Garden Club of Cohasset, the Tree and Park Dept. and selectmen, he said.

The town received recognition from the national Constitution Bicentennial committee for its "living legacy" to the 200th anniversary celebration.

Wadsworth recalled that the property was the former site of a stable owned by Caleb Tilden. It was closed down in the 1920's and the land was later purchased by the Cohasset Improvement Association. The lot was presented to the town of Cohasset and was designed into a tree-lined park in 1987.

Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray spoke briefly about Weeks, saying "this is a fitting tribute to Alice as well as to Arnold. " She noted that during his life "wherever Arnold was, Alice was."

Selectman Martha Gjesteby read a proclaimation designating April 28 as Arbor Day, and recalled that Weeks had been a dedicated member of the advisory committee until 1975.

"He wielded a sharp pen, but he was willing to change his views if he received solid information," Gjesteby stated, adding that the town now rejoices in the addition of a new tree in his honor.

"Arnold Weeks would be very pleased with the purpose of our meeting. He had a great regard for nature and a great respect for the Constitution," according to Rev. Atkinson. "He would approve of planting trees and a park honoring the Constitution. He would be proud to be remembered in context with trees and a park."

Rev. Atkinson recalled that Weeks "believed each one of us should lead a life worth remembering." Weeks fulfilled that responsibility, he said, by his beliefs in family and community service.

He was a genial, thoughtful man who chose his words carefully. Weeks will be remembered for many things, including his habit of wearing an outdoorsman shirt, a checked jacket and a bow tie. Many will remember Mr. and Mrs. Weeks as traditional participants of town meeting, or in church where they would customarily sit in the front row pew.

"It was as dependable as the rising sun," Rev. Atkinson said. "Arnold was as sage a counsel and as generous a friend as anyone would hope to know." He recalled Weeks as a world traveler, successful businessman, skilled craftsman, dedicated church volunteer and community leader.

Weeks kept a booklet in which he wrote down many thoughts about his life. Rev. Atkinson read several of the quotations. He called his retirement "the priceless privilege of procrastination - to choose what you want to do, not because you have to do it."

"Arnold made this world a better place for his having lived. And his place is secured in our affectionate and abiding memory," Rev. Atkinson stated.

The ceremonies concluded with an Arbor Day poem read by Junior Gardener Jessica Jenkins.

Brunch for Sen. Golden

The William Golden Committee will host its annual brunch in honor of Sen. Golden Sunday, May 7, from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Ridder Country Club on Route 14 in Whitman.

Golden has announced that he plans to run for lieutenant governor in the 1990 state election.

For more information on the brunch, call the Golden committee office at 617-331-7290.

Tri-town rabies clinic

In recognition of "Be Kind To Animals Week", May 7 to May 13, the Hingham Animal League is sponsoring a tri-town rabies clinic for Cohasset, Hingham and Hull on Saturday, May 13, from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. at the Hull Police Station, 1 School St., Hull.

According to Hingham Animal Control Officer Paul Murphy, dogs must be vaccinated and licensed annually. Cats should also be vaccinated, because they are more likely to come into contact with rabid animals.

If you're not sure if your pet has already been vaccinated, Murphy said it won't hurt to get it done again, just to be safe.

The charge for the shot is $8 per animal. If you have any questions, call the Hingham Animal League at 749-0968.

Community center events

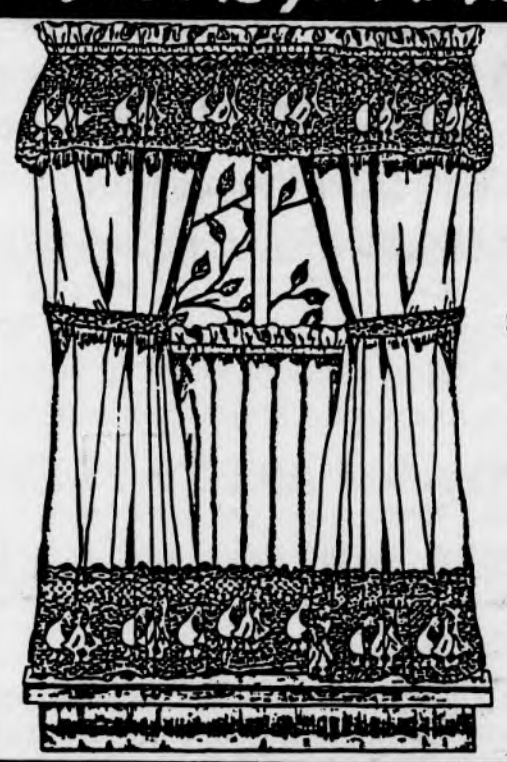
Teen dance: Saturday, May 13 from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Students in grades 7—12 are invited to dance the night away to music provided by deejay Mike Sharp. Mike also provides a light show which adds atmosphere and excitement. Whether you come with friends or make new ones, an enjoyable time is had by all. Admission is $4 at the door.

Pre-school puppet show: "The Donkey and the Lion's Skin" — Friday, May 5, 10:30 a.m., admission $2 at the door. Pat Boylan delights pre-schoolers and their moms with her colorful, creative puppet shows. Pat encourages children to become involved in the stories, almost as though they were the characters themselves! The audience is then invited backstage to meet the puppets.

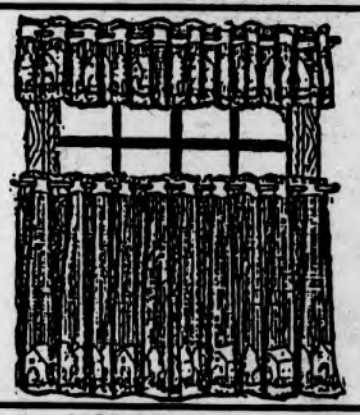
Doll house tour: Thursday, May 25 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Do you have a doll house you're proud of and would like to exhibit? The Cohasset Community Center invites you to share your doll house with the public as part of its Biannual Doll House Tour. This event is a charity fundraiser and all entrants will be greatly appreciated. All are welcome to attend the Doll House Tour, which begins at the community center at 11 a.m. A donation of $5 includes the tour plus tea and cookies at the center.

Override on cable TV

Wigmore Pierson will broadcast the Cohasset Override of Prop 2½ results, live, direct from town hall on cable channel 3, beginning at 6:30 p.m., on Saturday, May 6.

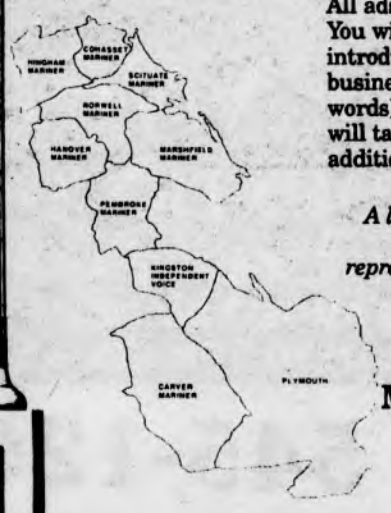


Following the announcement of the results of the vote on 9 ballot articles, Pierson will review the results with several town leaders.



Aerobic classes

The community center is offering aerobics classes for people of all abilities and fitness levels and schedules the classes to accommodate everyone:



Monday—Friday 8:45—10 a.m., Tuesday and Thursday 7 to 8:15 p.m. and Saturday, 9 to 10:15 a.m. The Tuesday/Thursday evening and Saturday classes are co-ed. The Wednesday morning class focuses on Body Sculpting, utilizing hand and foot weights and large rubber bands to tone and build muscles. The instructor is Normandie Nigh, whose infectious enthusiasm and sense of fun make working out exciting and enjoyable.

The cost per session is $4 at the drop-in rate. Sign up monthly and save money. For further information, call Cohasset Community Center at 383-0088.

Obituary

John A. Thompson

A funeral service was conducted May 2 at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Scituate, for John A. Thompson of Cohasset, who died April 28 at his home.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Mr. Thompson was a buyer for Ames, King's and J.M. Fields department stores.

He retired in 1972 as divisional merchandise manager for Ames Department Stores where he had worked since 1966.

From 1960 to 1965, he was men's and boy's merchandise buyer for the King's Department Stores, and for J.M. Fields from 1956 to 1959.

Mr. Thompson was controller at Lincoln Stores from 1933 to 1956.

He was a member of SCORE, retirees who consult businesses on a volunteer basis, from 1972 to 1985.

Born in Uniontown, Pa., Mr. Thompson grew up in Pride's Crossing.

He was graduated from Beverly High School, Tufts College in 1930 and the Harvard Business School in 1932.

He lived in Braintree from 1946 to 1966, when he moved to Cohasset.

Husband of the late Mildred (Ladd) Thompson, he leaves a son, Glenn M. Thompson of Shelburne, Vt.; two daughters, Sally Marchie of Florence, Italy, and Bonnie Lynne DeVito of Cohasset, a sister- in- law, Jenne Fisher of Nahant, and grand children Robin, Lauren, Kevin and David DeVito, all of Cohasset, Gianluca Marchi and Glenn Marchi, both of Florence, Italy; and Amy Thompson of New York.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Raymond Low and the Rev. John Gallup.

Funeral arrangements were by Gaffey Funeral Home, 757 Country Way, North Scituate Village.

Memorial gifts may be made to the Hospice of the South Shore, P.O. Box 334, 400 Franklin St., Braintree, 02184.

Marsh clean-up at Figueiredo's

Figueiredo's boat landing of Cohasset recently initiated an extensive clean-up of their adjacent saltmarsh.

Nearly 40 cubic yards of old wood, plastics and other debris has been collected and disposed.

Environmental report due on Old Colony

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

The Old Colony Railroad Citizen's Advisory Committee should have a copy of the draft environmental impact statement for the proposed rehabilitation project at its next meeting in about a month, according to the MBTA's Old Colony project manager .

"I'd like to submit it to you at the next scheduled meeting," said Steve Polechronis of the MBTA during a meeting of the CAC April 27 at Quincy High School.

About 35 residents from towns ranging from Kingston to Scituate to Quincy, as well as members of the citizens advisory committee, attended the two and a half hour meeting.

No date has yet been set for the next meeting.

The Urban Mass Transit Administration, which currently has the draft, must give permission for the document to be released.

When it was submitted to the UMTA several months ago, the agency said the draft was "far too long" and should be trimmed from 1,200 pages to about 300.

"When it is distributed, there will be a 30-day comment period," explained Polechronis.

Within 45 days, there will be a series of public hearings within the affected communities, he said.

Comments will be forwarded to the UMTA and the state Environmental Protection Agency.

Those two agencies will make recommendations on the report.

"We hope to complete the final environmental impact report by the end of 1989," Polechronis said.

The MBTA is proposing to rebuild an old, three-branch system between South Station, Middleboro and Plymouth, via two dozen South Shore communities.

Cost is estimated at about $390 million.

In response to a question by citizens advisory committee chairman Terry Fancher, Polechronis said that once the CAC completes its review, the document will be circulated further.

For example, he said it will be available in the main library in each city and town, as well as in the transportation library in Boston.

Notices about the environmental impact report and public hearings will also be put in newspapers, he said.

Polechronis also said that the project schedule for the proposed rehabilitation has been changed slightly.

He said that the final design is expected in 1990, construction is expected to begin in 1991 and to be completed in 1994.

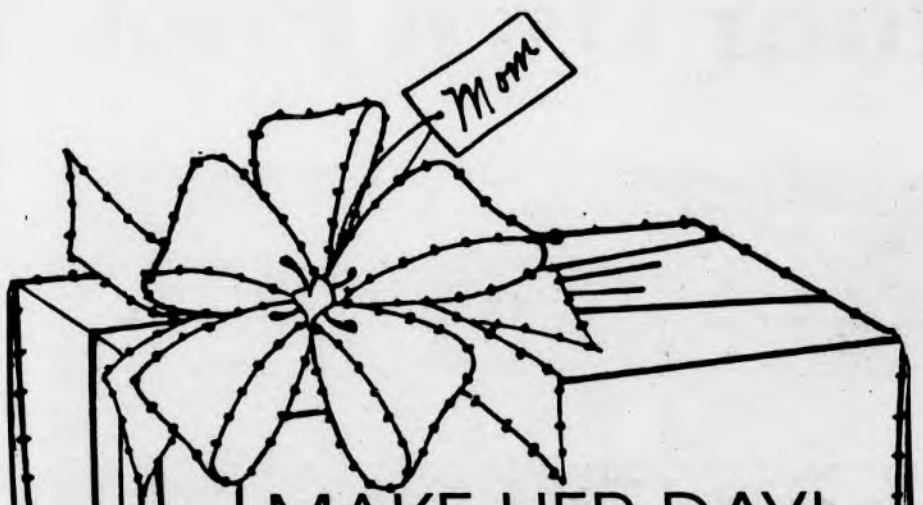
"We had hoped to have it finished in 1993," said Polechronis, who explained that more time was needed with affected communities.

First part of the project will be the Braintree to Middleboro, Braintree to Hanson and Braintree to Boston parts of the system, he said.

"We'll work in three directions," he said.

He said that most communities will experience one to two seasons of activity.

"Materials will come in by rail whenever possible," said Polechronis.



A proposed busway as an alternative to the Southeast Expressway does not seem feasible at this time, said the project manager on another topic.

He explained that the eight-mile busway would share the former Old Colony Railroad right-of-way with the existing Red Line transit tracks.

It would operate as a reversible single lane roadway, inbound from Quincy to Boston 6 a.m. to noon, and outbound from Boston to Quincy from 1 p.m. to midnight.

However, 37 percent of the busway would be built with less than the absolute minimum 17-foot pavement width required for a one-lane, one-way operation. There would be no provision for passing a stalled vehicle.

"If a bus broke down, there would be no way for another bus to pass," he said.

"A substantial number of buses would be trapped," he said.

However, another bus proposal, known as the Transportation Systems Management alternative, or TSM, is still on, he said.

Improved bus service by private carriers would be part of the system.

Polechronis also reviewed plans for a Kingston Route 3 station, and for a Pearl St. grade separation in Braintree.

"A major park/drive facility is needed in Kingston," he said.

"Without it, Plymouth ridership would be compromised.

"We wanted ready highway access and sufficient parking."

He showed a conceptual site plan of the station with a proposed parking area for 1000 cars on 17 acres of land, as well as a ramping system on Routes 3 and 3A.

To make the plans work, said Polechronis, land currently occupied by L. Knife & Son, a beer distributing company, would probably have to be taken by eminent domain.

"We made a decision to value the residential area more than the warehouse," said Polechronis.

Some $27 million is budgeted for ramp configuration and station construction, according to the project manager.

A land acquisition budget hasn't yet been established, Polechronis said.

He noted that planners expect to include a detention pond and to work with the Kingston conservation commission.

"I urge you to go back to the drawing board and come up with a plan where the two (warehouse and T station) can coexist," said Fancher.

"We tried to come up with one, but it's just not there," replied Polechronis.

Kingston resident Eugene Creedon agreed that the two should coexist on the site.

He also said that two stations are needed in Kingston.

"The town is strangled with traffic now," said Creedon.

"This isn't something we are going to act on tonight, or probably for quite some time," said Fancher.

Polechronis also discussed a Braintree grade separation suggested for the Pearl St. grade crossing on the Plymouth and Middleboro lines.

He said that the grade separation was proposed because the "town felt strongly that the traffic impact would be too severe" otherwise.

The grade would start to drop by Pearl St. Motors, according to Polechronis.

He said planners are working with the owners of Campanele's Restaurant which would lose its off street parking with the grade separation.

"Clearly, that's an untenable situation," he said. "We are working with the owner."

Polechronis said the plans have been reviewed by the town and "it seems to be a proposal that makes sense."

It would take a year to a year and a half to complete, he said.

During the meeting, several residents referred to a postcard they had received stating that the meeting would cover plans for Scituate.

Though the card was not sent by the CAC or MBTA, Fancher allowed a few minutes of discussion on the topic at the end of the meeting.

Bruce Wescott, a Scituate resident for 20 years, said that he had sent out the mailing and paid for the postage out of his own pocket.

He had also passed out handouts at the door of the meeting about potential parking, traffic and noise problems in Scituate related to the Greenbush line.

"The rail is coming down," said Wescott, "and I'm obviously not happy about it."

Wescott said he had 30 questions about the Old Colony Greenbush line, but that he would hold them until that subject was on the agenda.

more. Believe me, this town never had a budget increase of two and a-half percent plus new growth. We made due by using up our free cash and by a much greater than average rate of new growth during that time. But we are seeing a lack of new growth revenue now."

The town made the decision several years ago to remain a residential community with limited commercial and industrial development. Although that may make for a more pleasant community, it does not help the tax base, she said.

"People who live in a residential community must make a decision to pay more for services if they want those services."

FITNESS CLASS FOR THE DISABLED

Have you a need for a special fitness program? People who have a physical injury or chronic long term disability may be interested in participating in the Thursday morning fitness program at 10:30 a.m. Ms. Clare Gurnett, our fitness coordinator, has developed this special program for you. The class meets every Thursday in the large gym of the Community Center and transportation can be arranged if needed. Call 383-9112.

HEALTH FAIR MAY 11, 1989

The fourth annual health fair will be held Thursday, May 11, 12 to 3 p.m. at the Second Congregational Church, Highland Ave. The Council on Aging invites all residents 60 years and older to attend. This year's goal of the health fair is to provide health information, ways to change daily life styles and many health screenings from local practitioners. The following is a list of some of the screenings available the day of the fair: hearing, skin care, eye and glaucoma, anemia, blood pressure, blood chemistry. For further information, please call 383-9112.

ARBOR DAY

The community garden club of Cohasset will be conducting a tree planting ceremony in memory of Mr. Arnold Weeks. Ms. Weeks was a very active member in the Cohasset Historical Society, on the Town Advisory Board, the Old Goats Club, and the First Unitarian Church of Cohasset.

He leaves his wife Alice Weeks, two sons, Phillip Weeks of Scituate, Christopher Weeks of Philadelphia. A daughter, Cornelia Jamesson of Weston Va. Plus numerous grandchildren and great grandchildren.

On behalf of the Week's family and the community Garden Club of Cohasset, an invitation is extended to the community to participate in this memorial ceremony. Place: Constitutional Park (Next to Cohasset Post Office). Time: April 28, 1989 at 4 p.m. (Rain day April 29 at 4 p.m.).

SPRING PROGRAMS

This spring, learn a new skill or just have fun in any of the enjoyable programs offered at the center. Learn how to play bridge with Barbara Elliot on Tuesdays from 9:30 to 12 noon. Enjoy arts and crafts on Tuesdats from 12 to 2 p.m. with instructor Dorothy Bryanton. Advanced line dancing if held every Wednesday from 1:30 to 3 p.m. with Tiny Lyon-Learn the latest in contemporary dance steps. Bowling for seniors is offered every Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Four candlepin lanes are available and both men and women are welcome to join. Knitting instruction is given on Fridays from 1 to 3 p.m. Learn for the fun of it! Instructor is Edna Finegan.

WATERCOLOR CLASSES

Back by popular demand, the Senior Center will be offering a 10-week course in watercolor painting beginning Thursday, April 20. The course is open to residents and non-residents of all ages, regardless of ability or previous experience. The instructor will be Sr. Veronica Julie, who has taught and demonstrated various approaches to creative painting throughout the South Shore area.

Eastern Edison to construct new facility

Eastern Edison Co. last week broke ground for its new $1.3 million satellite operating facility at 1124 Hanover St. (Rte. 139) in Hanover. The 15,000-square-foot building is on a 7.5 acre site.

"We're erecting this building to focus on the needs of our customers in the towns of Cohasset, Halifax, Hanson, Norwell, Pembroke, Rockland, Scituate and Whitman, as well as Hanover," said Eastern Edison President Arthur A. Hatch.

The building is scheduled to be completed and occupied this Fall. It will be staffed with 10 line construction and maintenance crews and supported by a full inventory of materials and supplies. Emergency utility service will be provided from this location on a 24-hour daily basis.

"This facility will be a quality functional building that reflects our System's goal of streamlining operations, improving customer service and enhancing community visibility," Hatch said.

Eastern Edison Co. provides electric service to nearly 170,000 customers in the Brockton and Fall River areas. It is one of two retail electric utilities of Eastern Utilities Associates (EUA), an investor-owned holding company.

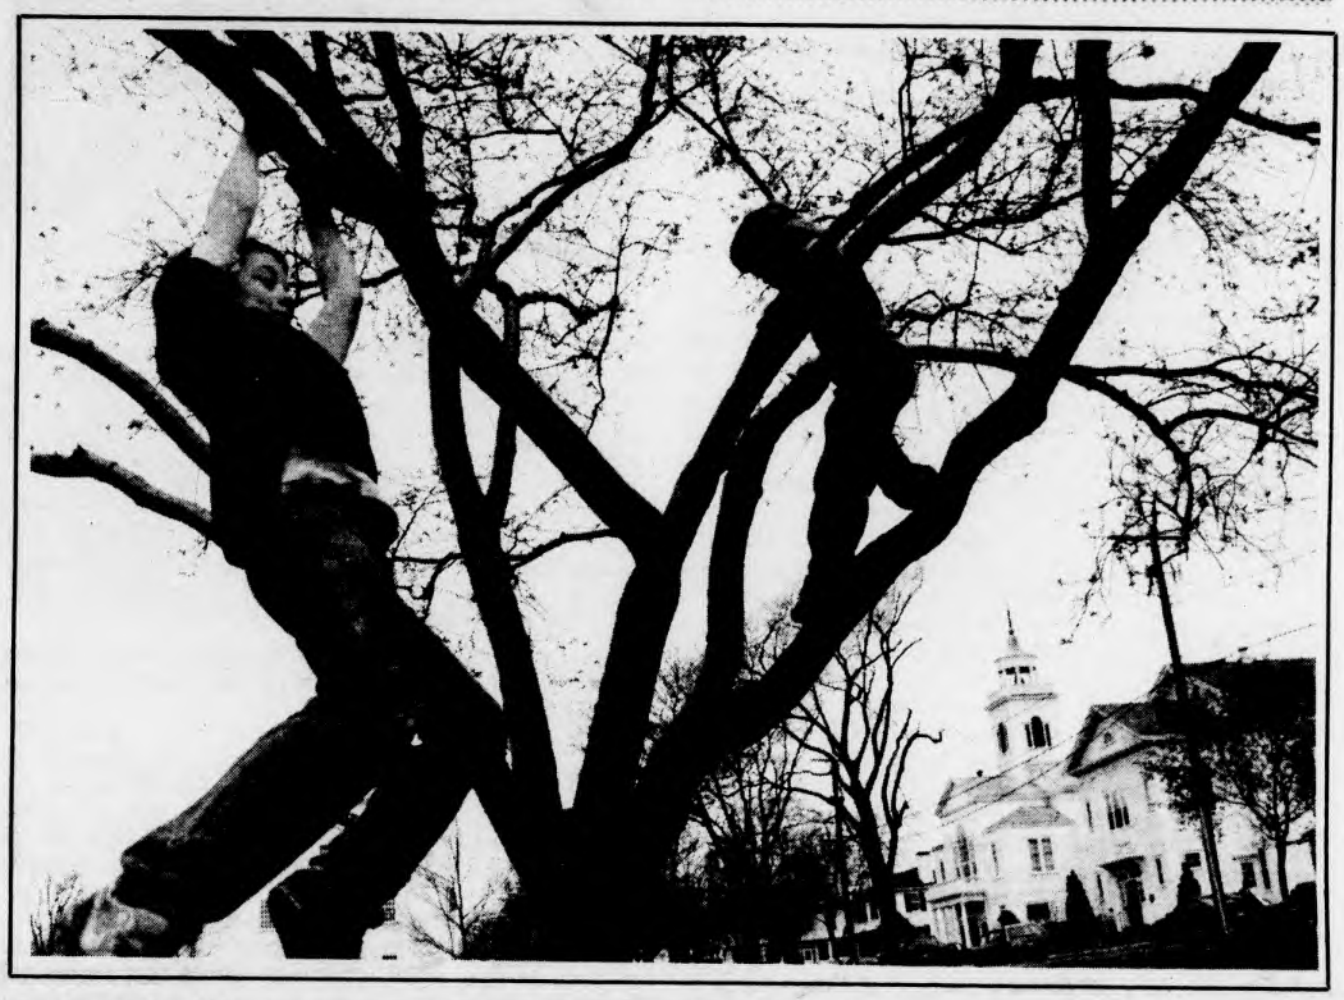
Budget cuts stop at transportation

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff



Decrying Saturday's override defeat as a "sad day for Cohasset education," the school committee proposed a $40,000 cut in the transportation budget that will require more children to walk to school next year.

But they stopped short from pulling the remaining $360,000 from their proposed $5 million budget.

Because of the defeat of question one on Saturday's ballot, all town departments are expected to reduce their budgets by nine percent. That means a $400,000 reduction in the 1989-90 school budget that was previously recommended by the school and advisory committees, and was endorsed by town meeting in April.

Several of the school committee members admitted they were "uncomfortable" with proposing additional budget cuts. Committee member Ralph Kidder stated, "It's not clear to me that people are saying 'cut nine or ten teachers and hack the athletic budget.' I'm not sure that's what people want me to do. I'm reluctant to move with a hachet on this budget tonight when I believe it's a maintenance budget in the first place. I don't see how we can take a meat cleaver to this. A 141 vote loss does not say they want us to cut massively at this budget."

(See page 6)

The Bigley kids, Morgan, 8, and Deidre, 4, have some fun while mom attended to more serious responsibilities — voting at last Saturday's override election. (Staff photo/Chris Bernstein)

Selectmen refuse a second override election

Selectmen voted Monday night, May 8, not to support a second override ballot with a lesser amount than the $844,000 requested in last weekend's election.

And the $844,000 which must now be made up by the town should be split evenly between the school and other town departments, most members agreed.

Selectman Diana Kornet voted against both motions.

Selectman Rocco Laugelle was opposed to the second proposal.

Both had been suggested by selectman Ned Tebbetts.

Tebbetts recommended that selectmen accept the vote of the town, and attempt a budget which requires no override.

But Kornet questioned whether the 141 more voters who were against the override was enough of a mandate.

"If it was 300-400 votes, that would be definite as far as ayes and nays," she said.

"But I've heard from people aghast that question one didn't pass.

"I wonder whether that is reason to consider a budget half way in between.

"I understand that is more complicated; it would require another ballot."

"A defeat is a defeat," said selectman chairman Burt Pratt.

"Now the people have spoken," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"As far as I'm concerned, it's over."

Kornet acknowledged that jobs are hanging in the balance.

'The best teacher in CHS history' gets set to retire

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

If you ask long-time Cohasset High School biology teacher Robert Thompson to describe himself, he'll use the word average.

"I'm just another person who is retiring," said Thompson, who will conclude a 34-year career next month.

But if you ask other people to describe him, particularly his former students, you'll get the description of a man who is far from average.

"There's no question, he's the best teacher in the history of Cohasset High School ," said high school athletic director Clark Chatterton, who was a student of Thompson's 30 years ago.

"I had him my freshman year, and our senior class dedicated the yearbook to him in 1959.

" He was so respected, he never had a discipline problem.

"Everyone respected him and his teaching style so much," said Chatterton.

School committee vice chairman Christopher Ford, also a former student of Thompson's, agreed.

"He's the the kind of teacher who inspired students," said Ford.

"He was a very soft-spoken gentleman, who never raised his voice, nor had the need to.

"He always had our attention, and I always thought of him as a man of age and wisdom and experience.

"He just seemed the absolute model of integrity. You couldn't imagine cheating or being dishonest in a class of Bob Thompson's.

"He just came across with such a love of his work."

"I've enjoyed being involved in science, "said Thompson, 61, of Cohasset.

"To me, it's truly wondrous," he said.

"Biology always intrigued me. It's about life itself."

He has spent his teaching career, all but two

Pro-life members come to CHS

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

Five women, representing the South Shore Chapter of Massachusetts Citizens for Life , distributed anti-abortion pamphlets tc students Monday afternoon as they left the high school.

Without incident for about an hour on Monday as students were exiting the school, members of the pro-life group handed out what they called educational booklets explaining the development of a fetus. The women were from Cohasset, Scituate and Norwell, according to Marie McEachern of Scituate, a member of the South Shore chapter of the statewide group.

Supt. Hart said he received many telephone calls from residents concerned that the group was allowed to distribute the literature on school grounds. But it is the policy of the local school department based on legal counsel, he said, to allow the distribution of literature by any group as long as they do not interfere with the normal operation of the school.

This group, he said, which notified him by form letter Monday morning that they would be at the school that afternoon, is entitled to distribute the literature as long as the information was not forced upon the students.

"Today I received a letter from the Massachusetts Citizens for Life saying they would be at Cohasset High School on or about May 8," he told the school committee Monday night. "We were one of the communities where they chose to distribute the

Tri-town rabies clinic

In recognition of "Be Kind To Animals Week", May 7 to May 13, the Hingham Animal League is sponsoring a tri-town rabies clinic for Cohasset, Hingham and Hull on Saturday, May 13, from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. at the Hull Police Station, 1 School St., Hull.

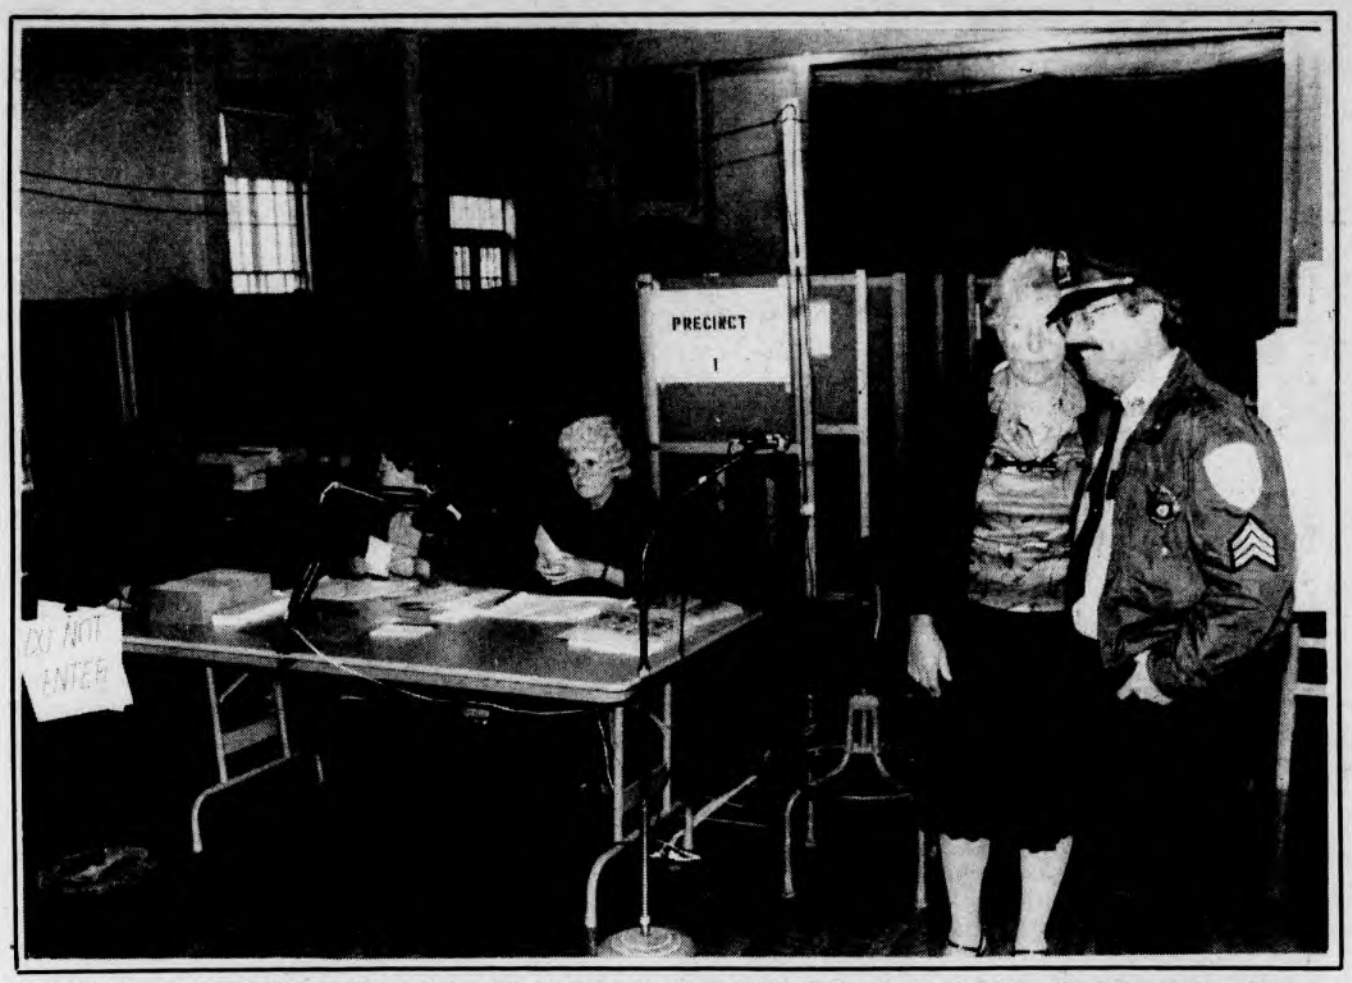
According to Hingham Animal Control Officer Paul Murphy, dogs must be vaccinated and licensed annually. Cats should also be vaccinated, because they are more likely to come into contact with rabid animals.

If you're not sure if your pet has already been vaccinated, Murphy said it won't hurt to get it done again, just to be safe.

The charge for the shot is $8 per animal. If you have any questions, call the Hingham Animal League at 749-0968.

Drug program on cable

Continental Cablevision is opening up HBO's new documentary, "How To Raise A Drug-Free Child," to all its subscribers, free of charge, on Monday, May 15.



The program, hosted by Mary Tyler Moore, will be shown at 10 p.m. in Cohasset, Hanover, Hingham, Norwell and Scituate on cable Channel 31 — the HBO channel — but the signal will be "unscrambled" so all subscribers can watch the pay-channel special.

"Continental Cablevision decided to make this HBO documentary available to as wide an audience as possible because we are committed to the community's efforts to end the scourge of drug abuse among children," said John Walber, Continental's South Shore general manager.

"How To Raise A Drug-Free Child" provides vital information on how serious the drug problem has grown and the reasons why many kids try drugs," Walber said. "How much a family knows about drugs can determine whether they will win or lose the battle. This program outlines seven steps that will help parents meet the challenge of raising a drug-free child in today's society.

"How To Raise A Drug-Free Child" isn't trying to scare anyone, and it isn't aimed at families where drugs have already worked their devastation," Campbell said. "It is especially for parents who think it won't happen to their children, but are concerned nonetheless."

Local school systems are helping Continental get the word out about the HBO documentary, and Continental Cablevision is making copies of the program available to school and community groups, along with monitors and VCRs, free of charge, after its premiere.

Ambulance commended

The Cohasset ambulance crew has been commended for their work involving an elderly resident.

Ellen J. Marlette, of Dreystadt & Marlette, Brockton, wrote to Fire Chief Daniel Brock to commend the crew who responded "to a serious medical emergency at my home on April 25, 1989 involving my elderly mother."

"Under the able direction of Captain Robert Silvia, your EMTs responded with competence, caring...and speed.

"Further, my mother informs me that she appreciated the reassurance and kindness of the firemen who accompanied her on the ride to South Shore Hospital.

"My mother was transferred in critical condition to the intensive care unit at University Hospital.

"She has survived - due in part I am sure to the excellence of your response team.

"Many thanks, especially to Capt. Silvia."

Ceremony clarified

The tree planting ceremony held last week at Constitution Park in honor of the late Arnold Weeks was sponsored by the Community Garden Club of Cohasset. Representatives of the club wanted the name specified in the article which was published in last week's Mariner.

. . . Cohasset's week

Doubts about realignment

Athletic Director Clark Chatterton expressed serious doubts about a possible league realignment that would send Cohasset into a small school league.

It is currently proposed that Cohasset be included in a new Cranberry League which will include several small high schools. What Chatterton objects to is the inflexibility of the proposed schedule within that league, and the fact that Cohasset will play twice a season against a big school and the results will count in the league standings.

Chatterton said he fought to reserve the right for Cohasset not to play on school vacations without penalty. But under this new league, there is no flexibility to allow that. And Cohasset, where many students go away during vacation, would be forced to play league games that would be rated in the final standings.

Only three schools in the proposed Cranberry League have wrestling and gymnastics. The only option would be for Cohasset to play the middle league in those sports, he told the school committee Monday.

The issue will be discussed again next week when principals from the South Shore League schools meet. A final vote on the matter will be held in June.

Chatterton told the committee that a few other small schools are unhappy with the proposed realignment. He suggested that a petition could be started in opposition to the realignment.

Committee member Russell Reidy suggested that Chatterton begin to think of ways in which Cohasset could regionalize its sports teams with other neighboring schools. Chatterton said such a procedure will require a league rule change. In the meantime, the school committee will share that idea with other members of local school committees when they meet at an upcoming convention.

Schools in good shape

Supt. Stephen Hart received a copy of an asbestos survey conducted on the school buildings in accordance with federal law. According to the report, Cohasset schools are in "very good shape" and there is a minimal amount of asbestos presence in the schools.

But he warned that if the schools were required to remove all amounts of asbestos throughout the three schools, it would cost about $4.6 million. The state requires the schools to remove only those areas used by persons where there is a dangerously high concentration or there is considerable deterioration of the toxic material. "The actual cost of what we have to do is very small. What we have to do is minimal," Supt. Hart explained.

The results of the survey is that Cohasset "is in good condition, well maintained and the recommendations are minimal in nature," he added.

There are two areas where Cohasset will be required to complete some work, Hart said, adding that the cost to complete the work "will not cause a problem for us."

Kornet honored

At its meeting Monday night, school committee members presented former chairman Diana Kornet with a plaque honoring her nine years of service on the board.

Kornet thanked the board members, and noted that the school committee remained "in good hands" under the chairmanship of Barbara Bliss.

Selectmen action

Selectmen took the following action at their meeting Monday night, May 8, at Town Hall:

*Agreed to appoint a subcommittee to investigate a long standing complaint by Ellen Woolf about illegal parking at the town pool.

Woolf said she has been bringing the same complaint to the board's attention for 11 years.

"Thank you for hearing me one last time," said Woolf.

"I won't be back."

*Granted permission for Mary Hagerty to install a guard rail at her own expense in front of her property on Atlantic Ave.

Mrs. Hagerty said she has replaced fences at the location on several occasions after they were struck by cars.

"This is probably the best deal we are going to get this evening," said board chairman Burt Pratt.

"I feel sorry our financial state is such that we can't offer to do it for her," said selectman Diana Kornet.

*Granted a request from the Cohasset Yacht Club for five, one-day liquor licenses May 26, July 1, July 23, August 12, and Sept. 1.

*Granted a request from the Cohasset Community Center for a one-day liquor license June 16.

Pratt was opposed.

*Granted a request from the Cohasset Dramatic Club for three, one-day liquor licenses May 18, 19 and 20, during its spring production.

*Appointed Chia Ming Sze as architect for a feasibility study of the Curtis Estate.

*Granted a license to Airport Shuttle Service which will charge $31 for a round trip to Logan Airport.

*Granted permission for the historical society to use the dock at Government Island August 6, noon to 5 p.m., for a trip to Minot's Light.

*Granted permission to the Social Service League for one-way traffic during the annual health fair Thursday.

*Accepted a state grant of $8,000 for composting.

*Noted that power will be out at Town Hall, as well as on Highland Ave. and Beach St., Thursday, May 11, 8 to 9:30 a.m.

TAMING A CRIPPLER
Spondylitis is an arthritic condition that attacks the joints of the spine. Affected joints fuse and distort to the point where movement becomes painful and limited. Immobility and rigidity eventually lead to a characteristic curvature of the spine. It can be quite severe. While this arthritis cannot be cured, early diagnosis can lead to a program of spinal manipulation and exercise. Under such a regimen, normal posture may be minimized. Spondylitis is a chronic and progressive condition that usually affects people before the age of thirty. Research shows that an inherited gene predisposes a person to spondylitis.

Thompson has been anything but average . . .

years of it. at Cohasset High School, trying to convey that wonder to students.

"But at that age, I couldn't have cared less," said Thompson, a quiet but enthusiastic man with a subtle sense of humor often directed at himself.

"I wasn't a good student in high school," he remembered .

"But I enjoyed it, and I got through it."

A native of Holyoke, Thompson didn't set out to be a teacher.

"I originally wanted to be a pilot, he said,"but I wore glasses so that was out.

"I was also interested in meteorology, but I wasn't strong in math."

During his high school years , he worked at a hospital as an orderly and an ambulance driver.

"I had a lot of fun," he said.

It was while working at the hospital that he began dating his wife, Jean.

"We had been in the same elementary school, but we didn't pay any attention to each other," he said.

"We got to know each other at the hospital."

They were married in 1950.

Thompson received a bachelor's degree in biology from the American International College in Springfield.

"I thought I would be a doctor," said Thompson, "but I didn't have the grades.

"I don't regret that now when I hear about malpractice suits."

He served in the Air Force during the Korean War, then began studying at Boston University to be a teacher .

"I thought it would be something I would enjoy," he said.

The director of placement at Boston University suggested he apply for a job in Cohasset, a town about which he knew nothing..

"Cohasset was a delightful surprise," said Thompson, who moved here with his wife in 1955.

"We love it here,"he said.

He remembers his first days as a teacher.

"They postponed the opening of school for two weeks because of a polio epidemic," he said.

"So I got my first pay check before I taught.

"I thought to myself, 'this isn't too bad at all. '"

But when he actually started teaching, he was terrified, he said.

"I didn't really know what to expect," said Thompson.

"I think everyone is like that on their first job.

"I was surprised with the amount of work I had to take home at night.

"I thought it would be short days.

"But I came to realize you have to carefully prepare for classes or it would be a disaster."

Thompson remembers one incident the first year he was teaching, when his survival was uncertain.

"I was doing a unit on the nervous system," he said.

"And students were memorizing things under different conditions.

"As a distraction, I banged on a waste basket at the back of the room.

"They had said to create a distraction, and that just came to mind.

"Then I looked up at the door, and there was the principal watching me.

"Luckily, he understood and thought it was very funny."

Another time, Thompson was called on to teach penmanship to his homeroom class.

"The students regressed so badly that they dropped the program," said Thompson.

"My writing is a school joke.

"I can't always read it, but my wife always can."

Over the years, Thompson has taught such courses as chemistry, physical science, earth science, astronomy, ecology and aviation.

literature today."

The local police department said they received no inquiries about the solicitation, and said they would only respond if requested to by the school department.

McEachern, a member of the South Shore chapter of the pro-life movement, said the group has distributed the "Life Before Birth" pamphlet on several previous occasions in Cohasset.

"We do this a couple of times a year - for the past three years," she answered when asked if the distribution was in response to the Supreme Court's on-going deliberation of the controversial ruling to allow legalized abortion.

"Our purpose is to educate," McEachern said, emphasizing that the booklet contains only educational information about the development of a fetus. "We want to educate the children on life before birth, the fetal development. It is simply educational material."

The booklet, which contains photography of the fetus by Dr. Ranier Jones, explains the sequential development n the womb. It also contains a lengthy explanation of the options available to women with unwanted pregancies, stressing that in their "ignorance" many women choose to abort the fetus.

The booklet states, "Some doctors say that abortion is a routine operation to remove 'fetal tissue.' But in truth, it is the destruction of a living human being."

It outlines the medical and psychological effects of abortion, and emphasizes the "life-giving alternative" of continuing the pregnancy. "God wants to bring life- not death- out of your difficult situation," it states. A telephone number is included in the booklet for assistance by Citizens for Life.

"Every school we've been to, the students have been very receptive," McEachern stated. "There is a need to know. The kids are interested."

The pro-life member said the group does not need permission to distribute the information, but notifies the school as a courtesy.

'The best teacher at CHS' decides to retire

"Biology is my favorite," he said.

"But I have enjoyed all the courses I have taught."

For a number of years, Cohasset High School was a home away from home for Thompson and his family.

His wife was school nurse from 1965 to 1974.

And their two sons, Robert Jr. and Douglas, were both students in Thompson's classes at different times.

"They (his sons) didn't call me anything in class," remembered Thompson.

"They couldn't bring themselves to call me Mr. Thompson or Daddy."

During dinner at home, there would be discussions about what went on in class, what questions had been on tests.

"One of them would say, 'Dad, you shouldn't tell that joke.'

"And I had thought I was funny," said Thompson.

He has seen many changes during his years at Cohasset High School.

"The structure has gone from being very strict, to permissive in the 60s, and it's returning to stricter," he said.

"I prefer it stricter," said Thompson.

"And I think the students prefer it.

"It's more conducive to learning."

He said he is sometimes bothered by criticism of teachers in the media.

"Some days, it's tough to be a teacher," he said.

"Other days, it's the best job in the world."

One of the major influences in Thompson's career was the man who hired him, former Cohasset School Supt. William Ripley.

"I feel very fortunate to have worked with this gentleman" said Thompson.

"He was a gentleman in every respect, and a consummate professional.

"He certainly had a big influence on me and everyone else."

One of the aspects of teaching which Thompson has enjoyed most is his relationship with students.

"I enjoy them," he said,"and their responsiveness if we have a discussion in class.

"Sometimes, I'm quite surprised at the insights they have."

Thompson said he never thought of himself as a buddy to his students, but as a friend.

"I'm old fashioned," he explained.

"I believe there has to be that line between student and teacher.

"I like to think of students as friends, not buddies."

"The vast majority of students I have had in my classes I've enjoyed very much.

"We're extemely fortunate in Cohasset. We have nice kids and nice people."

Last month, students in the school's National Honor Society made Thompson an honorary member.

"It means a great deal to me because the kids themselves wanted to do it," he said.

"I received a National Honor Society pin like the other inductees."

Bob Thompson

In addition to the subjects he has taught, Thompson has stressed honesty and integrity in his classes.

"I try to get across that nothing is worthwhile if there isn't integrity and a sense of being honest," he said.

The years have gone by quickly for Thompson, he said.

Yet he has felt their passing when the children of his students have arrived in his classroom.

Then a few years ago, Thompson and his wife were shopping for diapers for their grandchildren.

So was one of his former students.

"That's it," he thought,"it's time to stop."

The decision to retire wasn't a difficult one for Thompson.

"It won't be hard," he said.

"I'm ready.

"I don't say that with a sense of bitterness.

"But there are just things like getting up with the alarm clock at 5:15 a.m. every morning.

"It will be nice not having to do that.

"It will feel funny in September, but somehow I think I will survive.

"I'm getting older, but the kids are staying the same age."

One of the things he'll miss the most is friendships with member of the faculty, according to Thompson.

"They are really capable professionals and good friends," he said.

"I will really miss the people I teach with."

But he has lined up projects around the house, and he and his wife, who is retiring as a nurse for Dr. Robert Sceery, plan to do some travelling.

Thompson also enjoys reading historical books, and hiking as well.

"I'm ready to retire," said Thompson.

"I'm ready to do something else.

"It feels good to be going into a new stage.

"Both my wife and I are looking forward to it."

Committee reluctant to go ahead with cuts

Other members, including Christopher Ford and Russell Reidy, agreed.

"I'm troubled by question one," Ford said, referring to the fact that the general budget override was defeated by a narrow 141-vote margin. "But there is nothing within this budget to cut. There are no new initiatives."

There was extensive debate Monday night by the committee on whether they should search for a nine percent cut which would mean the loss of between nine and 11 staff members, including teachers, or whether they should stick with the originally proposed amount.

Although they worried that their refusal to reduce the budget may be perceived as "arrogant," other members felt they had been overwhelmingly supported by town meeting's vote. They worried that cutting further into the budget would compromise the integrity of the education they were elected to oversee.

"We were elected as the caretakers of their education," member Nancy Sandell noted. "And we have to remember that town meeting did not give us a negative vote. I'd like to take this budget back to town meeting and hear what the people say, then proceed with cuts."

PSO member Susan McNamara, one of about thirty parents and teachers at Monday's meeting, recalled the proposed $5 million budget has the unanimous support of the PSO, the advisory committee and the parents of Cohasset.

But advisory committee member William Lean, liaison to the school committee, warned it was a "dangerous precedent not to demonstrate some response" to the override defeat. He called the proposed $40,000 transportation cut, " a Mayor White approach" to reducing the budget, meaning the reduction was insignificant to the total amount which eventually must be struck from the budget.

School committee member Russell Reidy disagreed, saying if the committee starts listing areas where they could cut, it could be perceived as "scare tactics."

"We are all committed to preserving the integrity of the educational system. Beyond that it becomes hate and threats."

Supt. Stephen Hart reminded the committee that no matter what cuts they decide to make, there will be nine to 11 staff members cut from the budget in order to accommodate a $400,000 budget reduction.

"I feel bad there's not an academic boosters club out there to raise money for teachers," he said.

Committee chairman Barbara Bliss expressed concern that the town would perceive the committee as arrogant if they refused to reduce the budget further. "I'd like to get a feel for whether we should go back to the town and ask again - which do they want - the full amount, part, or a-half of the budget. That dialogue has to get going."

Supt. Hart warned that a $400,000 reduction will mean less teachers and less supplies for those teachers who remain.

PSO member Linda Henderson suggested that the committee publicly present specific budget cuts. "It's not scare tactics. Just say these are the things we have to do," she said, adding that specific reductions, including naming teachers who may lose their jobs in the fall, will make parents realize how their children will be affected by the budget reduction.

Now that voters have defeated the general budget override, town meeting will be reconvened May 31 to reduce department budgets by $844,000. If voters refuse to reduce those budgets, they will face a second special override election.

Clark Chatterton, athletic director, said the people he has talked with are "shocked" by the results of Saturday's election. He predicted that if a second special election was held, the general budget override would be successful. He pointed out that in an election where 2,286 residents voted, the general budget override failed by only 141 votes.

At the school committee's meeting Monday night, Supt. Hart proposed to take $40,000 from the school transportation budget next year. He noted that an override to purchase two school buses was also unsuccessful last Saturday. And because of a state law that mandates schools not to use buses made more than ten years ago, the fleet will be reduced to four buses and one mini van equipped to handle handicapped and special needs students.

Eliminating those buses and two drivers will save the town $50,000, he explained. There will also be an additional $30,000 in savings in repairs and maintenance for the reduced fleet.

But, Supt. Hart noted, in order to accommodate 217 annual bus trips for extracurricula athletics, $30,000 will have to be added on for contracted bus service.

With a reduced number of buses, the numbers of bus routes will also have to be decreased, he said. This will require depot stops, where children will walk to designated bus stops. There will be no more door-to-door service, Supt. Hart explained, although the school department must take into consideration dangerous traffic areas and streets without sidewalks.

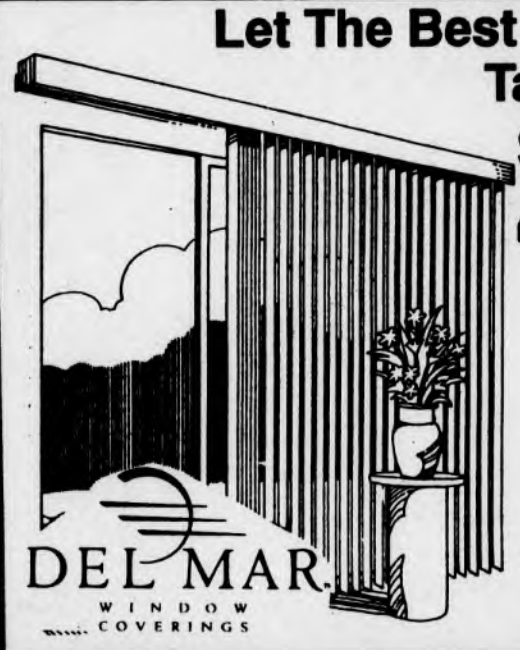
There is a state law that allows parents to petition the local school system to provide transportation for their youngster only if they live more than two miles from the school or more than one mile from the nearest bus stop. "This will present a number of problems," Supt. Hart said, referring to the reduced transportation system.

"This scenario is dangerous," committee member Nancy Sandell stated. "There are many streets without sidewalks, and there are many busy streets. There would be very serious consequences if children are required to walk along those busy streets."

But the committee members agreed that the vote not to purchase the two school buses was overwhelmingly defeated. Unlike the close vote on question one, the debt exclusion override on question seven was clearly unsuccessful.

Supt. Hart reminded the committee that there is no remaining money to be cut without reducing nine to 11 professional staff members, including teachers.

"Are there other ways?" he asked. "There is no way to cut $400,000 without a significant impact on our staff. At least two aides will be cut, also some support staff. But the fact is, the cut of teachers will have a deep and dramatic effect on the overall educational system of Cohasset."



The superintendent expressed concern that some teachers do not know the status of their employment and will not know until the override issue is completed.

Committee member Ford said he questioned whether people who voted against the general budget override actually voted specifically against the school budget. "Is this the kind of school system they want in their community?" he asked.

□ Emily Reardon of Cohasset, a sophomore at Thayer Academy, will play Dorothy in the school's production of "The Wiz," to be held at the school's Frothingham Hall on May 12 and 13 at 8 p.m.

□ One of the activities at Cohasset High School that deserves special recognition is the Annual Red Cross Bloodmobile which is conducted at the school by the students.

The program has been supervised by the School Nurse since 1976, and the response has always been excellent with more than 50 percent of eligible students participating. This year 42 donors (37 students and five teachers) presented themselves and 37 pints of blood were collected. This program was conducted by the direction of High School Nurse Carol Cicciotte, and was again supervised by Corinne Chaill, R.N. Community Blood Chairman Al Odermatt again commends the donors and the student volunteers who performed the various duties required for their response to a very needy cause.

□ Hats off to the people of our town, who certainly came through in grand style to support the efforts of the Yard Sale held at the Second Congregational Church to support the trip to Kentucky. . . . Thanks to donations of items, and the purchasing of items that were donated, they were able to raise over $2,000! Needless to say, everyone involved is thrilled. We will be sure to ask for a full report on the group's efforts in Appalachia upon their return!

□ Happy birthday, Jean!

□ Sharon Baker is one busy lady, but she is always willing to help. Last week she represented the Board of Health at the landfill to explain recycling, along with the members of that committee. Let's all do our share!

□ Laura Gagliano certainly earned her spot in the State when she placed second in the state playwriting contest! It was sponsored by the Boston Globe, and there were 15 entries. We will have to look for her name on Broadway. She will undoubtedly be there with her excellent talents.

□ A reminder that there is a group of wonderful people that is going to be honored (maybe even roasted a little) on June 10 and you must reserve early to be part of the festivities. Bob Thompson, everyone's "favorite" science teacher, Dick Streeter (former Assistant Principal, now he is assistant Superintendent), Phyllis Graham (a standard fixture in the business office), Sheila Travers (in the superintendents office) and Pat Bowen (the master of the attendance office) are all to be honored. Donations for the event are $25; it will be held at the Pembroke Knights of Columbus. Call Clark Chatterton at 383-0560 or call the school, 383-6100 so that you can get your seat early . . . they are limited!

□ We would like to recognize the following students for their participation in the DAR essay contest, which is sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution each year. Tim Brister won a National Certificate of Award for his essay on Thomas Jefferson, Allison Killilea won a bronze medal for her essay on George Washington and Peter Ferenz won a silver medal for his essay on Samual Adams. Hats off to you all for your efforts.

□ Have you seen a lacrosse game yet? Be sure to go, it is the first year that it has been a sport at CHS and everyone is talking about how well the team is doing. It is a lot of fun to watch!

□ We sure want to wish Chris Laugelle all the best on his impending marriage! A gentleman everyone loves, he and his bride-to-be Pat are a wonderful couple. May they have years of health and happiness.

□ Be sure to take a peek at the Japanese Pagoda Tree that the Amateur Garden Club donated in memory of Arnold Weeks. It is beautiful, healthy and strong and is a fitting tribute to one of our town fathers. Enjoy it!

□ This Saturday (May 13) the Community Center is holding a teen dance, open to grades 7-12. It will take place from 7:30 to 10:30, run by deejay Mike Sharp at the helm. It will cost $4.00, and sounds like a wonderful way to celebrate spring.

□ Happy Birthday to Alice McCarthy, we love you Alice!!

□ Tom Hamilton, Gallery 360 Cohasset principal, has announced that for the second year in a rown Shirley Toland has been named office Broker of the Year for 1988. A multi-million dollar broker with many years of experience, she has been awarded membership in the National Gallery of Homes Knights of the Roundtable and the Gallery 360 Compass Club which annually awards membership to its highest achievers.

Mrs. Toland and her husband, Peter, reside in Scituate where she divides her spare time between gourmet cooking and tending a large perennial garden in season.

Other Cohasset sales associates honored for their outstanding sales records in 1988 include: Ruth Keefe, Claire Shields, Jane Crocker, John Gallagher and Karen Kirkendall.

□ Achievement awards were presented to associates of the Jack Conway Company's Cohasset office for the months of January and February.

During January, Gloria Ellis negotiated the most sales and listed the most property through the Cohasset office. Nellie Willshire was tops in sales in February and Don Oppenheim was the leader in listings.

The names of achievement award winners are displayed on a plaque in their office.

Best wishes go to Christy Chamberlain and Bob Driscoll as they begin life as man and wife this week. Seems to me that "Little Christy" was just toddling around the yard. . .she certainly will be a beautiful bride, she is a grand gal, and here's to health and happiness for you both.

The CHS Class of '79 is planning their reunion, and they are looking for the following members that they cannot locate: Bruce Duncan, Chun Chan, Andrea Davis, Debbie Davis, Steve Espinosa, Arthur Glasfeld, John Golino, Steve Jancsis, Linda Labreque, Carla Latson, Pam Russell, Chris Sawicki, Laurie Silva, Dinah Souther, Cheryl Wilmoth, Stephen Ramsey and Anita Ross. If you can lend them a hand, please call Darilynn Evans at 383-0644.

□ Finally, there is a great idea for all football players, seventh grade and up. The Gridiron Club is sponsoring the Boston College Football Camp, plus transportation, for all interested players. It is a non-contact camp, helmets are all that will be needed (see Clark Chatterton, athletic director, who will supply you with one). Call 383-6530 or see Mr. Chatterton in his office. It is a wonderful opportunity, and it's free!

□ That's the news for this week. Please call me with all of your news.

School cuts

"We don't feel this is what the community want. I really feel the majority of people in this town wants this override."

Other members agreed, saying it was important for those people who support town government and the school system to attend the May 31 town meeting.

The meeting adjourned with many in attendance wondering how the message should be communicated to the voters to support the full school budget at the May 31 town meeting.

Show consequences

The democratic process has taken place, and the voice of the voters has been heard loud and clear.

More than 2,000 residents, about 46 percent of the registered voters in Cohasset, said they don't want higher taxes to pay for town services, a new athletic field, a cemetery or a police and fire station.

Unfortunately, the results of that democratic process were not expected nor desired by many residents. Although it is important to note, however, that the general override, question one on Saturday's ballot, failed by only 141 votes.

Some people seem to think if supporters of the override tried a little harder, informed more people, perhaps it would not have failed.

Were some voters uninformed or ill-informed? Are there people out there who somehow slept through weeks of publicity, telephone calls by the PSO and cable television debates? Would someone actually take the time out from a beautiful, warm Saturday to cast his ballot in an election he or she did not understand? The majority of people who participate in elections are aware and interested, regardless of their point of view.

It's a possibility that some residents may not have realized that by defeating question one, there will be fewer teachers in our classrooms next year. It's a possibility, but we're not sure that would account for 141 votes.

Frankly, we're not sure what the reasons were for this overwhelming defeat of the overrides, except that the majority of people in Cohasset don't want higher taxes. They weren't vocal in their opposition, nor were they part of any organized group. They are simply residents who believe they can't afford the increase in taxes it will take to maintain the current level of town services.

Perhaps they are unpersuadable in their opposition. Perhaps they would rather face the consequences of smaller budgets than the prospect of higher tax bills. That is their belief, and perhaps no amount of public relations, argument, debate or discussion will sway them from their opinion.

Town officials should not worry so much about how to educate the public about the need for an override, as much as the need to show them the specific consequences of the vote. Town officials should spell out for the public in the next few weeks exactly what will happen May 31 if voters decide to cut the budgets they previously approved at town meeting.

And they should make an all-out effort to get more voters to town meeting. People should realize that on May 31 they will have the opportunity to look into these budgets once again. They can decide to reduce them, according to the vote at Saturday's override, or they can actually keep the status quo and call for another special override election.

If people are uncomfortable with the prospect of cutting into a lean school budget, they should make sure that informed residents are there May 31 to keep it intact. And those same voters must return if a special election is again called for another override vote.

We doubt there was anything more anyone could have done to make this override election more successful. The voters have spoken, and although we're not thrilled about the result either, their response was clear. They don't want to pay more for town services.

There's no denying it - it will hurt the children in the classrooms, as well as the homeowner who can expect to see a little less for his tax dollars.

But it was the decision of this town. And unless things go differently at the May 31 town meeting, we'll have to learn to live with it.

Voters looking for good management

Letters

To the Editor:

Those who voted against the override in Cohasset's Saturday election may have reacted in the voting booth out of a sense of betrayal by town officials and administrators who have continued with the 'status quo' approach to management when all the warning signs of pending fiscal revolution and changing demographics have been flashing their lights for years. Voters who triumphed should not judge their opponents harshly, however. When a decade slips by without creative and decisive leadership, the sense that the only way to continue on is with more money every year for the 'status quo' is an understandable state of mind.

I do not think Cohasset voters are unwilling to pay for town services, and I think they want good education for their children. What they may be looking for is good management: leadership with the courage to make some fundamental changes in the way services are provided and in the way problems are approached and solved. We can no longer afford to accept a response of "we can't do that, or try that, or change that." If ever we needed to be brave and try new techniques for solving old problems, we desperately need to now.

The voters have spoken and now they need to communicate. Those who feel the only way to move forward into the next decade is by continuing on as we have in the '80s should ask themselves if there isn't a different, and perhaps better, way to run the town. Those who said we're drawing the line this year need to reassure their fellow townspeople that they do care about quality services and are willing to help find solutions. The inevitable emotionalism needs to be quelled by voters on both sides.

The most troubling aspect of the recent election will be if the town does not seize this situation as an opportunity to move forward, however painfully at first, toward a more efficient, effective, and innovative model community in the future.

Vote needed at town meeting

To the Editor:

This letter is directed at those people who voted against the over-ride last Saturday.

Presumably, you voted against an increase in your taxes. But do you realize that because of your vote we must now have a special town meeting which costs money—YOUR money— and it will be followed by another over-ride balloting which again costs money—YOUR money.

If you want to restrict town spending, the place to cast your vote is at town meeting. There you will hear arguments, pro and con, and you will be able to vote in an informed manner—and effectively. Town meeting is the place where decisions must be made, not in the voting booth.

Town meeting is the governing body of this town. As taxpayers, we should all attend, and thus be able to make informed decisions as to how our money is to be spent. Only about three to four hundred people showed up at the meetings this spring, but 2285 cast ballots last Saturday! If those 2285 citizens really care how their money is spent, they will all show up at the meeting on May 31.

Sandy Beach Assn. needs support

To The editor:

In a few days, the Sandy Beach Association will be mailing letters to each of the 2,800 homes in Cohasset asking for their financial support of the Beach in 1989. When townspeople buy parking and dump stickers each year, none of this money goes to the Sandy Beach Association which relies almost entirely on private support.

Last year about 20 percent of Cohasset households provided such support which was also about 32 percent of those who obtained car stickers. For 1989, the Association hopes to increase these percentages significantly as well as the dollar amounts of donations.

The cost of operating the Beach is substantial — about $3,500 last year. This included five guards who cover each day of the twelve-weeks season — ten hours per day! There are also three beach cleaning workers. Last year, the Association received many favorable comments about the way the Beach and the Town parking area were maintined and managed.

Beach cleaning to repair winter storm damage is another big expense — between $6,000 to $8,000 each year, while insurance, payroll taxes, utilities and supplies are other key items. Over the past two years, considerable effort and expense have been incurred to repair and upgrade the Beach House which is feeling the effects of age and weather. This year some wonderful high school seniors are creating a mural on one wall of the House which had been defaced.

The Association hopes that each Cohasset family which uses and values our beautiful beach will make tax-deductible contributions this Spring to support this invaluable resource. With enough financial support, we can continue to have a clean, safe and pleasant Beach where we and our families can have another enjoyable summer in Cohasset.

The Trustees of Sandy Beach

Club meeting May 23

The annual meeting of the Community Garden Club of Cohasset will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday, May 23 under a tent at Polly Logan's.

The festive garden party will be in celebration of the club's 30th Anniversary.

Fran O'Toole will present a trip down memory lane recalling the club's 30-year history.

Members and past members are invited and are asked to wear a decorated hat and bring a basket for their catered picnic lunch.

For more information and tickets call Fran O'Toole, 383-6188.

Local woman listens to the beat of the South Shore

By David Johnson
Mariner staff

Musically, the South Shore is pretty mainstream, with top 40 hits from the 1950's to the present being the most popular, according Valerie Greene, who lives on Hunter's Pond on the Scituate-Cohasset line. And Greene should know - she has been providing bands for weddings, clubs and parties from Boston to Provincetown for two years.

In Southeastern Massachusetts it is soft rock, the so-called "classic hits" that people aged 20 to 40 have grown up with that sells best.

Some types of music, such as Irish, Big Band or classical are occasionally played at weddings and corporate parties, Greene says, while folk is found almost exclusively in coffee houses. "Country is getting bigger, primarily in the Kingston/Halifax area." There is no market for hard rock on the South Shore, she said.

Greene runs her Entertainment Connection out of her Country Way home, providing entertainment for the Barker Tavern, Kimball's, Pier 44, the Bell Buoy, the Scituate and Marshfield Country Clubs, the Joshua James restaurant in Hull and Quackenbush in Kingston to name a few.

Greene stresses that she does not exclusively provide bands for these clubs, nor is she the exclusive agent for any group. "They all work with other agents," she explains. Bands give her (or another agent) a percentage of the fee for a booking she makes.

Variety is the key to successful entertainment in restaurants and clubs. Having different singers and groups keeps the entertainment fresh.

Valerie Green

But most of the South Shore music business is in booking bands for weddings. "A successful wedding band should be able to please all ages and that's very important," Greene says.

She said people planning a wedding often come to an agent like herself to eliminate the leg work of having to listen to many groups themselves. "Looking for a band can be a very time consuming process," she says.

Clients coming to Greene get a list of all available entertainment and can watch videotapes of the groups she works with.

After the client sees a band they like on tape, they should see a live performance. "Every wedding I've booked, the clients have seen the band live. You're buying a live performance, not a video performance. If there is no time, the video's better than nothing," Greene says.

She explains that music is such a personal preference that the personality and style of the the group can be very important to the success of the wedding. Also, studio tapings can include special effects not available during a live show.

Another advantage in booking through an agent is that the wedding is guarranteed to have entertainment, even if the band breaks up or cancels at the last minute. "I guarantee protection. We can always find someone that can do a good job."

Greene advises musicians thinking of forming bands to consider how well they work together, because a band must stay together to get a good reputation.

"I've seen bands that are top notch. They make

Why not leave education to the schools

Commentary

The latest ploy in the emotional abortion debate -- leafletting at school -- has reached the suburbs.

Discouraged by arrests, discredited by violence and bombings at clinics, and disrupted by use of the federal racketeering laws to flout their efforts, the anti-abortion forces have turned their attention to the young.

There are those who would argue that teenagers, especially of high school age, have reached the stage at which they should (some would say 'must') consider the 'pro-life'/'pro-choice' debate, and how it will affect their own lives and choices. The argument, we guess, is that teenagers, for all the urgings otherwise from parents, church and school, are curious about sexuality and many will 'experiment' with it whether adults like it or not. Some, as has been the case since the beginning of time, will get pregnant.

Others would argue that if teenage pregnancy, not teenage sex, is the issue, emphasis should be on preventing the pregnancy through so-called "safe" sex methods, not on discussing what to do after the fact.

But we think the issue here is whether adherents of any particular social, political, or religious philosophy should attempt to mold young minds to their ways of thinking. The issue is whether outside adult advocates on either side of a public policy debate should carry their debate into the schools.

We say no.

It's all well and good to say young people should be aware of current events and public debate. With all the coverage in the news media, we find it hard to believe that any adolescent is unaware of the debate, or the fact that the Roe v. Wade abortion-rights case is before the Supreme Court for review even now.

We also think the leafletting ploy is just that -- a ploy to gain adherents -- to impose a point of view on malleable young minds, whether their parents approve or not. This isn't respect for life. It's disrespect -- and disregard -- of parental teachings.

Those who argue that teenagers ought to know this or that, or take one position or another are over-reaching their own rights. They have no business deciding what young people should or should not learn, or what position they should take on anything. An adolescent's first choice in matters of social, moral, political and religious matters should be to hear what his parents have to say, not what some zealot thinks.

Granted, leafletting as students exit school does not make them a captive audience. But kids are taught to respect adults, at least in a school environment, and to listen to them. They've seen their teachers walk the narrow line between teaching and advocacy; they know that the mere existence of "safe sex" techniques doesn't mean they have to try them out; and they know that the scourge of AIDS is everywhere, even in our quiet little corner of the world.

But school is a place where the young learn how to think, how to distinguish one load of malarkey from another, how to evaluate what they read and hear. Despite what many (maybe most) kids think, parroting back facts on exams is not what will stick with them through life. What they don't realize with all that homework and all those book reports and all those mathematical formulas is that they are learning how to think and evaluate.

It's a painful, challenging process, mixed with the uncertainties and klutziness of youth, the social pressure, the peer pressure, the parental expectations, the desire to succeed. It's hard enough without dragging in social reformers and one-issue advocates to vent their one-sided spleen.

If pro-life advocates can pass out fliers at school, why can't the pro-choice people? Why not have the pro- and anti- prayer groups? Why not have political parties stage recruitment drives in study hall? Why not bring in the Socialists, the Laborites, the American Nazi Party and the Ku Kluxers just to provide balance?

Why? Because school should be sacrosanct from the teeming rage of the streets and the endless philosophical battles of public debate. It's all well and good for the school debating team to match up two sides to weigh issues -- or to bring in experts to discuss the pros and cons of any issue. Those offer learning experiences, within the context of the school environment.

But it's rude and tacky to hawk fliers and attempt to impose one's philosophy -- no matter how strongly felt -- on young people whose first concern may be -- and should be -- the history exam, or baseball practice, or the latest fashion. It certainly is not -- and shouldn't be -- the merits of the abortion debate.

The kids will have their whole lives to consider the pros and cons of these endless public issues. Let them learn, first, how to think and evaluate; let them struggle through adolescence without expecting them also to decide national issues that great minds have been arguing about for decades. Let the kids be kids.

Leave them alone.

Deer Hill news nominated

The sixth grade video news show under the direction of Betty Cisneros and Mary McLean was nominated for a Golden Tape Award in the Best Educational/Instructional Category. The Golden Tape award was presented on April 26 at Hugo's Restaurant and sponsored by Continental Cablevision. We are so proud of our students! Their best efforts were recognized as worthy of a nomination for this prestigous honor. Mrs. Cisneros and I would like to congratulate all the sixth grade students for their outstanding achievement and say what a pleasure it was to work with them.

We are pleased to announce that there will be one more news production scheduled for the month of June.

Kindergarten Art Work

Currently on display at the South Shore Art Center: "A little inspiration and a lot of imagination."

The morning and afternoon kindergarteners in Mrs. Marie Price's class at the Joseph Osgood School took a tour through the S. Shore Art Center last Monday to observe Weymouth Public School's display of their students art work.

The kindergarteners were impressed by the art. When asked if they had a favorite, they each recalled a different art form. With this inspiration still fresh in their minds, Mrs. Price arranged an assortment of art supplies ranging from paint,glue, newspaper, sand paper, cloth and a variety of shapes and told the children to make whatever they wanted.

Their inventions were so creative that the So. Shore Art Center has agreed to display their works the week of May 8.

Support your local artists and take a look at the display!

Helping the schools

The South Shore Conservatory, a community school of the arts with branches in Hingham, Duxbury and Brockton started a pilot program this year to assist area public school music departments.

The program, which is provided free to the schools, was funded by a generous grant from the South Shore Playhouse Associates (governing body of the South Shore Music Circus).

The Conservatory contacted the music departments in eight towns and asked how our faculty could best help their music program and their students. The response was enthusiastic. Because of Proposition 2½ and other cut backs, public school music programs have been seriously curtailed.

This winter and spring SSC faculty members have been giving master classes, clinics, improvisation classes; doing instrumental coaching; providing vocal coaching for students in choral programs; giving performances and demonstrations; and guest conducting. Schools in Hingham, Cohasset, Norwell, Scituate, Hanover, Marshfield, Duxbury and Silverlake Regional (Pembroke/Kingston) have used the resources of the Conservatory.

Working with Coleen Foley in Cohasset, the Conservatory faculty has given brass, woodwind and percussion clinics for 5th and 6th graders. SSC will also act as consultant to the town to help review the K thru 12 music curriculum in Cohasset.

Next year the Conservatory hopes to be able to expand this program to other schools who have requested it. The Conservatory is a non profit community school, which is committed to serving as a cultural resource for the South Shore area.

Project Playground update

The sign-up sheet is filling up for Project Playground's June 10 and 11 "build dates!"

There are still some openings for skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled workers so don't miss out! This is a community play park that young and old will enjoy so you will want to be a part of the comraderie!

We are also looking for five more strong workers for June 3 or 4 to prepare.

Don't forget — we provide morning coffee and snack, lunch and cold drinks. Babysitting is also available free of charge.

When you call don't forget to order your Osgood Playpark T-shirt — or look for the order form on the school menu!

METCO anniversary celebrated

The 1988-89 school year marked the 20th Anniversary of the Cohasset Metco Program. What began with five students now has 45 Boston students from 39 families, with 46 Cohasset students from 45 families. All of this was celebrated on Sunday, April 30, at an indoor-outdoor picnic at the Deer Hill School.

Cold misty weather did not keep nearly fifty families from visiting Sandy Beach briefly, then heading to the school where celebrants participated in a two hour wiffleball game, a number of volley ball games, a "sand, shells and plaster" art project, led by Lucy Marsac and Sue DeMichele, a look at an array of videos including: Jeff Wall's Cohasset video, a video of the picnic itself as well as, for the youngest party goers, good old cartoon favorites. With Tim Marsac, Don DeMichele, Woody Chittick and Bob Beggan at the grills, families were assured of plenty of hot dogs and hamburgers all afternoon. School committee members, our high school principal, our PSO president as well as our Boston Metco Coordinator, Ms. Pat Brown, and our Osgood librarian, Ms. Miller all joined the program families in the celebration.

A high flying banner proclaiming: "Boston-Cohasset Metco 20 Years" waved briefly at the beach and was later hung in the Deer Hill cafeteria. Osgood students in the Metco program made the banner as a group under the direction of artist, Nancy Connolly. It will be on display at the Osgood this spring for all to see. The banner was enhanced by a bouquet of helium balloons, a gift of Party Etc. in Cushing Plaza. Boston families with children in the Cohasset School system were joined by Cohasset Host Families for the festivities. Each Boston student has a Cohasset family who participated in the program. Over time they get to know their cooperating Boston family. The role of the Cohasset family is as varied as the families themselves and the picnic is one of a variety of events at which the families come together.

The celebration wound down with an awards ceremony honoring Mrs. Miller, who is also the Metco bus aide and who has with patience, caring and nurturance, seen students through twelve years of a long commute to Cohasset. Mrs. Miller plans to retire this year and will be missed. She was presented with a wooden schoolbus to acknowledge the thousands of hours she has spent on the Metro bus. Also honored were the four graduating Boston students and their Cohasset hosts: Sonya Butler and Kim Dwyer; Vonnessa Goode and Suzanna Lean; Kendra Taylor and Leslie McGee; and Tesha Wallace and Krista Kuhn.

The seniors were awarded laundry bags (compliments of Dwyers Cleaning Spot) and a packet of detergent to help prepare them for their college lives. Later this week each of the senior students will receive a copy of the College Survival Guide.

Three Cohasset familes: the Tolinis, the Bristers and the Marsacs were awarded special awards for their gracious hospitality for Boston athletes: Edith St. Eloi and Patricia Smith cheerleaders; Gregory Thomas, football; and Kywon Edwards, basketball.

Besides the picnic, the Cohasset Metco Committee has expanded its program this year to provide more student trips. Last fall Committee members coordinated and chaperoned trips for 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8th grade students to the Dream Machine Video Arcade in Hull. Grades 1, 2, and 3 and their families were guests of the Boston families at the Franklin Park Zoo and have been invited to participate in a June overnight party at the Children's Museum in Boston. Also last fall, as guests of the Metco program, Cohasset families enjoyed a wonderful and educational tour of the Black Heritage Trail along with many Boston families. The tour was followed by dinner.

The Metco program brought a number of cultural events into the schools this year including: Len Cabral, a storyteller, at Deer Hill which was co-sponsored by the curriculum enrichment committee; "Blake the Great," a magic show for Osgood students; "NIA means purpose," a poetry reading for 7th and 12th grade English classes; a Black History Month birthday celebration for Blacks in History, celebrated at Deer Hill with cakes made by high school students in the culinary arts program and a production of "Langston Hughes: The Dreamkeeper," presented at the high school. Over spring vacation, Pat Brown, Metco Coordinator, and three other chaperones accompanied 18 Metco students from area towns including Cohasset on a college tour of 10 traditionally Black colleges along the eastern seaboard. Greg Thomas, a junior, participated in the trip and has given it rave reviews. In March, Cohasset was represented at a Metco convergence meeting held in Wellesley, with people from about 10 other Metco programs in the western suburbs. We shared ideas and concerns and learned much. The committee reports that there may still be time for a spring trip to the Hull Life Saving Museum for Osgood students in the program. On May 25, 6th - 11th grade Boston students will take a practice ride on the P&B to learn how one gets home from here on public transportation.

Many people have worked hard over the past 20 years to ensure the success of the Metco Program in Cohasset. This past year, committee members: Lucy Marsac, Ellie Waal, Sue DeMichele, Janne Chittick, Carol Beggan, Nancy Connolly, and Joan Kovach, have lent their time, talents and energy to the program.

Many others lent valuable support and help for the picnic. They include: Judy and Leo Dwyer, DeeDee Nicynski, Dayle Dickinson, Betsy Connolly, Erik Waal, Bob Beggan, George Kovach, Regina Shultz, Rose and Peter Collins, Donna O'Donnell, Don DeMichele, Tim Marsac, Woody Chittick, Anne and Gordan Whiteley, Bill and Mary Beth Lean, Susan and Wilson Pile. Deer Hill students and their families cleaned the beach before the picnic. Junior high students helped with the art project. And senior high students helped set up the banner and the volley ball net. Everyone's help made for a great celebration and a great year.

The program owes a special thanks to Pat Brown, Metco Coordinator for Cohasset. Next year brings promise of many more rich rewards from an enhancing program.

Family stress workshop

Cohasset Community Center will offer a workshop in Family Stress Management on Tuesday, May 9 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The course will be conducted by Dr. Helene Lieb, a licensed psychologist with nine years of clinical experience.

Dr. Lieb's approach is preventative, focusing on coping strategies, relaxation exercises, cognitive restructuring (challenging unrealistic perceptions and expectations), as well as other techniques. Information regarding community support services for families undergoing stress will also be provided. Dr. Lieb maintains that this workshop would benefit any family, whether they are experiencing stress or merely wish to prevent it.

This workshop is being offered in conjunction with Massachusetts Family Week, whch is co-sponsored by the Massachusetts Psychological Association. The cost is $6 per person. The register or for further information, call Cohasset Community Center at 383-0088.

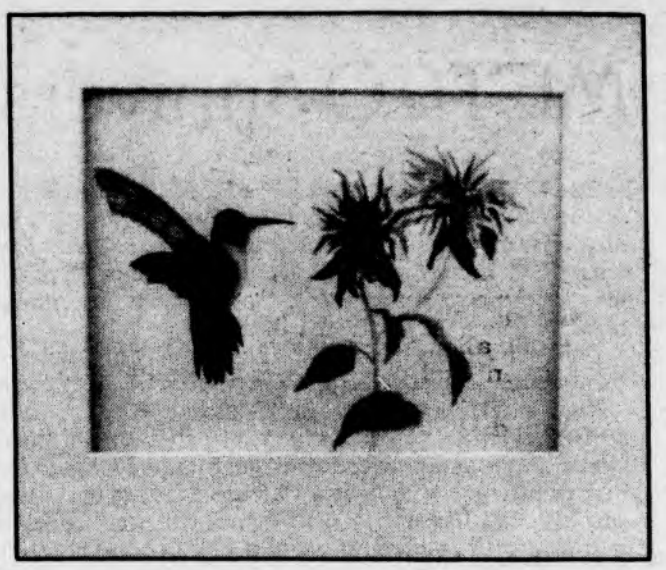
Dollhouse tour May 25

Thursday, May 25, the Cohasset Community Center will hold its third bi-annual Dollhouse Tour from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. A variety of exquisitely detailed miniature houses will be on display for mothers, daughters, grandmothers and grand-daughters to admire.

For example, there is Barbara Conte's 18th century miniature mansion, painstakingly crafted by her father during the last 15 years of his life. In this authentic scale reproduction, no two handcrafted doors (or hinges) are alike. All furniture and kitchen equipment was handmade. The house boasts inlaid floors and a wood-tiled roof. Tiny flower arrangements grace the patios and terraces.

Another must-see is Sarah Pease's 1950's-style colonial, complete with electricity, hardwood floors, four fireplaces, needle-point rugs and many examples of hand-made dollhouse furniture. The house was made thirty years ago by Mrs. Pease's father, a loving gift to his then small daughter. Sarah has since restored the house, adding electricity, new siding, windows, flooring, doors and roof.

Monica McKenney's 3-story Federal Colonial is only 15 years old but reflects the workmanship of three generations: her grandmother's antique dollhouse furnishings including a tiny silver tea service; her own childhood dolls and furnishings, and a tiny portrait of her own children. Appropriately, three generations of a doll family inhabit the house.



These and many other homes are guaranteed to fascinate and beguile the viewer. Some will be on display at the Community Center while others will be displayed in their owner's homes. A $5 donation will include the tour, a tour map, and tea and home-made cookies at the Center. For further information, call the Cohasset Community Center at 383-0088.

CPR workshop June 7

The Cohasset Community Center will offer a workshop in CPR on Wednesday, June 7, from 7 to 11 p.m.

This course covers emergency resuscitative techniques for cardiac and/or respiratory arrest and procedures for alleviating airway obstructions. An American Heart Association Certificate is awarded upon completion.

The course fee is $10 for members and $20 for non-members.

Questions about Crystal Woods

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

Opponents of the proposed Crystal Woods project will have the chance to express their opinions at the next meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals Thursday, May 18, at 8 p.m.

Location of the meeting has not yet been set.

Jack Hurley of Crystal Land Development Corporation is requesting a comprehensive permit for the 60-unit condominium project on 20 acres of land on the Cohasset/Scituate line.

The permit allows developers to bypass some local zoning in exchange for providing affordable housing.

There would be 22 affordable units at Crystal Woods, off Route 3A. Ten would be in Cohasset, 12 in Scituate.

The ZBA held its second hearing on the proposal Thursday night, May 4, at the First Parish Church meeting house.

During the two hour hearing, Crystal Woods consultants responded to questions raised during the first hearing.

Attorney Chip Agule, co-counsel for Crystal Woods with atty. Michael Savage, said that unless the town accepts Ledgewood Drive as a public way, his client will use it for emergency access only.

Abutters had raised concerns about increased traffic if there was a connection to Ledgewood Drive, a dead-end street in Cohasset.

Agule said that neither Ledgewood Drive nor Brewster Road have been accepted as private ways.

A title search of such roadways indicates that the owner is Ledgewood Estates, he said.

"Therefore, Ledgewood and Brewster are private ways and the applicant has no legal right to public access," said Agule.

"To satisfy safety concerns, the applicant has provided a cul-de-sac at the end of the Crystal Woods driveway with a layout for a road which will connect to Ledgewood Drive.

"The applicant believes that the connection of the roadway would be of benefit to Ledgewood Drive with respect to emergency vehicle access," he added

The developer has revised the site plan to provide three tot lots on the property, with $500 set aside for each lot to allow residents to choose their own equipment, according to Agule.

In addition, he said, two areas on the plan will be graded and seeded for passive recreation, and $3,500 has been set aside for tables, benches and other equipment to be purchased by the residents.

A walking and jogging path has also been provided through the development, said Agule.

He noted that tennis courts, beaches, parks, and schools are within a short distance of the development in Hingham and Scituate.

With regard to another issue, the attorney said that Hurley is working with the Mass. Housing Finance Agency to establish guidelines and distribution of the 38 garages on site.

"It is anticipated that the garages will be offered separately for sale to residents of Crystal Woods," he said.

After speaking to the Cohasset Water Department superintendent, Agule said it did not appear that it would be a problem to bill Scituate residents for water provided by Cohasset.

"The current practice is to send a bulk bill to Scituate for all water use in Scituate, and Scituate would then bill the residents," he said.

Density of the project would be 2.6 units per acre, according to Agule.

The density for Ledgewood Drive in Cohasset is 1.6 units per acre, and Gannet Pasture Lane in Scituate, 1.5, he said.

Agule also said that the applicant can't add any more three-bedroom units without impacting the entire development.

"The increase in cost related to loss of units would then make the project economically unfeasible," he said.

Hurley is working with the MHFA to schedule a meeting with the Scituate and Cohasset Housing Partnerships to discuss distribution of the Housing Opportunity Program (HOP) units and garages, Agule noted.

ZBA member Terrence Farrell asked what the number of usable building acres was at the site.

Engineer Henry Novier replied that 18.9 acres are available.

In response to a question from ZBA chairman Myrna Putziger, Novier said there are about two acres of significant ledge.

Putziger said she was concerned about the disparity of family size units in the proposal.

"The only families with children will be in the HOP units," she said,"which we felt was unhealthy.

Putziger suggested that there also be three-bedroom market rate units.

Agule said the developer was adhering to MHFA guidelines .

"I think if the MHFA wants the project, they won't be so inflexible as you allege," said Farrell.

Farrell also said that $500 for a tot lot is "pretty paltry."

"I wish you'd be a little more realistic," he said.

"The competition is providing a lot more in amenities.

"I get a sense of unreality here."

Agule said the MHFA doesn't believe in such things as swimming pools and tennis courts because they add to the costs.

"You have to have something to sell," said Farrell.

"The HOP program is a difficult program to make feasible.

"You've got to sell it like a market- rate development."

Hurley noted that he is hiring a marketing company to look at amenities.

"They will look at what amenities work, and what amenities don't work," said Hurley.

Traffic consultant William Carlson said that he has not yet completed a traffic impact study, but that he could give some preliminary findings.

Carlson said there are 16,500 cars per day on Route 3A, and Crystal Woods should generate about 400 vehicle trips per day.

"A single access road will be able to handle traffic to and from the site," he said.

Carlson said he would recommend an emergency access to Ledgewood Drive in Cohasset or Gannet Pasture Road in Scituate.

Putziger suggested that the developer find out which town has the closest fire station as a way of determining which access to use.

Water commissioner Bill Montuori said that

A COMPOSITE PICTURE

Ever since it was introduced a few years ago, solid composite surfacing material has been showing up in increasing numbers on kitchen countertops. According to a survey done by "Kitchen and Bath Business", solid composite material is the surfacing material of choice for countertops in nearly 25 percent of high-end (above $15,000) kitchens. It shows up in nearly 15 percent of all new kitchens. Known by various trade names, this synthetic composite is formed from plastic resin mixed with mineral filler and pigments. It is cast in a solid, homogeneous slab that can be worked with carbide-tipped tools to create elaborate edge treatments, rounds, coves, bevels, and inlays. Since the material is the same throughout its entire depth, it exudes a soft translucence and sense of depth that simply overwhelms plastic laminates.

Getting the most you can for your dollar is what is important for cabinets, counters and appliances. At KITCHEN DESIGN ASSOCIATES we believe we give you quality products that are worth every dollar you pay. They are well constructed and made with convenience features. You'll be able to select cabinets by Poggenpohl, and Millbrook. We also have an extensive selection of ceramic tiles. For beautiful kitchens with experience to accompany it, see us at 962 Washington St., Rt. 53 Hanover. Tel. 826-4121. Questions raised about Crystal Woods

Cohasset would need to own the pipes in the Scituate part of the development, and have an easement to go in and maintain the pipes.

Health board member Michael Sullivan said he would like the applicant to estimate the nutrient flow based on the effluent leaving the system.

Sullivan also suggested a year's warranty of the septic system be provided by the applicant, and a full hydrogeological survey be done.

Cohasset Housing Partnership chairman Chartis Langmaid said she didn't know if the three-bedroom issue was negotiable.

"The state feels the highest priority should be for families," she said.

Putziger said if the only three bedroom units were HOP assisted, it would not be the ideal blending of market and HOP assisted units.

"Do you think this is a good plan?" asked Putziger.

"We have to live with it," answered Langmaid.

"We can ask the MHFA for flexibility on the HOP units," she said.

Langmaid added that it will be common knowledge which are the HOP assisted and which are the market rate units.

Farrell said the plan showed a lack of economic integration.

"The disparity in price is not as great as in other developments," noted Langmaid.

The affordable units will be $75,000 to $95,000 each, and the market rate, $145,000 to $185,000.

She also said she supports keeping the amenities to a minimum to keep the prices down.

Langmaid said the two towns and state agencies are working on the local preference issue.

Another housing partnership member, Israel Sanchez, said the committee plans to talk to other town boards about the proposal.

No one spoke in favor of the proposal at the meeting.

Joyce Studley of Hingham is scheduled to begin work as administrative secretary in the selectmen's office May 15 at a salary of about $398 a week.

She will replace Janet Chalke who left last month to take a similar position in Hingham.

Selectmen voted 4 to 1 Monday night, May 8, to approve the appointment.

Selectman Martha Gjesteby was opposed. She had requested an assessment of the office needs before an appointment was made.

Executive secretary Greg Doyon said that Studley was selected from among19 applicants.

Eight of them were interviewed.

"Mrs. Studley has extensive experience in secretarial and paralegal work, most recently working for the firm of Gaughen, Gaughen and Gaughen as head secretary," said Doyon.

"She was formerly executive director of the Hingham Housing Authority as well."

Mrs. Studley attended Rockland schools, has a certificate from Bryant and Stratton Secretarial School and has attended Boston University, according to Doyon.

"In my interview and selection procedure, Mrs. Studley showed a great deal of poise, demonstrated secretarial skills, and was highly recommended by previous employers and associates," he said.

Doyon noted that Studley will be assuming a new classification of administrative secretary.

It is one grade below Chalke's position as administrative coordinator, he said.

"It will be equivalent to the board of health position," said Doyon.

Selectman Diana Kornet asked if the appointment should be delayed a week or two in light of the failure of the override ballot and the necessity to cut budgets.

"This is $5,000 less than the old position," said selectman chairman Burt Pratt.

"We've done our part."

Gjesteby noted that it may be necessary to cut the hours of the other person in the office from 35 to 21 hours per week.

"I would like an assessment of office needs, and how many days we need the person in Janet Chalke's position," she said.

"Come in here and spend a couple of weeks here " suggested Pratt.

"Mrs. (Ellen) Winn does her job very, very well," said Doyon, of the other employee in the office.

"She works very, very hard."

Pratt said the administrative secretary position needed to be filled at once.

Senior center news

Older American Month will be celebrated on May 15 at the Cohasset Senior Center, 3 North Main St., with an Open House from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on May 19, Housing Options Day from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Opening Invocation and greetings at 9 a.m. will be given by Rev. John J. Keohane, Chairman of the Council On Aging.

There will be activities and demonstrations all day long. Much more information will be available for all interested Seniors and we hope to encourage new Senior Citizens of Cohasset to come and join us on May 15 to see what is happening at the Senior Center.

We will have a large quilt exhibit with many items the group has been working on over the past year. Also, Arts and Craft items-knitting projects. There will be an Exercise, Walking Club, Bridge Class, Line Dancing Class and many hands on new class demonstrations to try before signing-up for Fall classes.

A Picnic Lunch will be served between 12 and 1 p.m. Donation $1.50 (Please call for lunch reservations.)

Bake sale table from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. We hope all of Cohasset will join with us in the great Month Celebration Of Older American's Month all around Cohasset and at the Senior center. Transportation is available by calling Marguerite, Sr. Aide, at 383-9112.

HEALTH FAIR 1989

It's that time of year again when the Social Service League, Council on Aging and The Board of Health will be hosting it's Fifth Annual Health Fair. This year it will be held at the 2nd Congregational Church, 43 Highland Ave., 12 to 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Transportation will be available to any Senior citizens who needs a ride from 12 to 3 p.m. call 383-9112.

The Health Fair is being offered to all Cohasset residents. The goal of the Health Fair is to provide information to those who are interested in learning more about how you can change your daily lfiestyle and living habits to ensure a more healthful way of life. Education and prevention are the goals of this years Health Fair '89. The following is a list of the screenings that will be available: Blood chemistry, weight & height, blood pressure, breast exams, diabetes, hearing exam, colon rectal (kit), podiatry, glaucoma & cholesterol.

There will be various exhibits and health professionals to talk to. We encourage all to attend. date: May 11; time: 12 noon to 3 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m.; place: 2nd Congregational Church-43 Highland Ave.; ride: call 383-9112.

WALKING FOR GOOD HEALTH

Now that Spring has arrived and the snow and ice are long gone, it is time to think about walking on a regular basis. It's one of the best ways to keep your heart, lungs and circulatory system in good shape. Cohasset has many beautiful safe places to walk and enjoy the scenery. If you would like to join our great "Cohasset Strutters" walking club, come to the No. Main St. entrance of the Community Center any Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 9 a.m.

The leaders are: Virginia Anderson, Ann Leonard, Lillian Lincoln, Shirley Laidlaw and Jane Tilden.

The group always meet at the Center and walk for about an hour, returning to the Center for a cup of coffee. Why not start walking today and find out what a great relaxing and invigorating exercise it really is? It's also a great way to meet new friends!

MEDICARE CATASTROPHIC

The Council on Aging has received many calls and quesitons regarding the Medicare Catastrophic Health Care Act. Many are confused and concerned about the effects this new law will have. Many are concerned with the financial portion of the law for Seniors. Will incomes be high enough to be subject to Federal income tax? The supplemental premium will be 15% of your Federal taxes up to a minimum of $800.00 for singles and $1,600.00 for a couple. This amount will increase through 1993. This will affect people with income (in general) over $12,000 for a single and over $22,000 for a couple which amounts to about 40% of high-income elders.

What action to take? Call or write today to your legislator. Let him know how you feel. Edward M. Kennedy-Boston, Room 2400A J.F.K. Building, Boston, Ma. 02203. Phone #617-223-2826.

BLUE CROSS & BLUE SHIELD

The Cohasset COA invites you to it's Open Meeting, May 10 at 1 p.m. Come join us on Wednesday, May 10, when Mr. Wendell Coltin, Consultant on Senior Affairs from Blue Cross/Blue Shield will be at the Cohasset Senior Center to discuss the Medicare Program and the many options under the Medex (Supplement program). Please try to join us on May 10 for this very important and informative program. To make reservations please call 383-9112.

HOUSING OPTIONS FOR SENIORS

May 17, the Cohasset Senior Citizens are invited to join us on Wednesday, May 17 at 10 a.m. when Senator William Golden will be here in Cohasset to explain the many advantages of the "Homestead Act." Do you own your own home? You should be thinking of declaring a Homestead. This new law can protect your principal home up to $150,000 from court seizure. Also, available will be the Homestead form and a person to notarize the Act.

The Cohasset Council On Aging is looking for a few good men & women who would enjoy serving on the COA Board next year. If you enjoy working with people and have time to serve on the Council, please contact Kathy at 383-9112.

MASSACHUSETTS ANNUAL CONFERENCE COMING UP —

June 16-18 at Mt. Holyoke College in South Hadley. Several issues will be voted on at that meeting. Our own Church Committee will be discussing our position at their May 21 meeting. Let members know how you feel:

1990 Fellowship dues recommendation: $6.36 per member (1989 - $5)

RESOLUTIONS: Expanded Criteria for Divestment — all urged to divest from businesses in South Africa.

Move UCC national headquarters to Cleveland — that we reject that proposal.

Homelessness and Housing crisis — develop Framingham property as a land trust for affordable housing and continued other support. Details on these issues are available from our delegates, Chester and Eleanor Smith or in the Church Office.

GENERAL SYNOD, NATIONAL MEETING OF THE UCCL,

TO TAKE PLACE JUNE 29-JULY 4, in Fort Worth, Texas. Issues for this meeting will also be discussed at our May 21 Church Committee meeting. Please respond if you wish:

Economic justice: all churches called to proclaim the issues of economic injustice and work toward economic justice.

Inclusive Language for "God": to study more closely the necessity and authenticity of exclusively non-gender terms for God.

Ministry with Pacific Islanders and Asian Americans: to welcome them into our midst and aid in their assimilation as Americans.

Genetic engineering: to monitor and study the field and provide theological and ethical guidelines for an informed response.

National priorities to be decided: Up to three new priorities (of 4) may be added for 1990-91 priorities receiving special attention and study: Church growth and evangelism, Education, Edlerly, Justice Peace and Integrity of Creation, Local Church, Spiritual Renewal.

SOUTH SHORE ELDER SERVICES —

looking for "Elder Service Corp worker" to help improve the quality of life of nursing and rest home residents. Stipend part-time positions are available for persons 60 years of age or older. Call 848-3910 for more information.

Rev. Edward T. Atkinson, Minister, Parish House (617) 383-1100, 23 North Main Street.

PARISH NEWS:

From the Parish Committee:

We would like to urge all members of First Parish to attend the Annual Meeting on Tuesday, May 16 at 7:30 p.m., in the Parish House. As you can see from the warrant, there are a number of articles which significantly impact the Parish, and which deserve our serious consideration. Please plan to add your thoughts and ideas to the discussion.

Also, the Parish Committee unanimously agreed to ask all Parish members to limit their announcements during the Service of Worship to church-related, emergency announcements, and to present those in writing before the service for the Minister to read to the congregation. By emergency, we mean items which came up after Wednesday at noon. Prior to Wednesday at noon, you may call announcements in to the office and they will be printed in the Order of Worship. Forgetfulness does not constitute an emergency!

We are making this request in order to better preserve the atmosphere of worship and to minimize disturbance of the mood of the service. Our thanks for your cooperation.

Written Annual Reports will be available to be picked up at the church office by Friday, May 12 or at the Meeting House on May 14.

New Members:

Rhonda and Michael Myers signed our membership book this past Sunday morning. We extend a warm welcome to them.

Women's Book Group

The next meeting of the Women's Book Group will be on Tuesday, May 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Claire Flannery, 55 Cushing Rd. In celebration of Mother's Day, we'll read Three Women at the Water's Edge by Nancy Thayer and focus our discussion on mother-daughter relationships. Hope to see you there.

Carriage House News:

The Nursery School will be holding a YARD/BAKE/-PLANT SALE Saturday, May 20 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Proceeds will be used to repay the Playground loan. Anyone wishing to donate items or to help out can contact Linda Gardner at 383-9881. This is a perfect way to get rid of those unwanted, unused items cluttering up your home. Maximize your Spring Cleaning efforts!

MUSIC NOTES:

Only one Sunday remains before the ACT-OUT CABARET Saturday, May 13! Purchase tickets NOW from any choir member or from the office! Ten dollars' donation to the Gleason Fund brings a delightful dinner and an evening of entertainment unparalleled in the entire world! Don't miss out on this great occasion for fun and profit!

Obituaries

Mary Richards Titcomb

A funeral service will be conducted Thursday, May 11, at 11 a.m. at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church for Mary Richards (Long) Titcomb, 72, of Cohasset, who died May 8 at the Stephen Caldwell Convalescent Home in Ipswich after a long illness.

Burial will be private.

Mrs. Titcomb was a former professional model with the Hart Agency in New York and Boston.

She was also a fashion designer for Lord & Taylor from the early 1960s through the mid-1970s.

Mrs. Titcomb was a member of the Cohasset Yacht and Golf Clubs, the Social Service League of Cohasset and the Junior League of Boston.

She was educated at the Windsor School, Brookline.

Born in Boston, she lived in the Boston/Brookline area and summered in Cohasset until she moved there 44 years ago.

Wife of the late Clement Titcomb, she leaves four sons, Jonathan Chase of Cohasset, A. Cushing Titcomb of Ipswich, Richard L. Titcomb of Martinsville, Va., and Nathaniel B. Titcomb of Stamford, Conn; her mother, Harriet B. Long of Cohasset; a brother, Edward B. Long of Cohasset; a sister, Phyllis Howe of Duxbury; and nine grandchildren.

She was the sister of the late William B. Long.

Funeral arrangements were by McNamara-Sparrell Funeral Home, 1 Summer St.

Donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Disease & Related Disorders Association of Eastern Massachusetts, 1 Kendall Sq., Cambridge, 02139.

Virginia Sherbrook

A memorial service was held May 9 at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church for Virginia (English) Sherbrook, 86, of Cohasset, who died May 3 at South Shore Hospital, Weymouth, after a brief illness.

Burial was private.

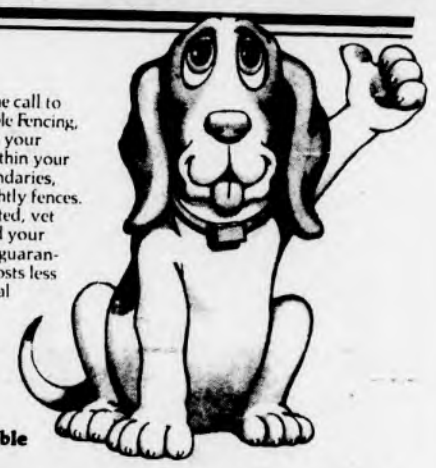
Mrs. Sherbrook was a member of the Cohasset Garden Club and the Cohasset Yacht Club.

Born in Jersey City, N.J., she lived in Brookline before she moved to Cohasset 54 years ago.

She was a 1922 graduate of Wellesley College.

Wife of the late Roscoe E. Sherbrook, she leaves a son, Ross E. Sherbrook of Dedham and Cohasset; a sister, Abbie L. Gelliffe of New Jersey; and two grandchildren, Patrick R. Sherbrook and Jennifer L. Sherbrook, both of Dedham and Cohasset.

She was the mother of the late Richard E. Sherbrook and sister of the late R.W.A. English.



The Rev. Cliff Cutler, pastor, conducted the memorial service.

Arrangements were by the McNamara-Sparrell Funeral Home of Norwell and Cohasset.

Donations may be made to the Richard E. Sherbrook Fund, Children's Hospital, 300 Longwood Ave., Boston, 02115.

Selectmen deny a second election . . .

"There are some other line items on the school department budget," she said.

"Most towns don't carry part of the tree and park department in their budget.

"In this town, it is."

Kornet said selectmen have to make a value judgment about which departments serve the most people.

"The school department serves only households with kids," said Pratt.

Kornet said that property values in Hull dropped $15,000 per house when the override failed and school programs were cut in that town.

Town counsel Richard Henderson said that the first things people ask when they inquire about moving to a town involve schools and commuting.

"When you start cutting funds from the educational system, you start making a dent in the value of the community," said Henderson.

"Schools are so important to the property values, and to the future security of the town," said Kornet, who added that she would not vote for a cut of more than $400,000 from the school department.

Pratt suggested cutting administrators rather than teachers.

Cohasset resident Charles Kane asked who has the final say in budget cuts.

"Can the advisory board do what it wants?" he asked.

"All we can do is suggest," said Tebbetts.

"The people have the final say," said Laugelle.

"We'll get together with the advisory committee," said Pratt.

"The advisory committee's duty is to provide a budget for May 31," said advisory member Arne Gjesteby.

"What you people say will weigh heavily on what we do," he said.

"We'll get nowhere if selectmen go in (to town meeting) with one opinion, and the advisory committee another," agreed Pratt.

Henderson said the people who really care about the community are the ones who went to town meeting.

"You are giving in to people who don't know about the community when you don't vote a half-way budget," he said.

Tebbetts said a clear mandate was given by the people.

"We have to pay attention to that," he said.

Kornet said she didn't feel enough time had passed for feedback from the town.

"We may feel support for a half-way budget," said Kornet, who told selectmen she may bring up the topic again.

She and Laugelle voted against a 50-50 split of the $844,000.

Pratt suggested that the board carefully look over all the town budgets.

"But some may rather hang in the balance for a chance," she said.

Selectman Martha Gjesteby said the vote difference was really 245 because of blanks.

"Do you read it as a mandate for no override?" asked Kornet.

"That's what the people have spoken," answered Gjesteby.

"We believe there should be no override," said Pratt.

"I don't think it's a clear mandate," contended Kornet.

After the board voted not to support any override for general operating expenses, Tebbetts said selectmen should give the advisory committee some guidelines on cutting budgets.

He suggested a 50-50 cut between the school department and other town departments of $422,000 each.

"I know any cuts will be difficult," he added.

Kornet, former school committee chairman, said the school department is prepared to cut $400,000.

"You have just cut another teacher," she told Tebbetts.

"You are changing the numbers the advisory committee asked them to work with."

"Before we ask for cuts," said selectman Rocco Laugelle,"we should see what departments can come up with.

"We should ask every department to come in with a down to earth figure.

"We shouldn't start off saying the school department should cut $424,000."

"Every department is going to say we have to make cuts in every other department," said Tebbetts.

"Some departments can't cut 9 percent," answered Laugelle.

"Others may be able to cut more.

"There was a no vote, and something has to be done about it."

Kornet noted that part of other town budgets are carried in the school department budget, such as tree and park.

Horak is honored by Hunneman

At a recent company-wide meeting, Betsy Horak was honored by Hunneman and Company, Realtors/Better Homes and Gardens for her exceptional 1988 brokerage performance.

"Betsy exceeded one million dollars in sales. . .and this is in a year where the real estate market has been very challenging," noted Vice President and Manager of the Hunneman Cohasset office, Judy Parsons.

"Marketing a property in 1988 was a very different undertaking than in 1987. Guiding a seller through the process and maximizing brokerage resources are areas in which Betsy is especially skillful," added the Cohasset manager.

Janice Crowley of Hunneman and Company, Realtors/-Better Homes and Gardens' Cohasset office was recognized at the firms' recent winter convention for her outstanding brokerage performance in 1988.

Crowley who during the past years participated in transactions with a total sales value in excess of one million dollars, earned entry into the Better Homes and Gardens Medallion Club. The Medallion group is a national recognition program for leading brokers throughout the United States.

Historical costumes exhibit

Friday and Saturday, May 19 and 20, will see the Cohasset Historical Society's special spring exhibit of 19th century wedding gowns.

This unusual event, sponsored by the Society's Costumes Committee, features ten of the best gowns chosen from the Historical Society's extensive costumes collection. The exhibit will be held at the Caleb Lothrop House, Summer Street; hours of the exhibit are 2 to 5 p.m. on both days. Admission is free.

Featured iun the Costumes Committee's exhibit will be a carefully reassembled wedding gown of 1894, worn by Maude Dickenson Snow when she married Cohasset's Ephraim Snow Jr., son of one of the town's leading seafarers and shipowners. The exhibit of wedding gowns will be set in the ambience of a wedding reception; with refreshments for the guests. (Only the grooms will be missing, since the Society's costumes collection does not yet include appropriate mens' clothing.)

The Historical Society's Costumes Committee has embarked upon an extensive program of fabrics conservation for the many fine period costumes found in its large collection. This special exhibit of bridal gowns is one of a series of costumes exhibits planned by the committee to show some of the finest examples of 19th and early 20th century clothing, most of which have been donated by Cohasset residents and relates to the town's own history.

Fundraiser for Golden

State Senator William Golden will be the guest of honor at a fundraiser entitled "It's a Summer Happening."

The affair will be held Sunday, June 11, between the hours of 2 and 6 p.m. at the residence of John and Doris Golden of 2 Bound Brook Lane.

The occasion will feature Dan Delaney and his New Orleans Jazz Orchestra plus Music of the Forties. Refreshments and hors d'oeuvres will be available.

Senator Golden will be discussing his candidacy for Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts and his Programs for Progress.

Reservations can be made by contacting John Golden at 383-9319; Glenn Pratt at 393-0048; or Ron Goodwin at 383-0381.

Registration for summer theater

Mail-in registration is underway for 1989's Young People's Summer Theater in Scituate.

There are two separate programs this summer.

The first, open to ages 13 to 22 from all towns, will accept mail-in registration through June 1. The cost is $35 per person. Registration night and an orientation meeting will be held Monday, June 5 from 7:15 to 8:15 p.m. at the First Congregational Church in Scituate.

Auditions for casting (although everyone who registers for the progrm performs in the shows) will be Wednesday and Thursday, June 7 and 8 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., also at the church. Those interested in speaking or singing roles need to audition, but only on one of the two evenings. Those only interested in being a part of the chorus/dance company need only register and then attend the first rehearsal, which will be held Tuesday, June 13 at 6:45 p.m. Registration after June 1 will be $50 per person. All registration fees are non-refundable.

The group ages 13-22 will be performing two shows, the Kander and Ebb musical "70, GIRLS, 70," and the third annual "SHOWCASE" production.

A new program, for ages 7-12, is also being offered. Mail-in registration will be accepted through June 10, at $75 per person (families who enroll two or more children will receive discounts). The sessions will be during the day, and will include acting, singing and dancing workshops which will culminate in a musical revue at the end of July.

Walk-in registration for the new program will be Saturday, June 17 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the church. Registration will be $10 per person if not received by June 10.

Literature on both programs, including a more detailed schedule for the younger children, is available by writing to Young People's Summer Theater at P.O. Box 41, Scituate, MA 02066, or by calling 826-7983.

Registration forms for both programs can also be requested.

Nursery school hosts sale

Saturday, May 20, the Carriage House Nursery School, located at 23 N. Main Street, will be holding a yard/bake/plant sale.

This year, in addition to the usual and unusual items found at such sales, a "Childrens' Clothing Boutique" will be a featured item.

Sale hours are from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For additional details, contact Linda Gardner at 383-9881.

Spring fair in Scituate

First Baptist Church in Scituate will hold a Spring Fair on Saturday, May 13, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There will be hot and cold buffet from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The fair will feature a white elephant, home-cooked food, silent auction, hand-made gifts, plants, jewelry, clothing and books.

Amateur gardeners meeting

Members of the Amateur Gardeners of Cohasset will meet Tuesday, May 16, at 1 p.m. at the home of Dot Ahearn for the Annual Plant and Food Sale. Co-hostess will be Helen Goodwin.

Cub Scout Pack 38 news

Tom Judge, Webelos leader for Pack 38 Cub Scouts, received the Unit Award presented at the Old Mills District Dinner on May 5, in Whitman.

The District Award of Merit was presented to Earle Bestick for his outstanding achievements in scouting with Pack 38 and Troop 28 and Troop 44. Earle has completed: basic leader training, woodbadge and order of the arrow. He is the scoutmaster of Troop 44 in Norwell and is the assistant scoutmaster of Troop 28 in Cohasset. He has been Webelo leader for Troop 28. He is on the Old Mills District Committee as Webelo's coordinator and is on the Round Table Staff.

TROOP 28 BSA

— The canoe trip down the Weir River was a great success with eight scouts and four adults attending.

— June 17 at 7 p.m. will be the baseball game between the Pawtucket Red Sox vs. the Nashville Sounds at McCoy Field in Pawtucket, R.I. Departing time will be at 5 p.m. from the Osgood School parking lot. Tickets are only $1.00. Parents are needed to drive. Contact Merle Brown 383-1625.

— Five new Webelos have joined the troop: Grant Emde, Ryan Sawchuk, Greg Schults, Nate Caldwell and David Christoffel.

— Camping-May 19, 20 and 21, at Camp Child. Adults are needed to stay over for the week-end because several leaders will be involved in Webelo activities.

— The District Camporee will be held on Grape/Slate Island on June 2, 3 ad 4. Pre-registration rquired. A water taxi at the Hingham Dock (near the commuter boat) will take the scouts over to the island.

Scoutmaster Merle Brown and Troop 28 Chairman Arthur Lehr presented Life Scout David Farrag with the Dr. Howard Reid Award at the March Court of Honor. The award is given in memory of Dr. Reid of Cohasset, who had been dedicated to scouting for many years. The award is presented to a scout who has outstanding scouting ability and leadership among the troop. David is a Junior at Cohasset High and is Senior Patrol Leader of Troop 28. He is presently working towards the rank of Eagle. He attended Philmont Camp in New Mexico this past summer where he backpacked, camped, rafted and did many other trail events. He is planning to attend the Scout Jamboree in August at Fort A-P Hill, Va. David's name is engraved on the Award Plaque, which is at the Cohasset Savings Bank. He will receive one week at Camp Child in Plymouth for summer camp.

Tolan is broker of year

Tom Hamilton, Gallery 360 Cohasset principal, has announced that for the second year in a row, Shirley Tolan has been named office Broker of the Year for 1988.

A multi-million dollar broker with many years of experience, she has been awarded membership in the National Gallery of Homes Knights of the Roundtable and the Gallery 360 Compass Club which annually awards membership to its highest achievers.

Mrs. Tolan and her husband, Peter, live in Scituate where she divides her spare time between gourmet cooking and tending a large perennial garden in season.

Other Cohasset sales associates honored for their outstanding sales records in 1988 include: Ruth Keefe, Claire Shields, Jane Crocker, John Gallagher and Karen Kirkendall.

a beautiful sound, but they don't stay together because they don't get along." Most of the bands she works with have been together at least two years, Greene says. "They are more reliable. Ego problems are very prevalent with musicians. A good band has gotta have a good chemistry and perseverance."

Wedding clients should start considering their entertainment as early as possible - at least a year before the wedding to ensure a good band.

The time of year also can influence a band's availability. Greene says that "in January you have unlimited availability." With the months of November, February and March offering limited work to wedding bands. But from May to October, getting a popular group requires planning in advance.

Wedding bands can be extremely expensive. Greene's clients pay from $600 - $1,700 for wedding entertainment. But booking through an agency can save them money. "Bands typically work for less through an agency because of the volume. They make concessions for steady work."

As weddings have become ever more elaborate, so have entertainment prices. "In four years, the prices have more than doubled for some type of bands," she says.

Small weddings can use a cheaper two-three piece band, which costs less. "Some of the smaller bands do a wonderful job. It's really a personal choice."

Greene also books singers and disc jockeys at private parties. A single person can cost $200 - $500 and duos $400 - $800. A D.J. costs from $225 to $450 for four hours.

Some of these performers are fulltime musicians, available all the time, others hold other jobs and work certain hours.

The Entertainment Connection also has impersonators (of Elvis for example) and "very tastefully executed" belly dancers, who dance a 15-minute belly gram for $90. The message is written on their belly. Greene said they are popular with corporate parties.

For children's parties, Greene has gorillas, clowns, magicians and jugglers. These usually cost about $90 for one hour and can be booked at the last minute, although two months in advance guarantees a wider selection.

Christmas and New Year parties should be booked at least six months in advance.

Greene will not book strippers for bachelor parties. She says strippers have liability problems. "Things go wrong," she says simply, adding that she would not book them even if insurance was not an issue.

Although she has been a musical agent for two years, she did not intend to be. An Auburn, Maine native, Greene went to the University of Vermont and to graduate school at Lesley College, where she studied learning disabilities.

For three years she taught teenagers with disabilities at the Pine Ridge School in Vermont, before coming to Scituate with husband, Boston attorney Charles McCarthy, seven years ago.

An amateur folk singer who performs at open-mike nights in the area, Greene said a friend suggested she become an agent. After working for another area firm for a year, she opened her own shop in conjunction with Dave and Diane Becker of Duxbury, formerly of Scituate.

Besides music, animals are Greene's big passion. She serves on the animal shelter committee and readers of the Scituate Mariner will no doubt have seen articles on animals which Greene writes for nothing.

She has two dogs, a collie named Buffy and a springer/golden retriever mix called Blackberry and two cats, Nat the Brat and Devil.

Greene works seven days a week and spends many evenings driving around to watch performers. Despite the hours, she loves her job. "This is my thing. I'll stick with it. I love the business I'm in. It's like not working to me."

Two youth soccer teams remain undefeated

Two Cohasset youth soccer teams — Girls' Under 12-1 and Boys' Under 10-1 — stayed undefeated through week six of Coastal League play. Coach Nino D'Urso's girls'squad got four goals from Erin Murphy to beat Kingston 4-0 and run their record to 5-0-1. Defenders Liz Corcoran, Jessica Snow and Corinna McMackin all had good games for 12-1, which was outscored its opponents 23-4.

Boys'Under10-1played a tough Halifax team to a2-2 draw after five consecutive victories. Burke Davis scored his eighth goal of the season for Terry Kahn's team, and Jamie Buick got his second. Standing out on defense were Tom Kittle, Ryan Staszko and goalkeeper Ely Kahn.

Coach Sandy Theriault's Under 12-1 girls knocked off Kingston 6-3, and took a forfeit win from Pembroke, to run their league record to 2-1-1. Megan Fahey's three goals led the way for Cohasset, with Catie Campbell, Jayne Singleton and Amie Theriault adding single tallies. Christine Burns stood out on defense.

Girls' Under 19 fell to Duxbury 6-3 in a hard-fought contest at Duxbury. Cory DeSantis scored twice for coach Bob Beggan's team, and Carey Manion added the third. In goal, Jen Plante made several good stops, and had the tough luck to beat by a ball off teammate Katie Lord's leg.

In other girls' play, Steve Hague's Under 16 squad fell to Hanover 3-2 in a well-played game. Heidi Lincoln scored twice, while stopper Rebecca Kirk and midfielder Stephanie Eno both played well. Under 12-3 were beaten by Middleboro 4-0 at Milliken Field in what coach Kevin O'Donnell described as a good game. He cited the play of Laura Slotnick, Lisa Weier, Lauren DeVito and Shelly Vanderweil as outstanding.

The members of the Boys Under 12-1 include: front (left to right): Eric Henry, Robin Ordelheide, Ryan Freeman, Chris McKenna, Ken Leahy, Ben Redfield, coach. Back, left to right: Dave Christoffel, Tom Grecco, Andrew Fitzsimmons, Anthony Wigmore, Jim Magner, Jon Hislop, Mike Lennon, Buck Redfield. Absent: Greg Schultz, Pat Reynolds, Ben Manning, Toby Horn, Andrew Collins.

Girls' Under 14-1 lost by the same score, 4-0, to Sacred Heart. Playing well for Jack O'Brien's team, though, were Coleen Fitzsimmons, Shona Hislop and Erin McAllister.

In other boys' play, Under 19 tied Pembroke 1-1 with good play from Matt Beggan and goalkeeper Joel Reidy. Under 16-1 were beaten by Scituate 2-0, but had only nine players available for the game. "If we'd had one more," said coach John Suhrbier, "we would have won." Midfielder Travis Coley, goalkeeper Mike Cisneros and

The Village at Duxbury

The Village at Duxbury is a new senior living community planned for the South Shore—right in historic Duxbury. It is based on service and hospitality, will be self-contained and is for active, independent seniors.

The concept of senior living eases many of life's pressures in an environment that is both caring and exhilarating.

The Village at Duxbury has chosen the pineapple as the symbol most representative of the community because it has long stood for hospitality, friendship and celebration.

The Village at Duxbury is being planned by Welch Healthcare and Retirement Group, a local, family-owned and operated company that has been active in quality senior housing services on the South Shore for over four decades.

If you—or any of your friends—would be interested in knowing more about The Village at Duxbury, call Laura today at 617-934-9744. Or, if you prefer, please fill in the coupon and mail to The Village at Duxbury, P.O. Box 2763, Duxbury, MA 02331-9983.

South Shore Science Center spring programs

Enjoy the natural beauty of the South Shore on a walk with naturalists from the South Shore Natural Science Center, Norwell.

HUMAN FISH

Join SCUBA diver John Licoski, Saturday, May 20, 9 to 11:30 a.m., as he retrieves and displays fascinating items from the ocean floor. For children 7 years old and up. Members/$6. Non-members/$9. Nature did not provide us with gills, tails, or scales, so we invented our own. See, feel, and hear about the equipment that allows a SCUBA diver to explore the underwater world. A must for any beach enthusiast! Wear comfortable clothing and shoes that can get wet. Meet at SSNSC. If interested in carpooling, please let us know at registration 659-2559.

WEDNESDAY NATURE WALK

Join a Science Center naturalist for a leisurely walk, Wednesday, May 24, 10 a.m. to noon, to Sand Spit, Scituate. Members/free. Non-members/$4. We'll search for characteristic flora and fauna, spring birds, and any other current natural happenings along this piece of land that stretches from Third Cliff. These informal walks are perfect for all ages. Wear comfortable shoes. Call the Science Center at 659-2559 to preregister and to confirm destination.

SPRING BIRDING

Join master birder Beverly Litchfield, Friday, May 26, 9 a.m. - 2 p.m., searching for birds on the South Shore. Members/$6. Non-members/$8. Some of southeastern Massachusetts' best birding spots are within a few miles of us! You will begin the day looking for warblers, thrushes, and other songbirds in No. Scituate, then on to a pond for waterfowl. You'll spend early afternoon scouting Third Cliff and Sand Spit for migratory shore birds. Bring lunch and binoculars. Moderate walking ability required. Call the Science Center, 659-2559 to register.

SPRING CANOEING

Join professional guide Russ Sears, Saturday, May 27, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., for an excursion along the historic, wonderfully picturesque, federally designated scenic North River. Members/$19 adult, $15 child under 12 (our canoe); $8 adult, $6 child (your own canoe). Non-members/$25 adult, $20 child under 12 (our canoe); $10 adult, $8 child (your own canoe). We supply canoes, paddles, and preservers. Canoes hold 3 adults or 2 adults and 2 children (under 12). Some ability to canoe is necessary. Raindate: June 3. Please note the raindate on your calendar. Weather refunds will not be given unless your space is filled. Call the Science Center (617) 659-2559 for registration information.

PLANT SALE

The Science Center is holding its annual Plant Sale, Wednesday, May 24, through Sunday, May 28, 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily. A large selection of perennials, annuals, herbs, and shrubs is available at reasonable prices. Call the Center at 659-2559 for more information.

The South Shore Natural Science Center is on Jacobs Lane, Norwell, just off Route 123 and less than one mile from the Route 3 interchange. Hours: 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Saturday; 1 to 4 p.m., Sunday. Hours on Memorial Day, Monday, May 29: 1 to 4 p.m. Call 659-2559 or drop by the Center for a complete list of summer activities.

Two teams remain undefeated

forward Chris Brown all stood out. Under 16-2 lost to Marshfield 5-2 when goalkeeper Chip Anderson was seriously injured making a save, and had to be taken to the hospital with a separated shoulder.

Under 14-1 lost to Duxbury 5-1, a particularly painful loss for coach Steve Endris given that the team had beaten Duxbury 1-0 the week before. "We had some tough offsides calls," Endris said. Scoring was Joe Andrade on a feed from Charlie Endris. And playing equally well were halfback Doug Ellinger, forward Mike Reynolds, and defender John Maynard. Under 14-2 had an outstanding effort against Plymouth, but fell short, losing 4-2. Andrew Pozatek and Brendan deVos scored for coach Gordon Stevenson, and goalkeepers Andrew Church and David Nofnagel shored up the defense.

Under 12-1 fell twice, losing to Hingham and Duxbury by identical 4-0 counts. "They were both good defensive games," said coach Buck Redfield. Defenders Greg Schultz, Jon Hislop, Anthony Wigmore and David Christoffel had good games, as did forward Eric Henry.

Under 12-2 were beaten by Hingham 4-1, the lone goal coming from Joe Magner. Halfback John Whithouse, and defenders Michael Kasameyer and Brian Riley played well for coach Peter Mangan. Under 12-3 lost to Duxbury 8-1, with Matt O'Connor scoring for Cohasset. Goalkeeper Justin Buckley and halfback Kevin Smith had strong performances, too.

Under 10-2 boys lost to Plymouth 2-0, although Nate Cotter, Teddy Goff and Robbie Buckley all had good games. And Under 10-3 were beaten by Scituate 11-0.

Art center programs

Annual art festival in June

The South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road in Cohasset, will sponsor the 34th Annual South Shore Arts Festival on Cohasset Common June 23 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., June 24 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and June 25 from noon to 5 p.m.

The Festival, which is the longest consecutive running arts festival in New England, is comprised of 3 separate art exhibits, juried craft vendors, artist demonstrations and childrens' art drop-in workshops. The three concurrent art exhibits are 1) a juried exhibit 2) a South Shore Art Center Members show and 3) a childrens' art show sponsored by the Quincy Patriot Ledger. Throughout the three day festival, there will be entertainment by Mobius — roving performers, Fernadina Chan and her ethnic dance troupe, Bamidele Drums and Dancers an African dance troupe, the South Shore Concert Band, clowns and Dan Butterworth and His Marionettes.

In addition to the daytime activities, there will also be a concert at Nickerson Theater featuring Jonathan Edwards on Friday night and a dance at the Cohasset Community Center on Saturday night. Admission to the festival is free although there are nominal charges for some performances.

For more information call 383-9548.

Relief fund concert

The South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road in Cohasset is sponsoring a benefit for the Armenian Earthquake Relief Fund on May 21.

An Organ Concert at 2 p.m. by organist Berj Zamkochian will be held at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Cohasset Village followed at 3:15 p.m. by a Buffet with the Artists Berj Kailian and Berj Zamkochian at the South Shore Art Center also in Cohasset Village.

From 4 to 6 p.m. there will be an opening reception for the Berj Kailian Retrospective and Gallery Artists Exhibition at the South Shore Art Center.

Zamkochian, a Canton resident, has recently returned from a Recital Tour of Australia, Japan and Italy. He received his formal musical education at the New England Convervatory of Music, and during his years of Graduate Study served on the Organ Faculty. Charles Munch appointed him Organist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 1957, and that same year Arthur Fiedler appointed him Organist of the Boston POPS. Zamkochian has appeared as Organ Soloist with Major Symphonic Orchestras of the world, and in 1971 was appointed organist with the World Symphony. His program on May 21 will include works by Bach, Franck, Widor and a group of works by Armenian composers.

A painter and print maker, Berj Kailian was born in Armenia and has lived in Weymouth since the age of five. Her wide range of interests are expressed in the subjects of her art and include Armenian khatchkars (stone crosses) or petroglyphs from the American Southwest. For Berj Kailian, painting is "another language", a form of thinking and communication that uses shapes, forms, patterns, textures and other symbols in place of script. Spontaneity and imagination are paramount to her work. The patterns as petroglyphs, the rock carvings of Armenia and the American Indian transform into constant abstract images.

Kailian's work has won numerous regional awards. She has had exhibitions at the Artists Union Museum in Armenia, Boston City Hall, Copley Society, Boston, Symphony Hall, Boston, Massachusetts State House, Duxbury Art Complex and DeCordova Museum, among others.

Her work is in the permanent collections of the Armenian Library and Museum of America, the Museum of Modern Art, Yerevan, Armenia, the Armenian State Museum of Fine Arts, Badger Corporation, Digital Equipment Corporation and Bank America International.

She is vice president of the Copley Society of Boston and serves on the board of the South Shore Art Center and the Weymouth Arts Council.

For information and reservations, call the South Shore Art Center at 383-9548. Gallery Hours are Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m; Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m.

Outdoor art workshops

The South Shore Art Center will sponsor outdoor workshops in June:

Nature Photography Workshop

Capture the early bird on film at the Nature Photography Workshop on Saturday June 17 from 7 a.m. to noon taught by Tom Hannon. Students will enjoy this field trip to an area wildlife habitat while they learn the intricacies of photographing nature in the freshness of early morning. Tom will help students to zoom in on nature's private moments through the use of macro and close-up lenses.

2—Day Pastel Portrait Workshop

Well-known portrait artist Constance Flavell-Pratt will conduct a two—day Pastel Portrait Workshop June 19 and 20 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Students will learn to create successful commissioned portraits through hands-on work, demonstration, lecture and critique. Pratt will also guide students in achieving a good likeness, keeping models contented and planning their own studios.

Painting flowers in watercolor

Beginners and experienced artists are welcome on Wednesday June 28 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for this one-day painting flowers in watercolor workshop designed for anyone who loves flowers so much they want to paint them. The workshop, taught by area artist Katherine Smit, will be held indoors with several arrangements set up for variety. The emphasis for the day will be on the design of the flowers, composition, color and color patterns, and the emotions involved in painting the flowers we see all around us.

For further information about these and other courses for adults and children at the South Shore Art Center, call 383-9548 Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Summer arts camp

The South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road in Cohasset, and the Cohasset Community Center are sponsoring a summer camp which will explore the cultural heritage of China through the arts.

The two-week sessions, July 17-28 and July 31-August 11 for ages 6 through 12 will meet daily from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Hands-on camp projects and activities will focus on China's rich cultural traditions and inspire the imagination and creativity of our young artists.

A dance/creative movement performance, a theater performance and a student art exhibit will be presented on the last afternoon of each two week session. Parents and friends of our young artists are invited to attend. There will be daily scheduled workshops in visual arts of China including making Chinese Dragons, silk painting, kite making and calligraphy. Daily workshops in Chinese theater arts will culminate in a Grand Finale performance of a Chinese Fairy Tale. "Tikki-Tikki Tembo" will be presented in Session I and "The Legend of the Laughing Dragon" in Session II. Daily scheduled classes in dance and creative movement, set design and costumes will culminate in a Grand Finale performance. There will also be time for bowling and supervised outdoor activities each day.

In addition, special demonstrations and workshops in kite making, martial arts, wheel throwing and clay, Chinese calligraphy, mask making, and video by visiting artists will enrich the creative environment and inspire young artists throughout the two week sessions.

Registration is open. Please call the South Shore Art Center at 383-9548 or the Cohasset Community Center at 383-0088 to register or for more information.

Art gallery tours for adults

The South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road, in Cohasset, is offering two half-day critical study tours led by Louise Kalish May 18 and June 8 at 10:30 a.m.

Thursday, May 18, explore the Patrons and Friends Exhibition, "Dorothea Rockburne" at the Rose Museum, Brandeis University.

Works in the exhibit include: the elegant white folded canvas Egyptian Paintings; the richly colored watercolor on vellum, Angels; a series of multi-leveled stretched cnvases from 1980-1986; the 17th century inspired Pascal paintings — exotic canvases incorporating gold leaf and murals of indigo blue.

Thursday, June 8, visit the Arden Gallery on Newbury Street. Ancient Futures — New Messages includes mixed media paintings by James Yohe, light works by Alejandro and Miora Sina and oil on paper and canvas by Shan-Shan Sheng. Join guide and lecturer, Louise Kalish for these inspiring and informative tours.

For more information or to register, please call the South Shore Art Center at 383-9548 weekdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Regional plan is raising questions

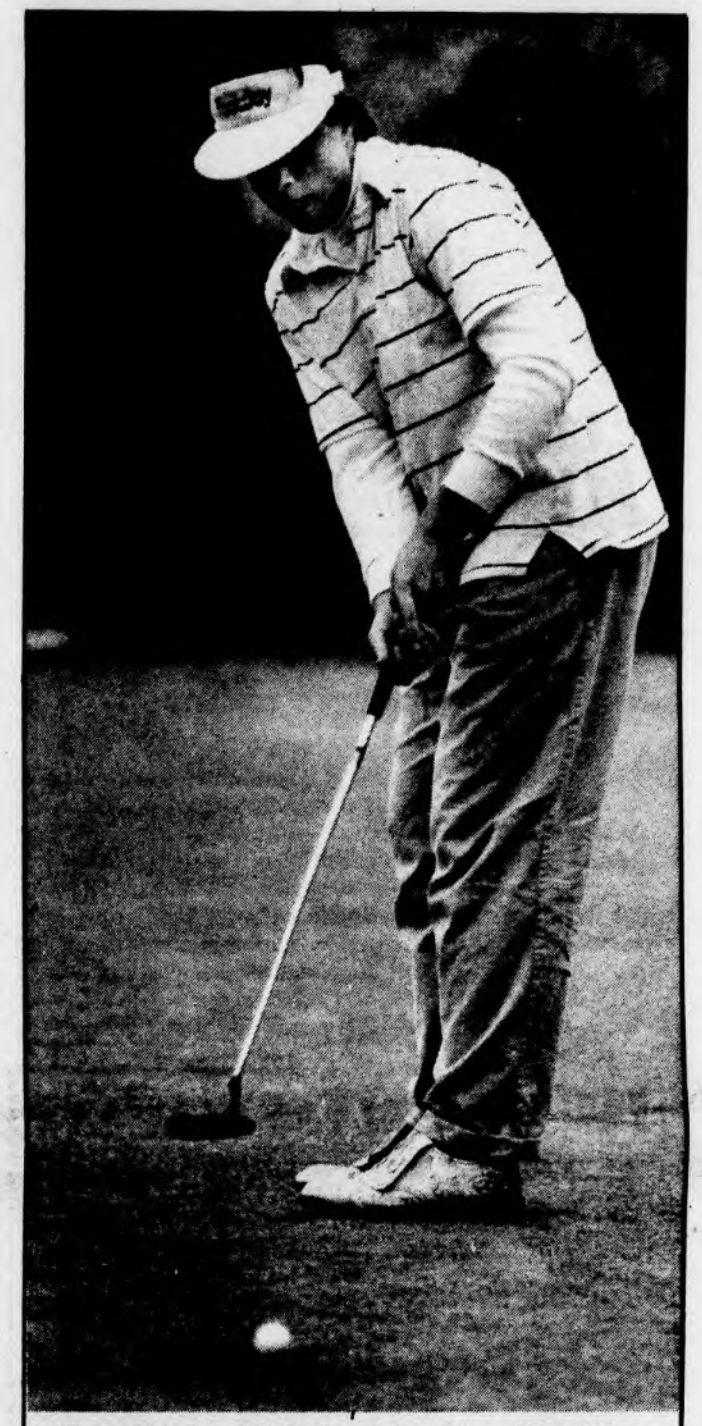
By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

A proposal to share town employees and equipment between Hingham and Cohasset isn't the answer to this year's fiscal problems, according to department supervisors.

Regionalization is the eventual way to go, according to Hingham and Cohasset's fire chiefs. But a shared system between the two towns will take years to arrange. There's no way such a plan can be developed by July 1, according to the chiefs.

They responded this week to a proposal initiated by the Cohasset advisory committee to share equipment and employees with Hingham.

> "Reductions in the fire department began in 1981. They should have started planning then rather than waiting until we're backed against a wall."
> Fire Chief Daniel Brock



Specifically, chairman Jane Goedecke suggested last week, a regional plan might work out between the Hingham and Cohasset fire departments, both of which face major reductions because of the budget override defeat.

Another budget which might benefit from a shared system is the animal control department. According to Goedecke, Cohasset may be able to forego the purchase of a $7,000 animal control vehicle if the town worked out a per-call rental system with Hingham's animal control officer.

Although Hingham Animal Control Officer Paul Murphy said he is "all for" the eventual regionalization of animal control, he warned there is no time to establish a system by the beginning of next fiscal year. In the meantime, Murphy stated, Cohasset has the means to make its animal control department self-supporting.

Voters at the annual town meeting supported a proposal to withdraw from the county animal control system. With that accomplished, Cohasset

Parents say school budget first priority

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

About 50 residents wearing yellow ribbons told selectmen Monday night, May 15, that schools should be the town's first priority.

"I represent the PSO board and citizens concerned about education," said Patricia Baird as she introduced the group which filled the selectmen's office and spilled out into the hall.

"We are dismayed at the outcome of the town election," she said.

Voters defeated all but one of the questions on the ballot at the May 6 special election.

An $844,000 override of Proposition 2 1/2 for the town's operating budget was among the questions which went down in defeat.

That means that the town will have to cut some $844,000 from its budget, including about $400,000 from the school department.

"Having done what they did at the polls," said selectmen chairman Burt Pratt,"those people have a duty to be there (at the continuation of town meeting May 31.)"

Pratt and the other selectmen had favored the operating budget override , and most of the other questions on the ballot.

Selectman Ned Tebbetts, former chairman of the capital outlay committee, questioned Baird about the objectives of her group.

"Are you suggesting that the school's portion should be substantially less than $400,000," asked Tebbetts.

"Yes," replied Baird.

"Are you proposing a new vote on question one, and some kind of override?" he asked.

"If it comes to that, yes," answered Baird.

Selectmen had voted last week not to support a second override ballot with a lesser amount.

Tebbetts noted the discrepancy between residents who attended town meeting where the Advisors sharpen knives as they prepare budget cuts

Although they agree there was confusion regarding the effect of an override defeat, advisory committee members agreed the electorate has spoken - nine percent cuts in town department budgets must be underway.

"The people have spoken with the (May 6) election," advisory committee member Arne Gjesteby said last week. "And I am for cutting the budget.

Member William Lean thought that voters objected to budgets, such as the school department's, that increased far above the inflationary level. "It was a clear message to me that people are afraid that if they accept it this year, it will be a yearly thing. This was a message for control," he stated. He favored presenting a lower override figure, one which is more in line with inflationary increases.

Other members, including chairman Jane Goedecke, said that residents she spoke with expressed confusion about the override ballot questions. She felt there was no clear consensus from the voters.

As a result of the defeat of ballot question one, all town department budgets must be reduced by nine percent. The advisory committee discussed that process at their meeting Thursday, May 11.

Many committee members noted, however, that they may be unable to dig as deep as nine percent in many budgets. Committee member Raymond Kasperowicz noted that "some real leadership" must be demonstrated by the selectmen and school committee to show voters they are attempting to control next year's budgets.

Goedecke pointed out the discrepancies between the people who faithfully attend town meeting, and the larger number of voters who go to the polls. No matter what budget the advisory committee recommends to selectmen, it must be a figure that is acceptable to town meeting and the electorate, she said. "Because if the electorate won't buy it (the budget), it's going to paralyze this town and this town will come to a standstill."

The advisory committee agreed that the school

A glance back into childhood May 25

"Backward, turn backward, Oh, time, in your flight, Make me a child again just for tonight..."

Elizabeth Akers Allen

You can't go home again, according to author Thomas Wolfe.

But sometimes you can go back for a visit.

That's the case with some local women who own doll houses.

Some of the doll houses are remembrances from their childhood, and some are recent acquisitions.

But all are something very special to their owner.

Sarah Pease's doll house was her favorite toy when she was growing up.

"I was the only person I knew who had one," said Pease.

"They weren't too common when I was growing up.

"A few people had the metal ones, but not one like mine."

"They were hard to come by."

She put the doll house away when she was a teenager, but always with the intention of taking it out again someday.

"I never forgot about it," she said.

"And I kept all the furniture.

"I always had the idea of getting it out again.

"I thought it would be for my children, but it was really for me.

"I really enjoy it."

Pease's doll house, and those of about 15 other area residents, will be featured in the Cohasset Community Center's third biannual "Doll House Tour" Thursday, May 25, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Tickets are $5 each, and may be purchased in advance or at the door.

Tea, juice and cookies will be served at the community center, where most of the doll houses will be displayed.

A few will be displayed in the houses of their owners.

Children accompanied by an adult are welcome

Cohasset's week . . .

Vehicle transfer

Dog officer William Quigley has written to the selectmen's executive secretary informing him that he will ask the police chief about the procedure to transfer a used police car to his department.

"Since the $7,500 for a dog van was turned down by voters on May 6, " wrote Quigley, "I will be in contact with Police Chief (Joseph) Kealey and you."

Quigley said he would like to find out what the procedure would be to transfer a used police car to his department for use as an animal control vehicle.

Proposal for landfill

Closing the Cedar St. Landfill four days a week would save $30,000 from the budget, the board of health told selectmen Monday night, May 15.

"We're giving strong consideration to closing the landfill a number of days," said Michael Sullivan, a board of health member.

All town departments have been asked to cut their budgets by 9 percents after voters failed to support an $844,000 override of Proposition 2 1/2 earlier this month.

Sullivan suggested having the landfill open Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

He said the employees from the landfill could be shared with other departments when the landfill is closed.

"Our two employees would stay three days a week, and then two days a week go somewhere else," said Sharon Becker, another health board member.

Sullivan said it would be possible to go to a four-day week at the landfill by July 1.

"I think we should go to three days," he said.

He said it would be an inconvenience rather than a disservice to residents.

"But at the end of the line, someone has to go," said selectmen Rocco Laugelle.

"The board of health is to be commended for coming up with a proposal (cutting) more than 9 percent," said selectman Ned Tebbetts.

Selectman chairman Burt Pratt said the discussion was leading to the possibility of starting a department of public works.

"Personally, I'm in favor, and I always was," said Pratt.

"We have a dialogue going, and it's going to spread.

"A DPW is the most efficient way to go."

But he said any plans along those lines are down the road.

"We have to be concerned about what we are going to do at town meeting May 31," he said.

"It's amazing that a lot of people don't know how we cooperate between departments and save the town money," commented tree and park superintendent Peter Laugelle.

"We have it every day, but you don't know about it."

Early release day

Thursday, May 25, will be an early release day in the Cohasset Public Schools. There will be no afternoon kindergarten sessions and other students will be dismissed according to the following schedule:

SCHOOL	BUSES DEPART
Junior/Senior High School	12:00 noon
Deer Hill School	12:40 p.m.
Joseph Osgood School	12:50 p.m.

Lunch will be served in the elementary schools and food service will be available at the junior/senior high school.

This early release day has been approved by the Cohasset School Committee to allow the staff to participate in budget preparation.

Montessori registration

The Montessori Community School, located at 136 Cornet Stetson Road, Scituate, is now accepting applications for 1989-1990 school year.

Founded in 1973, the school offers a variety of programs. Spaces are available in the Program for Toddlers (2-3 years old), Children's House (3-6 years old) and Elementary (6-12 years old.) Musical instruction featuring the famous Orff instruments, art education, computer instruction, fitness, and Karate are offered.

Now celebrating the 15th anniversary, the school was founded on the idea of offering Montessori principles to the children. The school is fulfilling its mission. This year 150 children from 2 to 12 are being educated. The school caters to the child's need for order, for meaningful work, for exploration, for respect of the environment and to be treated with dignity.

Working parents can take advantage of the child care which operates from 7:15 to 9 a.m. and from noon to 5 p.m.

Inquire about details for registration by calling 545-5544, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Explorer anniversary

The Cohasset Historical Commission is planning to commemmorate the 375th anniversary of Capt. John Smith's landing in "Quonahassit" (Cohasset) with ceremonies to be held at the John Smith Memorial Rock at the Town Landing on Tuesday, May 23 at 8:30 a.m.

Students from the Deer Hill School will be bused directly to the harbor on their way to school and will continue to school after the ceremonies.

State and local officials, members of the Historical Commission, and the Deer Hill students will participate in the festivities. Some of the students, under the direction of Suzanne Parker, will be performing instrumental selections chosen for the occasion.

All are cordially invited to attend the celebration and are encouraged to dress in period costumes, if possible. (Rain date is Thursday, May 25 at 8:30 a.m.).

Landfill litter 'a disgrace' says health board

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

Selectmen told the board of health they will ask the Norfolk County Sheriff for help in controlling the blowing litter problem at the Cedar St. Landfill.

Health board member Sharon Becker told selectmen that litter has been an ongoing problem at the landfill since 1985.

Becker showed selectmen pictures of the trash at the site.

She said the town was assessed a $9,300 penalty by the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering for scattered refuse.

"We've tried for a number of years to find people to help with the litter," said Becker.

"It's a disgrace," said Michael Sullivan, another board of health member.

"We've tried everything.

"The wind takes the litter."

Sullivan asked the board to "take action on this and somehow give us a hand so that people aren't constantly seeing trash out their windows."

"When there is glory, the board of health is there to take it," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"But when there is trouble, they come to the board of selectmen."

Melvin Waldfogel, a resident of Cedar Ledge Village which overlooks the landfill, said that the problem is "absolutely unsolvable."

"But there is a one-time solution," he said.

"You can't do it with kids. They can get better jobs.

"You need to hire a contractor."

Becker suggested a three-pronged attack.

She proposed paying workers from the tree and park department from the board of health budget to clean around the pond and around the slope on a limited basis.

Becker also said she is organizing a town-wide clean-up, tentatively scheduled for Saturday, June 10.

Pratt said that a town-wide day is good.

"But you are presupposing that the tree and park department is underemployed and it is not," he said.

"This time of the year is the busiest."

"It's not a horrible imposition," contended selectman Diana Kornet.

Sullivan said he didn't think one hour a week would have a significant impact on the tree and park department's maintenance of the rest of Cohasset.

"I don't know what the obsession is between the board of health and tree and park, but I don't like it," said Peter Laugelle, tree and park superintendent.

"No other department helped more than the tree and park.

"What the hell do you think we are?

"You can't put any more on Peter Laugelle."

Tree and park is fully occupied, agreed Pratt.

"What happens when we have to tighten our belts?" asked Kornet.

"We have to get into the mentality of the whole town.

"It just can't be compartmentalized.

"It takes super cooperation and it is very difficult."

Charles Kane of Fair Oaks Lane suggested asking the Norfolk County Sheriff for help.

Work release members from Norfolk County had earlier helped the town paint town hall.

Becker said she had been told that the workers would not pick up litter.

Selectman Ned Tebbetts noted that several years ago, churches organized a clean-up day.

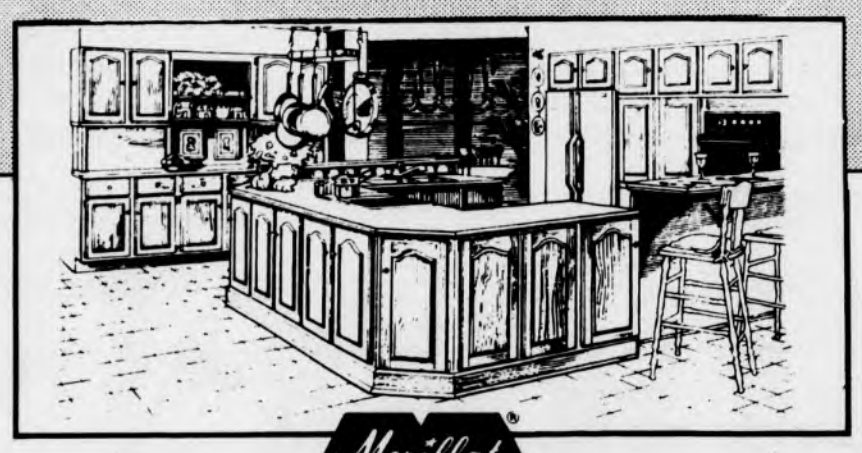
"The problem is serious throughout the community," said Tebbetts.

"I filled five large bags along Jerusalem Road and Atlantic Ave.

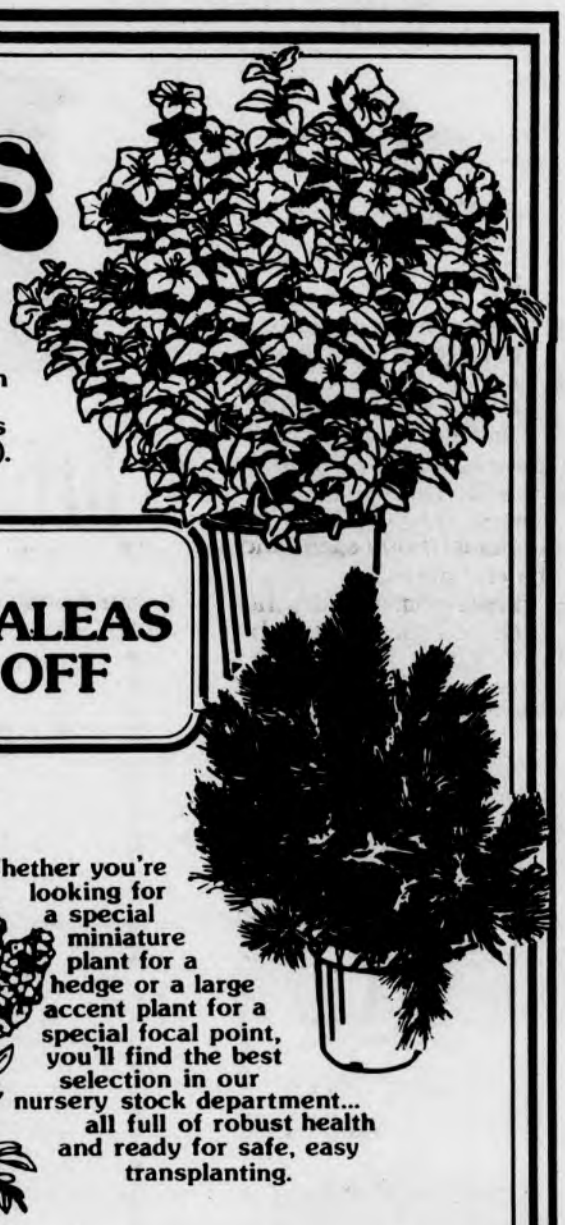
"I'd like to encourage a town-wide clean-up," he said.

"The town looks pristine compared to the landfill," said Becker.

"We've got to work very hard to get people to go up there (to the landfill) and help us."



Pratt said selectmen will talk to the Norfolk County Sheriff.



He also suggested the board of health get a price on a contractor cleaning up the litter.

"Peter Laugelle will shoot daggers at me," said Pratt,"but as a last resort, maybe he could spare a

Selectmen start slicing budgets

Selectmen cut some town budgets Monday night, May 15, to help make up the $844,000 which residents voted not to support in the override election May 6.

But the board put off until the next meeting making any cuts in the police and fire departments.

The advisory committee has recommended cuts of about 9 percent in each department.

But selectmen have the prerogative of cutting more in some departments, and less in others.

Fire Chief Daniel Brock said that cuts in his department would affect the town-run ambulance service.

Brock suggested giving up half the fire hydrants for which the fire department pays the water department a fee.

That would save about $50,000, he said.

Brock also said his department would be willing to take over maintenance of the hydrants.

Selectman chairman Burt Pratt noted that the department has $85,000 in overtime.

"If we don't take the ambulance, or mothball some equipment, can you get the overtime down?" he asked.

"On my own, no," replied Brock.

"I suggest you talk to the union.

"The $85,000 is brought about by contract."

Pratt noted that the advisory committee suggested eliminating some fire department equipment, two to five fire fighters and a half-time secretary, and investigating mutual aid fire protection.

Brock said that fire service in Cohasset is very regulated.

He said that if there are layoffs, they have to involve the most recently hired, and those are the emergency medical technicians on the ambulance.

Police Chief Joseph Kealey said that a $65,000 cut was proposed in his department, including the layoff of two uniformed officers.

Kealey said if two officers were layed off, certain shifts would have only one man on the street.

Selectman Diana Kornet suggested deferring the purchase of two police cruisers instead.

Kealey also said he doesn't recommend cutting the secretarial position.

He said if that cut is made, some of that work will have to be done by police officers.

Selectman Ned Tebbetts proposed that no officers be cut, and that the two police cruisers, at about $13,000 each, and secretary, at about $9,000, be eliminated.

Pratt commented that that would amount to a little less than half of the cut which is necessary.

Tebbetts suggested that the police department could take a smaller percentage cut.

"We have to look at other budgets and see if $35,000 to $40,000 can be cut from anywhere else, which I doubt," said Pratt.

"Or we've got a big problem."

Some $34,787, or 9.9 percent was cut from the selectmen's budget.

Executive secretary Greg Doyon also suggested three additional cuts.

He proposed that the town not have an audit this year, saving $10,000, and eliminate the budget of the constitution committee which was recently discharged, saving $50.

Doyon also proposed cutting back on town hall's spring water cooler and saving about $520.

"I disagree," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"We have lousy water," he said.

"It should stay in."

"People can keep bottled water in the refrigerator," suggested selectman Diana Kornet.

"I think we are talking peanuts here," said selectman chairman Burt Pratt.

Pratt also said that he was not in favor of an earlier proposal to limit town hall access by the public one day a week, to make up for a cut back in staff.

"I'm not in favor of closing the building for one minute," said Pratt.

He suggested reducing the number of town reports which are printed.

Pratt also proposed cutting the town counsel budget by $10,000.

He said that last year, that budget had $20,000 left over at the end of the year.

"What if we do need to put more in money?" asked Selectman Ned Tebbetts.

Doyon said the money could come from the reserve fund.

The executive secretary also said the town accountant's department has cut back, and the building inspector will not seek a part time zoning officer as he had planned.

"The harbor master has proposed doing away with certain patrols," said Doyon.

Tree and park superintendent Peter Laugelle proposed cutting $11,870, or 9 percent, from his budget.

Laugelle said he could cut back on such things as repairing the war memorial, as well as hiring temporary employees and planting flowers.

Pratt suggested that the overtime budget be eliminated.

"We want to get overtime out in this department and every other department," he said.

"We're in a tight financial situation."

Wire inspector Steve Wigmore noted that if an employee works, the town has to pay.

"We'll have to make exceptions," said Pratt, "but the overtime is excessive."

"The advisory committee has asked us to take out overtime."

Tebbetts said overtime should be reduced, but not eliminated.

Selectman Diana Kornet also suggested the tree and park department cut back on overtime.

If it needs more, it can be requested from the reserve fund, she said.

Laugelle said overtime is necessitated by such

Former Cohasset administrator shocked to lose job

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

When Janet Chalke started her new position as administrative assistant to the board of selectmen May 1, she never expected her job to be one of the first casualties of budget cuts

But now that it has happened, she said she is not planning to fight the action.

"I have no intention at this time of pursuing the matter any further," said Chalke, who was told that her position would be eliminated one week after she began work at town hall.

The salary is almost $26,000 a year.

Selectman chairman Ed Lewiecki told her last Monday, May 8, that her position would be eliminated as part of an 8 percent reduction in the selectmen's budget.

Town-wide budget cuts were necessitated after Proposition 2 1/2 overrides were not approved by voters last month.

"It was a very difficult decision to make," said Lewiecki.

"We had no anticipation of this happening."

We're very sorry to lose Janet," said selectman Kate Mahony.

"She is an extremely competent person.

"Maybe we should have foreseen this, but it's hard to know," she said.

"I was shocked and stunned at the news ," said Chalke this week.

"I never for a minute expected that an established position would be cut.

"I had specifically asked about that between the time when I was hired and when I came to work."

Chalke said she talked to selectmen about the matter.

"The selectmen seemed to be so optimistic about the override," she said, "and that if it did fail, it wouldn't affect us."

But it did fail, and selectmen felt this was the route to follow, she said.

"He (Lewiecki) said I could stay until the end of the (fiscal) year, since the money had already been appropriated," said Chalke.

Other employees in the selectmen's office are Elaine Waugh, secretary to the board of selectmen, and a town hall employee for more than 30 years, and Marilyn Harrington, a clerk with 12 years seniority.

Chalke, a Scituate resident, said she doesn't feel that eliminating her position is the only option available.

"I don't feel it is necessary to eliminate a job," she said.

"I would like the opportunity to look at the budget.

"I think there are other alternatives available."

But Chalke acknowledged that selectmen have already made their decision.

"It's their choice," she said.

Before coming to Hingham, Chalke had been employed by the Town of Cohasset for five years.

She was administrative assistant to the board of selectmen.

"I thought a long time about making a career move," said Chalke.

"And here I am."

Though her job in Cohasset paid slightly more money, she took the Hingham position anticipating an increase July 1.

Chalke also considered the position a step up in her career.

"This is strictly an administrative position," she said.

"You always feel bad about eliminating a position," said selectman Edna English.

"Anyone is unhappy to see a person's livelihood affected.

"But we had to cut the budget by 8 percent."

She said cuts were also made in such things as conferences, electricity, heating and ventilation, building maintenance and equipment replacement.

In addition, said English, the biggest cut was made in the selectmen's engineering budget to correct drainage problems in town.

"It was cut from $6,000 to $1,000," said English.

"It had been $74,000 the year before."

Cutting Chalke's position was a budget necessity, according to English.

"Since it was a necessity, and she was the most recent employee, we cut back on her position," she said.

"The budget cut reflected only the budget necessity, and was not a reflection on the quality of her work," added English.

She said that selectmen started advertising in January for the position which was left vacant when Daisy Janey retired.

The position was also upgraded to include more administrative responsibilities.

"In January, we had no way of anticipating that we wouldn't have sufficient funds," said English.

"It's important for people to know that in town business, we interface with other departments in making personnel decisions," she added.

The first three months of an individual's employment at town hall are probationary, according to English.

"It's a point of personnel policy," she said.

"They are not eligible for full benefits until they are here for three months."

English said the work in Chalke's position will fall back on the other office staff and selectmen.

"We'll do our best," she said.

"The reductions have caused a lot of sadness in many departments," said Mahony.

""I didn't think this would come up.

"I guess I didn't perceive that we would have to make such a large cut.

"But eight percent was a lot of money, and the only way to achieve it was to make a cut.

"There was nothing else we could do.

"Postage and envelopes don't make up enough of it to make the reduction.

"There were some areas we couldn't cut. So this was the one left to us.

"I feel very badly about it.

"But we have some very competent, longtime employees in the office who will jump in and fill the breech.

"It does put a great deal more pressure on those employees.

"We will need more help, but I don't know how it will be handled.

"Every department knew there would be very distasteful cuts.

"We'll do the best with what we have got left in the budget."

things as fallen trees, or problems at the ball field or cemetery.

He said that there was overtime last week to mow grass, which is set back a day when it rains.

"I don't agree that you should go to overtime if you are told by the weather forecasters that it will rain," said Kornet.

The department's overtime was cut from $5,709 to $2,000 with the understanding that if more money was justified, a transfer would be requested.

Selectman Rocco Laugelle was opposed.

The cemetery budget, which Peter Laugelle also oversees, was reduced in summer help, maintenance and tools, saving $2,210.

"There is no overtime in there," he said.

"Will you suffer in the summer by cutting summer help?" asked Pratt.

"It will put us behind," answered Laugelle,"but you said to cut 9 percent."

"Is there anything else to cut to save summer employees," Pratt questioned.

"No," answered Laugelle.

Wire Inspector Wigmore proposed cutting his budget by $12,500, including a reduction of $2,600 in overtime.

Jeff Waal of the conservation commission said that $300 can be cut in office supplies.

Waal also said the conservation commission hopes that the attorney general will approve a revolving account for engineering costs.

Overall, Chalke said she has enjoyed her brief experience working in Hingham.

"There is a wonderful group at town hall to work with," she said.

"I like it here. I thought it would be a enjoyable position."

Chalke said she plans to remain until the end of the fiscal year, "unless someone offers me a job I can't refuse."

She and her husband have two children in college, and a third will start in the fall.

She has not planned what she will do after June 30.

"If a good opportunity presents itself, I'll probably go right into it," she said.

"But it's not a prime time of year for job hunters.

"I'll wait and see.

"I have confidence in my own skills and ability, and that there is another job out there.

"By nature, I'm a very optimistic person."

But she said she would think twice about taking a job with another city or town.

"I would take a hard look at the job before I take another position with a municipal government," she said.

man."

Pratt said the tree and park department is currently readying the town for Memorial Day.

"It's a little more important to address the needs of the living," said Kornet.

Peter Saxton of Forest Ave. said he was surprised that people don't go to the DEQE and see that the town is fined because of the problem.

Becker said the town has appealed the last DEQE fine.

"If we don't win the appeal on this, we are really in trouble," she said.

There is a fine of $25,000 for each day of violation, according to Becker.

□ Michelle Hartley of Cohasset High School was named to the 1989 Boston Globe All-Scholastic Gymnastics Team.

Hartley led the South Shore League with a 34.0 all-round average. She was a member of the all-star team and had an average of 8.5 on the uneven bars and a 9.0 floor exercise average.

The Boston Globe All-Scholastic Awards Program honors high school athletes in Eastern Massachusetts who have demonstrated exceptional talent in a particular sport. The Boston Globe began the All-Scholastic concept in 1901 with the first All-Scholastic football team.

□ Jeff Hartwell of Cohasset, a sophomore at Colby College, was a standout in the Maine State Golf Tournament in which Colby captured the title.

□ Dennis C. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Jones of Conasset, recently received his varsity letter in basketball at Worcester Academy. The Hilltoppers finished regular season play with a 16 & 3 record, advancing to the semi-finals of the New England Prep School Class A Basketball Tournament.

□Hunneman and Company, Better Homes and Gardens, will host an evening with TV personality Bob Thomson of WGBH's The Victory Garden. The program will be held on May 18th from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Scituate High School Auditorium (Rte. 3A). Bob will narrate a slide presentation followed by a question and answer period. Call your Hunneman office at 383-9202 to reserve a seat now.

□Good ol' Cohasset won't be the same after this month. Virginia Barnes is retiring after 45 years of rubbish service in the town. She began working for her dad, after that she worked with her brothers, then she worked for herself. A dedicated woman, and certainly a familiar face around town, she will be missed. Happy retirement to you!

□That will teach 'im!! If you have seen Glen Pratt recently, you know of what we speak! Glen is sporting a broken nose, which he received when he was trying to stare Chris down in a contest. Don't you know the kids always win, Glen?

□Congratulations to Jane Croker, who was recently named Broker of the Month of March for Gallery 360.

□Have you seen the newest member of the Zappollo family? Michael and Sandra had a magnificent looking baby boy on April 11th, and we sure do wish them well. What fun!!

□Don't forget that this Friday and Saturday (May 19th and 20th) the Cohasset Historical Society will exhibit the 19th century wedding gowns. The exhibit will be held at the Caleb Lothrop House on Summer Street from 2 to 5 p.m. and admission is free! You will be able to see 10 of the best gowns chosen from the Historical Society's costume collection, and the setting will be that of a wedding reception with refreshments for the guests. What a treat that will be, a step back in time at the right time of year!

□Happy birthday to Amy Silvia.

□We are glad to report that Dorothy Russell is home from South Shore Hospital. . . cannot help but feel better with the great weather and all of nature's beauty around you, we hope you'll be chipper soon!

□Diana Kornet received a muchly-deserved plaque from the School Committee last week, to honor her nine years of service to the board and the town of Cohasset! We certainly appreciate all of your time and efforts that you put forth on the School Committee, and we know that you will be working even harder as our selectperson (if that is possible!!). We thank you!

□It is nice that we now have Airport Shuttle Serice that will take us in and out of Logan for $31! They sure will be able to take one nightmare out of our hands, that drive has become dreadful and promises to be worse!

□Happy birthday to Maren Cameron.

□Beach Street won't be the same now that Carroll Richards has passed away. He was a fine man who will be missed by all.

□ All who saw her loved Emily Reardon in her role as Dorothy in the Wizard of Oz that was held at Thayer Academy last weekend. We hear tell she was wonderful, and should pursue a career in acting/singing. Good for you Emily! Of course, mom and dad (Susan and Norbit) must be busting their buttons with pride, and rightfully so.

□Here's hoping that Roz Reardon is feeling ever so much better after her recent fall. Just remember, Mrs. Reardon, you cannot keep a good lady down!

Please remember to call me with your news!

Hallmark 100 hosts open house

The new office for Hallmark 100, located at 89 Ripley Rd.

The Cohasset office of Hallmark 100 Properties Ltd. recently relocated its office to 89 Ripley Road, across from the post office, in Cohasset Village.

The new office is the former home of Property Connections and prior to that served as the medical offices of Dr. Robert Seary.

Hallmark 100 sales associates look forward to showing off their new property at an open house scheduled Thursday, May 25, from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. All Hallmark associates are consistent "million dollar salespeople" which is why they are part of the Hallmark sales team. Acting independently, each associate has total control over their own advertising budget, which results in a personalized and specific marketing campaign for sellers.

Hallmark 100 offers many marketing services to sellers and buyers: competitive market analysis, computerized mortgage and finance information, preview and consultation, advertising, document notarization, and investment property portfolio.

Efforts in vain?

Welcome to the Cohasset Mariner's budget issue.

And it's only going to get worse. As we approach the May 31 town meeting, we'll do our best to supply you with all the information pertinent to the town budget, And meanwhile, we'll try to dig up a little more news, in no way relating to a Proposition 2 1/2 override. But it won't be easy.

As we were putting this issue together, we realized that the bulk of the paper this week deals with money, budgets, revenues, expenditures, overrides, accounts, financial shortfalls and fiscal years.

Yet, we find there are people in this community who think there are others who are ill-informed or not informed enough about the override, and the effects of its defeat. Is it possible?

Never mind the efforts of the Mariner to keep the electorate informed. There's the daily newspaper which has been nothing if not thorough in its reporting. And then there's the ever-diligent PSO whose members have talked to just about every taxpayer in this town, presenting their side of the argument and the consequences..

If someone is ill-informed, it can only be by choice.

Realistically, we think the override was defeated because a slight majority of voters are fed up with higher taxes.

They did not vote against the schools. Nor do they want fewer police officers on patrol or fewer firefighters responding to an emergency. They simply don't want and can't afford higher tax bills.

The schools were an unhappy consequence of their choice.,

We're not sure what efforts can be made to convince voters to undo their vote of May 6. We'll do our part to illustrate what could happen if the reduced budget becomes reality. Through our editorials we will attempt to persuade voters that a higher tax bill is a better alternative than less teachers in the classrooms and fewer police officers on patrol.

But we wonder, will our efforts be in vain?

There is nothing more difficult than trying to squeeze money from a stone. And when it comes to asking for more taxes, it's probably easier to wring out that rock. But it won't stop us from trying.

The town meeting is set for May 31. While we attempt to educate the public about the effects of a reduced budget, we will also continue our plea for a large turnout at the town meeting.

A few hundred voters at town meeting aren't representative of this town's population, We need a big turnout - at least as many as those who cast their ballots on May 6. We're hoping this large cross section of Cohasset will vote against reducing the budget.

But then, of course, we've created another dilemma which will require a second override election. And then it will be back to the public relations effort to get voters out to the poll.

It's like a big circle, understand? But at this point, we're not sure where it's headed and when it will stop. Stay tuned.

In the meantime for your reading pleasure, we'll have some other news to share..But somehow it always comes back to the override.

Well, let's just be thankful it's not another sewer story.

Recreation dept. corrects figures

Letters

To the Editor:

(This letter was sent to the advisory committee from recreation commission. Ed)

Should a board or committee choose to quote statistical data of another committee or commission, they should take great care to provide correct and accurate information. This may be especially encumbent should the committee utilize the data in reference to suggestions that the subject committee be eliminated.

To correct your quotes that appeared in the Friday, May 12, 1989 edition of the Patriot Ledger, I offer the following: The figures of a $66,000 recreation budget, and a return of $30,000 to the town, via fee charges, are incorrect. Our Fiscal Year 1990 budget, prior to the 9 percent reduction, was projected at about $66,000. However, your comparative analysis of $30,000 return to the General Fund, was, in fact about $4,000 shy of the actual amount, but more importantly, the $33,858 to which you refer, were receipts collected in Fiscal Year 1988. (July 1, 1987 thru June 30, 1988, ie: Receipts we began collecting almost 2 years ago, and finished collecting almost 1 year ago).

$52,004 was the amount of the Fiscal Year 1988 budget that was reviewed and approved by the advisory committee. It was that budget of $52,004 that generated, via per capita fee charges, the $33,858 worth of revenue for the General Fund, hence, of benefit to each and every taxpayer. It should also be noted that the $52,004 provided residents with cash value services of about $131,000 while affording another $26,000 worth of programs and activities via the Revolving Account Fund for 100 percent participant paid for programs, and direct vendor payments. Interestingly, it was only about $13,000 of the budget, that had fee generating capabilities.

Your analysis then, should have read: The recreation commission budget of $52,000 afforded residents with about $150,000 worth of services, while returning almost $34,000 back to the town and residents, in cash.

Fiscal Year 1988 is the last full year of statistics, as we still have a few weeks left in Fiscal 1989. The Fiscal 1989 recreation commission budget of about $65,000 will, as can be fairly accurately projected with but a few weeks left, probably generate for the General Fund, about $50,000. The status of our F.Y. 1990 budget is about $61,000 however, fee generation will probably remain near the $50,000 figure for 1990. As you may be aware, our budget is 60% of the total town budget, and for the F.Y. 1989 tax rate of $14.63, approximately .08 is recreation, and these figures were calculated without figuring in the cash we return to the town, presumably off-setting our budget impact. It has been via resourceful, responsible and creative financing that we have been able to provide residents with the most possible, for the least amount of money as possible.

It was only through personal and departmental sacrifice that we were able to present an F.Y. 1990, level funded from F.Y. 1989, budget to you this year. We have always made great efforts to remain as cost efficient as we can, and to do our very best to stay within the general guidelines you establish each year at budget preparation time. In return, we ask no special consideration, only that correct and accurate data be allowed into the news media.

We are well aware of the difficulties of your collective responsibilities, and the very difficult decisions residents will have to make at Town Meeting later this month. We feel, however, that residents must be supplied with only correct and the most recent data that are possible, allowing them to make the best decisions.

We thank you for your considerations of this matter, and remain at your service.

Damaging consequences to schools

To the Editor:

Cohasset Town Meeting voters overwhelmingly supported the town operating budget recommended by the Board of Selectmen and the Advisory Committee. In addition to those at Town Meeting, many more citizens voted in the May 6 election to support the override necessary to fund the budget. Since the election it has become apparent that many voters were genuinely confused about the wording and, therefore, the meaning, scope, and impact of Question #1, including some who regret their "no" vote. Others wished to express frustration with town spending but did not wish to harm the school system. Still others believe that the comprehensive Five Year Strategic Plan developed this year by the School Committee, with the help of parents, teachers, and administrators, responds more effectively to concerns about management of the schools than a drastic reduction in funding.

Town officials might wonder what else they could have done to have informed voters. What they should do now, in all fairness, is to give the voters a chance — in public meetings, at the May 31 Town Meeting, and in another override election — to express what I believe is the true mandate of the town, that is, strong support for the public education of Cohasset's children. I do not believe that the majority of citizens of this town, whether they have children in the schools or not, want to accept the truly damaging consequences to Cohasset public education if the School Department is forced to reduce their budget by $400,000 this year.

A look back into childhood on May 25

on the tour.

"We'll have all different styles of doll houses," said community center director Judy Volungis.

"Some are very elaborate, and some are strictly for children," said Volungis.

"Some were made and some were bought.

"Some are museum quality, and some are not.

"The purpose is to present all types of doll houses," she said.

Pease's 1950's colonial is complete with electricity, hardwood floors, four fireplaces, needlepoint rugs, and many examples of handmade doll house furniture.

Her father made it for her when she was 9-years-old.

"I put it away when I was 16," said Pease.

Then when her youngest daughter, Sarah, was 1-year-old, Pease started working on it by adding such things as siding, windows, flooring, doors and electricity.

"I worked on it every day for a few years," she said.

Now Sarah,6, and her sisters, Molly, 12, and Abby, 10, play with it.

"It's not worth it if you can't touch it," said Pease.

Tiny framed photos of her daughters hang on a wall of the doll house.

Her home is known as the one with a doll house in the bow window where it enjoys a place of prominence.

Pease fondly remembers from her childhood some of the furniture in the house.

"It's very 1950s," said Pease, pointing to a white kitchen and bathroom.

"I tell my husband it's our heirloom," she said with a smile.

Julianne Hassan's antique house is of museum quality, built by an architect who made doll houses during the Depression to make ends meet.

It is large by doll house standards, about 3-feet high, and is fully electrical.

Much of the furniture is hand-made, and there are also antiques.

Charlene Burns gave her daughter, Christine, a doll house for her eighth birthday, three years ago.

"She loves it," said Burns.

"I told her it's my gift to her.

"No one else in the world has one quite like this."

The house features three different floors with wall-papered rooms, curtains on the windows and rugs on the floors.

The bathroom includes details such as towels on the bath tub, as well as a glass and toothbrush on the sink.

A dress form and sewing machine grace one bedroom, and a TV, VCR and record player are in the living room.

"The hardest thing to do was paint the ceiling," said Burns.

Three generations of dolls live in the house.

"My parents gave her the grandparent dolls as a stocking gift one year," she said.

"I bought the house when Christine was 2, and I put it away.

"It's her favorite, along with her Barbie doll."

Burns has enjoyed time spent working on the house.

"It's fun and relaxing and you can lose yourself in it," she said.

Jean Replogle's doll house is an exact reproduction of her former home in Garden City, N.Y., designed by Stanford White in 1884.

Her friends gave her the doll house as a farewell present.

Since then, Replogle, an artist, has landscaped the house and painted the brick walk.

She has hand painted murals in the dining room, a dining room rug, and tiny pictures which she has framed with antique daguerrotype frames.

All of them are reproductions of the artwork in her original Victorian home.

She has also tried to reproduce many of the furnishings.

Not all of the doll houses are homes.

Jean Lennon has been working on her miniature general store for for 10 years.

It is complete with a pot-bellied stove, barrels of goodies, candy jars, dried provisions, fruits, vegetables and a Christmas tree.

While many of the doll houses have sentimental value, some also have another kind of worth.

"One house in the last tour was worth $25,000 including the house and furnishing," said Volungis.

"It had sterling silver and an exquisite chandelier."

About 300 people attended the first tour, and 350 the second one.

"They came from as far as Cape Cod and the North Shore," she said.

"We got a lot of older people who may or may not have given doll houses as presents to their grand children,"said Volungis.

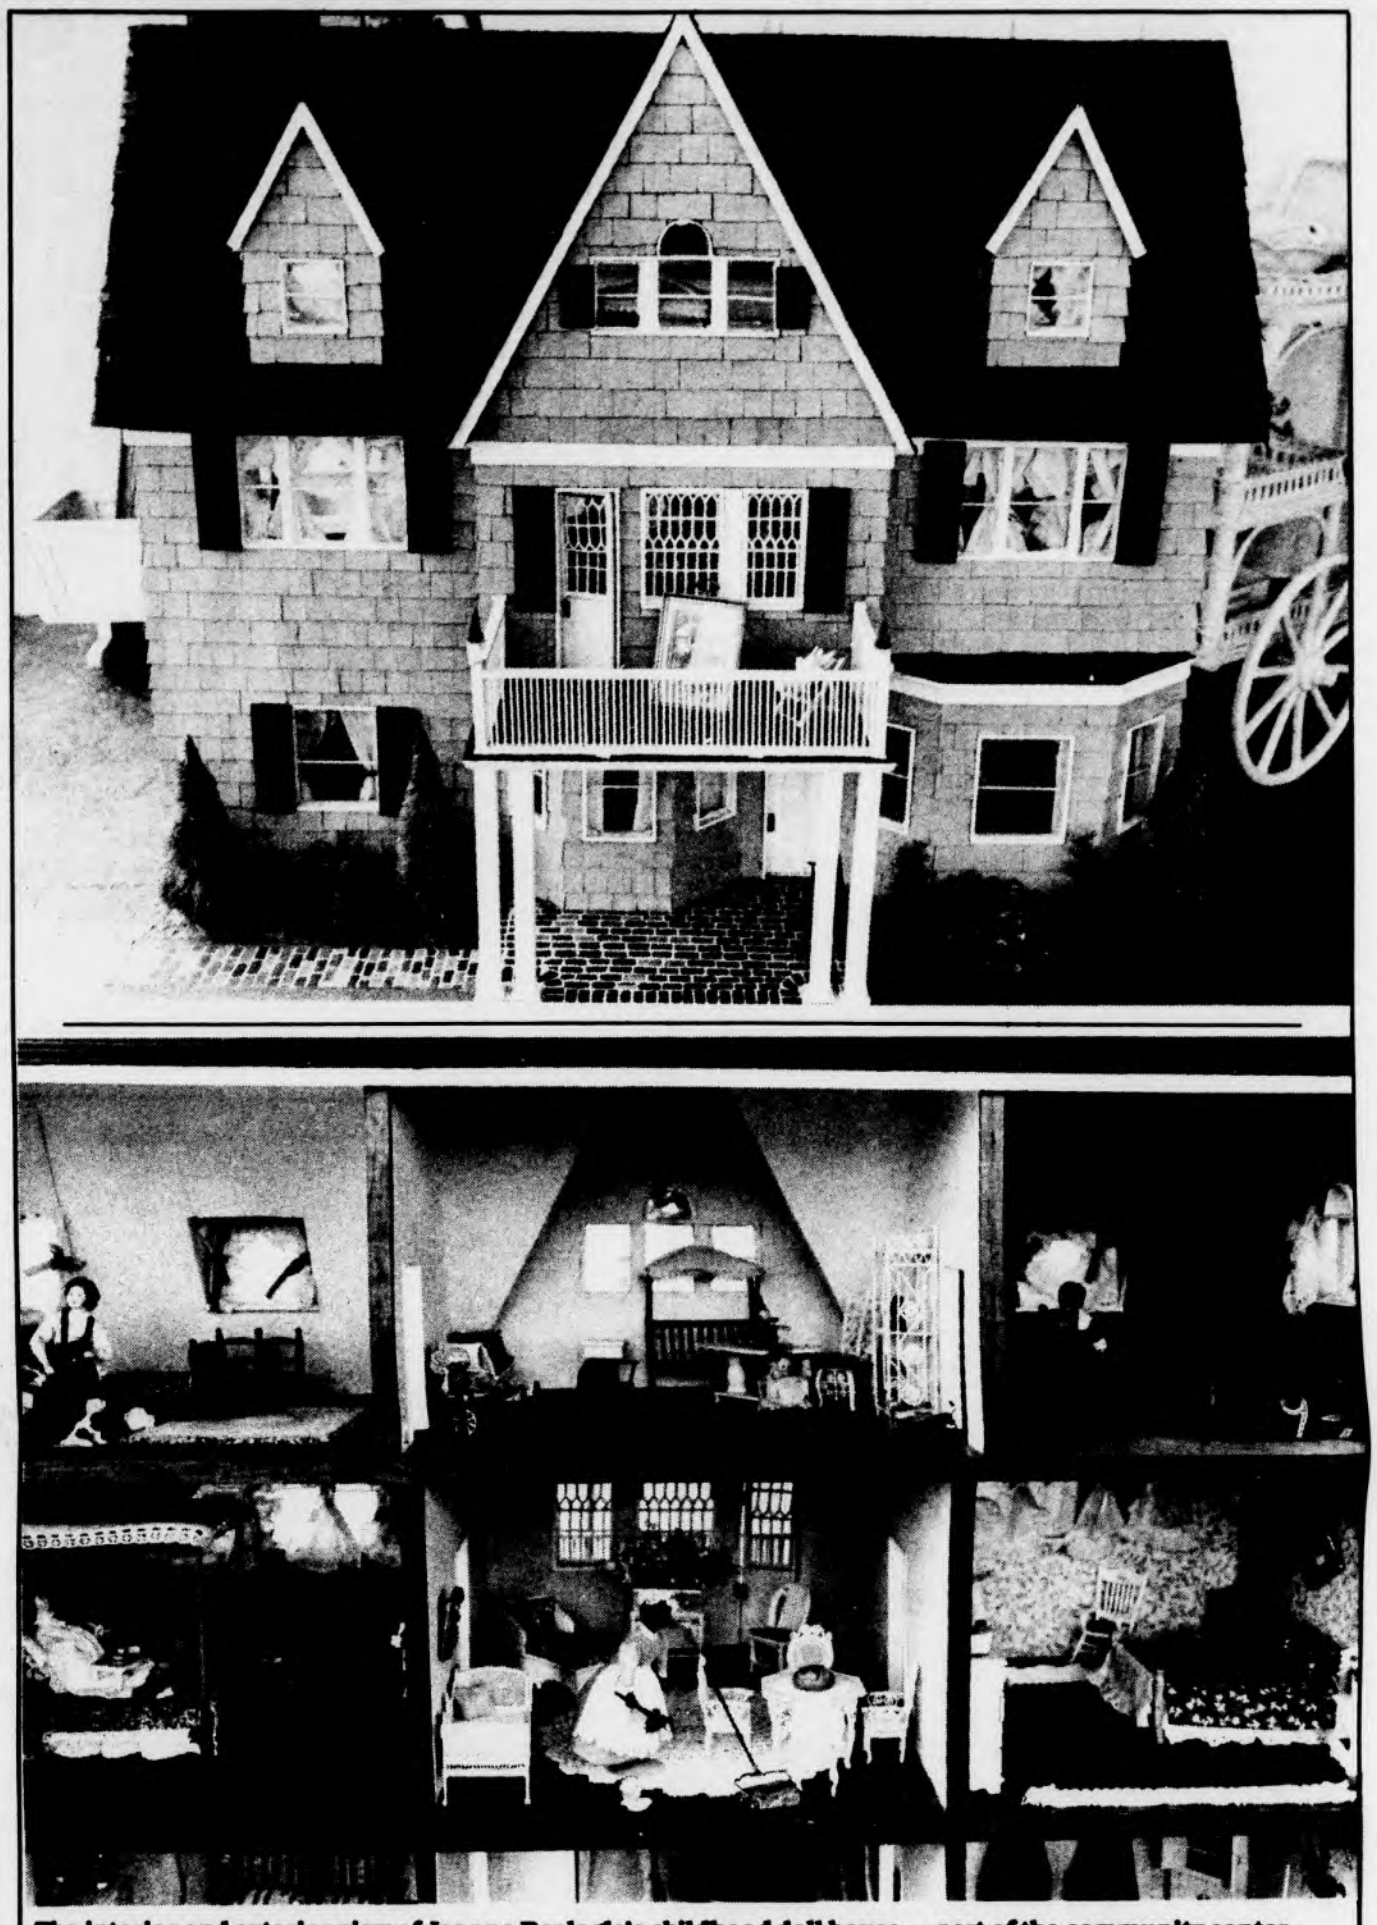
"We also got a lot of school age children."

The idea for the doll house tour developed from garden club house tours held in town.

"We thought, wouldn't it be great to have a house tour for kids?" she said.

Originally, the tour was thought of as a mother/daughter outing.

But it has branched out from there and includes collectors and others interested in doll houses as well.



A doll house dealer will have some items for sale at the community center during the tour.

"We're still looking for more doll houses," added Volungis.

"They're something people like to show."

Committee members for the tour are Volungis, general chairman; procurement, set up and break down, Sarah Pease; refreshments, Nancy Lanata; decorations, Lee Jenkins; publicity, Ronnie Wach, and hostesses, Holly Holway.

For more information, call the community center at 383-0088.

American citizens have to clean up their act

Letters

To the Editor:

When 600,000 Americans clamor for the right to abort and unwanted pregnancy that should tell us something. America has a problem and its not with the courts or the laws. The problem lies with the people.

America needs to clean up its act. Stop wallowing in sleaze and illicit sex. Leave the low road and dare to dream. Dare to stand for moral values. Dare to set high personal goals. Dare to tell your kids that life can be clean, honest, beautiful. Let families become families again. Let mothers return to the home to tend and nurture their children. Let fathers support their homes and love and protect their wives and their children. Let parents teach their children that their bodies are sacred and not to be violated.

With a return to these standards and practices most of the social and economic ills of today could be solved, simply by living the law of chasity before marriage and complete fidelity after. Too hard, you say? Think of the consequences: AIDS, drugs, crime, and stagering taxes. A no-win situation. Yes, our nation has a problem. But let us start now to prepare ourselves for a better tomorrow.

Community Center sponsors '40's musical

Relive the era of swing, jukebox, zoot suits and seamed stockings at "In the Mood," a musical review of the 1940s, Sunday, May 21, at 2 p.m. at Cohasset High School.

Performed by Scituate residents Joey MacDonald and Brian Gurl, the show is being sponsored by the Cohasset Community Center.

"It's just something different for another segment of the population," said community center director Judy Volungis.

"It will provide an afternoon of entertainment.

"We hope some of the senior citizens will bring their children to the hour and a half program."

According to Volungis, this is the first time the community center has sponsored such a show.

"Joey MacDonald and Brian Gurl live in Scituate, and they are in between tours," she explained.

"So we talked them into doing this as a fund raiser for the community center.

"They travel all over the country to do this."

Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for senior citizens.

They can be purchased in advance, or at the door the day of the performance.

More information is available by calling 383-0088.

The 1940s show is a blend of nostalgic music, comedy, dances, colorful costumes and audience participation.

During the show, it's not unusual for MacDonald to invite three men from the audience to join her on stage.

With a few costume changes and wigs, she turns them into the Andrews Sisters.

The two perform 30 to 40 tunes from the 40s and play different characters , complete with costume changes.

"In the Mood" is one of several decade-type shows that the two perform.

MacDonald and Gurl began performing together 12 years ago after meeting in Vermont.

MacDonald, 52, said singing, dancing and comedy were things she always wanted to do.

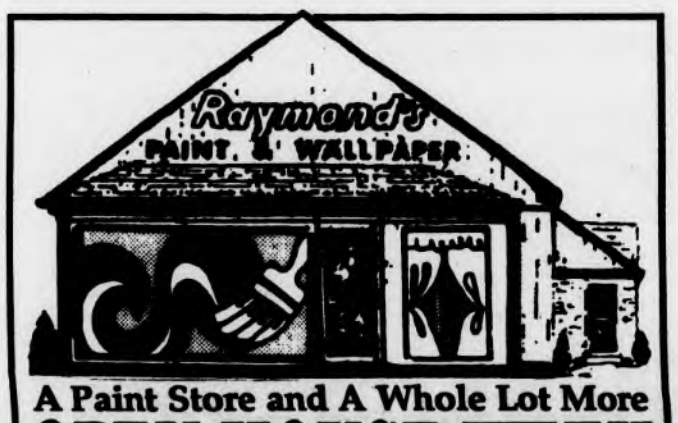
She is the mother of four grown children.

Gurl, 35, a pianist, who joins his partner on stage in song and dance, grew up wanting to play piano.

Before joining MacDonald, he played in a band called The Ensemble, made up of former big band musicians, all older than him.

He attended the University of New Hampshire.

In their years together, they say, they have performed for more than 300,000 senior citizens during their tours.



The two write and choreograph their own show.

Gurl does all the musical arrangements, and MacDonald makes all the costumes.

"They did a portion of their show last week for senior citizens," said Volungis, "and they loved it.

"We hope we'll get people from Cohasset, Hingham, Scituate and all over."

Joey MacDonald and Brian Gurl, who will perform a 40's musical production May 21.

The Village at Duxbury

The Village at Duxbury is a new senior living community planned for the South Shore—right in historic Duxbury. It is based on service and hospitality, will be self-contained and is for active, independent seniors.

The concept of senior living eases many of life's pressures in an environment that is both caring and exhilarating.

The Village at Duxbury has chosen the pineapple as the symbol most representative of the community because it has long stood for hospitality, friendship and celebration.

The Village at Duxbury is being planned by Welch Healthcare and Retirement Group, a local, family-owned and operated company that has been active in quality senior housing services on the South Shore for over four decades.

Think about message to children

Letters

To The editor:

To all who voted for the "Education President" in November and voted "No" on the recent override — How dare you abrogate your moral and social responsibility to our children and community?

Has your pocketbook no conscience? Has your conscience no counsel? Has your counsel no hope or vision for tomorrow? Certainly the extra $200.00 or $400.00 it may have cost each voter is a meaningful sum to many. However, for many others, it's a big evening on the town or perhaps a new cocktail dress. Can any of it be worth more than a child's dream to learn — to be the brightest? Can we be so myopic as to ignore the urgency and necessity to deliver quality education on a global scale?

Shall we expect our children and grandchildren to heed our exhortation to study hard and get a good education and then turn our backs on them in the voting booth? Think a moment about the message we're sending to our children, and ponder the uncertain future, should they follow in our footsteps — for some certainly will. And twenty years from now they too will cast their votes for the next "Education President." Of course by then they may have forgiven you for the dubious condition of their educational system — you may not, however, forgive yourself for the adverse effect on your real estate values.

Volunteers thanked

To The Editor:

I would like to let the Community of Cohasset know that Cohasset Knoll Nursing Home has been very busy of late.

April was National Volunteer month and the Knoll honored its Volunteers for their years of service with a banquet luncheon and presentations.

We would like to make a public thank you to all its volunteers who gave tirelessly of their time every week to improve the Quality of Life for our residents.

May 14-20 is National Nursing Home Week. An open invitation is extended to our seven (7) days of events starting with a Mother's Day Celebration. Open House from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Sunday, May 14 and ending with a Mass for the Elderly at St. Paul's Church, Hingham.

Many thanks to the South Shore Conservatory of Music; Deer Hill Elementary School; Eastern Nazarine College Jazz Bank; State Representative Mary-Jeanette Murray; Mr. Charles Watson, Pianist; and the Musical entertainment by "George Martha."

License your dog

To The Editor:

As of June 1, 1989 The Town Of Cohasset will issue a $25 dollar fine to dog owners who have not licensed their dogs yet. Since this will be the first year that we will be fining dog owners for being delinquent in obtaining the licenses, I thought it would only be fair to warn people in advance.

Residents who have dogs that are not currently licensed are required to obtain a license from the Town Clerk. In order to obtain the license you must bring a rabies certificate with you and also a spay/neuter certificate (if applicable).

Thank you,
William P. Quigley

Bach festival at conservatory

The South Shore Conservatory will hold a Bach Festival Sunday, May 21.

Conservatory students in the schools three branches: children and adults, faculty, and guest artists will take part in the programs performing various compositions by Bach.

At 4 p.m. there will be a recital by children at the school and at 7:30 p.m., there will be a program by advanced students, members of the faculty and special guests. The programs are free and the public is invited to the Festival at the Conservatory, off 19 Fort Hill St. in Hingham.

The main feature of the evening will be a performance of Bach's Cantata #189, the Tenor Cantata, by singers and instrumentalists from Rhode Island College under the direction of Donald St. Jean.

Guest artist David Sukoff, Director of the Brookline Music School, will perform an arrangement of Bach's Art of the Fugue for four recorders. He will play this piece with three of his students.

Conservatory faculty members who will perform include: Luisa Buchanan, head of the piano department, who arranged this program; David Cross, clarinetist; and pianists, Mark Goodman and Teresa Boland.

The South Shore Conservatory is a non profit community school of the arts and is funded in part by the Mass Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Costumes exhibit this week

The Cohasset Historical Society's special spring costumes display featuring 19th century Bridal Gowns will take place this Friday and Saturday May 19 and 20 from 2 to 5 p.m., at the Society's 1821 Georgian home, the Caleb Lothrop House, Summer Street.

Admission to this program is free, and refreshments will be served.

From its extensive 19th and 20th century costumes collection the Society's costumes committee has chosen 10 bridal gowns, each unique in its own way. Accessories appropriate for the occasion also will be shown, all in the ambience of an early Cohasset merchant and shipowner's home.

Mrs. Betty Grassie will serve as chairperson. Members of the committee will be in attendance to describe the costumes.

Benefit concert May 21

Organist Berj Zamkochian of Canton will join Artist Berj Kailian of Weymouth for an Armenian Earthquake Benefit afternoon Sunday, May 21 at 2 p.m.

The event will begin with an organ recital at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Cohasset Village. Zamkochian will play works of Franck, Bach, and Alan Hovaness.

The recital will be followed by a buffet reception at the South Shore Art Center in Cohasset Village.

At 4 p.m., there will be an opening reception for Kailian's Retrospective and Gallery Artists Exhibition at the South Shore Art Center.

Tickets for the May 21 Armenian Earthquake Benefit are $25. Reservations are required. Contact the South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road in Cohasset, 02025; or call (617) 383-9548.

AARP membership meeting

The South Shore Chapter AARP #1139 will hold a membership meeting May 25 at 1:30 p.m. at the Sons of Italy Hall, Rte. 3A in Hingham.

The speaker will be Harvey Gordon, Esq. who will talk about "Update on Protecting Your Assets."

Summer creativity workshop

The Children's Summer Creativity workshops will begin July 31 and run througout the month of August. In this established program students meet mornings once a week for five weeks in an outdoor setting in Hingham.

Classes are two hours and are kept small to provide individual attention. There are three programs being offered this summer. A special program for young artists entering kindergarten in the fall. This series will encourage confidence, self-expression and focus on primary skills.

For ages 6 to 8 young artists will work on projects relating to nature. Each session a new media will be introduced.

Older artists, ages 9 to 13, meet one evening a week. The main emphasis will be learning how to draw with special attention to the art of seeing. There will be many oppoortunities to stretch the creative process through the use of varied materials. Each child's own special creativity will b encouraged.

To insure placement in the work shops pre-paid registration is required. Closing date for registration is June 2.

For more information, call instructor Lynn Rizzotto at 749-2453.

Into Africa tour

Reservations are now being taken for The New England Wildlife Center's second tour to East Africa in November, 1989.

The tour will be led by Victoria Smythe, staff biologist, photographer and wildlife educator. This will be Smythe's fourth trip to Kenya.

Response to the first tour was excellent, and tour participants were treated to an amazing count of over 300 different bird species and over 50 mammal species, including glimpses of the elusive leopard, a mother rhino with a young calf, and a den of bat-eared foxes!

November's 18-day tour features visits to Tsavo, Amboseli, Samburu, The Ark, and the Masaai Mara Reserve.

There is also an option one-week extension to Tanzania. A detailed itinerary will be mailed upon request.

Smythe will present her program "INTO AFRICA," a slide presentation set to music, as well as a lecture on the animals and ecology of Kenya, June 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the New England Wildlife Center's new auditorium, located on 19 Fort Hill Street in Hingham.

The fee for this hour-and-a-half program is $2.50 for adults and $1 for children, payable at the door, but please call ahead to reserve seating. Refreshments will be available.

Contact the Center if you need any further information about the tour or the INTO AFICA program, at 749-5387.

Bird Club excursions

The South Shore Bird Club will take a trip to Mt. Auburn and Marblehead Neck Sunday, May 21 at 6:30 a.m. Meet at entrance to Marblehead Neck Sanctuary. Take Route 1A to Route 129, turn right on Ocean Avenue and left on Risley Road to the sanctuary.

Call David Clapp at 617-837-9400 for further information.

On Sunday, May 28, at 6 a.m., Alan Leggett will lead a trip to Plum Island and Newburyport. Meet at the Sportsmen's Lodge on Airport Road in Newburyport. Call him at 617-585-6305.

Summer Theatre registration

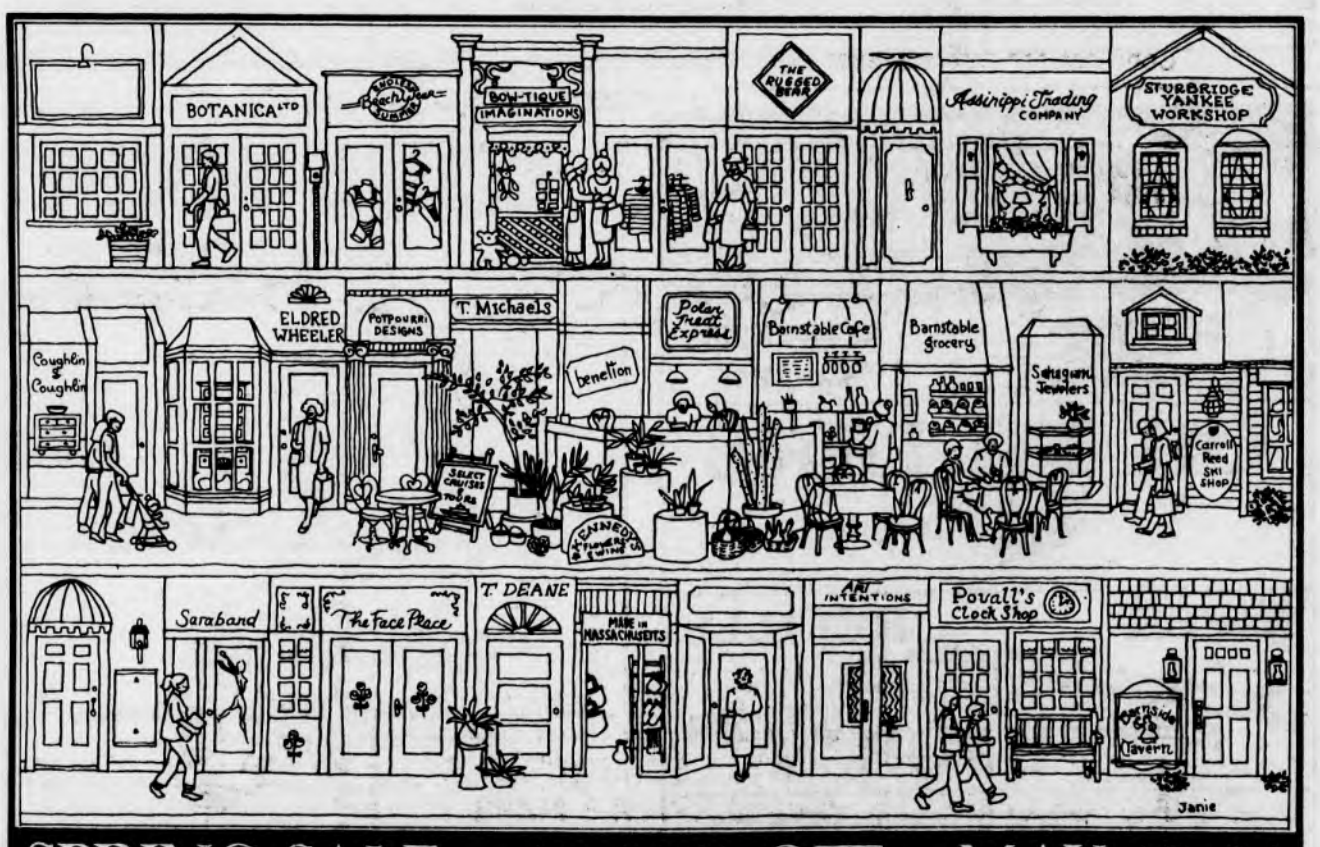
Pre-Registration is underway for the 1989 Young People's Summer Theatre.

The existing program for ages 13-22, will present the Kander and Ebb musical "70, GIRLS, 70." The group will also be presenting a third annual "SHOWCASE" production, this year as a dinner theatre.

Pre-Registration will be accepted through June 1 at $35 per person. After June 1, the cost will be $50. A Registration Night/Orientation meeting will be held at the First Congregational Church in Scituate Monday, June 5 from 7:15 to 8:15 p.m. Newcomers are especially urged to attend. Placement auditions will be held June 7 and 8 from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

A new daytime program for ages 7-12 is also being offered. Pre-Registration is $75 per person (with a discount for families with two or more members enrolled), and will be accepted through June 1. After that the cost is $100 with a Registration Saturday, June 17 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the church.

The new program will be a series of workshops that will include study of various theatre aspects, culminating in a musical revue in late July.



Registration cards, schedules and further information can be obtained by calling 826-7983.

Annual DAR meeting held

The annual meeting of the Old Colony Chapter DAR was held at the Cohasset Golf Club. It was preceeded by a gourmet luncheon presided over by the Regent, Mrs. William H. Bolster.

At the May meeting, Mrs. Robert W. Davis presented Mrs. Bolster, on behalf of the Chapter, an ex-regent DAR pin that belonged to a former regent who had been a fifty-year chapter member. Mrs. Bolster has been a regent for the past six years.

Mrs. Catherine W. Lewis read the report of the nominating committee (1989-90). The list is as follows:

Regent: Mrs. Herman E. Stuetzer, Jr.; Vice Regent: Mrs. George S.Tolman, III; Chaplain: Mrs. Charles B. Cox.

Recording Secretary: Mrs. Thornton C. Gay; Corresponding Secretary: Mrs. Albert H. Carter; Treasurer: Miss Judy Kimball; Asst. Treasurer: Mrs. Robert W. Davis; Registrar: Mrs. Katherine W. Lewis; Historian: Mrs. William H. Bolster; Custodian: Mrs. George S. Tolman, III; Auditor: Mrs. George B. Whitney; Directors: 1 year — Mrs. Morton Cole, 2 year — Miss Claire Cornell, 3 years, Mrs. Frederick H. Krause.

May 25 is Hillside School Day in Marlboro and the Old Colony Chapter is invited. A buffet luncheon will be served along with a tour of the farm with students serving as guides.

The students will also perform a play. The school is sponsored by the State and National Societies for the benefit of needy boys from Massachusetts.

Farmers Market opening

The Hingham Farmers Market will open for the 1989 season Saturday, May 20.

The market located in the Station Street parking lot will be open Saturday only until June 14. For the rest of the season it will be open Wednesday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. through the last Saturday in October.

The opening of the market will feature early spring vegetables, bedding plants — both flower and vegetable. Both annuals and perennials will be sold. The market this year will be accepting the W.I.C. and Farmers Market Coupons for purchases of fresh grown locally picked produce.

The market now in its 17th year hopes this expanded coupon program will help both the young and elderly in this area.

Derby Academy summer school

Hingham's Derby Academy will begin its eleventh summer school program of remedial and reinforcement courses Monday, July 3, with a faculty of area professionals to conduct classes for students in Grades 2-12. The four-week program will continue through July 29.

Held at the Burditt Avenue campus, classes will cover all levels of basic skills of mathematics, reading, and writing, and study skills for Grades 5-8 and 9-12.

Faculty will include returnees Mary Callahan of the Milton school system for math and study skills, Susan Leahy of Andover schools for writing skills, Derby's Susan Shannon for Grades 2-4 reading and writing, and Linda Thomas of Scituate schools to teach math for those grades. Gino DiGirolamo, a member of the Academy's Upper School faculty will again teach algebra and geometry, and Simon Gifford, also of Derby's Upper School faculty will join the summer program for the first time to teach reading and writing at the upper levels.

Students may enroll in one or two courses. Classes will be limited to ten each to maximize individual growth; progress and evaluation reports will be sent to parents at the end of the four weeks. For further information and enrollment forms, please call Constance M. Chapin, Director, at 749-0124, or the Derby Academy office at 749-0746.

Summer Arts at Derby, the Academy's new five-week creative arts camp, will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. from July 3 to August 4, for students aged eight to fourteen. While entirely separate from the summer school, it is possible for individual students to combine aspects of both programs.

For information about Summer Arts at Derby, please contact Thalia McMillion, Director, at Derby Academy; telephone 740-4766.

The Putnam Companies speaking on
"The Emerging Economic Environment: Investment Opportunities in the 1990s"
June 1, 1989
7:00 p.m.
Norwell High School, South Street, Norwell

Dr. Goodman has built a reputation as a speaker who can communicate economic concepts with energy and clarity. He has frequently appeared on Financial News Network and has been interviewed by Lou Dobbs on CNN's "Money Line" show. In addition he is a frequent source on the economic outlook for newspapers, magazines and investment newsletters. He has worked in the investment management industry for more than 21 years, was chief economist with J. & W. Seligman and has served as an economist with Citibank and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Regarding today's inflationary scenario, Dr. Goodman believes that:

- Economic growth is slowing
- Soon, fears about inflation will diminish
- The markets will allow the Federal Reserve to pursue a more accommodative monetary policy by letting interest rates drop–to avoid a recession.
- The resulting economic environment will be as conducive to equity and fixed income investing as any that we have seen in the last ten years.

Parents urge selectmen to support schools operating budget which would necessitate an override was passed, and those who voted on election day.

"A lot of people voted on the secret ballot, but didn't take the time to go to town meeting," he said.

"We're not convinced that 141 was a mandate," said Baird, referring to the number of votes by which the override was defeated.

"A lot of people were confused about the wording," she said.

Sam Pease of Sankey Road referred to the defeat of the override question as a "negative fluke."

"If people recognized that they were voting for their children's education..." said Pease.

Tebbetts pointed out that there had been much publicity about the ballot questions before the election.

"People voted against raising their taxes 10 to 10 1/2 percent," noted Peter Saxton of Forrest Ave.

"They didn't say not to raise them by something else."

Tebbetts said that about 44 percent of the voters were in favor of the override, 51 percent against, and 5 percent were blanks.

"You have to pay attention to the majority rule," he said.

Selectman Diana Kornet said that the ballot question which passed, regarding fixing the Osgood School roof, was symbolic.

"It's like a pat on the head to the education system," said Kornet, former school committee chairman.

"We really goofed on setting up question one," she added.

"We could have done it differently."

"We sought the advice of the Department of Revenue," said Pratt.

"Some people didn't see "school" in question one," said Laura McCauliff, who suggested a separate school budget.

Pratt said that ,theoretically, the town could have a separate budget for the schools.

"But the DOR strongly suggests against it," he said.

McCauliff noted that the town spent $422,000 in legal action against Paul Barry and his Cohasset Heights Landfill, only to find he was not polluting the water supply.

"That's the school budget," she said.

She also noted planning board legal battles with Donald Staszko.

"People think the town is wasting money,"she said.

"You have to defend yourself when you are sued," said Pratt.

Health board member Michael Sullivan added that the town receives revenues from Cohasset Heights offsetting the $422,000.

"It's been half a dozen lawsuits, not one," noted Pratt.

Diana Kinch of Forest Ave. said that a petition is being circulated asking selectmen to introduce a reduced override.

"We would like an alternative at town meeting," she said.

"We have a lot of homework to do between now and May 31," said selectman Rocco Laugelle.

"We all want the best education for our children.

"But we have to have police and fire, too.

"Every department is important."

Pratt suggested that the residents "make sure you know which article your money is in, and get your people to town meeting."

"They have the right to amend article 4 from the town meeting floor," said Kornet.

"I think they would like to see town officials prepare another budget in between."

"You are saying to us that you favor the school committee over other departments," said Pratt.

"I don't think that's fair."

Kornet said that selectmen were right not to offer a second override on the ballot, with a lesser amount.

"But I don't think we should read the results as zero override," she said.

"We should ask to improve the schools, not just maintain them," added Saxton.

In response to a question from the residents, Pratt said the town has a semi-volunteer fire department.

"We have a call force in addition to the regular firefighters," he said.

"I hate to have to keep defending my job," said Robert Silvia of Stockbridge St., a captain in the fire department.

"You (the town) get a good deal."

He cautioned against "stealing from Peter to pay Paul."

"Is it feasible to think about breaking the school budget out?" asked Kathy Walsh of Ledgewood Drive.

"Yes," replied Pratt.

He said the procedure at town meeting would be to make the proposal to the moderator, then have nine other people do the same thing.

"Then there will be a vote on it," said Pratt.

Regina Schultz of North Main St. commented that the 5 percent of residents who left the override question blank were confused about its contents.

"We are as frustrated as you are-even more so," said Pratt, as he concluded the discussion.

"Proposition 2 1/2 is a terrible tangle."

Students are not being force fed

To the Editor:

Having read your attack on the distribution of pamphlets by the Citizens for Life group, we have several comments. High school kids are fully capable of "confronting" pamphlets. Your commentary portrays the average student as a socially unaware, unthinking, nonmember of society. To believe that a student's mind is filled only with "the history exam, or baseball practice, or the latest fashion" is pure fantasy.

High school students are closer to adulthood than you could possibly fathom. We're very sure that most adults would admit to experimenting with alcohol and/or drugs and/or sex while they were in school. While you would prefer that today's students just "be kids," the fact is that problems do exist, forcing students to deal with these issues.

Obviously, the distributors of the pamphlet went to the right place: high school, where teen pregnancy is a real problem. For many students, that pamphlet may be their only source of knowledge on the subject; students are often too embarrassed to have such a personal discussion with their teachers, and many parents believe, as you do, that their children have no need for such information.

No student was force-fed an opinion. Thinking members of society (who just happen to be in high school) were free to ignore the distributors, just as they were free to read the material and either agree or disagree with its contents. You say that "kids will have their whole lives to consider the pros and cons of these endless public issues." Wake up. These issues affect and mold students while they're still students.

Towns aren't wild about plan to share . . .

may now increase its dog license fee from the current $6 to $10 level, to $8 or $15 per dog. Cohasset currently has the lowest license fee in the area, Murphy stated.

"They must understand that the extra fee will bring in extra revenue - just from those people who own dogs."

In addition, Murphy said, the town could generate more revenue by service fees. For instance, if a pet is injured and requires transportation to a veterinarian by the animal control officer, the pet owner should be charged for that service.

"It's the same as charging residents for ambulance service. It's a fee charged to the pet owner for services rendered by the town to their pet," Murphy said. "Cohasset is perfectly justified to have a user fee. It will generate enough revenue to make the entire animal control department self-supporting."

Officer Murphy, a fulltime employee of the Hingham Police Department, said he does not have the time to respond to calls from Cohasset. Currently, Cohasset employs a parttime animal control officer for eight hours a week.

"I work eight hours a day in Hingham. There is no way I'm going to be allowed to answer calls from Cohasset," he said. "There are too many problems with such a system. What will happen when Cohasset reaches its budget limit? What do I say, 'wait until next month and then I'll respond to your call?' Who's going to watch over the budget to make sure they don't overspend? Who's going to make the decision that I should be called in the first place?"

The animal control officer said regionalization is ultimately "the way to go.

"But it's a step-by-step process," he said. "It's something we have to look toward in the future. The tri-town animal shelter committee is looking into this process. But it's not something we can resolve without a lot of careful planning."

Cohasset Fire Chief Daniel Brock feels that although regionalization of departments will occur in the future, it is not something that should be immediately enacted. Hingham's Chief Richard Wehter has a similar reaction.

Chief Brock is being asked to slice $95,000 from his $1 million budget because of the override defeat. That means at least three firefighters will be let go, and perhaps the elimination of the town's ambulance service.

The Cohasset fire chief noted that both towns currently maintain a mutual aid system, where trucks, ambulances and firefighters respond across the town lines when requested. There is also a system of line boxes, in which engines from neighboring towns will respond first if an alarm is sounded near that town's border. For instance, Chief Brock explained, if an alarm is struck on Jerusalem Road in Cohasset, the Hull Fire Department will be the first on the scene.

"How are we supposed to share men and equipment when we're going to have less? Right now we're suffering from a lack of manpower," he stated.

And if Cohasset does not refurbish its ladder truck this year, "why should Hingham want to help us out? What can we give them in return that they don't have? Hingham's not going to give anything away," he continued. "We're a small department - they're a big department. We don't have anything that they don't have already. They're better manned and better equipped. What could they get from the deal?"

Chief Brock said regionalization of local fire departments is an option worthy of discussion. But if something is to be implemented in fiscal 1990, plans should have been made years ago, he said.

"Reductions in the fire department began in 1981. They should have started planning then rather than waiting until we're backed against a wall," Chief Brock said.

Hingham's Chief Wehter can't understand how a regional plan will work without years of planning. His current plans call for the closing of the North fire station and reducing the force by eight firefighters. Failure to override Proposition 2 1/2 will force the fire department to cut its $2.7 million by $219,687.

"We're in tough shape as it is," he said. "But to take more men away from my department and share them with Cohasset doesn't seem to make much sense right now."

A regional or county fire service system is prevalent in other areas of the county, Wehter noted. "But it would be a major change and a major undertaking. Maybe in the long run it's the way to go. It's a possibility, especially if Cohasset has to give up its ambulance service."

Because of the override failure, Hingham's fire department will be regressing to the 1960's level of staffing, although they will be serving a larger residential and commercial population.

The chief said regionalizing firefighting services is an option to think about, but it can't be enacted in time to solve this year's crisis.

He added, "I don't think it's within the advisory committee's perview to propose this sort of thing. They're not in a position to say combine this department with that department. I would think that decision is up the selectmen."

Deer Hill School fair

The annual Deer Hill School fair was held this year from May 1 to May 4 in the Deer Hill gym. About 72 students participated in six different categories dealing mostly with science and history.

The projects included written reports, posters, displays, and an oral presentation of the topic. The judges for the fair were members of the Cohasset High School National Honor Society.

The blue ribbon winners in each category were: Technology, Jessica Connor; History, Sarena Quemere; Magic and Illusion, Marin Van Vleck, Kevin O'Donnell; Earth and Space, Kate Carroll; Plants and Animals, Jeremiah Stevenson; Miscellaneous, Dawn Meehan.

Advisors get set to slices town budgets . . .

department should swallow a $400,000 reduction, not a larger amount proposed by selectmen last week. In addition, Gjesteby suggested that teachers should be approached about taking smaller salary increases in the future - a gesture, he said, that will demonstrate goodwill on their part.

Goedecke agreed that such a proposal should be brought before all town employee unions during future contract negotiations. Committee members noted that it is impossible now to keep budgets under a 2 1/2 increase when salaries are raised annually by six percent or more.

Throughout the weeks preceding the May 31 town meeting, the advisory committee will be reviewing each town budget, with the goal of reducing each by nine percent. Goedecke explained that the budget shortfall actually amounts to a eight percent reduction, but one percent will be added on as a cushion for unemployment insurance costs.

Library trustee Barbara Power said a recent endowment to the library will alleviate the need to cut personnel or further reduce hours of operation.

Board of health member William Baird told the committee that the reduction will have the greatest impact on the town's landfill. he recommended that the transfer station be open for three or four days per week, and that personnel from other town departments be required to help at the landfill when necessary. In exchange, he said the landfill's bulldozer could be loaned to other departments.

"Someone has got to break down these fiefdoms and make departments cooperate," he said, adding that by cutting services a day or two, there are many more budget savings to be realized. Advisory committee member Jill O'Donnell agreed, saying the town has mandated a need to share town employees.

Speaking for himself and not the board, Baird questioned whether the town really needs a half-million transfer station when trash haulers have said they will not use the facility where recycling is mandatory.

"Personally," he noted,"the town has spent $80,000 for engineering studies and more for legal fees fighting Cohasset Heights Ltd. and it has been proven to me that the water supply is not affected by that landfill. We are not going to stop the expansion into Area 4. We have an offer to send our trash to that landfill if we stop all litigation. I think we ought to consider that."

The police department budget also received a brief review during last week's session. The police chief has proposed reducing the force by two officers, and elimination of a secretarial position. But there is a minimum manning clause in the current contract which calls for three officers per shift.

Committee members agreed they would be "uncomfortable" recommending a budget with less than three officers per shift. It was suggested that larger cuts could be made in the fire department to offset the reductions that cannot be tolerated within the police budget.

Goedecke suggested that talks begin with Hingham's advisory committee to develop a possible regionalization plan with Hingham's fire department which must undergo similar reductions. "It makes sense to share people and expensive equipment," she said.

Committee members suggested that the fire chief should tell them where budget reductions could be made in that budget. The fire department budget is expected to be decreased by about $120,000, which could mean the reduction of four firefighters.

Goedecke noted that regionalization could be taken a step further. Cohasset, she suggested, could pay Hingham to provide animal control services on a per-call basis, thus eliminating the need for a part-time officer and a $7,000 vehicle.

Another proposal, she said, would be to eliminate all overtime for non-union employees. Cutting out overtime would be preferable to reducing a position in these departments, she noted. Instead of overtime, employees would be asked to take compensatory time off.

The committee also looked at the recreation budget, which received $33,858 in revenues compared to a $66,317 budget. Goedecke noted that it may be time to consider whether the town can afford to have its own recreation department, or whether private organizations should be responsible for providing recreational programs.

"If we're not willing to pay tax for these services, perhaps the recreation commission should run this on a voluntary, pay-as-you-go basis, or give it to any organization in town, or maybe we can't afford a recreation department in this town," she stated.

The advisory committee's recreation subcommittee will further discuss these options and budget cuts with the commission.

The committee noted that a nine percent reduction in the Council on Aging budget will mean a reduction in the senior center director's hours from 35 to 32 per week. Other reductions could be made in the supplies and travel expenses in that department. Goedecke noted that other cuts should be considered before recommending reductions in the senior center hours.

Music Circus season listed

Julie Andrews, Willie Nelson, Bill Cosby, Gallagher, Barbara Mandrell and Randy Travis will be among the superstar attractions appearing this summer at South Shore Music Circus.

Celebrating its 39th season as one of New England's summer entertainment centers, Cohasset's theatre-in-the-round will also offer performances by Peter Allen and Bernadette Peters, Jay Leno, Joan Rivers, Kenny Rogers, Sammy Davis Jr. and Paul Anka among others (the summer's complete schedule follows).

Improvements for the summer include a new tent and new floral landscaping throughout the grounds. To improve customer services, all ticket operations have been computerized.

The Music Circus has scheduled two Children's Theatre performances each Thursday at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

The Music Circus box office will open for general ticket sales at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 27. Telephone charge orders will also be accepted beginning on that date. Patrons may call the Music Circus at 617-383-1400 to purchase tickets with a major credit card.

Prior to individual tickets being put on sale Memorial Day Weekend, the Music Circus is currently selling four series subscription packages. SERIES A includes Julie Andrews, "Sugar Babies," Wayne Newton, Harry Belafonte, Donald O'Connor & Mickey Rooney and Bill Cosby. SERIES B includes Willie Nelson, The Judds, Kenny Rogers, Reba McEntire, Loretta Lynn & Crystal Gayle. SERIES C includes Dick Clark's American Bandstand Concert, Memories of Motown, Frankie Valli & The Four Seasons Plus The Four tops, American & Three Dog Night. SERIES D includes Louis Anderson & Dennis Miller, The Smothers Brothers & Jim Stafford, George Carlin, Buddy Hackett & Sandy Hackett and Jay Leno.

For information on ordering any of these packages, patrons may call the Subscription Office at 617-383-9850.

Memberships in the theatre's Inner Circle Club, offering priority seating in advance of box office opening for a $30 annual membership fee per family are also available at this time.

Japanese exchange programs

Cultural Homestay Institute (CHI), a non-profit educational exchange program, which has brought Japanese student groups to the South Shore for the past nine years, welcomes families to its summer and academic year program for '89-'90.

This summer offers families the chance to participate in a 3 or 4 week program. Japanese students attend English conversation classes each day, visit local historic and cultural sites, and enjoy parties and sports events planned for all host family members and their Japanese "sons and daughters." As one host mother said, "It is an experience every family, especially with children, should enjoy. Once you have a student, then you look forward to having one again!"

Margot Cheel, Boston Area Administrator, is continually amazed at how the friendships continue over the years — with students calling back to their families to announce their marriage, engagement or the birth of their first child or even choosing to return here on their honeymoon.

For those families wishing to further their understanding and friendships with a Japanese son or daughter, CHI offers the Academic High School Program. This year students are participating in a 4-month Intensive English Program in Taunton prior to entering a local high school for a 6 month study (September-March).

For further information on this summer's programs (which are in Cohasset, Hingham, Hanson, Hanover, Marshfield, Abington, Braintree & Wellfleet) and for details on the Academic High School Program please telephone Margot Cheel at 383-9184.

Cohasset Boosters barbeque

The Cohasset Boosters Club will hold their annual Spring Sports Award Night Sunday, May 21 at the front field of the Cohasset High School.

This event is an outdoor barbeque from 5:30 to 7 p.m. The parent donation $4 and we urge all to attend and support their athletes.

Remember to bring a chair or blanket for your own seating. In case of inclement weather a rain date will be announced on Monday, May 22.

Welcome home to Megan Manion who has successfully completed her sophomore year at St. Mary's College in Rome, Italy. Remember Megan was co-capt. of the CHS cheerleaders, class of 1987.

French exchange openings

The Cohasset Cultural Exchange Commission still has a few openings for host families this summer for French high school students from our sister city Souppes-Sur-Loing.

The students range in age from 14 to 18 and will be in Cohasset from July 20 to August 15. If you would like to join in this rewarding cultural experience for all or part of a student's stay, please call John Dean (383-6416), Lee Jenkins (383-0024) or Weezie Welz (383-9192).

There are also reciprocal exchange opportunities for Cohasset students to go to France in July to help Souppes-Sur-Loing celebrate the 200th anniversary of the French Revolution.

Override petition available

A citizen's petition is being circulated to initiate a reduced budget override on Article #4 (Question #1 on May 6 ballot).

The major intent of this effort is to identify to the selectmen and advisory board that there is a groundswell of citizens concerned about maintaining & improving the quality of our school and town services. We want to see alternatives to the recent rejection of the override, presented at the special town meeting on May 31. The people want another opportunity to prevent the drastic negative impact that the budget cut will have on this town's school & town services.

Petitions are locted at the Community Center, the local churches, and by calling Diana Kinch at 383-2948 or Elaine Coyne at 383-2167.

Simeon Ketchum interviews Cohasset Knoll Nursing Home resident Emma Kamies this week when the fifth graders visited during National Nursing Home Week.

Playground 'Finale'

The countdown is on! Before you turn around it will be the June 10 & 11 — build days for Osgood Playpark. In the past two weeks we have signed up half the necessry volunteers and we have two weeks left to complete the requirement. Let's show our children that we can do it — after all, the Osgood students worked hard and raised over $6500 during their Read-a-thon on their own — congratulations!

WHO IS THE ORGANIZER? Tom Bowler has designed and supervised building of over 35 playparks — he guarantees completion IF WE PROVIDE THE VOLUNTEERS!

VOLUNTEER REQUIREMENTS Anyone can help. We need skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled workers. You will be put into teams — the leader will be a skilled worker — combining all three. Everyone will help each other. You must be 18 years old. We also need volunteers to serve meals!

WHEN DO I EAT? We provide a light breakfast and a hearty lunch — also plenty of fluids in between.

HOW LONG MUST I WORK? A half-day commitment is the minimum, a full-day the maximum. We want the work flow as uninterrupted as possible.

CHILDCARE is available and free!

WHO IS PAYING FOR THIS? You did! By participating in all our community Project Playground fundraisers! Congratulations.

WHAT'S THE DESIGN? Nautical! Featuring access for the physically challenged; 4 slides, 1 spiral, bridges, swings, flagmasts & flags, telescopes, lighthouse and more!

HOW DO I VOLUNTEER? Call Osgood School 6117, Ann Whiteley 9310, Rhonda Myers 2969 or Amy Golden 6664.

Express Mail delivers worldwide

To bring the benefits of international expedited mail service within the reach of the average consumer and small businesses, the Postal Service has sharply reduced its Express Mail International letter rate.

The rate for up to one-half pound will drop to $10.75 on July 1, with an even lower introductory rate through June 30.

The $10.75 rate represents a price reduction of as much as 50 percent," says Boston Division General Manager/Postmaster Jon M. Steele. "But through June 30, our international customers will have it even better. That's because we're offering a still lower introductory rate of $8.75."

Steele said the new rates should particularly appeal to individual consumers and to the smaller companies that seldom qualify for the volume discounts offered by the Postal Service's competitors in international expedited delivery business.

Postage for Express Mail International Service can be paid by postage stamps or meters, or through Express Mail Corporate accounts. Domestic $8.75 Express Mail Stamps can be used on international shipments while the special rate is in effect. By July 1, new $10.75 Express Mail International stamps will go on sale at post offices nationwide.

Quality in schools can't continue with cuts

Letter

To the Editor:

We are writing to urge Cohasset voters to consider more fully the effects of the override defeat on our schools.

First, we would like to emphasize that we understand the concerns of those residents who, with talk of federal and state tax increases, believe that they cannot afford yet another property tax increase. And we do not believe that those who voted against the general budget override intended to diminish the quality of Cohasset's schools. Many voters seem to have the notion that with better management and certain vaguely conceived innovations, the quality of our schools and other services can be maintained without any further property tax increase.

However, we believe that this is simply wishful thinking on their part. Without increases to keep pace with inflationary and other unavoidable cost increases (e.g., cost of living raises, insurance premium hikes, etc.), we will inevitably face a serious erosion in services, particularly in our schools, where teacher salaries comprise 60% of the budget. Such unavoidable property tax increases are not possible without proposition 2 1/2 overrides, since propostion 2 1/2 unrealistically limits budget increases to amounts that do not even cover inflation. We do not claim that the town government is a model of efficiency. But we do not see how anyone could conclude that a $422,000 or $400,000 cut in the proposed school budget can be accomplished without eliminating teaching positions, increasing class sizes and eliminating programs, to the detriment of our children's education.

The excellence of the Cohasset school system as currently funded shows in the scores of its students on standardized tests, which are among the best statewide. Yet Cohasset's current per pupil expenditures are only slightly above the state average. We believe this shows our education dollars are being very effectively spent. And we believe the key to this effectiveness is the concentration of school spending on teachers, keeping class sizes down. To maintain the current level of quality, the current student-teacher ratio of 21 to 1 must be preserved. Many adults (ourselves included) were in classes of 25 to 30 students during our primary and secondary educations. It does not reflect badly on that education to acknowledge that today's increased emphasis on individual student attention is a tremendous improvement. That this is so is borne out by testimony of individual teachers that their ability to reach students declines significantly in larger groups, and by the fact that the other top-ranked school systems in the Boston area have student-teacher ratios that are comparable to or better than Cohasset's.

It is a credit to the school system and everyone involved with it that it has accomplished so much with limited resources. But we cannot expect this level of quality to be sustained or ever accomplished again if we force sharp cuts in the teaching staff now.

Nor is the vote against the override in anyone's economic best interests. Much has been said about the decline in property values in Hull as a result of the override defeat there. There is a likelihood of even more precipitous declines in Cohasset should we follow the same path. Many if not most potential home buyers in Cohasset, where the average asking price of homes is in the mid-$300,000 range, appear to have the luxury of affording to purchase a home in many communities with equally fine school systems. According to real estate professionals, there are three primary factors considered by home buyers when deciding where to relocate: (1) quality of life, (2) quality of schools and (3) convenience for commuting. Cohasset is very strong with respect to the first two factors, outweighing the fact that it is notoriously weak with respect to the third. It is only the quality of life and of the schools in Cohasset that supports its inflated real estate values. If Cohasset begins to acquire a reputation for defeating overrides, and, as an inevitable result, a reputation for having a school system on the decline, it will have two strikes against it in the minds of home buyers. Families with children, comprising a majority of such buyers, will inevitably look elsewhere. It does not make sense to risk a potential loss of tens of thousands of dollars in property value in order to save several hundred dollars per year in property taxes (which are deductible on the federal return).

For the sake of all Cohasset residents, we urge the School Committee to propose a budget at the May 31 town meeting that will maintain the quality of our schools at the current level, and we urge all voters, the Selectmen and the Advisory Committee to support that budget.

Sandy Beach needs financial help

To the Editor:

In a few days, the Sandy Beach Association will be mailing letters to each of the 2,800 homes in Cohasset asking for their financial support of the Beach in 1989. When townspeople buy parking and dump stickers each year, none of this money goes to the Sandy Beach Association which relies almost entirely on private support.

Last year about 20 percent of Cohasset households provided such support which was also about 32 percent of those who obtained car stickers. For 1989, the Association hopes to increase these percentages significantly as well as the dollar amounts of donations.

The cost of operating the Beach is substantial — about $35,000 last year. This included five guards who cover each day of the twelve-week season — ten hours per day! There are also three beach cleaning workers. Last year, the Association received many favorable comments about the way the beach and the town parking area were maintained and managed.

Beach cleaning to repair winter storm damage is another big expense — between $6,000 to $8,000 each year, while insurance, payroll taxes, utilities and supplies are other key items. Over the past two years, considerable effort and expense have been incurred to repair and upgfade the beach house which is feeling the effects of age and weather. This year some wonderful high school seniors are creating a mural on one wall of the house which has been defaced.

The Association hopes that each Cohasset family which uses and values our beautiful beach will make tax-deductible contributions this spring to support this invaluable resource. With enough financial support, we can continue to have a clean, safe and pleasant beach where we and our families can have another enjoyable summer in Cohasset.

The Trustees of Sandy Beach

Science center sponsors walk-a-thon

On Saturday, June 17, beginning at 9 a.m., Science Center naturalists will lead a walk-a-thon through SSNSC trails and properties to raise funds to benefit the Center's educational programs. Join us for these leisurely (and informative) walks and have your family and friends pledge per mile or trail completed. It will be a fun day. More importantly, it will help the Science Center continue to offer a wide range of natural and cultural history programs to residents of Southeastern Mass. Call the Science Center, 659-2559, for a registration form or to sponsor the walkers.

The South Shore Natural Science Center is on Jacobs Lane, Norwell, just off Route 123 and less than one mile from the Route 3 interchange. Hours: 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday. Hours on Memorial Day, Monday, May 29: 1 to 4 p.m. Call 659-2559 or drop by the Center for a complete list of summer activities.

Cohasset Mariner

Vol. XI, No. 35 | Thursday, May 25, 1989 | 1-800-874-6969 | 50 cents

More than eighty concerned parents and teachers crowded into a meeting of the School Committee Monday night to show their support for full budget funding.

Parents support budget override

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

More than eighty parents and teachers attended Monday night's school committee meeting, signaling their support for a budget that will keep teachers and town services intact.

And although the committee echoed that sentiment, they presented a more realistic view of the town's fiscal condition as they itemized cuts which will reduce the school budget by $400,000. That is the amount which is required to be cut from the budget because of the defeat of the Proposition 2 1/2 operating budget override.

That list of reductions includes: one fulltime business education teacher; one secondary guidance counselor; one elementary custodian; one elementary classroom teacher; an enrichment teacher for the elementary grades; one foreign language teacher at the high school; one home economics teacher at the high school; one teacher aide in math at the Deer Hill School; one librarian at the high school; one high school math lab aide; one physical education teacher at the elementary level; reduce to half-time a special needs teacher at the high school.

Also,$40,000 from the bus transportation system; $50,000 from the athletic budget, together with a user fee system to add revenue; $1,000 in summer secretarial help; $2,500 for the automation of the Deer Hill library; $5,000 for classroom furniture; $12,000 in capital outlay purchases; $10,000 in classroom supplies; and $1,200 for intercom system repair.

"I think it's fair to say we're running a BMW school system on a Chevrolet budget."
School committee member Ralph Kidder

"We are not cutting fat," Chairman Barbara Bliss stated. "This is really cutting into some serious areas."

Supt. Hart warned that reducing the number of elementary teachers will increase classroom size in one grade to 30 students per teacher.

Bliss noted that reductions at the high school will result in compounded scheduling problems. "The kids are going to suffer. We are not going to have the same educational system in this town."

For sale - home by the harbor

The Oaks, the former waterfront home of Jessie Bancroft Cox, is up for sale again with a price tag of $3.7 million.

The estate was the center of controversy last year when the owners, MTC Associates III, proposed a marina along the 1,800 feet of water frontage on Cohasset Harbor.

The marina of 90 to 100 boat slips would have been sold as "dockominiums".

In return for town approval, the owners of "The Oaks" offered to donate the house and grounds to the town of Cohasset to use as the town saw fit.

MTC Associates would retain ownership of the waterfront for the marina development.

But the plan was rejected by town voters in a special town meeting in December, 1988.

The property is now being marketed by LandVest, the Boston-based luxury real estate broker, in affiliation with Gallery 360 of Cohasset.

"The Oaks is the hallmark property in Cohasset," said Thomas H. Hamilton, principal of the Dean & Hamilton Division of Gallery 360 Cohasset, and a fixture in Cohasset real estate for nearly 20 years.

Town employees worry about jobs if budget axed

About 20 town employees told selectmen Monday night they are concerned about upcoming budget cuts and the influence of special interest groups.

"We are here to voice our concern about the upcoming town meeting and the contingency budget with 9 percent cuts," said treasurer/collector Nancy Snowdale.

"There are mostly staff cuts," said Snowdale.

A continuation of town meeting was necessitated when voters did not approve an $844,000 override of proposition 2 1/2 at the May 6 special election.

As a result, the advisory committee asked all departments to make 9 percent cuts.

Snowdale said the May 6 vote represented an emphatic rejection by voters of an increase in taxes to pay for the override.

"Our largest concern is special interest groups," she said.

Snowdale noted pressure by parents of school-age children not to cut the school budget.

She said that any attempt to separate the school department budget from the general operating budget would "divide the town and usurp the authority of selectmen."

Among her suggestions were:

*Regionalization of special needs classes and other small classes such as language.

*Fundraising for sports so that all recreation programs could be self-supporting.

*Retirement incentives.

Snowdale said that surveys taken of Cohasset school professionals show that only eight work

Advisors to decide on override option

The advisory committee will decide this week whether to support a compromise override which will soften the blow to the school budget and keep the current teaching staff intact.

Meanwhile, the town accountant believes the town will be about $70,000 short in projected revenues from the state. The difference, according to Mary Matthews, will have to be found within the town budgets. In other words, the town will have to reduce its proposed budgets by a total of $920,000 rather than $844,000 as originally estimated.

The school committee had been asked to reduce its $5 million by $400,000 because of the failure to override Proposition 2 1/2 at the May 6 election. The school committee prepared a list of cuts totaling $400,000, but also offered an amended list of reductions amounting to $158,000. The list, compiled by committee member Ralph Kidder, does not include eliminating any teaching positions, although there would be fewer teacher aides, and less supplies and capital outlay expenditures.

School committee chairman Barbara Bliss told the advisory committee Tuesday night they were not happy with the $400,000 in budget reductions. But she realized it was "unrealistic" to go back to town meeting and request the $400,000 needed to restore the proposed school budget. "We'd just like to get a piece of the pie ," she said, noting that a compromise reduction would not have as severe an impact on the school system.

Supt. Stephen Hart emphasized the Cohasset school department is not extravagant in any way. In comparison to similar communities, Cohasset spends less per pupil. Cohasset would not have to reduce services if it had the same resources as these other communities, he noted.

"If the schools were a business, you could argue that the business is under-capitalized," school committee member Ralph Kidder stated. "There are no new initiatives in this budget. It is a maintenance budget."

Advisory committee member Arne Gjesteby noted that although he voted to support the full $5 million

Special permits considered

The zoning board of appeals will consider requests for two special permits at its meeting Thursday, June 1, at 8 p.m. at Cohasset Town Hall.

The board will consider a request from Sally Dunn and Diane M. Waldo to construct a deck to the structure at 35 Smith Place.

The other request is from John and Kathleen O'Leary who are seeking to enlarge a deck partially in the flood plain at 711 Jerusalem Road.

Officers elected

Two town boards have elected new officers.

Al Moore was elected chairman of the Planning Board.

Robert H. Sturdy is vice chairman, and Daniel C. Cotton, clerk.

In notifying the town of the new officers, the planning board also noted that the office will be without secretarial coverage until June 5 when former secretary Nanci Cushing will return.

Chartis Langmaid was elected chairman of the Cohasset Housing Partnership.

Michael Senechal is secretary.

The partnership noted that liaisons are needed from the planning board and selectmen.

Liaisons would also be helpful from the conservation commission, health board, water and sewer commissions, according to the partnership.

MCAD reviews Cohasset

The Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination recently conducted a Civil Rights Review of Cohasset's compliance to state standards for Affirmative Action.

The review serves as a basis for compliance eligibility determination, pursuant to a grant application which Cohasset filed with the Executive Office of Environmental Affairs.

A recommendation of conditional concurrence with funding was made by MCAD.

"They want an annual report from the town on affirmative action fair housing, hiring, and utilization of minority and women business enterprises and minority contractors," said selectmen executive secretary Greg Doyon.

Doyon said he will have the report completed by the end of the month.

Council on Aging grants

The Cohasset Council on Aging has received two state-funded discretionary grants for fiscal year 1989.

According to council chairman Fr. John J. Keohane, an award of $4,450 will be added to a balance from last year's grant to pay for the outreach worker's salary.

A grant of $9,385 was also received for the SHINE (Serving Health Information Needs of Elders) program.

Cable to award scholarships

Continental Cablevision will award $1,000 annually in scholarships, beginning this spring to graduating high school seniors on the South Shore who plan to pursue a career in the communications field.

Public or private school students from Cohasset, Hanover, Hingham, Hull, Norwell or Scituate are eligible to apply for the Continental Communications Scholarship if they will be attending an accredited institution of higher learning next fall in pursuit of a career in the communications industry, television, radio, journalism or the theater.

To apply for the Continental Communications Scholarship, students should send a letter (no more than two pages) to John Walber at Continental Cablevision, 15 Farrar Farm Road, Norwell, MA 02061.

In the letter, they should provide background information on themselves; explain what they are interested in doing in the communications field and why; and tell why the scholarship is important to them. They should also include a letter of recommendation from an adult who knows them well, such as a teacher, member of the clergy, employer or business person.

All letters must be received by June 8 at Continental Cablevision for the applications to be considered. An independent panel of communications professionals will choose the scholarship recipient.

For further information, contact John Walber at Continental, 659-0502.

Open house and carillon tour

The Cohasset Historical Society's museums at Cohasset Center will open for the summer season Saturday, June 17.

From then through September 30, the Capt. John Wilson Historical House and Maritime Museum will be open each afternoon except Mondays from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Regular admission will be $1.50 per building for adults, with children age 6 to 12 years admitted free.

Opening day Saturday, June 17 will see an open house at the museums with free admittance, and a special event scheduled as part of the program. Museum visitors will have an opportunity to see a special exhibit at the Maritime Museum of documents and pictures relating to Cohasset's world famous carillon located at St. Stephen's Church, and are invited to the nearby carillon tower to see the actual instrument in St. Stephen's stone tower.

This year marks a major project to renovate the carillon which itself dates from the mid-1920's. Given to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft the famous bells and clavier keyboard are a memorial to Mrs. Bancroft's mother, Jessie M. Barron. Originally designed and cast by the firm of Gillette & Johnston of Croyden, England, the bells of the Jessie M. Barron Memorial Carillon together form one of the finest of the world's "singing towers" and frequently have been played by the world's leading carilloneurs, including Kamiel LeFevre, Jef Denyn and Staf Nees of the renowned carillon school at Malines, Belguim.

The Cohasset Carillon ranks among the most important musical instruments of its type in the world. The Historical Society's Open House will give a rare opportunity to see the original instrument. Additional details of this unusual program will be announced.

Vo-Tech budget

If towns in the eight-member South Shore Regional School district follow the procedure of Hanover and Rockland in voting on the school budget, they may be adding more confusion to an already complicated matter.

Hanover and Rockland voted affirmatively for the regional school budget in a form amended by the finance departments before they hit the town meeting floors. Hanover and Rockland voted on a reduced budget cut from a 7.8 percent increase over last year to a five percent increase.

Bob Kelly, Secretary/Treasurer of the regional school, told the school committee that towns should be aware that they have the legal right to vote yes or no for the budget, but they do not have the right to change the figures presented by the regional school department.

"It is a legal technicality," said Kelly. "A town cannot change our assessment; they can only vote the budget up or down."

Hanover, Rockland, Norwell and Scituate have held town meetings, and Hanson, Abington, Whitman and Cohasset town meetings are planned for the beginning of June. Six of the eight towns must approve the regional school budget for it to pass.

CHS prom May 30

Cohasset High School's Senior Prom will be held on Tuesday, May 30 at the Pembroke Country Club. The prom will be held from 7 p.m. to 12 a.m. and the buffet will begin at 8:00. The cost will be $20 per person.

Adults present at the prom will include school administrators, teacher advisors, and parents of the class officers. As always, the policies established for Cohasset High School activities both on and off campus will be followed at this function.

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. Debra M. Tranberg
Chiropractor
DISC JOCKEY
Discs do not slip. Sometimes the edge of the disc cracks open in an injury, allowing the soft center of the disc to pass out. The disc is then said to be herniated or ruptured. More often, the disc swells and bulges. In these cases, the bulging disc substance presses against a spinal nerve, causing great pain. The chiropractor uses every means possible to reduce the swelling. She will attempt to open up the disc space, correct the associated distortion, and restore the normal movement to the injured area of the spine. Disc injuries require longer supervision than many other spinal problems. After the pain is gone, great care needs to be taken to prevent reinjury or degenerative changes in the disc.
Chiropractic applications oftentimes provide the long sought-after relief from such disc problems. SCITUATE HARBOR CHIROPRACTIC offers the approaches that deal with the source of your problem and discomfort. Employing a natural approach, we strive to offer you the relief and follow-up regimen that will provide you with the comfortable lifestyle you seek. Located at 80 Front St., Scituate Harbor. Tel. 545-7388. By appt. Early morning and late evening appts. Worker's Comp cases, VISA, M/C and most insurance plans accepted.
HINT: Arthritic chiropractic patients benefit from moving the joints of the spine and extremeties through their normal range of motion.

in town, pay taxes and receive services.

"Eighty-eight live out of town," she said.

"We should ask the school committee what has been done and could be done (in budget cuts)," said selectmen Rocco Laugelle.

"Many of the points suggested are being considered," said selectmen Diana Kornet, former school committee chairman.

Kornet said she would propose a compromise override figure which would allow the schools and the rest of the town budgets to get along on less of a reduction.

"Everybody would be cut less," said Kornet, who said that voters were against the $844,000 override, but not necessarily against any override.

Resident Kevin O'Donnell said that a mistake was made in formation of question one on the ballot, the general override question.

"People said they were looking for the school budget," said O'Donnell.

"All they saw was (a question regarding) the Osgood School roof.

"Judging by the school roof question (the only one which passed) the question would have passed.

"But there was not a word in question one about the schools."

Selectman chairman Burt Pratt said that police, fire and other departments were not listed in question one either.

"I don't think there could have been any better education (on the override) in the world than came to the town of Cohasset," said Snowdale.

She noted newspaper articles, and an information night held at town hall and shown on cable TV.

"Why are you wasting all this time if you are going to go to 6 percent budget cuts?" asked town clerk Frances Marks.

Marks noted "all the time and energy and unhappiness if the town goes for another override.

"I would be very surprised if a second ballot came out any differently than the first," said Pratt.

Advisory member Arne Gjesteby noted that the only way there could be a second override ballot would be if three selectmen approved it.

"Arne has pointed out that the board of selctmen could choose not to put it (another override proposal) to the ballot," said Kornet.

"I feel very strongly if town meeting comes up with a compromise figure it should go to the ballot," she said.

She made a motion that selectmen support the mandate of town meeting if town meeting votes a compromise figure. The motion died when there was no second.

Selectmen Ned Tebbetts said a revised question one would not pass on a secret ballot.

Pratt and Laugelle agreed.

"The New England town meeting in Massachusetts is dead," commented Pratt.

"The voters can go to the ballot and overturn it.

"It has done great damage to the system of government."

Kornet said if town meeting votes a compromise ballot, and the ballot is defeated again, she would have a different sentiment.

Marks noted that it would cost $4,000 for another election, and $3,000 for a special town meeting.

"If something innovative and new is presented at town meeting, we can see if the board wants to change its mind," said Pratt.

Kornet said she thought it was "appalling" that the board might caucus at town meeting.

"You said you would not go for a compromise figure, but you might reconsider at the last minute," she said.

"The board has established a policy of doing what the people say," said Pratt.

The board voted 4 to1 against another override proposal. Kornet was against the motion.

"Whatever happens at town meeting, we'll take it from there," Pratt said.

Just in case, the board set June 28 as the date for a special election.

Schools look for budget support

The reductions were detailed for the audience Monday night. The transportation cuts will substantially reduce the amount of service available to students next year. There will be four buses in service next year as students are transported to school from "depot" style bus stops. Fewer buses means fewer bus drivers and less maintenance. The reduced fleet of vehicles will also be stored at the high school to further reduce costs.

The athletic budget reductions have not been finalized, but it will likely result in fewer coaches. Athletic director Clark Chatterton also suggested that user fees be charged per student, per sport. He suggested that uniforms could be purchased by the athlete, rather than by the school.

Classroom supplies will be reduced by ten percent next year, which is not much when the total budget is only $100,000 for the entire system, according to Supt. Stephen Hart. Considering that paper supply costs have increased by 20 percent, the ten percent reduction hurts even more, he said.

"We all agree the budget should not be reduced. But we must be realistic," the superintendent told parents and teachers. "These reductions are not in the best interest of our educational system. Do not interpret this as an endorsement of these reductions."

Unless there is a dramatic reversal of the override defeat at the May 31 town meeting, the school committee will be forced to make those budget cuts, he warned.

"I completely refute that we can make these cuts and it will not effect the school system," he said, adding that if the budget fails this year, the consequences will extend into the future. "I do not look forward to continuing years of educational expenditures at that level. It will have a major effect on the school system."

Committee member Ralph Kidder likened the budget reductions to a broken swing at the Deer Hill School from which his child fell that evening.

"Tonight it's a swing, tomorrow it's a teacher and next it will be an entire program," he warned. "We will be incrementally dismantling the educational program if we allow these cuts to occur."

Kidder said the school committee represents the entire voting populus, and he questioned whether these budget cuts would negatively impact upon the property values in Cohasset.

He proposed an alternative list of reductions amounting to $150,000 which would not eliminate any teaching positions.

Committee member Nancy Sandell set forth a challenge. "Education is a high priority and I challenge this community to establish how high a priority we want to make it in this town."

Christopher Ford, a member of the committee, said he discussed the effects of the override defeat with his 85 year-old neighbor. The neighbor said he just can't afford another $300 in real estate taxes, Ford said. "I know a lot of the people are like that - but not 52 percent of the population," Ford noted. "And I'd hate to see 52 percent of the population riding on that emotion."

Although Kidder devised a list of alternative budget cuts, Ford said he's prepared to ask the town for the full $400,000 for the school budget.

"I will not stand by and see these teachers leave our system. I will fight and fight not to lose a single teacher," he said. "We can make cuts in transportation, athletics and the automation of the library. But there are others we can't make."

Ford, owner of a local real estate firm, warned that reductions in the public school system will ultimately effect property values in Cohasset.

The committee member said if "forced to go to the wall," he would oppose $400,000 in school budget cuts. He opposed cutting into the home economics and industrial arts programs, saying that would reduce the comprehensive nature of the school system.

Committee member Russell Reidy agreed that although many hours were spent trying to reduce the budget by $400,000, "none of the ideas are very good," he admitted. "And the real people who will lose are the children. I've seen so many great things in our schools. I'd hate to see that tarnished. Cuts can be made, but the children will suffer and we solicit your support."

Committee chairman Bliss urged residents to attend Tuesday's advisory committee meeting. "The fight isn't over yet," she stated. "The next battle is town meeting."

George Fortin, president of the Cohasset Teachers' Association, stated that "any contemplated reductions will only serve to further diminish the school's capacity to be competitive with other communities."

He added, "if choices must be made, it is essential to maintain the core of education, and that is the academic curriculum."

Several residents talked with the committee about alternative reductions in the budget. Former Cohasset teacher Alice Daunt proposed that the two elementary principal positions be combined into one. She recalled that position functioned well in the two schools several years ago.

Kidder refuted the proposal, saying that educational research points to the need for a manager at each school building.

Supt. Hart noted that a recent evaluation of the Cohasset system recognized the need for more central office administrators.

Several residents questioned whether there could be cost-savings in the special education portion of the budget which has dramatically increased over last year's appropriation. Supt. Hart explained that the program is both state and federally-mandated. He added, "I'd hate to see what would happen to Chapter 766 if there was a referendum on that now." He urged voters to contact local legislators about initiating changes in the law.

He also noted that when Cohasset is compared to similar communities in the state, per pupil costs here are much lower. If Cohasset had that extra money to spend per pupil, it would amount to about $1 million in the total budget, he said "then we would have an extra million and not have to cut anything," he stated.

Kidder added, "we have no money for the (repair of) bathrooms at Osgood and we have no money for lockers at the high school. I think it's fair to say we're running a BMW school system on a Chevrolet budget."

"If this community spent the same amount of money (for its schools) as other communities, we'd have another million and a-half dollars. We'd have clean lockers and one terrific system," Ford said.

Committee members agreed that a large number of voters are needed at the May 31 town meeting. At that meeting, Kidder promised, "we will fight for this

Neighbors outline concerns over Crystal Woods

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

"Crystal Woods is the classic example of a project which calls out for denial because of basic flaws," said Atty. George Ford, who represented neighbors of the proposed development last week at a meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals.

But counsel for the 60-unit condominium project, which would include 22 affordable units, disputed that fact.

"There is a compelling need for this type of housing in Cohasset," said Atty. Chip Agule.

The May 18 hearing was the third held by the Zoning Board of Appeals on a request for a comprehensive permit for the development on the Cohasset/Scituate line.

The permit allows developers to bypass some local zoning in exchange for providing affordable housing.

The town's first comprehensive permit was granted by the board for the Deck Point project earlier this year with 34 conditions.

The zoning board requested more information on the Crystal Woods project before it closes the public hearing portion of the application June 1.

The board will have 40 days to make a decision once the public hearing is closed.

Jack Hurley of Crystal Land Development Corporation is requesting the comprehensive permit for the project on Route 3A.

For two hours during the hearing, neighbors of the proposed development told the Zoning Board of Appeals that they are concerned about such things as drainage, septic systems and density.

About 75 of the neighbors attended the hearing.

Ford, who represented the Ledgewood Neighborhood Association, cited health and safety hazards with the project.

"The issue is not affordable housing," said Ford, in his 30-minute presentation.

"The issue is whether development of the site is consistent with local needs.

"It's not an issue of 'not in my backyard.'

"It isn't appropriate to support housing of the magnitude suggested."

Ford also discussed the septic system, subterranean water flow, supply of water and pressure.

"The project fails on itsown lack of merit, whether there is affordable housing or not," he said.

Ford also cited a multi-jurisdictional problem where the project is located in two towns, density, and the alleged inexperience of the developer.

"It is chaos for an inexperienced developer," he said.

According to Ford, eight to 10 town meeting votes would be needed between Cohasset and Scituate for the project.

He also said one to two special acts of the legislature would be needed to allow the Cohasset Water Co. to deal with Scituate, and also for Scituate to accept septage from the town of Cohasset.

Hurley's attorney later contended there was no need for such legislation.

Ford also said that the project is a misuse of the affordable housing program.

"The residents would think it was more justified if all the units were low or moderate income," he said.

"No resident objects to the opportunity to provide affordable housing.

"But they (the developer) are just attempting to make a profit on land that is otherwise not developable in the guise of providing affordable housing.

"The Ledgewood residents are not asking for favored treatment," he said.

"But they do ask the members of the board to have the courage of their convictions in looking at this from a planning perspective.

"The site is not conducive to housing of this magnitude."

Putziger noted that a benefit of the development would be a looped water system.

"That's not a significant reason to cause them to want this to be permitted," said Ford.

Ten residents also spoke in opposition.

Martha Equi of Wood Way said residents were concerned about planning, development, septic systems, traffic and wetlands.

Ed Goff of Ledgewood Drive said that when he installed a swimming pool in his yard, he began having problems with water in his cellar.

Goff said he thought flooding problems would be worse if the development is built.

"I don't deny the developer the opportunity to make a profit on land, but not at my expense," he said.

Ed Varallo of Brewster Rd. said he was concerned about traffic if a connection was made between the development and Ledgewood Drive.

Later in the hearing, the developer said there would be no such connection, except possibly for emergency access.

Ernie Grassey of Ledge Way said he was concerned about septic systems for the project.

"The jurisdictional problem only compounds the problem," he said.

"My main concern is the quality of planning, and the lack of engineering studies to support the project," said Richard Maichle of Wood Way.

Maichle also said problems with groundwater have not been addressed.

"Without a hydro-geological study, it's only speculation having a septic system there."

John Brady of Brewster Rd. told the board that he gets water in his backyard.

He cautioned against adding anything to the "neighborhood which is very fragile."

"Anything added to the neighborhood is going to sink it," he said.

Mark Steimle talked about the inexperience of the developer which he said underscores the problems.

"We're not against affordable housing," added Steimle.

"We're against a poorly planned project that's in our neighborhood."

"The developer is attempting to exploit social values," he said, "on an undevelopable piece of property."

Robert Murphy of Ledgewood Drive said that affordable housing is good for the town and should be supported.

"The project may be good for Cohasset, but it's not good for this particular site," he said.

Michaela Steimle of Wood Way called Crystal Woods an "ill conceived project."

Bill Sullivan of Ledge Way also spoke in opposition.

Hurley's engineer, Henry Dormier, responded to some of the neighbor's concerns.

He said that flow from the development would go towards Route 3A and into two culverts.

"The flow of subsurface water is away from Ledgewood Estates," he said.

"To think that this (Crystal Woods) might exacerbate things is very upsetting to me," said ZBA member Terrence Farrell who suggested some tests on the property.

Dormier also said the developer would put the homes and septic system on the best area of the site.

Mark DeGiacomo, an associate ZBA member, said he was "a little troubled" that a hydro-geological study wasn't presented to the board since it has been requested at earlier meetings.

"We have heard so many objections from the neighbors," he said.

Neighbors express concerns

"The issues would be addressed in such a report."

DeGiacomo said that the developer might not have prepared the report because he didn't want to spend the money, or because he was concerned about what the report might show.

Dormier said that the facts were already available to him.

But DeGiacomo said he was not satisfied.

The developer later said he would provide such a study.

Atty Agule said that his client has responded to many of the concerns.

Agule also said he could find no reference anywhere to the requirement of town meeting votes or special legislation.

He also said that Hurley has hired experienced traffic, engineering and other consultants.

Agule noted that the Mass. Housing Finance Agency has given initial approval for funding of Crystal Woods.

Engineer John Modzelewski, a consultant to the town, said he was surprised that the engineer has not spoken to neighbors about their problems with flooding.

Modzelewski also said that engineering has changed since the houses in the neighborhood were built.

He said if they were built today, they would be two to three feet higher to deal with the flooding.

Putziger requested legal briefs with citations from Agule and Ford on a number of things including easements for the Cohasset Water Department which would supply water to the development.

She also asked about Cohasset and Scituate entering into an agreement regarding jurisdictional enforcement of health board requirements.

The distance between fire stations in Scituate and Cohasset to Ledgewood Drive, Gannet Pasture Road and Route 3A was also requested.

If the hydrogeological study, which takes about two months, shows adverse effects, the hearing could be reopened to discuss them.

Vo-Tech graduation set

□ The CYO is sponsoring a Boston Harbor Cruise for high school students on July 10 and July 17. Transportation will leave St. Anthony's Church at 7 p.m. arriving back at midnight. Tickets are $10 and will be on sale after all masses May 27 and 28. Contact Liz Buckley at 383-1682 or Kerry Anglin at 383-1412 for more information.

Another event scheduled by the CYO is the 50th annual CYO Golf Tournament that will be held on July 17 through the 21 at Ponkapoag Golf Course in Canton. For registration forms contact Jonathan Mitchell at 383-9888 or Brendan McCarthy at 383-1691. Space is limited on both events, so be sure that you sign up early!

□ The Cohasset VFW Post 9146 is holding their annual Poppy Drive starting on May 25 and continuing through the 28. Sales will take place outside of many businesses, and there are canisters inside many stores. Proceeds of the sale benefit vets and their families and also support the VFW National Home and the Veterans Administration Hospital Program. The poppies are assembled by the disabled veterans, be sure to support this most worth cause.

□ Congratulations go to Betsy Andrade this week. Betsy received one of the Quincy CoOperative Bank scholarships for $250. She will be attending Western New England College in Springfield, Mass. in the fall. Right now Betsy is doing a special class project and is spending four weeks at her Dad's alma matra at Fairhaven High School.

While talking about the Andrade family, how about Joey? Hope everyone caught him in the Pops Concert at the High School in the Bathtub Scene...from all reports he was terrific!

□ Dan and Barbara Anderson certainly have had a busy ten days, real happy ones! It all began with a train ride to New Orleans, where they saw their son Eirik graduate from Tulane University. That event took place on Mother's Day, with all of the Anderson family present. They saw all the sights, ate great food, and the beautiful graduation ceremony was the culmination of that trip. Last Saturday, May 20th, their daughter Ingrid graduated from the University of New Hampshire in a large ceremony that was loved by all. We sure wish Eirik and Ingrid well in their future, we know that whatever they do it will be wonderful, they are super!

□ Michelle Hartley of CHS has been named to the 1989 Boston Globe All-Scholastic Gymnastics team. Michelle led the South Shore League with a 34.0 all-around average.

□ Congratulations to Laura Pompeo, who graduated from UNH last Saturday.

□ John M. Durkin is the new President! Of Condyne Freezers, Inc. that is! A grand man, he has had a lot of sales and marketing management experience. I still can see him at the A&P years ago, as a rep for Frito Lay, telling us to "Keep Durkin Workin." Much success in your new position!

□ The new office for Hallmark 100 certainly looks nice, they gave the building a nice facelift! It is located right across the street from the Post Office, in Dr. Sceerys' old building.

□ When you are driving down Beach Street, be sure to look at the watering trough at the end. Once again two lovely ladies, Mitzi Railsback and Patsy Leggat have worked their magic with flowers, it is a sight to behold.

□ This Thursday, May 25th, is the Dollhouse Tour that will be held at the Cohasset Community Center. You can see several dollhouses, enjoy tea juice and cookies, and remember your doll house! Tickets are $5, the time is 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Call 383-0088 for more information.

□ Happy Birthday to Ann Pompeo.

□ A round of applause goes to Linc Marsac, who will be a member of the Mass State AAU basketball team. He will be headed for Kentucky for the Nationals the second week in July.

□ We hope that Helen Jason is feeling better as she reads this!

□ Heather Davenport is back home on Black Horse Lane after a year of study in India. Heather is a senior at Haverford College.

□ The following Hingham residents were elected to the Community Council at Thayer Academy for 1989-90: Jason Frucci, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frucci, Class of 1991; Meghan McSheffrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McSheffrey, Class of 1991; alternate member Tracey Tuthill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tuthill, Class of 1990; and alternate to the Judiciary Board, Melissa Tuthill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tuthill, Class of 1992.

□ Rya W. Zobel of Cohasset was elected a trustee of New England Deaconess Hospital at the recent annual meeting of NEDH Corp., the parent company of the hospital. As a trustee, she also is a member of NEDH Corp.

Zobel is a United States District Judge in the district of Massachusetts. A graduate of Radcliffe College and Harvard Law School, Zobel also serves on the boards of the United Way of Massachusetts and the Handel and Haydn Society, and is a fellow of the American Bar Association.

□ Israel M. Sanchez, Jr. of Cohasset will be honored for his service as treasurer of The Republican Club of Massachusetts, the oldest and largest Republican Club, Thursday, May 11, at the 98th Annual Meeting to be held at a noon luncheon at the Downtown Harvard Club president William Sawyer of Acton announced.

Sanchez, a graduate of Milton Academy, Harvard College and Boston University Law School, was the youngest treasurer elected six years ago and will be cited for his outstanding service Sawyer added. Sanchez also serves on the Cohasset Moderate Housing Committee and is associated with law firm of Perkins, Mecsas, Smith, Arata & Howard of 1 Federal Street.

He is married to bank vice president, Jan O'Donnell formerly of Hingham and has one daughter.

□ Lastly, some good news from our house...our son, Troy, made the Dean's List at Clemson University last semester, with a 3.0 average, and everyone around here is pleased and proud of his efforts.

□ So, what's new at your house? Give me a call and you'll be able to share it with all.

CHS grad soars to new career heights

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

His destiny seemed preplanned. According to Mary Brennock, the proud mother of the newest commander of the United States Navy's Patrol Squadron Four, it was always assumed that "Danny" would choose a life in the military.

"He knew what he was going to do when he was three," she said. But even his family could not imagine to what heights his career would soar.

No one ever imagined that at 37, Danny, a graduate of Cohasset High School, would be appointed commander of several hundred men stationed in Hawaii.

After his graduation in 1969, Danny received a four-year ROTC scholarship to Illinois Institute of Technology. He was designated a naval aviator in 1974 and later qualified as patrol plane commander, mission commander and instructor pilot. Commander Brennock also earned a master's degree in business and has been awarded two Navy Commendation Medals and various unit and individual awards.

"No one ever questioned what he had in mind," his mother, a secretary at the high school guidance department recently said. Danny's father, Henry Brennock Sr. was a Navy man, having served in World War II. "He has always been supportive of Danny's plans."

Several members of the Brennock clan in Cohasset attended the festive ceremonies in which Danny assumed charge of the Hawaiian-based squadron. "It was beautiful," Mary recalled, noting how she and her husband and their daughter Maureen, along with a neighbor and friend, were treated to parties and dinners in Danny's honor.

The Brennocks stayed in Hawaii for 12 days. Mary remembered her time in the Pacific as "absolutely beautiful" and she will not soon forget how proud they were of the handsome young commander.

At one point in the pre-ceremony celebrations, the retiring commander asked Mary if the family ever thought Danny would go so far in his military career.

"I told him that the handwriting had been on the wall since he was three years old. Everyone always knew that Danny would succeed at whatever he did. And everyone knew he would be in the military," she answered.

One of his greatest supporters was his grandfather, the late Anthony Marks. Other early supporters included his paternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Brennock. Both families were longtime Cohasset residents.

Commander Brennock, who is now known as "Skipper" by members of the Patrol Squadron Four, is a humble guy who always succeeded in school, according to his mother. His lofty new position and status within the military will take some getting used to, she added.

Commander Brennock will probably remain in Hawaii for a year, which includes a six-month tour in Alaska with the squadron. The family, including his wife, the former Nancy Yokum of Cohasset and children Danny, Stefanie and Christopher, would like to return to the East coast once his command is completed.

"It would be great if he could come back closer to home," his mother stated.

Commander Daniel Brennock

Remember our vets

We are the forever young and it is Memorial Day. It is your day to remember us.

Through the lingering darkness of a long night, threads of a saffron dawn have unravelled from the skies to awaken us. To stir us from where we lie on what a poet once called "The honoured couches of everlasting sleep."

Today will be a special day for us and in a few hours you, our loved ones, will come to visit us here or in other quiet Valhallas of our old town.

Our comrades in arms will come, too, as they do every year, resplendent in their uniforms. Their rifles will shatter the morning calm with a thunderous "Ave" to us.

The melancholy lament of Taps will rise prayerfully through the warm spring air and its echoes annoint the earth above us where the flag for which we died is flying.

We were young when they brought us here, home to this peaceful community of the dead where time is non-existent; where we will be forever young. We are your sons, your brothers, your lovers, and we left our town when the madness of tyrants threatened our country.

Years, yes, even centuries, separate those of us who lie here. Some of us fell at Concord, or at Lexington, long, long ago as you, the living, measure time, and they brought us here to our eternal rest in crude wagons over paths carved out of the wilderness. Some of us were reborn into eternity even as we raised our voices in desperate prayer over the hellish roar of the guns of Shiloh and Antietam, or when, with rifles blazing, we pressed our fever-ridden bodies through tropic heat up San Juan Hill.

Others among us gave our lives for you at Chateau-Thierry, Belleau Wood, or the Argonne Forest. Most of us though, remember Anzio, Guadalcanal, Normandy, or the awful tragedies of Korea, or Vietnam, because those were the places that took us away from you, and away from our quiet cities and towns forever.

But do not weep for us. We are beyond all pain and care. We are safe now, and we are eternally happy in His Presence.

We know that you will be here with us today, and that you haven't forgotten us. Nor have we forgotten you. Your visit with us today will be like a gift of amaranths, the flowers that never die, and it will revive all the beautiful memories that we shared together.

We are the forever young and it is Memorial Day. It is our day to remember you, too. . . .

Cohasset observance

The George H. Mealy American Legion Post will be sponsoring Memorial Day ceremonies Monday, May 29.

Beginning at 8 a.m., parade marchers will assemble at the Legion on Summer Street. They will begin the march at 8:15 a.m. to the North Cohasset Cemetery. They will arrive there at approximately 8:45 a.m.

At each cemetery, a military honor guard and benediction will be observed.

The marchers will arrive at the Woodside Cemtery by 9:30 a.m., and the Beechwood Cemtery by 9:45 a.m. Marchers will next proceed to the music circus where they will be joined by the Kevin Barry bagpipe players.

The parade will enter the Central Cemetery at 11 a.m. and will arrive at the Cohasset Common for a reading of the honor roll at 11:30 a.m.

The parade will conclude at noon at Veterans' Memorial Park along Cohasset Harbor.

The guest speaker for Monday's concluding ceremony will be Retired U.S. Army Lt. Col. Edward T. Graham of Cohasset.

CHS grad concerned about future

To the Editor:

As a member of the Cohasset High School class of 1988, and Boston College class of 1992. . .I would like to voice my deep concern for the future of the school and for the Town of Cohasset itself. I was privileged to have been raised and educated in an excellent community with a high standard of education. It is because of this high standard that my classmates and I have been accepted to extremely competitive colleges and universities across the nation.

It is a fact that the future of our country lies with its youth. I would respectfully remind the people of Cohasset that their future is in jeopardy if they do not continue to provide quality education. If, through short sightedness the taxpayers opt to save a few tax-dollars at the expense of education, they are being, "Penny wise and pound foolish." Without maintaining an excellent school system, the students cannot achieve their potential, be accepted at competitive colleges, nor secure any future for themselves or the nation. If they opt for a few tax dollars over a safe community, which responds to the sick and aging through ambulance service, again they are being "Penny wise and pound foolish." And if indeed the dollar is the bottom line in this affluent community of ours. . .then pragmatically they should be aware that a quality school system and comprehensive community services dictate the property values of each and every home.

Let Cohasset's vision be a long term goal for our future: At the community level, property values should be secure by maintaining the excellent standard of living and education that I enjoyed. At the national level, let your insurance policy for AMERICA's future be your youthful students.

Cohasset citizens — exercise your privilege and responsibility by voting for the budget override at the May 31 Town Meeting. Please mandate the funds necessary to maintain the excellence that is Cohasset.

Was move a mistake?

To the Editor:

Our family moved into Cohasset from Connecticut in January.

The single most important factor regarding the selection of Cohasset was the reputation of the school system.

Due to the actions of the town's electorate at the Proposition 2½ override, Cohasset would not even be considered if we were making the choice today. Others who have not yet made this decision will, with the ensuing downward correction in property values.

Chamber opposes budget override

To the Editor:

On May 6, the taxpayers of Cohasset spoke; and they spoke loudly. For weeks before the override ballot, the Town discussed the issues — not at Town Hall or on Cable T.V.; but in coffee shops in supermarkets, at ballfields, and on street-corners. They spoke angrily of ornamental desks at Town Hall; school budgets top-heavy with administrative salaries; costly lawsuits brought Town boards more concerned with personalities than with legalities; fiscal irresponsibility and living within the Town's means. And then, when it counted, Cohasset taxpayers backed up their words with their ballots. The Cohasset Chamber of Commerce applauds all those Cohasset voters who have demanded a say in how and where their tax money is spent. But unfortunately, Cohasset, your job is only half done. To finish it, you must come to the Town Meeting extension on May 31.

Some of our Town officials have said that the voters were ill-informed, ignorant of the issues involved, and will not show up at another Town Meeting. They never have; they never will. We agree that two or three hundred voters cannot be representative of the Town on these override issues. We need six hundred, eight hundred, one thousand voters at this Meeting. We need those adamantly opposed to the overrides, and those passionately in favor of them. Most importantly, we need all those voters in the middle — those who felt that the ballot as presented did not give them the voting options that they needed and deserved. We must have a Town Meeting that represents Cohasset voters as a whole. This Town cannot afford to have these issues decided by a few, no matter what "side" they are on. The final outcome is just too critical to our Town's future.

Getting this many people to Town Meeting, on a Wednesday evening, will be difficult, without a doubt. Our Selectmen say that it is impossible, perhaps not.

If each of you who plan to attend Town Meeting brings one other voter with you, it can be done. If people come to Town Meeting in groups, it can be done. We are all less likely to "forget" a commitment if we are riding with someone else. Parents, homeowners, business people — we can all be a little more assertive in a group. So start now. Talk to friends, neighbors, family members. Plead, cajole, coerce. Use guilt, if necessary. But get one other person to go to Town Meeting with each of you. If you have to arrive late, promise to meet one extra person there. And do it. Sit together. Vote together. Stand up and be counted — together.

COME TO TOWN MEETING MAY 31. AND, PLEASE DON'T COME ALONE.

Osgood school awaits playground projects

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

If you have travelled past the Osgood School, you've probably noticed some unusual activity in the playground area.

Students, teachers, parents and many other members of this community are anxiously counting down the days until the actual construction begins on the new Osgood Playpark - a playground built with imagination, hard work and contributions from many people in the community.

The area is currently being graded, thanks to the voluntary help of local residents, Wayne Sawchuk, Bob Protulis, and Phil Lehr. Together, they have worked at night to dismantle the old equipment, while they grade the surface in preparation for the new.

By the way, the old playground equipment will not be disposed of and forgotten. Still in useable condition, the swings and slides will be given to the recreation department, to be used at various locations around town.

The Osgood Playpark has been a community effort since its inception, according to chief planner and organizer Ann Whiteley. Although there had been no noticeable change in the playground area until last week, Whiteley will be the first to admit that much behind-the-scenes activity is necessary before that first nail is hammered.

"I always had the idea that people in this town would rally around the kids," she said. "And they have, and it will soon be over. I think the kids have kept us going. And now it's gratifying to see that if we work hard, our dreams will come true. We're showing our kids what they can accomplish if they work hard."

The children of Cohasset will see that for themselves during the weekend of June 10 and 11 when a total of 400 adults will volunteer their time to assemble the complicated maze of lumber.

When completed, the Osgood Playpark will take on a nautical theme, with four slides, six swings, including one for handicapped, an arched bridge, a telephone system with pipes, a telescope, flagpoles, a sea serpent, a shinney pole, ladders, bells, a tire hammock, balance beams, stepping columns, viewing benches for tired moms and dads, and a sand boat - all made with tires, lumber and lots of love.

The kids have had a big hand in the fundraising for their playground. They brought in a total of $6,500 from a read-a-thon they sponsored at the Osgood School.

Meanwhile, a group of parents schemed and plotted to raise about $30,000 through a series of fundraising activities for the entire community - not just for Osgood parents.

And now, they are requesting more than money. They need strong hands and willing spirits to help construct and assemble the project.

The work actually begins on Saturday, June 3 and Sunday, June 4. At that time, skilled workers are needed to set the precise parameters for the 10,000 square-foot playground. They will also begin to frame the decks and set 10 to 12-inches of pea stone for the base.

The work that is accomplished that weekend will make it easier to finish the entire project the following weekend, Whiteley explained. Any skilled worker, 18 years or older who is willing to volunteer the time should call her at 383-9310, or the school at 383-6117.

For that weekend, Eastern Edison has donated the use of an auger truck which will dig out 51 holes. Fifteen strong males are needed Friday, June 2 to lift poles and sink them four feet into the ground. These poles will be the support for the playpark decks.

While the sun sets, volunteers were busy this week as they dismantled the old Osgood playground to make way for the new.

The biggest push will come the weekend of June 10 and 11 when skilled, semi-skilled and non-skilled workers will be needed to finish the project by Monday.

There will be two shifts to divide the work teams. Shift one will begin at 7:30 a.m. and shift two will start at 1 p.m. The days ends at 5 that evening. On Sunday, work begins again at 8:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. and the next shift takes over from 2 to 6 p.m. Whiteley and publicity chairman Rhonda Myers are crossing their fingers that the work will be completed well before 6 p.m.

For that weekend, the group could use three more skilled workers for each shift. A total of 40 skilled workers per shift is necessary, according to the playground designer Tom Bowler.

Ten more semi-skilled and non-skilled workers are also needed for each work shift. Skilled, according to Whiteley, is someone who knows how to frame. Semi-skilled defines someone who can use tools around the house. Non-skilled is someone who can help serve the food for the workers, and help out with the babysitting which will be provided free to the volunteers.

Regarding the childcare, it is requested that workers bring their offspring for only a half-day. The children will be supervised at the community center, but it would be helpful if they were there for no more than half the day, according to Whiteley. Parents should bring snacks for the children who will be at the community center.

Food and soda will be provided to the workers on June 10 and 11. But Moira Stanzell, who is heading that department, needs a few more volunteers to help her serve a light breakfast and lunch. Volunteers should contact Rhonda Myers at 383-2969.

During this time when the old playground has been dismantled and the new equipment has not been constructed, the Osgood students need new activities during their recess. If anyone would like to supervise and teach the children games during recess, they should contact the school at 383-6117.

Whiteley noted that none of this could have succeeded without help from the community, and donations from a lot of businesses.

Materials for the playpark have been donated by Walsh and Packard of Hingham, Harbor Mechanical, and the Brudean Corp. of Connecticut, which donated 45 golf cart tires for the project. When asked to donate, the president of the company, answered, "I'll do anything for the kids of America."

All the lunches for June 2,3 and 4 have been donated by Victoria's Beer and Wine of Hingham. The Stop and Shop helped out with the food, and Coca Cola will be supplying all the drinks for the weekend workers. Carmen from the Strawberry Parfait has donated the coffee machines.

Hostess has donated all breakfast foods along with Peggy Lawton. And Grossman's has reduced the cost of all lumber purchased for the playground.

Local woodcarver David Hassan has constructed a nautical sign for the playground which will read, "The Osgood Playpark - Dedicated to the young at heart." His services were also donated to the students.

Ron Goodwin, owner of Goodwin Graphics, has donated hats for all the workers with a special playpark logo. Tee-shirts with that same logo are now available - a 'must' piece of apparel for the June 10 and 11 weekend. Kids' sizes are $6, and adults are $8 each. They may be ordered by calling Linda Keller at 383-6873, or the Osgood School at 383-6117.

There will be a 35-foot nautical mast stationed permanently on the playpark. It will proudly proclaim the park as USS Osgood. It was donated to the project by John Wallace, owner of Eagle Flag Co. of Weymouth. He has also donated a series of nautical code flags. Each classroom will be responsible for a message as they periodically interchange the flags.

And finally, the dedication ceremonies will cap off the long hours of work on Monday, June 12.

At that time, the students will begin the ceremony at the common at 9 a.m. The public is welcome to attend, and to line the parade route as the children march back to the school along with the Deer Hill band and Glenn Pratt's antique fire truck.

The children will join in a song especially written for the June 12 ceremony, entitled, "The Osgood Playpark Dedication." As any Osgood parent will attest, the children have practiced this tune for weeks in advance.

After the ribbon cutting ceremony, it will be cupcakes and drinks for all, and then one-by-one the classes will take to the playpark for some extra recess time.

Don't deprive students of a nurturing education

Letters

To the Editor:

A 3rd grade child eagerly awaits the school bus, as she has great expectations this day. Her school is small, yes, but to her it is a shining world. It is peopled with caring teachers. A science teacher, who's room may reveal the wonder of birth, as duck's eggs may hatch or tiny tadpoles emerge. Perhaps the snake wrapped around the teacher's arm will shed it's skin today. Why — how — the child wonders?The teacher's expertise and intense interest will guide her classmates to inquire and learn about their living world.

The child returns to her classroom. Vines of columbine and morning glories are miraculously blooming in January along the walls. The weaving loom awaits those who are lucky enough to complete their math and English lessons. A French lesson with Madame Oxley tomorrow and on Wednesday, she and her classmates will learn to shape clay on the potter's wheel. Each teacher encourages her becoming and growth toward adulthood. The world awaits. . .

This child's experience is only a glimpse of my public school education in Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y. during the 1950's and 1960's.

We have so many wonderfully trained and nurturing teachers in Cohasset. Don't deprive them of the materials, equipment and the chance to nurture our children of the 1990's and beyond. Memories of the past coupled with complacency about our future will not prepare Cohasset's children to inquire, to grow, to become.

Please come to Town Meeting, May 31, 7:30 at the high school.

Too little is being done for our veterans

To the Editor:

In relation to a statement by Mrs. Diana Kornet, quote: "It's a little more important to address the needs of the living," regarding the need for readying the town for Memorial Day and the town budget. I take exception. There is little enough done for the veterans who fought, lived and died for their country. My ancestors fought in every war this country fought, starting with French-American war to the present day — husband and two sons ancestors were direct descendants. Fought in all wars but two: the Spanish-American and Korean Conflict.

Readying the town for Memorial Day and Fourth of July could be done on a donating basis. I for one would gladly give a donation.

Love of country has to be fostered and nurtured among the young people by the parents and schools and national holidays, by showing a sense of caring. You are not born with it.

Recreation programs

The Cohasset Recreation Department will accept telephone registrations for beginner and intermediate dog training classes to be taught by Laurie Cleveland.

Classes will be held Wednesday evenings on Cohasset Common starting Wednesday, June 7.

Beginner classes will be from 6:30-7:30 p.m., and the intermediate/advanced class will be from 7:30-8:30 p.m. The fee for the eight-week program will be $25. Checks, made payable to the Town of Cohasset, may be brought to the first class, Wednesday, June 7. Dogs should be a minimum of three months of age.

Owners are required to have their dogs restrained with a humane choke chain. The proper size of the chain is determined by measuring the dog's neck, adding four inches. Absolutely no spike collars allowed. It is also strongly suggested that the handlers wear comfortable shoes and clothes for this session. The fee is $25 per dog for the eight-week, one-hour per week program.

To register, call the Cohasset Recreation Department at 383-6791. Registrations will be accepted on a first-call, first-enrolled basis. Classes are limited in size.

Area walkathon June 11

Sunday, June 11 at 1 p.m. a Walkathon will start in Plymouth and travel 17.5 miles through the "emergency planning zone" to Duxbury.

Proceeds will go to fund the court costs of those arrested for nonviolently protesting the Pilgrim Nuclear Power Plant in Plymouth on Dec. 31, 1988. Local activists will be going to jury trial September 18 in Hingham District Court.

If you would like to walk or sponsor a walker please call: Pat Granahan at 749-2542.

Summer Creativity Workshop

The Children's Summer Creativity Workshops will begin July 31 and run throughout the month of August. In this established program students meet mornings once a week for five weeks in an outdoor setting in Hingham. There are several openings available.

There are three programs being offered. The 5-year-old workshops especially designed for children entering kindergarten in the fall. This series will encourage confidence, self-expression and focus on primary skills. For ages 6 to 8 young artists will create projects relating to nature. Each session a new media will be introduced. Older artists ages 9 to 13 will meet one evening a week. Learning how to draw with special attention to the art of seeing will be the main emphasis. There will be many opportunities to stretch the creative process through the use of varied materials. Each child's own unique creativity will be encouraged in all workshops.

Closing registration date is June 2. To insure placement in the workshops pre-paid registration is required.

Call instructor Lynn Rizzotto at 749-2453 for more information.

Seamanship course

The United States Coast Guard Auxilliary, Flotilla 1207, sponsored by the Cohasset Harbor and recreation departments will conduct a Boating Skills and Seamanship Course. It is mandatory by law for all 16 year olds and under who plan to operate a boat of 25 horsepower or more.

The course, is open to all ages, and will be held at the audio-visual room at Cohasset High School, beginning June 5 at 7 p.m., on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

Registrations will be accepted by calling the Cohasset Recreation Department Office at 383-6791 prior to May 31. The course is free, however, there is a $10 charge for the text and homework books. Checks made payable to "U.S.C.D. Flotilla 1207," may be brough to the first class.

The Boating Skills and Seamanship Course will be limited in size, and registrations will be accepted on a first-call, first-enrolled basis. It is available to non-Cohasset residents on a space-available basis.

Outdoor pops concert

The Hingham Civic Orchestra, conducted by John Corley, will present a second outdoor Pops Concert on the great Lawn at Glastonbury Abbey in Hingham, Sunday afternoon, June 11 at 3 p.m. (Raindate: Sunday, June 18). The Concert is entitled "June is Bustin' Out All Over!"

Tickets are $4 and will be available at the Glastonbury Abbey office, (open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.), Noble's Camera Shop in downtown Hingham or at the Concert.

Bring family, friends, folding chairs, blankets, and a picnic.

Tickets for art center concert

Tickets are now available to the Jonathan Edwards and Cheryl Wheeler concert to be held Friday, June 23 at 8 p.m. at the Nickerson Theater. The concert is being sponsored by the South Shore Art Center.

In addition to the concert, WGBH's Dick Pleasants will MC the concert. Edwards and Wheeler will be performing at the Nickerson Theater, Accord Park (Route 228 between Routes 3 and 53) on June 23 at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $15 General or $25 Patron. For reservations, call the Nickerson Theater at 871-2400 or the South Shore Art Center at 383-9548.

Artwork for exhibitions

The South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road in Cohasset, will accept artwork for three exhibitions: Juried Exhibition, Juried Photography Exhibition and the Members' Exhibition for the 34th Annual South Shore Arts Festival June 23-25.

Art media may be in oil & acrylics, watercolor, drawing and pastels, graphics, three-dimensional/sculpture, mixed media and photography (B&W, Color, Special Effects).The award categories are: BEST OF SHOW: $200, FIRST PRIZE $100, SECOND PRIZE $75, THIRD PRIZE $50 and PRODUCT AWARDS. Ribbons will be awarded in all categories. Awards are funded by area businesses and banks and by a Massachusetts Arts Lottery grant as administered by the South Shore Arts Councils.

Artwork may be delivered to the South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road in Cohasset, Friday, June 2 from 12 to 4 p.m. and Saturday, June 3 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Unaccepted work may be picked up Friday, June 9 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Saturday, June 10 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

For more information, call the South Shore Art Center at 383-9548.

Center exercise class

There is a new exercise class at the Cohasset Community Center which is designed for anyone interested in toning muscles and improving definition, endurance, and strength.

The class is one hour and is ideal for men and women who want to improve their fitness level and supplement aerobics, walking, biking, or any other fitness activity with a complete toning workout. It is held on Wednesday mornings at 8:45 and is conducted by Normandie Nigh.

Please call the Cohasset Community Center at 383-0088 for more information.

PSO recycling tips

They are becoming a much discussed topic especially in a small town such as Cohasset. Each week we will try to give you a few suggestions that might help turn these situations around. Tip #4: (Environmental) — Put a brick into your toilet tank. You will save water with every flushing, adding up to hundreds of gallons a year!

Cohasset must continue a comprehensive high school

Letters

To the Editor:

When school budgets get tight and communities and their elected representatives look for ways to save tax dollars, the first things considered as excess baggage are Industrial arts, Music, and Art. The reasons usually cited are that very few students take these courses.

Part of the reason for this is that class scheduling does not leave time in most students schedules for these non-academic classes, so that when students express an interest in these programs, their essential classes conflict with the times that these courses are given.

Many students at Cohasset High School are taking 6 majors, with twenty minutes out for lunch. Perhaps with such a rigorous schedule, they need to have time to expand the right side of their brains and try a different cerebral exercise - to build a table, make a piece of art, compose a symphony, sing a new song, make a jogging suit, fix a gourmet meal, write a poem, learn to respect and appreciate students who do these things as naturally as they do trigonometry.

Unfortunately, parents and the general public, still consider these courses in industrial arts and home economics as unnecessary to todays students. But for students to be well grounded, the practical sciences, as they once were called, are more important than ever. And more to the point, the students who are able to fit in these courses, enjoy them and benefit from the opportunity to expand their pool of personal resources.

I am an educator who believes that our inventors, philosophers, practical scientists, mechanical technicians, and humanitarians, may rise from the non-conformist, and perhaps, non-academic side of the intellectual pool, as has happened for generations.

Recently, I attended a B.U. symposium on education, and the facts about our schools nationally are tragic. Right now, we are losing our non-conformist genius resources because teachers are pressured to produce good grades for college entrance, rather than encourage creative and independent thinking. Our children are prepared to learn by rote memorization, and then evaluated by how well they take tests. Then they are extruded into our Universities, which are now in crisis, trying to teach to new freshmen, what the secondary schools said their students had learned well enough to earn A's and B's. This is a poor way to encourage a developing mind.

But how can we nurture in our society, those non-conformists who ask "why," who are independent thinkers, whose minds develop in a different pattern. We need to look more closely at our students and see their real qualities and skills, and help them decide how to channel their dreams.

The only way that students are going to be able to know what their talents and interests are is to experience

A comprehensive high school is needed in Cohasset

these in our high school, not the vocational school. In order to even consider Art, Music, Industrial Arts, all of which offer extremely important and lucrative careers to very talented minds, our students need exposure to them. These are career skills as surely as math, reading, writing, and science and they should be paired with those studies, adapted for the different career goals of our students. To many students, whose goals are connected to them, these courses are not a "frill" or luxury. Is science a "frill" to an aspiring scientist, or is math a "luxury" to an engineering helpful?

Try, sometime, to do a drawing and see how much of your mind is occupied with that project, and see if you can design something beautiful or inspiring, in three dimensions. Only then can you understand a little, how intense the thought process is for an artist or an architect, or a builder, or a draftsman. How would our books, annual reports, magazines, advertisements look without color and art? Who will design our products for export if we hold art as unimportant in our community?

Today, professional art schools and universities expect students who apply to them to present in person, a fairly extensive and professional portfolio of their work along with all the usual application requirements. A skilled art teacher must help our artistically gifted students in this grueling admissions process. A successful and gifted sculptor, who graduated magna cum laude from Harvard, told our Cohasset students last year: "you don't choose art; art chooses you." What if art chooses some of our students and there is no program and no teacher?

Think of a world without musicians, or worse, a musician in spirit, without opportunity to make music. When you sing or play an instrument or try to compose a piece of music, is your mind totally immersed, and to what depth? Music schools, unilaterally require an audition showing proficiency in voice or on an instrument, experience in a band as well as skill in reading music. Seiji Ozawa freely admitted that he is not a musical genius, but that exposure to music over his childhood years, finally made an impact. In fact he had not considered directing until he had the experience of doing it and his life was changed forever. What if your child is not a genius, does that child have to suffer, like Mozart, in order to achieve recognition? Shouldn't our children have the same opportunities that the towns of Lincoln, Rockland, and Quincy offer their young citizens.

How are we going to continue to produce affordable and luxury housing, fine furniture, mechanical equipment, lifesaving medical equipment if we don't expose our children to beginning classes in mechanical drawing, drafting, wood craftsmanship. How will we compete with Japan and Germany when we are producing fewer products every year, because our labor force has no training to sustain our past leadership in industry. How will our children find work that can sustain them financially and emotionally, if we lose the teachers who can prepare students for designing ad producing new products.

We must not let our children down. There is nothing as important, and we need to continue to provide them with up-to-date career options, while supporting our teachers, and involving ourselves in the schools, even providing our special expertise to the various departments. We are lucky to have mature, professional teachers in the Cohasset schools, but we must also look to the future with our new, young teachers, who have so much to offer our community.

If we eliminate anything, let's consider as "frills," the many luxuries of our fortunate lives, and decide to invest some of our great personal resources in our most important asset, the children of Cohasset. Every last child in our community has something to give to the future - let's help them to make it a positive contribution. We don't know who is going to come up with the technology to clean up an oil spill, or develop an aids vaccine, but we know who can keep our young minds open to the future and it is us!

Let us today, under Superintendent, Steve Hart's leadership, mandate a reorganization of our schools to better serve all our children. Let us look at combining departments which should naturally work together. Let us encourage a wider interpretation of intellect and strike the words "bright" and "slow" from our general conversation, unless we are referring to the sunshine and the traffic to Boston. Perhaps we can say, when asked what investments we made this year, "I invested in the life and future of a child."

Education is important

To the Editor:

The defeat of the override budget represents mainly a lost sense of community.

We all like to find a bargain, but we often forget that something has to be sacrificed when we don't pay the required price. It may be quality; it may be convenience; it may be that we put our neighbor out of business and ultimately ourselves because we thought only of saving money.

I moved to Cohasset mainly because of the quality of the Cohasset school system. The education of my child is of prime importance to me, not just for her, but for the contributions an educated person can make to the lives of all of us. She has had fine teachers and friends in Cohasset, but I wonder if I have perhaps credited my neighbors and other townspeople with a greater community spirit than in fact exists here.

All of us who were educated in public schools, or received help at any time from the fire or police department, owe it to our children and fellow citizens to make the same facilities available to them. If we don't, we are only hurting ourselves, and it is only a matter of time before our property values are diminished, and the quality of our life is eroded. I hope that doesn't happen here. I hope that each member of the community will realize that he/she is a part of something larger than just getting a bargain.

"My pediatrician is great with my kids. It was my health plan that made all the boo-boos."

With most health plans you're left wondering whether or not you're covered, how to fill out the forms, and who to turn to for answers.

That's why over 130,000 people in eastern Massachusetts have turned to Pilgrim Health Care. Because we give comprehensive coverage you can count on. Without deductibles or paperwork. Best of all, we have over 1,800 physicians affiliated with our plan, so chances are one of them is yours. The one you know and trust.

To find out more, ask your employer or call us at 1-800-PHC-TEAM.

And relax.

Not just seniors—all parents need to vote for budget

To the Editor:

As a senior citizen, I feel compelled to answer the accusations that the senior citizens of Cohasset defeated the override of Prop 2 1/2. While it may be true that some senior citizens voted NO, justifiably so, for those on a very limited income, I feel the vast majority voted YES for question #1.

Most of the senior citizens are, and have been in the past, very much in favor of education. Many of us have had our children go through the Cohasset schools, yes even some grandchildren and wish the same good education for our future citizens. Several of us have served on the school committee and are all too aware of the financial problems that beset a committee committed to excellence in education.

The fact that senior citizens came out in large numbers should have been as no surprise, nor an accusation that they were against an override. Senior citizens have voted historically in all elections, town, state, national, in proportionately larger numbers than the general electorate.

Had all parents of school-age children voted, no doubt question #1 would have passed. Hopefully they will all be at the May 31 town meeting and any future meeting.

Why did John Smith leave here that day?
Why did he choose not to stay?
Perhaps he foresaw with dismay

The girls continue win streak in youth soccer

Wins by all three Girls' Under 12 teams, and a foul-marred Under 19 boys' victory over Halifax marked the eighth week of Coastal League play for Cohasset youth soccer.

Girls Under 12-2 edged Pembroke 3-2 on two goals by Catie Campbell and one from Jayne Singleton. Caroline Delima, Megan Fahey and Amie Theriault all notched assists, and Chloe Chittick had a strong game at midfield. The Under 12-3 girls thumped Sacred Heart 5-1 with three goals from Andrea Freeman, and single tallies by Heather Procter and Kelly O'Donnell. Goalie Laura Slotnick, and backs Kathy Mattinger and Melissa Weier also turned in good efforts. Finally, Girls Under 12-1 remained unbeaten, topping Scituate 2-0 on goals from Melinda Johansen and Martina Snyder. Goalkeeper Emily D'Urso recorded the shutout, with help from midfielders Alissa Sexton, Jemilah Afshar and Molly Hamill.

Boys' Under 19 beat Halifax with seconds remaining on a Ned Chase shot in a contest that ended with four Halifax players being ejected from the game. Cohasset, which was scheduled to play Halifax a second time on Sunday, instead forfeited that game. League coordinator Larry Shultz said the Halifax performance would be reported to the league office for further sanctions. In that game, Jay Staunton scored the other Cohasset goal on a penalty kick, and Dan Bliss was outstanding on defense.

In other girls' play:

Girls' Under 10-2 won by forfeit over Plymouth.

Girls' Under 14-1 lost twice, to Duxbury 3-0, and to Marshfield 5-2. In the Duxbury game, Cohasset was facing a team that had placed seven players on the regional all-star squad, and that was averaging eight goals a game. Goalkeeper Jennifer Knowles, forward Kathleen O'Brien and back Cathy O'Sullivan all had great games. Against Marshfield, coach Jack O'Brien got goals from Liza Schrann and Colby Lawrence, and good play from forward Tracey Reardon.

Girls' Under 16, on Heidi Lincoln's goal, finally got coach Steve Hague off the losing track, tying Marshfield 1-1.

And girls' Under 19 tied Norwell 0-0 behind Jen Plante's goaltending. "I think the heat got to us more than Norwell did," said coach Bob Beggan.

In other boys' play:

Boys Under 10-1 fell from the ranks of the unbeaten, losing to Plymouth 4-3. Down 4-1 after two penalty kicks, 10-1 stormed back on a pair of goals by Daniel Steele, but fell short. The third tally was by Taylor Devin, his tenth of the year.

Under 10-2 won twice, beating Pembroke 2-0, and Carver 3-1. Greg Bilton scored twice against Pembroke, and was backed up with good play from backs Morgan Sandell and Patrick Leahy. Against Carver, Brian Donovan, Patrick Hurley and Andrew Singleton all scored. Boys' Under 10-3 dropped a tight 1-0 game to Carver, with goalkeeper Adam Sheerin playing well, as did Mike Baird and Ryan McWilliams.

Under 12-1 tied Scituate 2-2 as their opponents scored twice on penalty kicks. Andy Fitzsimmons and Ryan Freeman got the goals, and Tom Grecco and midfielder Ben Manning pushed the ball upfield.

Under 14-1 beat Hanover 3-1 on goals by Bill Jordan, Charlie Endris, and Eric Drysdale. Max Nivaud was strong on defense for coach Steve Endris' squad. Under 14-2 slugged Kingston 7-0 behind Andrew Pozatek's four goals. Joey Slotnick added two, and Mike Shields one, while Wes DeSantis and Jeremiah Stevenson shared goalkeeping duties.

Boys' Under 16-1 fell to powerhouse Duxbury 6-0, and played with just 10 players. Travis Coley, a candidate for the state Select team, stood out in that game.

The Oaks is for sale again—for $3.7 million

nothing needs to be done to it.

"Plus, it is in a terrific location.

"It's the keystone of the harbor."

Hamilton said that he has three more showings of the house planned for the next few weeks.

"There will be two new people, and one repeat visitor," he said.

No dockominiums are in the plans for the new buyers, Hamilton said.

"From what we have seen, people are interested in keeping the flavor of the property the same.

"It's important that The Oaks maintain its character.

"It's the keystone of the harbor area.

The Oaks, overlooking Cohasset Harbor, was built some 60 years ago by Jessie Bancroft Cox.

She was the granddaughter of Clarence W. Barron, owner of "The Wall Street Journal" and founder of the financial weekly "Barron's".

Cox inherited the land after Barron's death in 1928. She then demolished a Victorian house that stood on the site, and erected the stateley Georgian mansion.

Since Mrs. Cox's death in the early 1980s, "The Oaks" has had two owners.

The Yankee Companies, Inc., the energy and banking firm, acquired the property in 1983 and turned it into a corporate headquarters.

Many of the elegant rooms were used as offices, and the oak-panelled library became a conference room.

A servant's wing of six small bedrooms was converted to offices.

The basement was outfitted with complete locker room facilities and Nautilus equipment.

Most of the formal bedrooms and other living areas were not altered, however.

"The Oaks" includes a swimming pool and pool house overlooking the harbor, a tennis court, greenhouses and a boathouse.

MTC Associates III purchased the property in 1987 for around $2.3 million, according to Hamilton.

"It is large, but not overwhelming, and is very livable as a home, or perfect for a small corporation," said Hamilton, a resident of the town for 22 years.

His company began marketing the The Oaks about three weeks ago.

"This is brand new for us," said Hamilton.

"We had an open house for brokers the Friday before last.

"There were about 110 brokers from the South Shore, Boston and the North Shore."

Marketing is being conducted on three levels, according to Hamilton.

The local level includes advertising in such papers as The Boston Globe. There has also been an extensive mailing of a color brochure on the estate to brokers and individuals as well as institutions and schools which might be interested, he said.

National marketing has included ads in the Wall St. Journal in both the business and residential sections, according to Hamilton.

"We have gotten a good response," he said.

Hamilton said he has heard from health care groups, schools, and private individuals.

"We have had seven showings in three weeks," said Hamilton.

"The response has been very encouraging," he said.

"The Oaks has been so well maintained.

"It could be a wonderful corporate headquarters, or a residence."

So far, he said, interest in the property has been 2 to 1 in favor of corporate showings compared to individuals.

Hamilton said the spring is a good time to show the property.

"But with a property like this, any time of the year is a good time to show it.

"It is in fabulous condition.

Selectmen chairman Burt Pratt said he will take a "wait and see attitude" about the sale.

"I'm ambivalent about it being on the market again," said Pratt.

"I'm glad the other plans didn't go through," he said, referring to the proposal for the dockominiums.

"It wasn't in the town's best interest.

"I think we at least have a chance to get in there something better than before," he said.

Pratt noted that one large organization had been negotiating for the property for a number of months.

"Apparently, that has fallen through, although I really don't know the status of it."

Pratt also noted that the town has appointed a study committee to look into possible uses of the property. It has a $5,000 grant, he said.

"The only possible municipal use would involve the waterfront," noted Pratt.

Former planning board chairman Robert Sturdy, a member of the study committee which has yet to be activated, said he would like to see the town acquire the land by purchasing it or swapping it for other land.

"There is a very distinct possibility of state and federal grants," said Sturdy, who noted that the estate is the only piece of available land on the harbor.

Advisors to decide on override . . .

school budget, an opposing view was taken by the majority of voters at the May 6 election. He said the committee was therefore responsible to bring a budget before town meeting that reflects the wishes of the electorate.

Other advisory committee members, including Raymond Kasperowicz, said he will reject a kneejerk reaction to the May 6 vote. But he warned that several questions regarding the future leadership and direction of the school system must be answered before he decides what budget to recommend to town meeting.

The school committee members assured Kasperowicz that they have begun work on a comprehensive five-year plan that will allow them to research and evaluate many areas of the school system, including teacher evaluations, administration and school facilities. "We are committed to this long range plan," Bliss assured him.

The committee members were asked why no administrators were eliminated from the budget. "I'd feel better about backing you if you hadn't taken out so much on teachers. I'd feel better if you did something on the administrative end," advisory member Jill O'Donnell said.

School committee members noted that educational research points out the need for maintaining an administrative leader for each school. Chairman Bliss explained that many administrators were cut from the budget when Proposition 2 1/2 first went into effect. Since that time, building principals have been responsible for an increasing amount of paperwork and grant writing.

"What is your opinion of a budget that will have an effect on the services provided, but will not endanger the integrity of a comprehensive school system?" advisory member Christine Bassett asked.

Kidder listed a number of reductions, none of which includes fewer teaching positions, that would result in a $158,690 decrease in the school budget. "We are not saying we all agree with these cuts, but it is a point of departure," he stated, explaining that it represents a four percent reduction of the recommended budget for next year.

Advisory member Betsy Mallard supported the compromise budget. "The schools are too important," she stated. "We have to vote our conscience and my conscience is for the quality of this town. Here we have an opportunity to put our money where our mouth is."

The school committee members were asked if they would be prepared to reduce the budget by $400,000 if the electorate defeated another override at a second election. They answered affirmatively. Chairman Bliss said they would discuss whether the school budget should appear as a separate ballot question if a second override election is held. "I have no problem doing it this time. Maybe we should be more assertive and see what this town thinks about the schools," she noted.

Advisory committee member William Lean, a member of the school committee subcommittee, said he supported the compromise measure. Phil Smith, a member of the advisory committee, suggested they vote to support the compromise budget.

"But the electorate is the higher authority and they do not agree with you," Gjesteby stated.

"The advisory board can't continue to slash these budgets to pieces. Could you say this is what the public should vote on?" Smith asked.

The advisors decided to wait until their meeting Thursday, May 25 when all the other budgets will be finalized before deciding whether to support the compromise school budget reduction.

Skippers slide into action

The bench cleared as the entire CHS team hurried to congratulate teammate Evan Spencer on his out-of-the-park homerun.

Joel Reidy had to make a quick switch as he puts on his catcher's gear after a run from third base to home.

Matt Beggan cheers on his teammates as they take the field in CHS Varsity action.

The prospects for a CHS victory put smiles on a lot of faces — particularly after Evan's two-run homer.

VINYL'S NEW LOOK

As kitchens have gone upscale in recent years, homeowners have opted for wood and ceramic tile as the floor coverings of choice. However, vinyl is making something of a comeback. This floor material shares the affordability, ease of installation, and low maintenance aspects with its forebears. However, vinyl is no longer necessarily the shiny, busy floor covering that was so popular two and three decades ago. Today's vinyl comes in light and airy pastel colors. It can mimic the look of such natural materials as slate, tile, brick, stone, ceramic tile, marble, and granite. Vinyl also lends itself well to the creation of geometric patterning. It can also be arranged in daring post-modern designs. Many homeowners are now finding that vinyl's subtlety, versatility, and low maintenance is a hard combination to beat.

There are many parts to a kitchen remodeling. No longer is a change of cabinets the "total picture." A new layout plus design, custom cabinets, lighting, flooring and cabinets comprise a complete kitchen. At KITCHEN DESIGN ASSOCIATES, we have many components for this total entity. We have beautiful cabinets that fit the specifications of the designs we create. We feature Poggenpohl cabinets, a European line, plus Millbrook cabinets which range from Art Deco to country look and American traditional. For whatever size room you have, we have a kitchen for you at a most competitive price. Come in to 962 Washington St., Rt. 53, Hanover. Tel. 826-4121.

Tough win this week in Youth Soccer action

Tough wins by both Cohasset Under 19 soccer teams marked the seventh week of Coastal League play. The girls gave coaches Bob Beggan and Paul Barry their first victory ever over Plymouth, 2-1, on two goals by Cara Manion. Goalkeepers Alison Ludlow and Jen Plante, forward Sophie Redfield, Cindy Dormer, Katie Lord and Nicole Barry were all outstanding in the contest. The boys topped Hingham 1-0 behind Joel Reidy's shutout goalkeeping and Ned Chase's goal. Chase was assisted by Jimmy Reidy, both playing their first games after injuries.

Girls Under 12-1 stayed unbeaten, whalloping Sacred Heart of Kingston 7-0. Erin Murphy and Tammy Maitland each scored twice, and Melinda Johansen, Andrea Mercurio and Martina Snyder added single tallies. Alissa Sexton and Jemilah Afshar, both midfielders, played well for coach Nino D'Urso.

Boys Under 10-1 ran its record to 6-0-1, edging Hanover 4-3. Daniel Steele, with his first two goals of the season, and Taylor Devin, with his eighth and ninth, led the offense, while Charlie Toppan had a fine all-around game.

Boys Under 12-3 had their best game so far, tying Kingston 4-4 at Kingston. Matt Conley, Matt Rossi, Kevin Smith and Robbie Buckley all scored for Cohasset.

Girls Under 14-1 played Middleboro to a 0-0 standoff, getting superb goaltending from Jennifer Knowles. Kathleen O'Brien and Jessica Pyfrom also played well.

Girls Under 12-2 fell to Plymouth, 10-0, despite good, consistent play from Caitlin Connolly, Megan McNamara and defender Rory Winters.

Boys Under 16-1 were beaten by Hingham 3-1. Bart Weisenfluh got the lone Cohasset goal, and Pat Suhrbier, Doug Drysdale and Topher Henderson all had noteworthy games.

Girls Under 10-2 lost to Pembroke 2-0. The Cohasset defense stood strong the whole game, coach Pat Peterson reported, with excellent play from Sally Hamill, Trisha Peterson and Hannah Beggan.

Boys Under 14-1 won their third game, topping Kingston 3-1. Tim Brister, Chris Kondrat and Scott Theriault all scored for coach Steve Endris' squad.

Girls Under 16 were beaten by Middleboro 3-1, with halfback Mary Hurley and forward Lisa Coates having good games.

Members of the Girls Under 10 - 2 Team: Back row, left to right: Sarah MacDonald, Sally Hamill, Alexandra D'Urso, Alicia Afshar, Hannah Beggan, Kate Cahill, coach Pat Peterson. Front, left to right: Jacqueline Hurley, Jennifer Byrnes, Jennifer Figueiredo, Sarah Nohe. Missing: Amanda Gontarz, Maggie Goedecke, Alison Kinchla, Rebecca Jenkins, Trisha Peterson, Courtney Brown and Hillary Lamp.

Girls Under 12-3 fell to Plymouth 6-0 at Plymouth. Jessica Eaton-Bruce, Andrea Grew and Katie Ross had strong games.

In other scores, Boys Under 12-1 lost to a Duxbury powerhouse 10-0; Boys Under 10-3 were beaten by Hanover 3-0; and Boys Under 10-2 took a forfeit win from Pembroke.

And, finally, Boys Under 14-2 lost to Hanover 4-1. Andrew Pozatek scored for Cohasset on a header, with an assist to Jeremiah Stevenson. Brendan Kinchla also played well for Gordon Stevenson's squad.

PSO encourages voter participation at town meeting

A wide range of Cohasset citizens have launched a campaign to encourage broad participation in Town Meeting May 31 at 7:30 at Cohasset High School, when voters will determine a new Town Operating Budget, including the School Budget, in Article 4 of the Town Warrant. The PSO Executive Board had voted to support the original school budget and the override. Now school parents, joined by other concerned citizens, have expressed the belief that the $400,000 cuts required by the revised school budget would result in the incremental dismantling of our educational system in the next few years, creating a detrimental effect on the whole community. Parents, serving as advocates for public education, have lobbied in public meetings with the Board of Selectmen, the Advisory Committee, and the School Committee, for more equitable funding for the schools.

In their voter service role, the PSO has requested that all residents over the age of 18 years — including high school and college students — register to vote. Residents are reminded that because May 31 is a continuation of the Annual Town Meeting, they can participate in that Town Meeting vote if they reigster to vote — with Town Clerk Frances Marks at Town Hall or Main Office Secretary Linda Shultz at the high school — at any date before May 31. For a ballot election, however, residents must register at least 20 days before the election.

As an additional voter service, parents can obtain a list of babysitters for the evening of May 31 by calling Sue Brister (383-2439).

For further information, or to volunteer to help please call PSO President Martha Equi (383-0461).

Second grade testing

Achievement tests for the second grade classes will begin the week of May 30th. We will make every effort to minimize any stress associated with these tests and simply encourage you to have your children enjoy a good night's sleep and come to school with their usual enthusiasm.

Lacrosse continues to defy the odds

By Bill Modestino
Mariner correspondent

Although club boys' lacrosse coach Kenneth Ekberg has stressed fundamentals more than winning during the inaugural season at Cohasset High School, you can't blame him if he feels just a bit selfish about the team's recent three-game unbeaten streak.

"There is a lot of enthusiasm about the program," said Ekberg, who is volunteering his time and knowledge of the game. "It's been a new experience for them, and they've taken to it well. There's a newness to it, and I think that is part of the enthusiasm."

Cohasset enjoyed a successful week with a 2-0 record, complying victories over Falmouth Academy, 6-4, and Cape Cod Academy, 8-4.

In the contest against Falmouth Academy May 1, John Smith scored two goals and Travis Coley made 15 saves for Cohasset.

Jason Cameron played strong defense the Skippers, who were down 2-0 after the first period.

Against Cape Cod Academy, Bob Whitaker and Matt Marks had two goals each, and Coley stopped 18 shots as Cohasset (3-1) recorded a non-league victory May 4.

"We're not going to blow anyone out by any means," said Ekberg, who has been the principal of Deer Hill Elementary School for 15 years, played three years of varsity lacrosse at the University of Massachusetts from 1960-62 and later coached at Tufts and Brandeis. Lacrosse, he said, "is a tough game and takes a while to learn.

"Everyone has been very supportive of the program. We're very pleased with the way things are going so far."

BASEBALL

Jay Mountain went three-for-four with a run batted in and Scott Holmes added a two-run single to help spark Carver to a 7-6, South Shore League baseball victory over Cohasset at home May 3.

Winning pitcher Dennis Fratus scattered eight hits, struck out five and walked two batters. Bob Payzant had a triple for the Crusaders (4-6).

Cohasset (1-6) cut a 7-1 deficit to 7-6 with a five-run, fourth-inning, keyed by Jim Gallagher's two-run triple and Jeff Bryant's RBI double.

BOYS TENNIS

Underclassmen Mike Serbier, Tim Brister, Bill Jordan and Chris Goodman easily won their doubles matches as Cohasset (3-4) dropped just five games in their 5-0, SSL boys' tennis victory over Carver at home May 3.

Scoring results: Singles: 1. Pat Mulligan (C) defeated Mike Poirier (CA), 6-0, 6-0; 2. Joel Reidy (C) defeated Alan Shaw (CA), 6-1, 6-1; 3. Frank Willshire (C) defeated Dan Ward (CA), 6-0, 6-0. Doubles: 1. Serbier and Brister (C) defeated Seth Giovanetti and Mark Hannon (CA), 6-0, 6-2; 2. Jordan and Goodman (C) defeated Jason Confar and Tim Boyden (CA), 6-0, 6-1.

GIRLS TENNIS

Second singles Katie Ryan and third singles Michelle Massa remained undefeated, helping host Cohasset (6-2) win its SSL girls' tennis match over Hanover, 5-0, May 1.

Scoring results: 1. Amanda Church (C) defeated Katie Morris (H), 6-0, 6-3; 2. Ryan (C) defeated Stacey Morris (H), 6-1, 6-2; 3. Massa (C) defeated Michelle Sylvia (H), 6-0, 6-0. Doubles: 1. Katie Murphy and Katie Lord (C) defeated Shannon Mullare and Michelle Coughlin (H), 6-2, 2-6, 7-5; 2. Ellen Schramm and Sophie Redfield (C) defeated Joop Collins and Alyssa Ganding (H), 6-0, 6-0.

Sonya Butler and Laura Andrews each won two events to help Cohasset pull out a 68-67, SSL girls track meet squeaker over Abington at home May 3.

Dr. Goodman has built a reputation as a speaker who can communicate economic concepts with energy and clarity. He has frequently appeared on Financial News Network and has been interviewed by Lou Dobbs on CNN's "Money Line" show. In addition he is a frequent source on the economic outlook for newspapers, magazines and investment newsletters. He has worked in the investment management industry for more than 21 years, was chief economist with J. & W. Seligman and has served as an economist with Citibank and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.
Regarding today's inflationary scenario, Dr. Goodman believes that:
- Economic growth is slowing
- Soon, fears about inflation will diminish
- The markets will allow the Federal Reserve to pursue a more accommodative monetary policy by letting interest rates drop – to avoid a recession.
- The resulting economic environment will be as conducive to equity and fixed income investing as any that we have seen in the last ten years.

Business and education worry about school budget cuts

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

Tom Hughes has taught industrial arts in Cohasset for 29 years.

But if proposed school department cuts are implemented, his department will be cut in half, and so will his hours.

"That stinks," said Hughes.

"It hurts, I guess.

"But I feel sad for the students of Cohasset.

"Industrial arts is an essential part of general education," he said.

"It helps the student to develop an understanding of industry and its organization in our society.

"There isn't only one way to use the mind," said Hughes.

"Students think the project through, and when they are finished, they usually have something of great beauty that they can be proud of."

Skills taught include those related to wood working with hand and power tools, fabricating, sanding and finishing, plus all basic wood working processes, according to Hughes.

Students are encouraged and expected to show initiative and self-reliance, pride in workmanship, the ability to work cooperatively in groups with respect for others, he said.

Also, good work and safety habits, plus economical use of equipment and materials are stressed.

"For the more mature students, there is increased emphasis on advanced skills and machine procedures," he said.

There were 87 students in the industrial arts program this year, according to Hughes.

"They will probably cut the two high school programs, " he said,"we will probably only be able to serve the junior high school."

"I can't say that that is definite. It isn't written in stone."

Hughes talked about three students who recently completed senior projects in his department.

The projects were a Spanish desk, Adirondack chair and cherry table.

"All three were just beautiful projects," said Hughes.

"The kids who did them were just filled with enthusiasm and pride when they finished the projects."

If the cuts are made, the department will have been cut back 75 percent in the last three years, he said.

A second instructor retired, and his position was not filled.

"It seems as though the ax is falling too hard on one area," said John Hagerty, owner of Cohasset Colonials, a furniture manufacturing company which has employed Hughes' students.

"It's important for the town to know if cutbacks are being borne unfairly in one department," he said.

"A lot of our best employees are graduates of the Cohasset High School shop program.

"Robert Barrow is our shop foreman.

"He came here part time after school 12 years ago and swept the floor.

"Now he runs the entire production facility.

"The shop program in Cohasset provides the kind of training young people need in order to develop a career."

He noted that the situation in Cohasset is unique in that it is one of the few communities where a child can go to school in the community and then work in the community, other than in a white collar job.

"Tom has turned out an excellent caliber of employee," said Hagerty.

"It sounds like we are going backwards.

"I know the town has to adapt to changing times, but it's too bad it has to fall so hard on a program like Tom's."

"John Hagerty has supported the program," noted Sine Pounder of the school improvement council.

"He has provided some materials and equipment.

"He has made some real commitments to the program.

"The business people's support makes a big difference to students."

Babysitting for town meeting

The Cohasset PSO will be providing the names of students who have volunteered to babysit for people who want to attend Town Meeting on May 31.

Susan Brister, the new PSO Senior High Rep. has agreed to coordinate this effort to increase attendance at Town Meeting.

If you would like to take advantage of this service, please call Susan Brister at 383-2439.

The Village at Duxbury

The Village at Duxbury is a new senior living community planned for the South Shore—right in historic Duxbury. It is based on service and hospitality, will be self-contained and is for active, independent seniors.

The concept of senior living eases many of life's pressures in an environment that is both caring and exhilarating.

The Village at Duxbury has chosen the pineapple as the symbol most representative of the community because it has long stood for hospitality, friendship and celebration.

The Village at Duxbury is being planned by Welch Healthcare and Retirement Group, a local, family-owned and operated company that has been active in quality senior housing services on the South Shore for over four decades.

Override not over

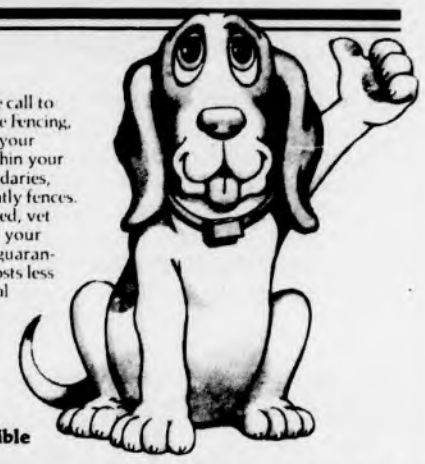
Voice your concern. Town Meeting is Wednesday, May 31 at 7:30 p.m. at the high school. This is the time and place to be heard.

Be familiar with ARTICLE 4 of the Town Warrant. Article 4 is the approved town operating budget and was the basis for override question #1. Warrants can be obtained from Town Hall.

Article 4 can be AMENDED and result in a REDUCED OVERRIDE. Budget cuts for all departments will be proposed and discussed at Town Meeting.

If the SCHOOL BUDGET is cut $400,000 as required by NO override, it will result in:

- layoff of 9-11 teaching & professional staff positions;
- support staff layoffs (custodial, aids, coaches and bus drivers);
- cuts in athletics of $50,000;
- user fees for athletics;
- fewer elective course opportunities for high school students;
- reduction in supplies & capital outlays throughout the system.



YOUR VOTE COUNTS — ATTEND TOWN MEETING.

Register to vote

You may register to vote at Town Hall from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday; 8:30 am. to 7 p.m. on Thursday and 8:30 and 1 p.m. on Friday.

Any 18-year-old enrolled student may register with Mrs. Shultz at the high school from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. every school day.

'Jail and Bail' program planned for June 7-8 at Plaza

Some of the South Shore's most prominent citizens will soon be hauled before a "judge" and sentenced to "jail" .... all in a good cause not at all associated with their own behavior.

The occasion will be the usual fun-and-fund-raising "Jail and Bail" project of the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society to be staged at the South Shore Plaza, Braintree, on Wednesday and Thursday, June 7 and 8 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

On those days, sometimes by pre-arrangement and sometimes by surprise these individuals will be picked up by cooperating police or deputy sheriffs and brought in handcuffs to the Plaza. There they will be arraigned before a "judge," sentenced on some outrageous charges, photographed in striped uniforms, and then from behind bars try by 'phone calls to get themselves bailed out through donations to the Cancer Society by friends.

Warren Noble of Noble's Camera and Kevin Costello, Government Affairs Manager of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, are co-chairs of the South Shore Unit's Jail and Bail Committee, which is already lining up victims willing to be jailed for an hour to help support the Cancer Society's programs of research, public education and service.

The jailbirds will be drawn from the eight towns that make up the South Shore Unit: Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Norwell, Randolph, Scituate and Weymouth. In these towns, volunteers carry on programs of professional and public education on cancer, and transportation and other forms of assistance to patients and their families.

Local Notre Dame graduates

Ninety-two members of the class of 1989 received their diplomas from Notre Dame Academy, Hingham, at commencement ceremonies held Saturday, May 20, at 2 p.m.

Class speakers were Valedictorian Susan E. Barrett of Weymouth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Barrett. Susan will attend Harvard University in September. Salutatorian was Colleen Knight of Hingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Knight. She will attend the University of Notre Dame.

Commencement speaker was Sister Marie Barry, S.N.D., an alumna of the Academy who is a past president and dean of Emmanuel College, Boston. Sister presently teaches in the English department at NDA.

According to NDA Principal, Sister Anne Monica Ruane, 87 of the graduates will attend a four-year college. Two will attend a two-year college and three will pursue other endeavors.

Cohasset residents who were among the Academy graduates are: Michelle Babin, daughter of Charles and Anna Babin of Jerusalem Rd. and Denise Murphy, daughter of Marjorie and William Murphy of Cedar Acres Lane.

Seniors proudly present projects from their last semester

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

Last week, school officials and teachers looked on as 27 members of the Class of 1989 presented projects they had researched and completed during the past four weeks.

The senior class project began this year, under the direction of home economics teacher Carolyn Contis, along with a committee of high school teachers. The idea, according to Contis, was to allow the students to work on an independent educational project. The subjects could range from a career choice, a subject of interest, an activity beneficial to others, a creative process or attendance at another school.

And although the school committee expressed its enthusiastic support for this new program, members warned that with projected teacher cuts, specifically in the home economics and guidance areas, the senior project may not continue into its second year.

"Listening to the students' speeches about their projects, I felt it was a very positive experience," member Russell Reidy commented this week. "I just hope it can continue in future years."

Each student was responsible for submitting a proposal which had to be approved by the project director. They met weekly with a committee member to discuss progress on the individual project. At the conclusion, each student received a pass/fail grade and a full evaluation.

The first year of senior projects resulted in a wide range of subjects, including students who painted a mural at Sandy Beach, a senior who studied and mapped out local vernal pools for the conservation commission, a student who served as a teacher's aide in the kindergarten class, students, with help from a local landscape designer, who created a new landscape for the high school courtyard. And there was also one student who composed and recorded his original music.

The students presented an overview of their projects for school administrators, school committee members, teachers and parents at a special assembly last week.

According to Contis, their projects began to take shape last February as the committee explained exactly what a senior project could be. The teachers created a set of guidelines for the students, including criteria for each subject.

"We would have been happy with six senior projects," Contis said last week. "But we were thrilled when we found we had 27 participants."

Many of the students had outstanding experiences as they completed their senior projects. Three students, Felicia Bartow, Melissa Nothnagle and Erin Monaghan created a mural at the Sandy Beach lifeguard station. With permission and financial help from the Sandy Beach Association, and money from the Cohasset Arts Lottery Council, the trio was able to complete a "beautiful" mural which has received many favorable comments from residents, Contis said.

Amanda Church completed a stenciling project at the community center. For several weeks, she worked to stencil curtains at the center which was renovated last year.

"Mrs. Volungis (center director) is absolutely thrilled," Contis said, noting that Amanda assumed the total cost for the voluntary project.

The courtyard at Cohasset High School will be undergoing some major changes, thanks to a landscaping project developed by Katie Horn, Allison Reilly and Kristen Ellinger. The project will take three years to complete, but the students displayed graphic images of what the finished project will be. They were assisted in their project by Mrs. Hoopes, a local landscape designer.

Vonnessa Good, a METCO student from Boston who has been a Cohasset student since the first grade, described her project. For three weeks in April, Vonnessa attended class at Boston Technical High School. The greatest difference between the two schools, she said, is the number of students and the great numbers of minority students at the Boston school.

There are 250 students in the senior class at

Red Sox Profile

Leo's Exxon (Red Sox) has broken strongly from the gate this year and stands 6-0 thru Saturday, May 19. Early in the campaign, solid pitching and timely offense were the keys on tight wins over Harbor Mechanical (Braves) and the Athletics. To cap Week One the offense busted loose in an unofficial 18-3 thrashing of Scituate.

The offensive explosion carried over into weeks two and three. In a rematch with the Athletics, the Sox had a whopping 23 hits in a runaway victory. They followed with 9 in deceiving 19-6 win over Mass 4 x 4 (Cardinals — the game was closer than the score indicated) and 13 more in an impressive 16-2 win over Cohasset Savings (Mets).

Buoying each of these outbursts for the Sox have been the efforts of a solid corp of moundsmen and a seasoned defense. Greg Stevens and Jim Magner have done the bulk of the pitching while Joey Magner and Nick Welz have seen spot duty but figure to get in more work as the season progresses.

Anchoring the defense has been the slick-fielding Ryan Freeman at shortstop where he's backed-up by Brian Duffy. Flanking Ryan at third is steady Kevin McKenna and at second the duo of Joey Magner and Chip Moore. When not on the mound, pitchers Jim Magner and Greg Stevens have shared the work around the first base bag. Chris McKenna and Michael Riley have shared the back-stopping duties, another strong point for the Sox thus far. Patroling the outfield — in no particular order — have been Matt Larson, Jeff Littlehale, Brian Riley, and Nick Welz and the catchers at various times. All have outstanding ability and should be commended with the way they share the playing time.

Finally, I want to add just a few more highlights of the Red Sox bats to conclude this piece. Most notably, Jim Magner and Nick Welz hit solo round-trippers in the Mets contest in the same game the Sox got triples from Michael Riley, Kevin McKenna, and Ryan Freeman. Brian Riley had a 5-hit game versus the Athletics. Freeman and Magner had 4 apiece in that one too. Greg Stevens has a 3-hit game to his credit. Nick Welz, Michael Riley, K. McKenna have hammered the ball productively. The bats of Chip Moore, Chris McKenna, Jeff Littlehale, and Brian Duffy are just awakening. Matt Larson has been a tough man to get out in every contest.

In conclusion, Leo's Exxon figures to get even better in the weeks ahead, but past experience has shown that the scores will tighten with the seasoning of the younger players league-wide.

Next Week: Profiles of the Mets and Braves.

VESTRY WRITES TO LEGISLATURE

The Vestry at its May 8 meeting expressed its concern about House Bill 5600 which would cut services to our state's children, resulting in very real hardship in areas such as adoption subsidies, foster care placements, day care, emergency mental health, preventative teen pregnancy, family health, preventive teen violence, and preventive homeless subsidies. The loss of these essential child services will contribute approximately .23 percent (less than one-fourth of one percent) to Fiscal Year '90 spending cutbacks. Letters opposing this bill were sent to Senate Ways and Means Chairperson, Patricia McGovern; Senate President, William M. Bulger; Senator William B. Golden, Chairman of the Public Service Committee; and Representative Mary Jeanette Murray.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS HONORED

Crispian Flood, Abigail Barrett, and Celeste Prisble, who graduate from high school this year, were honored during fellowship time after the 10 a.m. service on Trinity Sunday, May 21. A presentation was made to each of them. Congratulations!

CHAPLAIN GRACEY TO PREACH

The Rev. Colin Gracey, Chaplain at Northeastern University since 1966, will preach at St. Stephen's Sunday, May 21. We will be recognizing our graduating high school seniors on that day. Mr. Gracey has an important message that the church not lose touch with its college students when they go away from home.

RECYCLING MEASURE

The Vestry unanimously passed this proposal from the Recycling Committee: "In view of St. Stephen's commitment to good stewardship of the earth, we propose that effective July 1, 1989, all disposable products such as cups and bowls are to be biodegradable. We will no longer allow the use of polystyrene products on the church premises."

Both the making of and disposal of polystyrene releases chlorofluorocarbons which deplete the ozone layer. We recognize the struggle to change in order to stop harming our environment and this is a beginning step.

STAINED GLASS TO BE RESTORED

We were very pleased and fortunate to receive an anonymous gift to restore the lovely stained glass window of Jesus' parables by the pulpit. A number have asked about the missing window. It should be back, restored and looking better than ever, in several months. The gift will bring joy and touch the hearts of many for years to come.

COHASSET CARILLON ON CABLE

Wigmore Pierson will interview our Carillonneur, Sally Slade Warner, and Chairman of our Restoration Committee, John Mullett, Thursday, June 29 from 8 to 8:30 p.m. on channels 3 and 53. The program will include footage of Sally performing on the carillon as well as discussion of the carillon restoration.

Seniors show off their last semester projects

Boston Technical. Sixty percent of the school's student population is non-white, with 17 percent Asian and seven percent Hispanic. "I'm in the majority there," she giggled, as her classmates joined in the laughter.

Another student, Betsy Andrade, attended Fairhaven High School for a few weeks. It represented a "bonding" for the Cohasset senior because her father graduated from the school. Her mother is a Cohasset High School graduate.

Betsy commented at length about the vastness and unique design of the school which is located next to New Bedford.

She also noted that during her time in Fairhaven, she worked at the Stop and Shop in New Bedford. That store pays its starting help $4.80 per hour, compared to the Cohasset store where she is employed. "They get less for ten times the amount of work we do in Cohasset," she noted. And in New Bedford, many customers used welfare food stamps - something she is unaccustomed to seeing at the Cohasset store.

Suzi Kecskemety and Joy Mulligan talked to their classmates about the experiences they shared in the Friend to Friend program based in Hull.

This program is modelled after the Big Brother and Big Sister program in which older youths and adults are paired with a disadvantaged child who is in need of companionship. There are 60 kids in the Hull program, and both Suzi and Joy said they intend to remain with their "friend" even after graduation.

The older youth serves as a role model for the young child, Joy explained. They take the child to activities arranged by the Friend to Friend program, or they accompany them to outings on their own time. Both Cohasset seniors have met their "friend's" parents, gone on several excursions and talked at length on the telephone. They have enjoyed the commitment they have made to the program.

Senior Laura Gagliano took time out from her regular classroom schedule to work on a play she is writing. Laura, who is a member of the drama club, wrote another play this year which captured second place in the state drama festival competition.

In addition, she told her classmates, she was recently selected to be a playwright in residence at Choate University this summer. She said she appreciated the time away from class to concentrate on a subject that has become very important to her. "It was great for me to have this time to write," she said, noting that as a graduating senior she hasn't had a lot of spare time to spend on writing.

CHS seniors (l to r) Matt Fitzpatrick and Peter Kalterides show off the fine workmanship that went into their senior project.

David Eno also appreciated the time he spent as an apprentice in the cafeteria, creating meals for the teachers that were nutritious and tasty. After he left, Eno said many teachers missed his culinary creations.

Senior Matt Fitzpatrick designed and constructed two Adirondack lawn chairs. And with supervisory assistance from industrial arts department head Tom Hughes, Peter Kulterides built a finely-polished Spanish writing desk. The chairs could sell for about $150 each, according to Hughes, and the desk could possibly fetch a price tag of $1,500.

Matt said the chairs were something he thought could be handmade and finished by this summer. Peter started his project two years ago. The projects couldn't be completed without the help of Mr. Hughes, Peter said, who helped along the way. "He teaches you. He doesn't tell you what to do. He shows you. And everything has to be perfect," Peter said.

The students who participated in the first Cohasset High senior project include: Betsy Andrade, Felicia Bartow, Ned Chase, Amanda Church, Alison Crehan, David Eno, Matt Fitzpatrick, Laura Gagliano, Vonnessa Good, Katie Horn, Amy Hyde, Suzi Kecskemety, Peter Kulterides, Amy Lincoln, Erin Monaghan, Leslie McGee, Joy Mulligan, Katie Murphy, Sean Murphy, Melissa Nothnagle, Allison Reilly, Kristen Ellinger, Andrew Rossi, Allie Redfield, Katie Ryan, Jay Staunton, Megan Terry.

Voters are given a second shot at the override

The override has been given a second chance.

After almost three hours of debate Wednesday night, 972 residents decided they wanted another shot at the override. They overwhelmingly supported placing a $303,826 general budget override question on the ballot before the fiscal year expires.

Although the advisory committee recommended a $203,000 override to partially fund town budgets, a higher total won the support of the voters. The school committee amended the advisory committee's override proposal by adding another $100,000.

Chairman Barbara Bliss explained that the need for school administrators, a concern expressed by many voters in recent weeks, would be addressed by the committee. "But we ask for the opportunity to make the changes in a rational, planned way," she said.

And although selectmen said they would make no immediate decision whether to call a special election, they have tentatively scheduled it for June 28. Stockbridge Road resident Maxwell Pounder offered a resolution requiring selectmen to abide by town meeting's mandate.

Voters also decided not to reconsider a $50,000 appropriation for the design of a town cemetery. The money was approved at the April town meeting, although it was defeated as a debt exclusion article on the May 6 ballot. Because of the inaction of voters Wednesday night, the article will be placed back on a special election ballot so the money can be appropriated.

(See page 4)

The second session of town meeting will be held Monday, June 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium. All voters are urged to attend to vote on several additional warrant articles: No.18,33,35,38,49,56,63,64 and 68.

Firefighters' alert called 'alarming'

By Nancy McLaughlin
Mariner staff

The selectmen chairman told the president of the firefighters union Tuesday night, May 30, that a "public safety alert" mailed to registered voters in town was premature.

Issued by the Cohasset Permanent Firefighters Association, the mailing discussed the impact of cutting $120,000 in the fire department budget.

It stressed the impact on the town-run ambulance.

The town is discussing budget cuts because an $844,000 override of Proposition 2 1/2 was not approved by voters.

"One-third of the EMTs assigned to the ambulance would be laid off," states the flyer.

"The remaining EMTs would be unable to provide ambulance service 24 hours a day, 365 days a year without increasing overtime costs."

The association urged residents to call selectmen, and to attend the continuation of town meeting May 31 and support an override to keep the ambulance.

"No one intends to do away with the ambulance," said selectmen chairman Burt Pratt.

"That's why we feel your printing of this literature was premature.

"No one has talked about cutting $120,000 (from the fire department budget) for some time.

"We were trying to carry the ball against cutting any ambulance."

"This is deceptive and very alarming," said selectman Diana Kornet.

"And, boy, did it make my phone ring."

She said some of the reaction she got was anti-firefighter.

"One man called and said he wanted to eliminate the ambulance," said selectman Martha Gjesteby.

"I know this is part of the process of government," Gjesteby added, referring to the mailing.

Selectman Rocco Laugelle said that he had attended a meeting in Canton earlier that night regarding ambulance service.

"A number of towns are going to go to (private) ambulance service," said Laugelle.

"But they couldn't convince me.

"I can't believe that towns are going that way."

Graduates worry about schools

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

As the Class of 1989 prepared for Sunday's graduation, they paused long enough to reflect upon their years in the Cohasset school system.

For four graduates, Nancy Riley, Katie Ryan and Arthur Meacham, and Leslie McGee, their school days in Cohasset will be remembered with appreciation and fondness.

They are also concerned about the effect that budget cuts will have upon the schools they attended. Meacham, who will be attending Wesleyan University in Connecticut, noted, "maintaining a school system is a fragile thing. To keep this school system as good as it has been will take some care and concern. To cut $400,000 from the budget could really hurt the educational system in the long run. In the short-term, we'll be losing teachers. But the real problem will be in the future."

Ryan, class president for the past four years,

Cohasset's seniors return with Olympic gold

By Jane Lane
Mariner staff

They say they aren't the competitive type, but that couldn't be the case with these award-winning Olympians.

The Cohasset Council on Aging hosted a group of four senior Olympians at last month's competition in Quincy. And all four won precious medals.

The four winners were Gerard Keating, vice chairman of the Council, Jack Hubbard, Ann Leonard and Virginia Anderson.

Ann, a veteran of the Senior Olympics competition, participated in her seventh edition of the South Shore games. As she said, "I register for everything and give it a try."

Either she's very lucky, or she's extremely modest because Ann walked away with seven gold medals - one for every event she entered.

That includes the three-mile walk, the one-mile walk, the javelin throw, the shot put, the standing long jump, the running long jump and the softball throw.

When asked how a 75 year-old woman learns to throw the shot put, Ann answered, "I don't know. They showed me how to do it just before the competition. And then, I just did it."

Ann is a strong competitor beneath a soft exterior. She leads a senior center walking group three time a week for three miles. That, she says, is the best and the cheapest form of exercise available to seniors.

Jack, a "kid" at age 64, is an avid rower who competed in his fourth senior Olympics games. This year he captured the gold in the half-mile race-walk and silver in the one mile run. According to him, a "ringer" from Walpole was brought into the race and won the mile run.

He said the Senior Olympics, sponsored by the Beechwood Community Life Center and the city of Quincy, is a fun way to meet new friends, old acquaintances and to share in friendly athletic competition.

One of his longtime fellow competitors, Arthur

Walk-a-thon June 11

The Scituate Post Office is sponsoring "Walk for the Kids", a 10 kilometer (6 miles) walk-a-thon on June 11 to benefit the Jimmy Fund.

A prize will be given to the individual who raises the most money through pledges. Refreshments will be available along the route.

Pledge forms are available at the Scituate, North Scituate, Humarock, Greenbush, and Minot post offices.

The walk-a-thon will start at the Scituate Post Office ,108 First Parish Road, Scituate, at 1p.m.

For more information, contact Sebastion Alongi or Donnie Costello at the Scituate Post Office, 545-9122.

Three permits granted

The Zoning Board of Appeals granted three special permits recently.

The permits were granted to B & H Realty Trust, 430 South Main St.; Irene Volpe, 45 Church St., and Robert H. Ferreira, trustee of K.L.G. Trust, 814 Chief Justice Cushing Highway.

License decision reversed

The Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission has reversed the decision of selectmen who revoked the liquor license of Cohasset Central Market in February.

The board had transferred the market's license last October from James Finucane of Marshfield to Kevin McManus.

But the lease arrangement was never completed and the store wasn't reopened.

In addition, the Department of Revenue notified the board that a tax matter regarding the market was pending.

Cohasset Central Market appealed the selectmen's action.

In its May 11 decision, the ABCC ruled that the applicant "should be afforded some further opportunity to transfer the license."

"The revocation is disapproved," said the ABCC.

"The commission recommends that the licensee be allowed 90 days from the date of this decision to reopen or to transfer the license."

According to the ABCC, there is a ready buyer for the license, even though it is subject to numerous creditor claims.

The local board has the right to appeal the ABCC's decision to Superior Court within 30 days.

James Hoban of Cohasset Meat and Produce had applied for the license held by Central Market.

Sanitary survey

The board of health has written to the Division of Marine Fisheries in Sandwich requesting a shellfish sanitary survey be conducted in the Cohasset North Coastal area.

In his May 24 letter, Health agent Dr. Joseph Godzik referred the Marine Fisheries Division to the shellfish constable, David Marks.

One man's opinion

In a letter to selectman Rocco Laugelle, Peter Sexton of Forest Ave. wrote that he finds it "exceedingly regretful" that the board has not "committed itself to proposing a Proposition 2 1/2 override that will have a reasonable probability of receiving the necessary votes to pass."

"One must recognize that the electorate voted against a 10 percent tax increase, not a 2.5 percent increase," wrote Sexton.

"There is no reason to believe that an increase substantially greater than 2.5 percent cannot be passed.

"In times of consumer price index of greater than 5 percent (which I am sure that you agree understates the rate of inflation that the town budget faces), it will not take very many years in a row of the nonsense of Proposition 2 1/2 to completely erode the quality of education in this town and to emasculate the service infrastructure."

Sexton said that the town needs a "farsighted, aggressive program" that will create some efficiencies in the schools.

He suggested having one administrator for grades K to 6, and revamping the curriculum.

"Rolling over and playing dead is not the type of leadership that this town needs from you at this time," said Laugelle.

"...I look to you as an elected official of Cohasset to effectively promote the budget that you believe in."

Landfill cleanup day

A special cleanup day will be sponsored by the Cohasset Board of Health and Recycling Committee Sunday, June 4 from 1 to 3 p.m. to pick up litter at the Cedar Street Recycling/Transfer Facility.

Volunteers who wish to assist can call Sharon Becker at 383-1971.

Landfill revised schedule

Effective June 1, the Cohasset Recycling/Transfer Station at Cedar Street will no longer be open on Monday.

The Board of Health has made this decision in an effort to reduce the operating budget.

The days of operation will be Sunday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Brush accepted at landfill

Homeowners may now deposit brush at the landfill in the designated area adjacent to the Supervisor's office. Limbs must not be greater than two inches in diameter. Grass clippings and leaves should be left by the compost pile.

The Board of Health has contracted for the brush to be periodically chipped until July 1. Homeowners may help themselves to the chipped brush.

Landscapers may deposit only chipped brush. Grass clippings and leaves should be left by the compost area.

Notice of the landfill's new operating hours has been announced previously — OPEN: Wednesdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, CLOSED: Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Correction

A headline published along with a letter to the editor from the Cohasset Chamber of Commerce in the May 24 edition of the Cohasset Mariner was incorrect. It should not have stated that the Chamber opposes the override. A more accurate headline would have been, "Chamber urges town meeting attendance." The Mariner regrets this error.

Cohasset's week

Duplex rent raised

Selectmen voted Tuesday night, May 30, to raise the rent of the two tenants at the Government Island duplex to $600 a month starting July 1.

The rent is currently $350 a month, plus utilities, at the town-owned building.

Selectmen had suggested several weeks ago that the rent be increased.

Executive secretary Greg Doyon said that rents in the area range from $650 to $1,000 a month.

The structure, built in 1860, was originally the old light keeper's residence.

Doyon noted at this week's meeting that the building needs work.

Selectman Martha Gjesteby said that one of the tenants is three months behind in rent.

"We ought to do something about that," she said.

"This is not just a bolt out of the blue," said selectman Diana Kornet about the increase.

After voting to raise the rent, board members agreed to review the cost annually.

Selectmen Ned Tebbetts and Rocco Laugelle were not at the meeting for the vote.

Selectmen's action

Selectmen took the following action at their meeting Tuesday night, May 30, at Town Hall:

*Granted a request from the Cohasset Chamber of Commerce to use the town common for a picnic July 12, 6 to 9 p.m.

Doris Golden of the chamber said that the picnic, open to all, will include a band concert and reading of the Constitution.

*Continued a hearing on New England Telephone's petition for a proposed underground conduit location and one serving area connector terminal at Sohier St.

No representative from the telephone company appeared.

Developer Donald Staszko asked for a plan of the proposal to scale.

*Granted four, one-day liquor licenses to the Panagia Greek Orthodox Church for a Greek Taverna July 1-4.

*Granted a license to Milton Hedin to sell ice cream at Sandy Beach.

Selectman Martha Gjesteby was opposed. She said she wanted to keep the license in town.

*Approved a transfer request of $603 for an air conditioner for maintenance of the computer at town hall.

*Discussed the status of the town-owned Bates Building on Elm St.

Selectmen chairman Burt Pratt said the Executive Office of Communities and Development has disapproved the site for public housing.

"They claim it is cheaper to build new units than to rehabilitate old ones," said Pratt.

He noted requests from the Cohasset Historical Society and Veterans of Foreign Wars to use the building which was occupied by town offices until they moved to the new town hall.

Pratt asked executive secretary Greg Doyon to investigate the state statute regarding the town's obligation to provide space for veterans groups.

An 'alarming' alert

fighter's union, said that the flyer was sent out because of concern about budget cuts.

"We want to ensure that we can run the ambulance seven days a week, 24 hours a day," said Rosano.

"Our concern is having an override for the ambulance."

Rosano noted that in 1981 when Proposition 2 1/2 went into effect, it was decided that the fire department could not operate with less than five men on a shift.

He said a proposal by the advisory committee is to take one vehicle out of service so that the minimum manning level could be reduced from five to four men on a shift.

"If we operated with four men on a shift, then there would be no one back at the station to answer the phone," he said.

"What if we had a second fire?"

Pratt said that reducing shifts from five to four men would be a way to avoid lay-offs.

"The advisory committee voted for this," he said.

"But no matter what we do, there is going to be litigation."

"If we go that route (cutting the men on shifts), we save everyone's job," agreed Kornet.

"We are looking for the best way to cut money out.

"They can threaten litigation, but it doesn't mean we have made a wrong choice."

"This is the least painful way to do it," said Pratt.

The advisory committee is recommending cutting $55,551 in overtime from the fire department as part of a reduced override request of $200,423.

If the override is not passed, the committee will recommend laying off one firefighter, and reducing the minimum manning, for a savings of $70,698.

The committee is also recommending that the police department save $12,500 by not purchasing a new cruiser this year.

If the override does not pass, the purchase of two cruisers would be postponed for a savings of $25,000.

Voters are given a second shot at the override

Emotions ran high at Wednesday's session of town meeting, as almost 1,000 voters, the most in recent memory, voiced varied opinions about the status of their town budget.

It was obvious from the crowd filing into the high school gym- this would be no ordinary town meeting. More than twenty high school students stood outside the school doors, holding signs that proclaimed their support of a budget override. It took many voters more than five minutes to file into the school and register to vote. By the end of the night, registrars had tallied 972 voters, although more straggled in throughout the night.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Moderator William Weeks, was to reconsider the budget previously adopted by the April town meeting. The meeting was necessary because of the failure by voters to approve a $844,000 override in order to fully fund the $12.4 million budget for next year.

This week's reconvened session of town meeting was presented with two alternatives. The advisory committee recommended that voters approve a reduced override amount of $203,826. According to advisory committee chairman Jane Goedecke, that override would add 36 cents to the tax rate. It will restore about $150,000 to the school budget which will be cut by $400,000 without an override, and it returns about $50,000 to other town departments that will be more severely affected without an override, she explained.

The advisory committee felt its responsibility is to recommend budget cuts "that would be the fairest to the largest number of residents, while maintaining the quality of life as we know it," she stated. Education and public safety were the major considerations in their decision. Presenting a budget without an override was not acceptable to the advisory committee, the chairman noted.

According to Goedecke, the committee did not recommend cutting officers from the police department, but they opted for the purchase of fewer cruisers next year.

The $5 million school department budget would be slashed by $250,000 in the compromise override budget, she said.

The committee saved its harshest criticism for the fire department. "The advisory committee feels the fire department budget is too high," Goedecke said. "And this town can't afford as large a department as exists."

The committee chairman emphasized that the minimum manning clause in the fire union's contract has prevented any personnel reductions within that budget.

The advisory committee, she explained, recommends a $50,000 reduction in the fire department's overtime, with no reduction in personnel.

The firefighters' union has repeatedly asked the committee to restore its budget. "They want everything else to be cut, but don't want to cut their overtime," she said.

The chairman drew loud applause when she noted that reductions within that budget might prompt court action by the firefighters' union. "But we can't allow unions to run this town," Goedecke stated. "The taxpayers run this town."

The selectmen presented their own version of a recommended budget which would require no override. However, it will fully restore the fire department's salary account.

According to labor counsel, the town is obligated to abide by the contract negotiated with the fire union, Town Counsel Richard Henderson explained. A budget without an override would violate the terms of that contract. However, he said, the current contract can be fully funded with $121,000 taken from the Norfolk County Pension Fund. In order to fund that pension, $121,000 will be taken from the reserve account to be raised by taxation.

Selectmen Chairman Burt Pratt said they decided to propose a budget without an override because "that's what the people voted for. We are listening to the people." However, he warned residents that overrides will be a part of the town's future for many years.

Wednesday night's discussion began with an analysis presented by Fairoaks Lane resident Michael Sullivan. Using numbers supplied by the Massachusetts Municipal Data Bank, Sullivan demonstrated that in a comparison of expenditures per person, Cohasset is close to the average of nine other towns when it comes to spending money on police. But Cohasset is far above the average amount spent on fire protection and below the average spent on education. Regarding per capita income comparisons, Cohasset spends about $1,000 less per student than comparable communities, he stated.

"The most important thing every person in this town can spend money on is the school system," he said. Voters reacted to his statements with sustained applause.

Fire Chief Daniel Brock took issue with statements made earlier in the night by the advisory committee chairman. He explained that last year, the department stopped 11 structure fires, amounting to a total of $4.2 million in assessed value.

He also noted that the current manning level of five officers per shift reflects the "desire of selectmen and town meeting," he said. "And I think with the men we provide, we provide this town with dam good service."

Firefighter Robert Silvia of Stockbridge Street also voiced his objections to the advisory committee's statements. "The advisory committee is telling you that we're trying to hold this manning clause over your heads. That is nonsense," he said. The originally-recommended $120,000 budget reduction would eliminate fulltime ambulance service, Silvia said.

The firefighter noted that as a coach at the high school, his job may be eliminated because of budget reductions. "I'm in favor of the original $800,000 because I don't feel we had a clear mandate against it," he stated.

Other residents wondered why the town was reconsidering an override when the vote had already been cast. "I find it hard to understand," one woman stated. "I think it's irresponsible for elected officials to suggest an override. the override lost. It's time to forget about to and get on with business."

Bringing back the gold . . .

Ballou from Lexington, is an experienced race runner. As Jack noted, "fortunately for me he's in another age category and I didn't have to compete against him." Ballou is 75 years old.

As Jack noted, Senior Olympics is not very serious competition. "It's tremendously hard to win a medal when you're in your twenties competing against other 20 year-olds. But when you're a senior, the competition isn't that extensive."

Ann agreed, Senior Olympics competition is purely for the fun of it.

"You know," Jack stated, 'more people worry about the competition before they ever get there. And then they get there and they see it's all a lot of fun. No one takes it too seriously and everyone is there to cheer you on."

As Ann noted, "there's a lot of comraderie. We all stand on the sidelines and cheer for everyone."

Both Ann and Jack will try again this year to encourage more participation in next year's games. This year, Ann was successful in getting another Cohasset walker, Virginia Anderson, to compete. For her efforts, the first-time Olympian was awarded a bronze medal .

There are age categories for all participants. It begins at 55 years and above, but there are few competitors in that range, Jack explained, "because at that age they don't want to think that they're seniors yet. That's still too young to admit it."

Gerard, who retired at age 69 as Cohasset's postmaster, also returned home from his fourth Senior Olympics with a neckful of medals. He won a gold medal for the three-mile walk and top prize in the one-mile walk.

He is a fitness fanatic, walking three miles every day at a fast pace. "I go by myself because there's no one else around who can keep up the pace," he admitted.

Up until age 63, Keating jogged regularly. After a heart bypass operation, the doctors advised against the running, but recommended he take up walking.

It has been a difficult year for the Council on Aging vice chairman with his wife's illness and subsequent death, but he has kept up his daily exercise regimen. "After she passed away, it was full speed ahead for me. I thought I could do it, originally. But I've continued it every day.

"I love it," he said. "After I walk, I have a sense of accomplishment. It's time by myself that I thoroughly enjoy."

Keating said he also enjoys the competition and feels as if his winning record is a goal to work toward in the future years. "Whether you win or lose, that's not the issue. It's trying to do your best, while you have a lot of fun. That's what the games are all about."

Since he retired from the post office, Keating said his life has become hectic. As a member of the Council on Aging, he has had to keep a careful watch on the override issue and the budget problems. He participated in a recent Governor's Council on the Elderly, all the while he trained for the Olympic competition.

"I'm busier now than before I retired," he remarked.

Gerard said he would encourage all senior citizens to take part in the Olympic games. "It's a shame that more people don't take advantage of it," he commented. "I'm sure many people could do better than I. But sometimes, it's that sense of retirement - that you're supposed to stand still once you retire. I'm telling you that's wrong. The best thing is to keep moving - never stand still."

Seniors worry about future of their schools

agreed with her classmate. "I've been reading magazine articles that say education is the biggest problem this country is facing. And it's happening right in our town. Whether it's a lack of concern or apathy among people, I don't know. But we're having a problem right here in Cohasset."

Meacham, a member of the alternative school program this past year, agreed.

"I think what's happening in Cohasset with this override is representative of what is going on in our country. Education is in crisis."

According to another member of the graduating class, Leslie McGee, Cohasset schools have long been compared to private schools where class sizes are small and the offerings are diverse and plentiful.

"We had the best teaching staff you could imagine," McGee said as she prepared for a week of senior class activities. "The schools here are the best because of the teachers we have. If we have to cut those teachers, it will be really bad for the students who are here now. The way I feel, if students are the future of this country, then people should care about us. It will pay in the long run to take care of the schools because we are your future."

The students talked about their years in the Cohasset schools as they prepared for their prom and the weekend graduation festivities.

Nancy Riley, 18, will be attending the University of New Hampshire next fall. She plans to major in communication disorders, an interest she obtained while working with disabled youngsters last summer at the South Shore Collaborative.

She has attended Cohasset schools since kindergarten, and said her education has offered her "a lot."

Nancy continued, "there were a lot of different things we could choose in school. I enjoyed elementary school so much. And the extra curricula activities in high school made my education fun."

Nancy participated in the peer counseling program, in which select students are trained to serve as advisers, problem-solvers and confidantes to classmates and younger students. The program is sponsored by the guidance department under the supervision of Ann Porter and Mary Babaian.

She has also participated in chorus, band, soccer, basketball and track.

Katie will be attending Notre Dame next year. She plans to major in liberal arts, opting for a well-rounded education while she plans a future career in business.

Katie began her Cohasset public education in the eighth grade, after her family moved here from Florida.

"I remember thinking how different Cohasset was," she stated. "In Florida, there were 1,700 in one grade. Here, I knew all my classmates because classes were so small. I liked that - I also liked the kids."

Katie has been involved in the Student Council for the past four years, a program she feels has been revitalized through the efforts of Asst. Principal Jack DeLorenzo. Katie has also participated in soccer and was captain of her tennis team this year.

Both Katie and Nancy praised the high school for its variety of courses, particularly the advanced placement and honors classes. Advanced placement are college-level courses which "really prepare" the students for classroom life after high school.

The honors classes are a level below that, and then there's a variety of standard level subjects.

In addition to the class subjects, it's the teachers that made a difference in Katie's education. "They really care," she said.

Nancy agreed. "Most of them are willing to help you out at any time."

"They talk to you as individuals," Katie added.

Arthur has attended Cohasset schools since the first grade. He decided during his last year to enter the high school's alternative program. He described it as a program "which tailors education to the personal needs of the student. There are things you can't get out of the high school that you find in the alternative school," he stated.

He said Cohasset High has been a place where all students are encouraged to get involved. He has participated in a variety of subjects, including music, chorus, art, drama, peer counseling and sports.

He's concerned that non-core subjects, such as art and industrial arts, will be eliminated in the future. "I think the arts have a big impact on the schools. And for a school this size, we have always had a very strong art and music department," he said. The graduates agreed that parent-support groups, such as the booster clubs and the PSO, have been a tremendous help to the success of these programs.

They also noted that during their days at the high school, a variety of interscholastic sports programs provided a needed release from study. "They're so important for personal fun," Nancy said. "It's also a great way to make friends."

The graduates agreed they would not be willing to pay user fees to participate in sports - a proposal that may be adopted next year.

If that were the case, all four students said they'd be broke by graduation.

Some of the graduates who will be bidding farewell to CHS: (l to r) Nancy Riley, Arthur Meacham and Katie Ryan. (Staff photo/Chris Bernstein)

□ The pavillion/stage that President Bush and Mitterand spoke from was not there several weeks before the Boston University Commencement. It was all constructed, just for the occasion. Robert Stansell, a Cohasset resident, was the architect who designed and directed the construction of the presidential pavillion and the seating plan for over 30,000 attendees! With special requests from the Secret Service this was no easy task! Bob, a partner in the Boston based Beacon Architectural Associates, resides at 30 Cedar Lane with his wife Moira and three children, Bobby, Caitlin and Malcolm. Joseph Mercurio, Senior Vice President of Boston University directed the overall commencement and accompanying functions, and it all looked so perfect on television, where we saw Joe interviewed! His wife Rosemarie and his three children, Marc, Andrea and Danny, are glad to have him home on a normal schedule. You can imagine the round-the-clock work for the preparations. Both Bob and Joe were presented with presidential tie pins and have a special memento. . .their Secret Service Pass Buttons. We hear the wives enjoyed VIP treatment at all of the weekend festivities and a White House letter is on the way to our Cohasset's own. One more Cohassetite was instrumental in the whole commencement pavillion, Jim Walsh. Jim is the owner of Walsh Bros. Inc., and lives here as well. His firm built the pavillion!

□ To celebrate Katie Ryan's graduation from CHS, Dick and Sue Ryan of Forest Ave. are planning a family reunion. For the past four years Katie has been President of the class and has received many academic and sports awards. Katie's sister Colleen and three brothers, Dennis, Terry and Chris will be arriving in Cohasset to attend the graduation ceremony as well as her grandmother Mary Schryver of Sarasota, Florida. Katie will be attending the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana.

□ Mark D. Facey makes the news this week, he has been named as a marketing manager of the Braintree-based Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc. He will be responsible for the local marketing.

Genevra MacPhail and Kelly Tufts compete in a jogging event during the Osgood School Shopper Day. (Staff photo/J. Paul MacDonald)

□ Peter Izzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Izzo of Cohasset placed third in The Navy Reserve Essay Contest. Peter is a student at Thayer Academy, and was required to write an essay on "What patriotism means to me."

□ Kristen Jane O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. O'Brien, Jr. of 78 Old Pasture Road, was awarded a Bachelor of Science degree in Finance from the Wallace E. Carroll School of Management of Boston College on May 22, 1989. Kristen is a 1985 graduate of CHS. Her undergraduate at Boston College included membership in the Investment Club Finance Academy, and Marketing Academy.

□ Happy Birthday to Mimi, who only grows younger every year.

□ Double congratulations to Ensign John M. Rattenbury (Cohasset High School, Class of 1985), son of Henry and Yvette Rattenbury. John received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Aeronautical Engineering from RPI concurrently with his commission in the U.S. Navy. In August John will attend U.S.N. Surface Ship Warfare School in Newport, RI before reporting to the USS STUMP in Norfolk, VA. Good luck to you John.

□ For the second year in a row the American Red Cross Blood services gave a special award to the Cohasset Community Bloodmobile. Alfred Odermatt, Community Chairman, received a plaque at the Annual Northeast Region Awards Night held recently at the Sheraton Mansfield Inn and Conference Center in Mansfield. The award was for giving the greatest number of donations (pints of blood) per Blood Drive at the Community level. Al hopes that Cohasset will continue to want to be recognized as the leaders in this class. He is looking forward to a greater number of donors at the next Bloodmobile which will be held at the First Parish House, 23 North Main St., on Tuesday, June 20, from 2 to 7 p.m.

□ Happy birthday to Judy Ritts.

□ For the fourth consecutive year, Hunneman & Company Realtors/Better Homes & Gardens is sponsoring a Spring series of "Evenings with Bob Thomson."

Thomson who is well known for his Channel 2 WGBH's Victory Garden TV show, will be hosting an informal evening on gardening at Scituate High School Auditorium on Rte. 3A on May 18 from 7:30-9:00. Bob will be making a slide presentation as well as answering gardening questions.

The evening is a community service event and all seats are complementary. To reserve a seat call Hunneman's Hingham office at 749-4430.

□ Michelle Hartley of Cohasset High School was named to the 1989 Boston Globe All-Scholastic Gymnastic Team.

Hartley led the South Shore League with a 34.0 all-around average. She was a member of the all-star team and had an average of 8.5 on the uneven bars and a 9.0 floor exercise average.

□ At a recent school meeting Christopher Wadsworth, headmaster of Belmont Hill School, announced the varsity sports awards for the spring season. Among those honored were Lawson R. Clarke and Penn T. Clarke, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Terence Clarke of Hingham.

The two brothers attend Belmont Hill as a five-day boarders, a program which permits students to live at the school from Monday through Thursday and to be with their families on weekends.

□ Public officials, including Sen. Bill Golden, Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray and Selectmen Chairman Burt Pratt will be "arrested" and go behind "bars" Wednesday and Thursday, June 7 and 8 in the interest of helping support the work of the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society.

From behind the bars of a "jail" in the South Shore Plaza, these public figures will make phone calls to their friends, pleading for bail money that will gain their release, money that will go to the Cancer Society. This is the "Jail and Bail" cancer fund-raiser.

While some will be arrested by surprise on the payment of $25 by people who want them arrested, some have already agreed to be hauled off to this jail for a worthy cause.

For information about having an arrest made or how to participate, call Kevin at 479-1111, or Marcia at 341-4210.

□ Jack and Pat Conway of Cohasset received the Community Service Award from The Hospice of the South Shore, Inc. for their work with many community organizations.

Both have actively supported the MainSpring House, a shelter for the homeless in Brockton. The award was presented by O. Clayton Johnson, Ed.D. of Hanover, Chairman of the Board of Directors for the VNA Foundation.

A social worker, Pat Conway has been active in charitable organizations for many years, including the Old Colony Guild of Catholic Charities Community Center program for young adults, Cardinal Cushing School in Hanover, as well as serving as past chairman of the MainSpring House.

Jack Conway is Chairman of Conway & Co. and the Northern Mortgage Company, Inc. He has been active in many community organizations, including Plimoth Plantation, Quincy Junior College, Plymouth Development Council, Bishop Daniel Hart Fundraiser, Plymouth Philharmonic Orchestra, and Cardinal Bernard Law's Third Century Campaign.

□ Mark F. Rattenbury of Cohasset was recipient of Departmental Award, electrical engineering, during the annual Wentworth Institute of Technology Awards Day ceremony.

□ William Hannon of Cohasset received the Massachusetts College of Art's 1989 Distinguished Alumni Award at the College's Commencement Ceremonies on Thursday, May 25.

Hannon, who is presently Professor of Industrial Design at the Massachusetts College of Art, received a Bachelor of Fine Arts at Mass Art and a Masters at the University of Massachusetts in Boston.

Professor Hannon has been the recipient of numerous design awards including: Art Directors Club of Boston, Packaging Design Magazine, Industrial Design Magazine, Design in Steel, Product Engineering, Design In America, and Medical Instrumentation Magazine.

□ We hear that Helen Jason keeps on improving, we are so glad!!

□ Happy birthday to Fran Walton.

□ If you are looking for an evening of fun, don't forget that this Friday night (June 2) is square dance night at the Cohasset Community Center. It is great fun, you don't even have to know how, and where can you spend a night of dancing for $8? Call 383-0088 for more information.

That's all of the news from here, please let me know what is happening at your house! It certainly is a "newsy" time of year!

Where's our future?

Graduation approaches once again. Our senior class eagerly awaits the world before them, and they embrace the challenges ahead.

We tearfully bid our graduates goodby, and wish them the best for the future. But we are mindful that the schools they are leaving this week will no longer remain the same.

Many of our 1989 graduates have passed through 12 years of public education. They were the ones who felt the brunt of teacher cuts during Proposition 2 1/2, so they know what will happen as budget reductions get underway next year.

They leave a school system that is at a crossroads. It has a reputation built upon years of emotional and financial support by the people within this community. It is now in danger as support withers. Residents, weary from the burden of escalating taxes, cry 'no more'.

Public education is nearing a crisis. And while we should be pleased with the results of our past efforts, we should worry about the students who await their graduation in the years to come. What will our public education system have to offer?

Our expectations for the Class of 1995 cannot be as high when we have refused to offer them the same quality of services we gave to their older brothers and sisters.

This year's graduates never had to contemplate user fees so they could wear a team uniform. They never thought about fewer teachers in the home economics and industrial arts programs. And they paid little attention to the talk of closing down a school.

But this is the future we are handing down to the future graduates of our public school system.

As we look with pride upon our graduates this week, we must concern ourselves with the schools, the teachers, and the students they are leaving behind. We no longer have sufficient money to operate a school system as we did in the past. The costs are rising, and the pot of gold is decreasing. The students this year may have escaped the full fury of Proposition 2 1/2, but the same will not be said about the Class of 1991 and beyond.

We have given a lot to these students as they prepare for their graduation. It was our privilege and our obligation - to see that our children received the best education from a solid school system.

Will we be saying the same as we observe future graduations? Will we be wondering how much better our schools once were, or might have been?

That is the uneasy question we face in the years to come. One class of graduates has made it through a fine system, and they should be congratulated. But as we look back and observe the students still in our classrooms, what promises can we make for their future? If educational programs are confronted by continual cutbacks, what opportunities will we take away from future scholars?

Education in our community is facing a crisis. Perhaps it will be up to future generations, to this class of fine graduates, to uncover an answer to this dilemma.

Selectmen must lead into future

Letters

To the Editor:

(This letter was written to the Board of Selectmen. Ed)

It has recently come to my attention that the members of the board of selectmen are considering drastic measures to balance the town's budget. In particular I refer to a recent discussion about implementing a call fire department to replace the existing permanent department. I don't think that you or the people of Cohasset realize the true impact of such a decision. The argument that I keep hearing is that a call fire department has worked for the town in the past. Well. . .WAKE UP! This is not the past!

I am a former member of the fire department and as such I am all too familiar with being alone at the station when the men are enroute to a call. I remember the dreaded words coming over the radio, "It's fully involved. . .get more men here!" I put on a box alarm and wait. And wait. And wait. Sometimes if we're lucky, and there is no football game on that evening, we will get a full response. Sometimes when we're not lucky, whether it's noon or three a.m., one guy will show up. Or none.

The purpose of this letter is not to malign the call fire fighters. Most of them are there because they care about their town and are willing to give their all for a good cause. But, when they work a full time job and have a family to care for, that doesn't leave much time for running off to the station. With the evolution of Cohasset into a bedroom community, we lost the ability to survive with a call fire department. Similar communities across the country are finding themselves in similar situations and are making the shift from call to full time fire departments.

After the failed override vote, a member of your board said that you had been given a "mandate" by the voters. Rather than rhetoric such as that, I would like to see the members of our board of selectmen set a mandate for themselves. I urge the board of selectmen of Cohasset to lead our town into the future — not into a past that doesn't work anymore.

The power and beauty of fishing

Commentary

(Bill Bowers is on vacation and has gone fishing, but he left this commentary. Look for his local fishing report in this space next week.—Ed.)

I remember watching a fisherman release a beautiful striped bass he caught on a surf-swept sandbar.

After some arduous wading, he'd managed to land a spoon in a froth of frantic bait, swirling bass and screaming terns swooping for scraps.

The fish struck hard and streaked out to sea, ripping off taut monofilament against the screeching drag.

Then we caught the unmistakable silver flash as he made a turn.

"It's a bass," hissed the fisherman, with the reverence of the faithful.

Several anxious minutes later the tired fish came within reach and the fisherman, soaked but triumphant, held him up for a closer look.

The bass was strikingly beautiful, his iridescent silver flanks gleaming in the sun.

We guessed at his size. He was a good fish, probably over the legal minimum 36 inches.

But the measuring tape was still in the Jeep, abandoned in haste when he saw the water fly seaward of the sandbar and sallied forth, rod in hand.

The bass was lightly hooked, the spoon dangling from the corner of his lower jaw.

Mumbling something about "the benefit of the doubt," the fisherman slid the hook out gently and eased the bass into the water at his feet.

What camouflage! The water was gin-clear and shin-shallow, but that bass vanished into it like magic.

The silvery coloring was now invisible, the thin black lateral lines just a few more fleeting shadows on the rippled sand bottom.

He swam around our bare feet a few times as if to orient himself, then got his head pointed seaward and shot out into the breakers too fast for the eye to follow.

For long moments we gazed after him, speechless with awe at his power and beauty.

To the joy of anglers everywhere, this justly prized, once-scarce gamefish seems to be making a strong comeback the past few years.

Young schoolie stripers have swarmed into the area in good numbers, and this bodes well for the future.

The Atlantic Striped Bass Conservation Act, authored by U.S. Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Cohasset, seems to be working.

Biologists say bass spawn first at about age 8, when their length is between 36 and 40 inches.

The purpose of the law is to protect the stripers hatched in 1982 until they have been able to spawn at least once.

That's why the legal minimum for a "keeper" has been increased to 36 inches this year and will go to 38 inches beginning Jan. 1, 1990.

If you catch a keeper, you can't legally—certainly not ethically—keep more than one in a day.

But consider this: release them all, even those of legal size.

Gene Kelly of Norwell, skipper of the the Green Harbor charter boat Judith Anne, strongly encourages his customers to do just that.

"If you get a bass that's 25 or 30 pounds, that fish is a breeder. I say let them all go. If you want to keep it, take a picture," he said.

He's right, of course. Sportsmen and women have to look at the big picture, and it's infinitely more important to have bass in the ocean forever than it is to have one bass in your cooler today.

The same goes for all other species of fish. The fragile marine environment cannot withstand the depredations of greedy fishermen.

We all know people who kill bluefish by the dozen and stack the carcasses like cordwood.

I've seen shortsighted fools who try to sneak an undersized striper into the icebox, hoping no warden is around to catch them.

They might even get away with it—until one day when they try to catch something in a sea they've helped to turn into a fishless desert.

Sure, bluefish have been abundant the past few years. That's what they said about the passenger pigeon.

Educate all the fishermen you know or meet, especially young ones, to practice catch and release.

Lures with single hooks make releasing fish easier. Some clever anglers carry this one step further by filing down the barbs.

There's a special thrill in watching a fish you've caught swim away to fight another day.

And you'll be doing your part to preserve our beloved sport fishery for us all and for our children and for theirs.

As the people at Trout Unlimited say: "Limit your kill... don't kill your limit."

Good advice. And keep those lines in the water.

Art center to hold festival

The South Shore Art Center, 119 Ripley Road in Cohasset will sponsor the 34th Annual South Shore Arts Festival on Cohasset Common June 23 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m, June 24 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and June 25 from noon to 5 p.m.

The Festival, which is the longest consecutive running outdoor arts festival in New England, is comprised of four separate art exhibits, craft vendors, artist demonstrations and childrens' art drop-in workshops.

The three concurrent adult art exhibits are: a Juried Exhibition, Juried Photography Exhibition and the Members' Exhibition.

A Childrens' Art Show is sponsored by the Quincy Patriot Ledger. Throughout the three day festival, there will be entertainment by Mobius — roving performers, Fernadina Chan and her ethnic dance troupe, Bamidele Drums and Dancers an African dance troupe, the South Shore Concert Band and Dan Butterworth and His Marionettes.

In addition to the daytime activities, there will be a concert at the Nickerson Theater featuring Jonathan Edwards and Cheryl Wheeler on Friday night at 8 p.m. and a dance at the Cohasset Community Center on Saturday night at 8 p.m. called the Festival Fandango.

Tickets are on sale for the concert at the Nickerson Theater and at the South Shore Art Center. Tickets are on sale for the dance at the South Shore Art Center. Admission to the festival is free although there are nominal charges for some of the performances.

For more information call the Art Center at 383-9548 or Nickerson Theater at 871-2400.

Local leaders in cancer benefit

Public officials, business leaders, media figures and civic celebrities will be "arrested" and go behind "bars" on Wednesday and Thursday, June 7 and 8 in the interest of helping support the work of the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society.

From behind the bars of a "jail" in the South Shore Plaza, these public figures will make 'phone calls to their friends, pleading for bail money that will gain their release, money that will go to the Cancer Society. This is the "Jail and Bail" cancer fund-raiser.

While some will be arrested by surprise on the payment of $25 by people who want them arrested, some have already agreed to be hauled off to this jail for a worthy cause.

For information about having an arrest made or how to participate, call Kevin at 479-1111, or Marcia at 341-4210.

Among those agreeing to the "Jail and Bail" caper are Senator William Golden; Rep. Mary Jeannette Murray of Cohasset; Frank Hynes; Eugene Roundtree, former president of the South Shore Chamber; Chairman of Cohasset Selectmen Burtram Pratt; Wigmore Pierson of Continental Cable's "Pierson to Person" program; Charles Pierce of Quincy Savings Bank; and Lindsay Tait of Braintree Savings Bank. Many others will be enlisted in advance of the program.

Warren Noble of Noble's Camera Shops and Kevin Costello, Government Affairs Manager of the South Shore Chamber, are co-chairs of the committee organizing the Jail and Bail. Among those assisting is Sharon Becker of the Cohasset Board of Health.

Pre-School Puppet Show

Pat Boylan, puppetteer, will perform her rendition of "The Tortoise and the Hare" at Cohasset Community Center Friday, June 2 at 10:30 a.m.

Boylan's puppet shows are creative and fun as children participate as though they were part of the show. Admission is $2 at the door.

Streeter to be honored

The Hingham Visiting Nurse Board of Managers will honor Priscilla J. Streeter at a reception to be held Tuesday, June 6 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Hingham Community Center, South Street in Hingham.

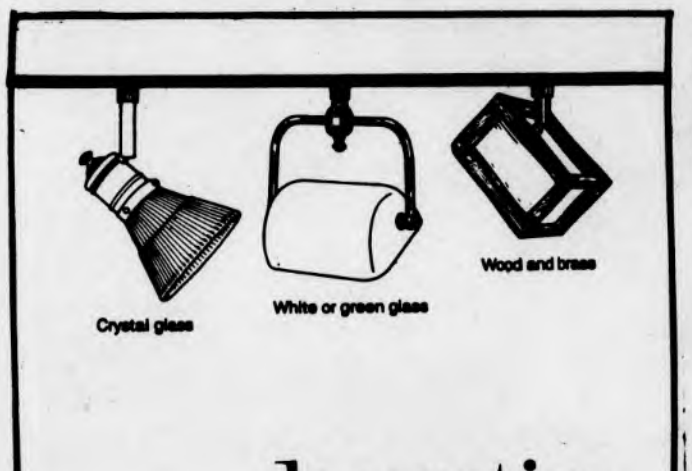
Streeter is retiring after serving as the Hingham Visiting Nurse administrator since 1973. Streeter's friends and associates from Hingham, Cohasset, and surrounding towns are invited to attend. There is no charge for admission, but reservations are encouraged. Light refreshments will be served.

When she first came to the Hingham Visiting Nurse, Streeter supervised a staff of nine employees, and a budget of $40,000. Today, the agency employs a staff of 60, and its annual budget is over $900,000. Nurses, therapists, homemakers, home health aides, and other professional staff make nearly 20,000 home care visits each year to the people of Hingham, Hull and surrounding South Shore towns.

A Vermont native, Streeter and her family moved to Cohasset in 1970. She is a graduate of the New England Deaconness Hospital School of Nursing, and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Emmanuel College, Boston. She is the mother of two grown daughters. Her husband, Richard J. Streeter, retires this year as Assistant Superintendent of the Cohasset Schools. Longtime Cohasset residents, the Streeters moved to Sandwich last year.

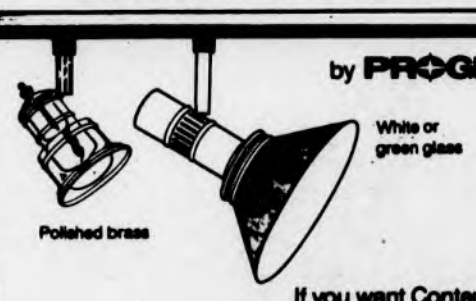
For more information on the June 6 reception, call the Hingham Visiting Nurse at 749-1160.

Mammography screening



The Cohasset Social Service League will be sponsor of a mammography screening program June 19 in Cohasset.

The mammography screening will be held Monday, June 19, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The van will be parked at the Second Congregational Church, 43 Highland Ave., Cohasset.



Mobile Diagnostics, Inc. of Wellesley provides a fully equipped coach which is comfortable, private and staffed by registered, female technologists. The equipment is a state-of-the-art low dose mammography unit. The x-rays are read by board-certified radiologists, and the results will be sent to you and your physician.

Recent legislation requires most insurance companies to provide coverage for Massachusetts residents. If you have private insurance, your insurance company can be billed directly. If you belong to any HMO, you must get written permission from your primary physician. Some HMO's require you to have mammograms at their own facility. Women with Medicare also need written permission for this x-ray to be covered. There is a $75 cash discount price: paid at the time of the exam for women with no insurance, or whose insurance does not cover the test.

Call the Social Services League for an appointment (8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday) 383-0771 or 383-0821. You need to bring insurance information with you, the name and address of your physician, and written permission, if you belong to HMO or Medicare.

Regarding today's inflationary scenario, Dr. Goodman believes that:

- Economic growth is slowing
- Soon, fears about inflation will diminish
- The markets will allow the Federal Reserve to pursue a more accommodative monetary policy by letting interest rates drop – to avoid a recession.
- The resulting economic environment will be as conducive to equity and fixed income investing as any that we have seen in the last ten years.

Cohasset honors its war veterans

It was a beautiful day for a parade, as hundreds of families lined the streets of Cohasset to join this town's Memorial Day observance.

Once again, Cohasset veterans marched to the local cemeteries, paying tribute to the fallen soldiers of past wars. They were led by a military color guard which fired three rounds at each stop. Prayers were said at the gravsites, and the observance concluded with a rendition of Taps.

Residents began to fill the sidewalks when the marchers proceeded up Sohier Street from the music circus where they were joined by the Kevin Barry bagpipe players, the local contingent of Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Brownies, and the Deer Hill Band. A new addition to this year's parade was His Majesty's 47th Regiment of Foot, led by Cohasset resident Bruce Collins. The Revolutionary military outfit, complete with powdered wigs and bayonettes, was a crowd pleaser throughout Monday's parade.

Rev. John Keohane lead the prayers at the Central Cemetery in which he asked "to help us remember that our lives are short. We ask for this blessing on them and on us who mourn them."

The bagpipes performed a mournful rendition of "Amazing Grace" and the color guard fired three rounds in salute. Cohasset High School graduate John Atkinson performed "Taps" which was followed by a second rendition by Brian Conant, 15.

The parade units then marched down North Main Street to Cohasset Common. The marching veterans, including Selectmen Burt Pratt and Martha Gjesteby, filed past the honor roll, a list of names of Cohasset's deceased soldiers.

Rev. John Atkinson gave a brief invocation and once again the guns were fired. But this time, the Revolutionary unit fired their rifles from the Common. Smoke filled the air after they completed their salute. The crowd applauded this performance by the colorful military group.

The bagpipes performed and "Taps" resounded through the common as the ceremony concluded.

The parade continued up Elm Street into Cohasset Cove, and concluded at the veteran's memorial next to Kimball's By The Sea.

A contingent of small girls, daughters, granddaughters and great-granddaughters of local veterans, clad in flowing white dresses, threw bouquets of flowers into the harbor in honor of servicemen who died at sea.

Rev. Atkinson gave the invocation in which he talked about the men who were "steadfast in battle so we could stand here in justice and in freedom."

Cohasset's Gold Star Mothers, Laurentine Lyon, June Simeone. Flossie Cogill and Mary Reardon, presented a wreath at the Vietnam memorial. A moment of silence was observed in honor of the late Margaret Keating, a Gold Star mother who died in April. American Legion Commander Stephen Wigmore remembered the years he was assisted by Mrs. Keating in preparation of Memorial Day ceremonies. Her son, Allan, was killed during the Vietnam War.

The featured speaker at Tuesday's concluding ceremonies was retired Lt. Col. Edward S. Graham Jr. The Jerusalem Road resident noted that a spirit of caring has overtaken the country, and recalled that a group of Cohasset students recently visited Washington, D.C. to perform in a benefit for the homeless. The highlight of their trip was a visit to the Vietnam War memorial where the students placed an American flag they had carried throughout their journey.

Adult summer art courses

Five-day intensive courses taught by area artists offer a hands-on opportunity for concentrated study of the world of nature this June at the South Shore Art Center.

OUTDOOR WATERCOLOR

Watercolor artist Virginia Avery will teach OUTDOOR WATERCOLOR June 19 to 23 from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Dramatic seaside and marsh locations in the Cohasset area become open air studios for Avery and her students in this intensive painting course. Each day will begin with a demonstration by the instructor, and student artists will have ample opportunity to explore a variety of watercolor techniques under Avery's expert guidance. Beginner and intermediate students are welcome, and a basic knowledge of drawing is recommended.

OUTDOOR DRAWING & PAINTING

Rosalind Farbush brings her extensive experience as artist and teacher to this OUTDOOR PAINTING & DRAWING course June 26 to 30 from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Cohasset locations will once again become artists' studios as the instructor leads students through an intensive study of form using pencil and paint. Students will explore different techniques to create texture and experiment with various methods of paint handling, color, and values. Home assignments and critiques will be a part of each session.

For further information about these and other courses for adults and children at the South Shore Art Center, call 383-9548 Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Career crusade reminder

Regina Schultz and Jeff Steele, co-chairmen of this year's American Cancer Society's House-to-House campaign, urge all Cohasset volunteers to return their envelopes and materials to the Pilgrim Cooperative Bank as soon as possible. Residents who chose to mail in contributions should do so at their earliest convenience.

National Olympiads

During the 1989 school year, the Deer Hill sixth graders have been participating in various national olympiads, which are competitions testing their knowledge in different subject areas, such as science, math, language arts, and social studies. The results of these tests show how the Deer Hill students compare with other sixth graders throughout the nation.

The high scorer and first place winner at Deer Hill for language arts was Ann Dane. Jessica Jenkings was the winner of the math contest.

There was a tie for first place in social studies between Jeremiah Stevenson and Kathy Smith. Jessica Jenkins was the high scorer for the science competition, and Joe Slotnick and Jessica Snow tied for first place in geography. Each of the first place winners received a medallion for the accomplishments.

Anniversary celebrated

Tuesday, May 23, the students of Deer Hill School celebrated the 375th anniversary of Captain John Smith's Landing in Cohasset.

All the students assembled at the harbor first thing Tuesday morning, many dressed as Indians.

There were welcoming remarks and introductions by Mrs. Judy Fitzsimmons of the Cohasset Historical Commission.

The Deer Hill Band, under the direction of Miss Suzanne Parker, played "America" and the Deer Hill concert chore, under the direction of Mr. Jack McInnis, sang "Cohasset by the Sea."

There were special guests, such as State Representative Mary Jeanette Murray, Chairman of the Cohasset Board of Selectmen, Burtram Pratt, and Chairman of the Cohasset Historical Commission, Noel Ripley.

At the conclusion, the Deer Hill Band played "Stars and Stripes Forever" and the students returned to school.

Little League Parade

Each year in Cohasset there is a Little League Parade which includes the Deer Hill Band. The Parade celebrates the opening of the Little League baseball season. This year was no different.

April 28, the band marched to the Little League field on North Main Street from the village playing Manitoba March.

When they reached the field, a few announcements were made and then the band played "The Star Spangled Banner." At the end of the parade, band director, Miss Parker, received many compliments on how well the band played.

Arbor Day celebrated at Osgood

Arbor Day was initiated in 1872 in recognition that trees play a vital role in maintaining a healthy environment. Because of differing climates, Arbor Day is celebrated on different dates in virtually every state in the U.S.A. and in Canada.

At the Osgood School, it was celebrated Friday, May 16 at 10:30 a.m. The program consisted of the students, kindergarten through third grade, putting on a program under the guidance of Jack MacInnis, music director, followed by the planting ceremony. The planting this year was done under the leadership of Mrs. Charles W. Dean, Mrs. Samuel C. Pease, and Mrs. Dennis L. Roth, all members of the Cohasset Garden Club.
